BURGLARY IN THIS CITY.

Bargman Store The Scene of Operation--Upwards of $600 Worth of Jewellery Taken--Articles Recovered and Alleged Burglar Committed For Trial

Police Officer Thompson shortly after midnight last night did excellent work in arresting a man who is charged with burglary and recovering some $600 worth of jewellery, which was stolen from a store. At the above hour the officer whilst on duty at the upper part of Front street saw two men acting in a suspicious manner in front of Mr. Jonas Bargman's jewellery and clothing store. The men were seen leaving the store and proceeded up Front street. Officer Thompson followed the men one of whom was carrying a bag. When near No. 2 fire hall the officer caught up to the men when the party who had the bag threw it to the bystander. This man was detected by Thompson and he immediately took the man in charge and conveyed him to the police station. The second party made good his escape. The bag which was thrown away was subsequently picked up and when its contents were spread out it was a revelation. It consisted of 22 gents watches gold filled and silver, 4 ladies gold watches, 62 gold filled rings, 53 lock ets, 11 valuable rings in cases, 14 gold chains, two valuable lockets with chains attached, and three fobs with chain attached. It proved to be that the articles had been purloined from Mr. Bargman's store, an entrance to which premises was effected by forcing open the front door.

The party who was arrested gave his name as Thomas Glazier and his home as Toronto. He gave his age as 33 years and said he was not married. When questioned by the police he appeared to be very independent, giving that the police were making more fuss than he was over the affair.

This morning Glazier was brought up before acting Police Magistrate Ald. Wallbridge. The accused made up plea of guilty to being in possession of the charge of burglary preferred against him. After some evidence had been taken Glazier was committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction.

HE FLIES HIGHEST YET FARMERS LOSE BY FIRE

Ralph Johnstone in a "Baby" Wright Reaches 9,714 Feet.

Beats the Record of Henry Wynmalen by 528 Feet in Meeting at New York—Grahame-White's Propeller Snaps and He Is Buried Under Machine, But Is Not Injured—Moissant Gets $10,000 Event.

New York, Nov. 1.—A "baby" Wright roadster, with Ralph Johnstone at the wheel, glided gracefully to earth in the twilight at the close of the international aviation meet at Belmont Park last evening, with the barograph registering a new world's record for altitude. The little machine of only 35 horse-power was up 9,714 feet, exceeding by 528 feet the height attained in France on Oct. 1 by Henry Wynmalen of Holland.

Mr. Johnstone's sky-climbing feat was not the only notable incident of the closing day of the meet. Claude Grahame-White, the athletic Briton, failed to carry away the Gordon-Bennett trophy, which takes the next international tournament to England, sharpened the sporting appetite with a challenge to John B. Moissant, the Chicagoan, to race again from the park around the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor and return. Moissant, who won $10,000 for his fast flight around the statue Sunday, ignored the challenge.

Then Grahame-White, denied another chance to kiss Liberty, thrilled the spectators, when at the close of a speed race with J. L. D. McCurdy of the Curtiss team, his propeller snapped, his monoplane dug into the green sward in front of the grand stand, turned turtle and buried him underneath it. He was uninjured, however, and won the race.

Moissant's winning of the $2,000 distance prize offered by the Aero Club of America was the other big event of the day. He traveled approximately 87 1-2 miles in two hours. In landing after winning the event he smashed his propeller and broke a running wheel, but escaped unscathed.

"It was a pretty purple haze up there," said Johnstone after he had finished his world record flight, "and, say, but it was cold. I had a couple of sweaters on, besides my rubber coat and face mask, but even then at times I felt freezing.

"Several times I completely lost sight of the earth, but when I shot clear of the haze I could see away down below buildings and residences, which looked like toy blocks. I have been flying ever since Saturday, but I'm sure was the most satisfactory trip I have ever made."

As the crowds about the judges' stand closed and cheered the announcement of Johnstone's wonderful flight, Armstrong Drexel then swooped down to earth. He had been competing in the clouds with the Wright pupil, but had attained "only" 8,373 feet." Johnstone had easily won the grand altitude event, with its $2,000 prize.

The two-hour distance race for a purse of $3,500, donated by members of the Aero Club of America, the purse was split, so that there were three prizes. It was a queer race. When the finish flag went up, two hours after the start, Moissant was declared the winner. He had been around the course 56 times, a distance of about 87 1-2 miles. As he came to earth, victorious, the accident to his machine occurred. Latham was second in this race, with 35 laps to his credit, and Simon third, with 27 laps. Moissant took away $2,000; Latham $1,000 and Simon $500.

The speed race between Grahame-White in a monoplane, and McCurdy in a biplane, was a demonstration of the superiority of the monoplane as a racer. They both did ten laps of the course—a distance of about 15.50 miles. Grahame-White's unofficial time was 14.34.12; McCurdy's 25.43.04. The Briton won $3,000, and McCurdy got $1,000.

Grahame-White Loses $10,000.

Belmont Park, N.Y., Nov. 1— John B. Moissant, the American aviator, was officially declared yesterday the winner of the flight to the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor and return, and was awarded the $10,000 offered by Thomas F. Ryan. In one of the most thrilling races in the history of aviation, Moissant beat his rival, Count Jacques de Lesseps, the French man, and Claude Grahame-White, the British widner of the Gordon-Bennett trophy on Saturday, easily distancing his French competitor, but defeating the Britisher in the Gordon-Bennett event by only 43 seconds.

This margin, however narrow, was sufficient, although it was thought during the early hours of yesterday that Moissant had not clinched his victory, as it was understood the race was still open for competition yesterday. The Aero Club of America, however, sustained Moissant's protest against further competition for the prize, ruling that the meet was originally scheduled to closed with Sunday's events, yesterday being an extra or added day. Thus Moissant won in the elapsed time of 54.34.41 Grahame-White second in 55.21.30; De Lesseps third in 61.56.25.

Claude Grahame-White says he will issue an official challenge to Moissant and put up a purse of $10,000 for another flight around the Statute of Liberty or over any other course that the winner of Sunday's contest may choose. Grahame-White claimed that this meet is not officially closed, but that it was hired only for protests. He said he was confident of beating Moissant.

Stretch of Country Seven Miles Wide Is Burned Over From Dauphin Head —Manitoba Farmer Named Turner Loses Crops and Buildings and Only Rescues His Wife and Children With Great Difficulty.

Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—Several districts in Saskatchewan suffered severely from prairie fires on Saturday, when a high wind prevailed over the whole province. At Indian Head a strip of country seven miles wide was burned over, and 2,000 bushels of wheat were destroyed. Mr. Ford and James Jackson lost their grain-ries, with the season's crop, and S. O. Nesbitt and several others lost considerable quantities of oats. In the Yorkton district the fires raged in all directions. Levi Beck lost his grain-ries and about 1,000 bushels of wheat and A. Waterfield lost all his stables, two valuable horses, implements, and 6,000 bushels of grain. The losses will total $10,000.

The fires are still raging in Orkney, White and Wallace districts. At Treherne the wind was very high, and grass fires threatened several farms. C. Reese lost four valuable horses, which he had to abandon while trying to get the plow at work around his haystack. Two horses burned to death with the stack, while two others were severely burned. Many others had to be destroyed.

Fort Qu'Appelle fire started from the Indian reservation and spread swiftly through Springbrook o near the town. Several farmers lost valuable hay stacks, and one is losing 4,000 bushels of wheat. The fire is supposed to have been started from the threshing outfit working on the reservation, and operated by one of the Indian Department employes. It is expected that the farmers who suffered loss will take action against the department. At Kamsack, Sask., fire swept the Fort Pelly district. R. S. Dundas lost forty tons of hay and 2,000 bushels of grain.

Reports have been coming the heavy wind a fire swept through Turtle Mountain, south of Deloraine, Man., traveling furiously through the bush and scrub, destroying many cords of timber and fencing, also houses and outbuildings. The damage is estimated at $8,000 outside of the standing timber. W. Turner lost his house, barn, fencing, forty tons of hay, 1,000 of wood, and all his grain. His wife and family had a narrow escape from their lives, running to a plowed field, where they remained till the fire had passed. Turner saved nothing but a few articles of furniture and clothing for children to save them from the intense heat. Jesse Robins lost his house, barn, three tons of hay, and all the whole season's crop of grain, hay and potatoes. Mr. Robins was severely burned about the hands and face. Mr. Robins' son, Jesse, had a team and hay, also all his implements, but managed to save his house.

National Apple Show.

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—In the presence of a distinguished company Lieut.-Governor Dunsmuir yesterday opened the first Canadian apple show. During the opening ceremonies the Vancouver horse show building, enlarged to nearly twice its size, was crowded to capacity. Twenty carloads of apples are on exhibition, comprising 3,424 separate entries, 12 of them being carload exhibits. The management will be called upon to pay practically the entire $25,000 offered as prize money, though every class is filled.

Not only is every province in Canada represented, but several of the states are showing, as are also Australia and Tasmania. Japan and Washington are represented in the carload class.

two New Banks for Halifax.

Halifax, Nov. 1.—Two of Canada's foremost banking institutions are to open interior offices. The Union Bank of Canada, with headquarters in Quebec, has purchased a large brick building on Granville street, which is being remodelled as banking offices. The Merchants Bank of Canada is also opening a branch here.

Villagers Fought Flames.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 1.—After fighting flames from midnight until long after dawn, the tired residents of Boswell, a mining town in Somerset County, looked out, Saturday, upon a scene of desolation. Property to the value of $1,000 had been destroyed. The hotel, business houses and seven dwelling were burned.

Y.M.C.A. ENDS SESSION

Present Opportunity Best to Teach Canada's Scythe Toilers.

Closing Session of Triennial Meeting Ends With Address on Big Afternoon and Evening Meeting Is Dispensed With.

—Safeguarding the Boys of a Continent, "Is a Topic for Discussion—Delegates Leave for Various Cities.

Toronto, Nov. 1.—The 37th triennial convention of the Y.M.C.A., which came to such a magnificent climax this afternoon, after four days of concentration and discussion over world problems of humanity, that the Y.M.C.A. association has accomplished during the last decade, is but a precursor of what it will do, and while recognizing that the opportunity of the present is for Canada, the association will respond to the call from far-away fields and extend its manifold activities to those kingdoms and continents whose fringe has only been touched by the Christianizing influence of western civilization.

The immediate effect of the Sunday afternoon meeting was considerably overshadowed by the optimistic outlook contained in the closing speech of the convention by John R. Mott, New York, the giant leader of the Young Men's Christian Association. Whatever disappointment was felt at the loss of Mr. Mott's address, scheduled for the evening session, was compensated in the spiritual fervor of the few words he uttered during the closing minutes of the convention.

As Mr. Mott said, it was a memorable afternoon, full of the spirit of God, every moment inspired with the touch of the divine, firing the hearts of men to such extent that it was inevitable that those who come after that they might realize in a measure the responsibilities into which they were born. There was little time for singing and recitation, but the close, hard-headed thinking of those closing hours worked out in the best practice of the blame and foreign sections of the international committee.

An evening session had been arranged, but the visit of the international committee decreed that, as most of town engagements called many of the delegates away from Toronto, it would be better to curtail the program, and conclude with the afternoon proceedings.

The afternoon session began with a general discussion on the theme, "Safeguarding the Boys of a Continent." Dr. Graham Taylor, Chicago, was the first speaker, and he dwelt upon the matter of juvenile delinquency. He prefaced his remarks by stating that his judgments were based upon the results of actual experience in boys' work. He referred to three investigations which had been instituted, one of which was perhaps more fundamental than any other. The records of the children's court in Cook County, Illinois, had been employed into for twenty years back, and the history surrounding conditions and cause of the crimes with, and the subsequent recording which the delinquents had been charged were thoroughly gone into. These reports covered 20,000 cases. The social view, Dr. Taylor declared, was responsible for a large number of crimes.

"The first thing to do in dealing with juvenile delinquents, he said, was to know the condition "which occasion or promote the delinquency in boys." It was necessary, however, to distinguish between conditions and antecedents.

Antecedents played a great part in determining a boy's character, but every-day conditions of home life were a large avenue which will that determine the course of the ship of life.

Trouble in the Philippines.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Eight Christians, one of them an American, and two Chinese, have been killed and much property belonging to foreigners has been destroyed by the rebellious Moros in the Philippines, according to a report from Brigadier General Pershing to the War Department yesterday.

Labor Measures to be Delivered by War Department—Difficult to Be Responsible for Which Engineering the Measure. These latter are of the lowest type of Filipinos, it is said. They are unskilled, and resent any effort to compel them to work. It is reported also that the outbreak has resulted from too vigorous measures on the part of the natives taken by foreign engineering plantations.

Kills Herself and Children.

New York, Nov. 1.—After making a last plea to her husband to return, Mrs. Anna Dagg, of Brooklyn, committed suicide, and took with her to the grave her two children, Ellis, 5 years old, and Mary, 3, all were found asphyxiated by gas.

For the last two years Mrs. Davis had supported the family by sewing.

Auto Ran Away Backwards.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 1.—W. C. Massey, a rancher, and his seven-year-old daughter, were killed near San Fernando, when the engine of the auto they occupied with three others, stopped dead near the top of a hill and the machine rushed backward and overturned. The others jumped and were uninured.

Mrs. Washington Recovering.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Mabelle Smith Washington, of Boston, who was shot and apparently fatally wounded at Falls View on Wednesday, Oct. 19, was taken home from the hospital yesterday, still on the road to recovery. Luther Buker, whom she named as her assailant, will be tried about the case of Dr. H. H. Crippen. Public sympathy is strong in his favor.

Prisoners Released.

Acapulco, Mexico, Nov. 1.—From descriptions given by a detective agency it is believed that two of the men who were arrested on their arrival here on the schooner Kate Sutherday are Wilson B. Evans, son-in-law of the late Porfirio Diaz, and Alfredo Robles, son of Lee Angelo. H. H. Hamburg, an alleged accomplice, it is said that $11,000 has been recovered.

The Kate came into port to take on a supply of coal and three passengers, given the names of Harry Hann, O. Carlson and Dan Archer, who were taken into custody as suspects, on the theory that they might have been implicated in the dynamiting of The Los Angeles Times' building. A reward of $10,000 was found on the boat.

The captain, Swan Engleche, and Adolphson, the engineer, were placed under guard. The captain said that he had been engaged to take the schooner from San Francisco to the Galapagos Islands, off the coast of Peru. He was to be paid $750.

A Start on Reciprocity.

Washington, Nov. 1.—The possibilities for reciprocity with Canada have been reached at the point where the tariff board is about to begin the revision of the schedules of the present law which will be affected.

The chemical schedule, upon which a start was made several weeks ago, will be allowed to wait, tentatively at least, and it is said to be not unlikely that a revision of the lumber schedule, which would cut off the principle factors in a reciprocity arrangement, will take its place.

Experts have been working on the pulpwood and paper schedule, in which the Canadian arrangements also would be concerned, are making progress beyond the expectations of the board. Several of the largest paper companies have volunteered to furnish important information, which is expected to save time doubtful if the board will be ready to report by the time congress meets in December.

The fight in Drummond and Arthabasca is between Sir Wilfrid's old party; the Bourassa "Insurgent" against Laurier's "old guard."

In this contest the Conservative party takes no direct part and has no direct interest.

Mr. Monk does not represent the Conservative party of Quebec nor of the rest of the Dominion they are merely onlookers.

The more the Rouges fight among themselves the better for the Conservatives.

That is the extent of the Conservative interest in the present election fight in Drummond and Arthabaska.

An "extra turn" not scheduled on the programme occurred the other evening at the Royal Alexandra, Toronto. A few young gentlemen, who had dined not wisely but too well, began annoying Miss Blanche Ring during the course of a song by throwing cigarettes, upon the stage. First one was sent over. By instigtion, to which the star took no notice, so another was soon sent spinning. As this had not the desired effect, the box quickly followed, and then Miss Ring booted storm signals. She forgot for the moment the many friendly press notices received there, and walking "down stage" with an air of haughty disdain Miss Ring turned to the wide-awakes in an almost inaudible voice something that sounded uncommonly like "I've got to come to Canada to get this." The sympathetic quickly retreated to the nearest exit and went out into the night.

Newspaper publishers in England are being heavily fined for adversely commenting upon the Crippen trial, while it was in progress. One publisher was fined £600 for writing a Canadian telegram stating that Crippen had confessed to the murdering of his wife, and now, another newspaper has been fined for publications about the case of Dr. H. H. Crippen, which were offensive to the judge officiating. A fine of $1,000 was imposed upon The Evening News for publishing a statement during the course of Crippen's trial that the captain master of the steamer Montrose was in London consulting with Crown Prosecutor Richard Muir with a view to identifying.

Editor Evans, News Editor Nichols and Under Editors Ward and Bennet were held in court until the fine was paid. Editors and publishers must keep quiet during a trial or suffer the penalties imposed by law.

Rube Carnival.

The roller rink last evening was crowded the occasion being a carnival to commemorate Hallowe'en. The judges who were all strangers had quite a time in awarding the prizes which were as follows:

Best Rube Lady—Miss Irene Brown

Second Best Rube Lady—Miss Annie Bowen.

Best Rube Gent—Mr. Lorne Vicienzo.

Second Best Rube Gent—Mr. George Wheeler.

The costumes were certainly very rube, especially the rube band. They amused a great crowd with their rube parade.

Jumped from a Train.

On Saturday evening a man named William Lashcur was brought to the city and taken to the hospital. It appears that Mr. Lashcur boarded a train at Trenton at about 5.30 which was eastward bound. When about two miles east of Trenton Mr. Lashcur jumped off the train which at the time was going at a rapid pait. The man was considerably shaken up and that he was brought to a standstill and Lashcur was picked up and brought to the city. He was cut about the head and face and was bruised, remaining in the latter state for some hours. His home is in Rochester, N Y.

Died in a Box Car.

At an early hour this morning a man died in a box car near the G. T. R. freight sheds. It is said that by fortunate man, who was evidently a tramp, had been in the empty car for a few days and was ill. The unfortunate man about the yard attended him and gave him food. To one party he said his name was Wm. Sullivan, but his home was not divulged. He was in appearance a Russian Jew and a man about 50 years of age. He was carrying whatever upon his clothing to assist the authorities in identifying him in any manner, but this was in vain. The body was taken to an undertaking establishment to be prepared for burial.

Jewish Celebration.

There was a number of citizens including Mayor Marks were invited by Mr. J. D. Phillips, who resides on Front street to assist in a Jewish celebration. Mr. Marks, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, on that day was 13 years of age and according to the Jewish doctrine became a better man at age, as other words assumed responsibility for any sins he might in the future commit. Mr. Marks in a few appropriate words and gave an address to the assembled explaining in a concise manner the meaning and object of the celebration. At the conclusion of the address the boy's health was proposed and drank by, after which a sumptuous past was partaken of. Mayor Marks and Mr. Wm. Carnew gave brief addresses congratulating Levi upon arriving at manhood and wishing him every happiness and success. Those present were most hospitably entertained by the boy's parents.

Hallowe'en Social.

The Progressive Guild of St. Andrew's Church held a very successful Hallowen Social in the Lecture Room of the Church last evening. All were appointed to keep the happy secret and all were in a merry mood. The decorations consisted of fruit, flowers, corn stalks and lanterns. The ladies, who are members of the Guild came in Dairy Maid's Costume. The gentlemen in smock and straw hats. Mrs. William McIntosh in Harvest Field costume presided. Instrumental duets were given by Misses Ada and Holmes and Misses String and Davis. Reading by Miss Smith and Mr. Chadwick Solo by Mr. MacKay, also by Mrs. Delisle in impromptu old fashioned style; violin solo by Master Leo Fenn and Harvest Field solo also by the Guild Chorus The success of the evenings entertainment was largely due to the efforts of Mrs. Bryan, convenor of Social Committee and her efficient company of assistants.

Senator Beveridge of Indiana, who is now contesting the state for a seat in the United States Senate views the question of Reciprocity, correctly from a United States view He declares "There must be reciprocity with Canada, Our tariff with the rest of the world does not apply to our northern neighbor.

"That policy already has driven American manufacturers across the Canadian borders, built vast plants with American capital on Canadian soil employing Canadian workingmen to supply trade.

That capital should be kept at home to employ American workingmen to supply American demand.

"We should admit Canadian wood pulp and Canadian paper free in return for Canada's admitting our agricultural implements, our engines.

Is Canada prepared to accept Reciprocity upon Senator Beveridge's terms? Not if we understand correctly, the sentiment of Canadians!

The Toronto Globe has another powerful ally in its advocacy of reciprocity in Mr. Eugene Foss, the Democratic candidate for the governorship of Massachusetts, in a speech at Taunton the other day assured the people that they wanted reciprocity with Canada, not only that they might secure FREE RAW MATERIALS AND FOOD STUFFS, BUT THAT THE INVESTMENT OF $300,000,000 BY UNITED STATES MANUFACTURERS IN EXISTING BRANCH PLANTS IN CANADA MIGHT BE AVOIDED.

From a United States standpoint Foss is right, but not from a Canadian. Let us have none of it!

For the Children

Richest Boys In the World.

Marshall and Henry Field, grandsons of the late Marshall Field of Chicago, are probably the richest boys in the world. They are the chief heirs to the $100,000,000 left by the great Chicago merchant. Still they are not happy. Since last fall they have been at Eton college, England, but they have become homesick and threaten to run away to see or something else dreadful unless allowed to return to America. So they will be allowed to spend their vacation in the land of the free. They like the ways of American boys much better than those of the Eton lads, although their companions are mostly sons of titled fathers. The eldest of the two boys, Marshall Field 3d, is destined to head the great mercantile institution founded by his namesake and grandfather and is being educated with that future in view.

Putnam's Waif Den.

Everybody in the country is familiar with the story of how Israel Putnam in his youthful days crawled into a den and killed a fierce she wolf that had been ravaging the neighboring sheepfolds for years past.

All admirers of the deed and its heroic doer will be glad to know that the den and its surroundings are to be converted into a public park. The historic den is situated in Putnam, a second country, some miles from the village of Pomfret, Vt., and is situated at the base of the mountain.

The cavern, with the woodland all about it, is on the 60 farm of Phoebe Ann Clapp of Pomfret, and it remains exactly as it was a century and a half ago, except that hundreds of visitors there, who come from all parts of the Union, have chiseled their names in the rough rocks about its mouth. The entrance to the cavern is about two feet in diameter. The passageway slants downward at first for about fifteen feet, then extends horizontally for a few feet further, expands into a hole and ends in a narrow chamber—the ancient home of the wolf—the ceiling of which is less than four feet high.

Impressions of Poirire.

Mlle. Poirire, the French actress, celebrated for being the "ugliest woman in the world," has recently returned to Paris, and this is what she says about American women: "American women are charming, but they certainly have a sense of modesty that is pretty far off their own. I don't believe, they even pulled up my skirts to see my legs! I like the American men immensely. He is always well groomed, smart and elegant. Everything about him suggests that he has a daily bath. In dealing with women he may not have the Frenchman's spirit, charm and delicate little ways, but he is 'all right.'"

In answer to a question as to what she thought of the appearance of the American woman she replied:

"She is too small in her appearance. She does not make as good an impression as the American man. She dresses horribly. She copies the Parisienne, but does it badly. She has an immense hat on her head without any feather in it, and not a fur or fut. It is a fact but, she thinks, so long as it is adorned with immense feathers. They are mad for feathers over there. If they were not afraid of stepping on them they would have them sweeping to their feet.

"I am speaking of the American woman now solely as a woman. As audiences both men and women in America are charming. They have great taste for the theater. They have music well and are quick to recognize and appreciate the efforts of an artist to please them. In a word, they love art."

Shop That Sells Nothing but Household Goods.

ARTISTIC DISPLAY OF WARES.

Many Things on View That Would Startle an Old Fashioned Housekeeper—A Boat of Them From Abroad. Aluminium In Demand For Cooking Utensils.

There is in New York city a little shop where nothing is to be found but household goods of the kitchen and pantry. The proprietor, a woman who for fifteen years had charge of the kitchen and housekeeping department in a store on Broadway, concluded after the fifteen years' work in that place that if she intended to get on in the world it would be necessary for her to look out for some other occupation. She concluded that in no other way could she do better and incidentally be of some use to her sex.

Ranged along the walls and on the counters are all sorts of bright copper and brass utensils, shining so that you have to see your face in them whether you want to or not. Vessels of agate ware, of aluminum, of tin, behob with spotless glass and porcelain. Pretty colstors and egg beaters are in friendly conclave. Butter crocks, clay casseroles, yellow bowls and brown china teapots form nice bits of color. Japanned boxes for every conceivable use take up no much room that spice sets and canisters for flour, sugar, tea, coffee, oatmeal and rice have to crowd in, and for such more solfends as chamois skin, dusters of various kinds, brushes, including those for furniture, silver and pastry, you have to follow your leader into a department which really forms a corner, for the place is small, and every inch has to be utilized and emphasized by a high sounding name.

At this shop you can get for $50 a complete equipment, which will include every thing necessary for the kitchen, pantry and laundry of a small flat.

THE CORNER HANGER

The latest coffee percolator used by the proprietor of the Modern Kitchen itself, may be bought for from $2 to $6. It is made of copper and glass, and the coffee is ready in twelve minutes, the vessel having a capacity of six cups. The coffee is put in the unbleached muslin bag and when the boiling water, forced through by the steam, flows by means of the transparent receptacle the exact strength is the only way experts say it is possible to tell.

There is a new dustless duster which absorbs without spreading the dust, takes pans with inclined bases to be used for baking layer cake, which by the improved oven does away with that delicate process of reversing the hot cake. There is a glass lemon squeezer fitted over a glass cup, the juice from which can be poured out without removing the squeezer, and a narrow sliced nonsparing knife in which liquid and dry articles can be accurately determined and a most convenient corner hanger.

Keeping Lamps Clean.

If you want to get a good light put fresh oil into the lamp every day. Don't fill it quite full, but leave about an inch of space at the top.

Put in a new wick frequently. Old wicks get stiff and clogged.

Never cut the burned part off, but rub it with a soft cloth every day.

Keep the outside of the lamp clean and dry and you won't be troubled with oily odors.

Wash the burner twice a month, using a lather of warm water, ammonia and soap. Rinse and dry thoroughly.

Before using a new chimney roll it in a clean cloth and put it in a kettle of cold water. Bring it slowly to the boil and keep it boiling for fifteen minutes. The water should be allowed to cool before the chimney is removed.

Chimneys treated in this way will resist any ordinary degree of heat.

The trimmed lamp must turn the wick down below the top of the burner or it will siphon up the oil and make the outside of the lamp greasy. Empty all oil out of the lamp occasionally and wash the reservoir.

nursery since the Teddy bear made his triumphal appearance. Indeed, in the affections of some of the small folk Teddy's nose is completely out of joint.

These dolls come in different sizes and prices. The kind most liked are about the size of the bear toy, and the body is of the same plushy material. The conspicuous pistons are of red, yellow and green felt, and the topknot is the familiar cockscomb carried out in bright red cloth. Topping the pretty face of a "little girl" bisque doll, this headgear effect is very amusing. The doll is jointed and may be twisted into all sorts of attitudes.

TRADE MARK

A LAXATIVE CURE FOR LAGRIPPE COUGHS, COLDS, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA

Here is something that will cure your cold in a day and a night," is what we say in showing Laxacold to those who ask for something of that sort.

Laxacold works on a new principle—it drives the cold out of the system—doesn't merely smother it temporarily to have it reappear a day or so later, as some other preparations do. It never nauseates and does not cause ringing of the ears, for it contains no quinine. It simply relieves your system and leaves you feeling right. We couldn't afford to risk our reputation by recommending the wrong thing—but we know all about Laxacold; it will not disappoint you. 25c. buys a box.

THE STANDARD OF PURITY

Laboratory of Provincial Government Analyst.

MONTREAL, 22nd February, 1909.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co's EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately from packages taken from four sets of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 450 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99.99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

To prevent explosions of coal dust in mines, experiments are under way in Germany in which water is pumped into bedings under pressure. It thus is forced into fissures and, after it is pumped out, the coal can be broken down with picks without blasting.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 100 carloads, consisting of 3374 cattle, 22 hogs, 826 sheep and lambs, 38 calves and 11 horses.

Exporters.

Eugene Tumbly bought for Swift & Co. 23 steers, 1,200 lbs. each, at $5.85, or a range of $5.6 to $6; also 32 exporters, 1,200 lbs. each, at $5.75 average, or a range of $5.35 to $6.15.

Butchers.

The best butchers' cattle sold from 10c to 10c per cwt., fair, and the medium and common were 20c to 25c per cwt. low-grade cows were off from 30c to 40c per cwt. from last week.

Prime heavy steers sold from $5.85 to $6. Light to fair steers brought the latter price; loads of choice heifers sold at $5.40 to $5.60; fair to good, $5 to $5.25; common, $4.25 to $4.90; cows, $2 to $4.60; a few good enough to export, sold at $5.25.

Stockers and Feeders.

Stockers and feeders were 5c to 25c lower, in sympathy with the export cattle. A couple of loads of short-keep feeders of good quality sold at $5.35 to $5.60 per cwt.

Stockers of good quality, 900 to 1050 lbs. each, sold at $4.50 to $4.75; 800 to 900 lbs., at $4.25 to $4.50; 700 to 800 lbs., at $4 to $4.25.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a limited number on sale, which brought from 4c to 9c per cwt., and a calf at $9.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep, ewes, sold at $4.40 to $5, and one selected lot of export bucks at $5.25; rams, $3 to $3.50; lambs, $5.65 to $5.90 per cwt.

Hogs.

W. J. Johnston, buyer for Gunns, reported selects, fed and watered, at the market, $7.5 and $6.90 to drovers for fresh, f.o.b., country points; $6.65 to $6.75 f.o.b. will be seen, in a drop of 25c since last week.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—Special.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the register of live stock for the week ending Oct. 29, were 2439 cattle, 604 sheep and lambs, 1080 hogs and 1200 calves. The offerings on the market this morning consisted of 1000 cattle, 225 sheep and lambs, 700 hogs and 200 calves.

A feature of the trade was the stronger feeling in the market for all cattle, the buyers show an advance of fully 25c per cwt. on prices which have ruled last week. The demand was fairly well satisfied by the receipts at the market, which sold at $5.65 per cwt. for choice steers, $5.40 to $5.60 per cwt. for fair to good, and $5 to $5.25 for good butchers at $4.90 per cwt. There were a few steers and heifers from Ontario on the market, which sold at $5.65 per cwt. Choice cows sold at $4.50 to $4.75 per cwt., fair to good, at $4 to $4.25, and canners at $3.50 to $3.75 per cwt.

Prices for hogs soared another decline of 25c to 50c per cwt., and consequently those who paid a week ago and the indications are that the end is not still lower. Sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 to $7.65 per cwt., fed and watered.

Lambs show an advance of 25c to 50c per cwt., and Upper Canada stock sold at $5.50 to $5.65, and Quebec stock at $5.25 to $5.40 per cwt. as to quality. Sheep are also firmer in price, all the offerings being cleared up at $4.25 to $4.50 per cwt. Calves were scarce, for which the demand was good, and prices ruled from $4 to $6 per cwt., as to quality.

Thrilling Rescue In Storm.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 1.—The crew of the Norwegian bark Hanna Nielsen, in all, were brought here yesterday by the tug Fearless Junior. Most of the seamen were rescued during the West Indian hurricane a week ago Sunday by the British bark Harry Stinde, and taken to the island. They were picked up by the Nielsen off Port Mias, to Buenos Ayres, was abandoned in a sinking condition.

The members of the crew of the Nielsen were without food during the entire experience. Their vessel rapidly filling with water, the wreckage decks, a mass of wreckage, the latter disabled and a hurricane was still hurling its fierce fury upon them. Their anchor, the men had all but abandoned hope of ever seeing land when they sighted. When the latter vessel came near enough the crew of the Nielsen, embarked in their damaged lifeboat, which sank to the gunwales and was only kept afloat by the air in it.

Although the boat put away from the Nielsen at 10 o'clock in the morning, before the last man was safely aboard the Harry Platte.

Incendiary Words Misquoted.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Albert B. Kreitler, third vice-president of the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union of North America, a defendant in the Los Angeles case, went in evidence in a despatch sent recently from Toronto.

The words, as Associated Press I with the exception of which have been given by the circulation. Press despatches quoted me as saying, in a talk with the Trades and Labor Assembly at Denver, that 'the newspaper building would stand up before a settlement would be made with the newspaper's union.' I said the public ought to believe I had been advocating the perpetration of such an outrage.

"A local publisher made the statement to me that he 'would see the building blow up before he would settle with the pressmen's union.' In order to show his attitude toward the pressmen's union. The incendiary words quoted are those of the publisher, but have been attributed to me."

A Persistent Desperado.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Francisco Ardino, Italian, aged 47 years, was arrested on Sunday by Chief Wilkie and Italy, Chief Kimmino, who was aided by a force of police, the prisoner at the scene. The bluecoat found Ardino in bed, with his wife standing at bay a score of his fellow-countrymen, all of whom were armed with knives. When he was arrested with difficulty. When searched Ardino had in his possession a 38-calibre revolver and an ugly dirk. In the police court yesterday morning he was found guilty on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a knife, and a fine of $50 was imposed.

Ardino was charged the same role about six weeks ago, when he was sentenced to thirty days in Welland jail.

Red Cross Founder Dead.

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 1.—Henri Dunant, founder of the International Red Cross Society, died Sunday night at Heiden, it was announced.

Henri Dunant was of Swiss birth and lived in Geneva. He was a philanthropist. At the battle of Solferino, Italy, June 24, 1859, he witnessed the needless suffering and loss of life resulting from lack of proper care for the wounded. Realizing that such conditions need not exist, he conceived the idea of forming societies all over the earth to regard and protect as neutral all sick and wounded combatants and all persons giving them succor.

Premier Out on Bail.

Lisbon, Nov. 1.—A crowd jeered former Premier Franco as he left the court yesterday, having been admitted to bail in the sum of 100,000. Foreign Minister Machado protested against the admission of bail of the former Premier, but exhorted his enemies to remain calm.

Franco is charged, among other things, with having issued during his term of office 200,000 bank notes, and with having liquidated the debts of Costa, Lisbon, amounting to 1,000,000 francs, to the detriment of the Portuguese treasury.

Jails at Fort William.

Fort William, Nov. 1.—Grass fires on the outskirts of the city yesterday afternoon caused a general jail rush for several hours. One store building and one dwelling destroyed the Grand Trunk Pacific property. Several miles of fence and several flooring material escaped the flames. Towards evening the wind died down.

A LIGHT ATMOSPHERE.

Why Smoke "Beats Down" When It Leaves a Chimney.

"It's getting ready for a storm. See how the smoke beats down just as soon as it comes out of the chimney? That's because the air is so heavy it pushes the smoke down before it has time to rise."

One often hears this stated as fact concerning that most generally talked of subject on earth, the weather. The speaker was probably right under the impression that a storm was coming, but he was scarcely right in assigning as a reason that "the air is so heavy it pushes the smoke down."

Nearly everybody knows it is easier to swim in salt water than in fresh water. A salt water is heavier than fresh water it is evident that the heavier the liquid the greater the buoyant force.

The atmosphere exerts a buoyant force upon the smoke from chimneys in exactly the same way that water exerts a buoyant force upon a swimmer. Therefore when the smoke "beats down" as soon as it leaves a chimney it must be concluded that the buoyant force exerted upon it is relatively small and that the air is not heavy, not light.

A light atmosphere, or, rather, a sudden lessening of the pressure of the atmosphere generally takes place before a storm. Therefore the smoke from chimneys, if observed intelligently, furnishes a pretty good weather indicator.—Chicago Record-Herald.

VEGETABLE FOODS.

Spinach Rich in Sulphur and Iron, Pumpkin in Phosphorus.

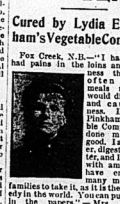
The French have a saying that "parsley is a friend to every dish and every disease." Lettuce is a nerve food. Radishes build tissue and are rich in phosphorus and in iron.

Horseradish contains a higher percentage of sulphur than all the other vegetable roots, which ranking next in value. Spinach also contains a large proportion of iron.

A mayonnaise dressing with lettuce is especially desirable for thin people, for the cream and the French dressing it is to be recommended. The acid in the latter is not to the digestive organs, however, is not to be encouraged. A pickle of lemon juice is preferable.

While tomatoes are a most excellent fruit for brain building, which phosphorus aids to, the humble pumpkin, so generally in the eyes of pie and jack o' lanterns, holds the prize. Pumpkin rates 2.79 in phosphorus, while apple s but .45.

When in search for this special ele ment take up a pumpkin diet. But an plinter squash would stand the same analysis it can be used as a vegetable in many varieties and has the needed phosphorus supplied. Cucumbers rank next to phosphorus value to pumpkin, ating 2.65.—Vegetarian Magazine.



Tea Charm of Enthusiasm.

Have you ever realized what a charm there is in enthusiasm? Life is so often monotonous that we like occasionally to be wakened to get an interest, and the person who is radiant over small things is always a delight.

The girl who carries enthusiasm into her work as well as into her play will find that she holds a responsible place. Work that is done for the "joy of working" is likely to be well done. Lack of interest makes for dull routine, remarks a writer. It brings discontent and often failure. The men who succeed are the ones who can inspire both themselves and others by their magnetic personality, and there is nothing so magnetic as enthusiasm. People will follow the lead of anyone in whose eyes they see a light of interest and, even more than that, are attracted by it is our natural endowment.

AFTER SUFFERING YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's VegetableCompound

Fox Creek, N.B.—"I have always had pains in the loins and a weak, tired feeling, and often after my meals my food would distress me and cause me pain. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am stronger, digestion is better, and I can walk with ambition. I have recommended many mothers of families to take it, as I find it only in the world. You can publish this if you like."—Mrs. WILLIAM HORNQUE, Fox Creek, N.B.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., at Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

CURED OF CONSTIPATION

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many troubles that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c, a box. 2

DISTURBANCES QUELLED.

But One Man Will Die as Result of Strike-Riots in New York.

New York, Nov. 1.—The striking expressmen gained adherents yesterday when between 1,000 and 1,500 workers of Monahan's Express, the Boston Despatch and the Manhattan Delivery Co. joined them. The platform men of the American Express Co. at the Grand Central Station, and the teamsters in a way-bill clerks went out in sympathy. It had previously been reported that the Boston Despatch and the Manhattan Delivery Co. were involved, but the walk-out did not occur until yesterday. Of the than 10,000 men are now on strike, demanding increased pay and shorter hours.

It was announced at strike headquarters last evening that a conference with Mayor Gaynor had been arranged for to-day, when the representatives of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters will formally protest to the mayor against the employment of the municipal police as guards on the wagons of the express companies. It was said also that a meeting of the executive heads of the local unions had been arranged for to-day, to discuss the advisability of calling a general strike of "everything on wheels in the city," affiliated with the unions, except railroads.

There were many small disturbances in various parts of the city yesterday, when drivers attacked wagons manned by strike-breakers. Stones and other missiles were thrown, and several drivers and their helpers were badly hurt. William Hoyt, a helper on an American Express wagon, had his skull crushed by a brick-bat, and probably will die. All the disturbances were quickly quelled, by the police, who dealt to go gently matters with the strikers. Many arrests were made and heavy fines imposed. Policemen ar with the drivers of the 225 wagons of all companies which are still delivering in the city, and an escort of from one to three mounted patrolmen follows each wagon.

A Riddle.

A man and a goose once went up in a balloon together. The balloon burst, and they landed on a church steeple. How could the man get "down?"

Answer—Let the goose.

Childhood's Castles in the Air.

Gently, no pushing; there's room there to sit.

All three, without grumbling.

One in front, two behind—wil you fit—

And mamma to hold you from tumbling.

Rock, rock, old rocking chair!

You'll last as a long time with care.

And still without balking

Of us four any one.

From rocking and talking

This is what we call fun.

Shall we call this a boat out at sea,

Or four sailors rowing?

Can you fancy it well? As for me,

I feel the salt, wind blowing.

Up, up and down, lazy boat,

On the top of a wave we float.

Down we go with a rush.

Far off I see a rocky

Glimmer. Our boat we'll push

Ashore in Fairyland.

The fairy people come running

To meet us down on the strand.

Each holding out toward us the very thing

We've been wished for; had it in hand.

Up, up again, one wave more

Holds us high above the fairy shore.

Let's pull all together!

Then with up will come

To the always fine weather

That makes up fairy time.

STROUD'S

NEATNESS OF ATTIRE.

Cuffs For the Business Woman's Wear in Office.

Strange indeed is the business woman who does not like to wear dainty white and colored shirt waists to the office, but equally rare is the maiden who so large a bank account that her laundry is naught to her. It is for virtually every woman, therefore, that these various sorts of protecting cuffs for shirt waist sleeves have been devised.

There was one girl who had a pair of laced celluloid cuffs. They were all that could be desired—washable, cleanly and cool—until one day a cuff was snapped a match near her and there was almost an explosion.

Since then that girl has changed her cuffs to oilcloth, which is just as light, just as easily washed and just as attractive. White linen oilcloth, bound with ribbon or tape makes an ideal protecting cuff. Finish the lacing at the bottom with a loose bow and at the top with one of those toothed buttons used for children's aprons, which clasp the sleeve firmly without tearing it. Eyelets may be punched in the oilcloth. If you have access to a brass eyelet machine the effect will be better, but an ordinary paper punch will serve you well.

For the girl who does not want to bother white blotting paper cut with an upward angle at the bottom wound around the arm and secured by three knit elastic bands makes an excellent and speedy protection. It can be renewed daily, and white is advised because it shows dirt and dust immediately. The notch at the lower end is to provide freedom for the hands.

The girl whose tastes run to elaboration and ornamental effects will sew herself a pair of pufted Sunalia cuff sleeves, such as the children wear in school. White is best again, and there should be two pairs in service, one to be in use while the other is being laundered. But rubber at top and bottom holds the sleeves to the arms and gathers them as shown in the drawing.

What may be done with a colored bandanna handkerchief is shown in the straight bordered cuff. A ten cent handkerchief is all that is needed for each of these attractive sleeve protectors. Fold down one corner of the handkerchief, cut off the opposite corner, sew the edges together in cuff shape and stitch on the part cut off as a lapel on the other side. Fasten to the sleeves with a large safety pin.

A good idea for the woman whose work is at all dirty is a bib for the lower part of the shirt waist that touches the desk or table. This bib should be of the same material as the cuffs, and a set of three would be appreciated by any business girl who wants to be dainty and practical at the same time and at little expense.

Chronic Dyspepsia.

The new sour milk treatment is often wonderfully successful with people who have suffered for years from weak digestions.

It was Metchnikoff, the great chemist and physiologist, who first advocated sour milk diet as an elixir of youth and health.

But it should be taken only under supervision of a doctor, as so much depends on the individual. One person, for instance, may begin at once to improve with a certain quantity taken daily, while another finds that it does not agree till the dose is perhaps altered to less or more.

Although ordinary sour milk, when it can be obtained fresh and pure, will answer admirably, it is not quite safe to let town milk stand long enough to become sour.

So tabloids and powders containing the lactic acid bacilli, or sour milk germs, are now sold, with directions as to how to use them in order to procure the sour milk safely and expeditiously.

Napkin Rings.

For the maiden who travels much or who is going on a long visit an embroidered napkin ring of white linen is a timely and serviceable gift. These rings are cut in strips of the required length, with a triangular point at the embroidered end, and are scalloped and buttonholed all around. A spray of flowers makes a pretty decoration, with the monogram of the owner beneath. A buttonhole loop at the very end folds over and fastens to the tiny pearl button at the other side. Unlike most embroidered pieces, these rings must be stiffly starched when laundered.

Who would not be an automobilist? He is the result of the craze. The "Horseless Age," published in Columbia State, recently sent 24,000 bankers in this country inquiries as to how many persons they knew had borrowed money or mortgaged homes to raise the price for automobiles. The answers of nearly 5,000 men showed that there were very nearly 200,000 motors in their communities, and 1,254 had been bought by placing a mortgage, and some 7,000 by borrowing without a mortgage. This would make about 4.5 per cent. of the automobiles represent borrowed money or mortgaged funds. After all, what one's business is it, other than the parties themselves? Their creditors, if they have any.

The town of Port Hope has started a movement with a view to establishing a General Hospital. At the present time, Port Hope is without hospital accommodation of any kind and is, as a matter of fact, one of the few towns of its size in the Provinces that has not a public institution of this kind. Peterboro, Lindsay, Cobourg, and Belleville in this district have excellent hospitals and Port Hope that they should not be behind the times in this respect and the citizens are now making a move in this direction. It is worth that the late Miss Burgess, former resident of Port Hope, left $2000 to be applied to such an institution, there are apparently no large bequests in sight, but the ladies of the town will no doubt soon make the proper supply. enthusiasm have collected the sum of $800.

Weather For November

(By Rev. Tra E. Hicks.)

A reactionary storm periods falls on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd. being near the centre of the Mercury equinox, in the Venus period, and at new moon at ascelipse node. The fourth will come in with menacing conditions—rising temperature, falling barometer and positive storm areas moving rapidly from west to east. Heavy autumnal storms should not surprise the student of these forecasts the first three to four days of November. Rain and thunder storms will turn to sleet and snow northward, and high, cold gales will come from the northwest as the barometer rises behind the storms. These storms will bring discomfort and danger to navigators on the seas and lakes. The last three days of October up to November 4th, central on the 1st, is one of the most positive seismic periods of the year. The earth will not pass out of the seismic strain engendered at this period until after the opposition and eclipse of the moon on the 16th.

A regular storm period is central on the 8th, disturbing from the 6th to the 11th. The culmination of the Mercury period is at the crisis of this period. Moon is at extreme declination south and at first quarter. Storms of rain, snow, sleet and wind are indicated for this period, all followed by high barometer, sweeping northwest gales and very cold for the season. Only the foolhardy will despise storm possibilities and indications, and venture on the lakes at this time.

A reactionary storm period covers the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th. The facts that the moon is on the celestial equator on the 13th, and both full and in perigee on the 16th, indicate that decided storm conditions will begin at the beginning, and continue to the end of this period. Thunder, wind and rain will begin in the west on and touching the 13th. Low barometer will attend these storms as they progress from west to east. The culmination will come on and touching the 16th, when change to rising barometer, northwesterly gales and possibly a November blizzard will set in from the northwest. All coast regions and cities specially exposed to high tides, or tidal waves, should be reminded of possible danger on and near Wednesday, November the 16th. That date is also the centre of the most decided seismic period of the year, extending three to four days before and after the 16th. On that date falls the full moon at an eclipse node, causing a total eclipse of the moon, and hence bringing earth, moon and sun on a direct line with each other. According to the catechism of this "storm prophet," earth, air and seas will undergo an astronomic storm that will be heard from at this time. See if the whole tribe of plagiarising prophets don't go forecasting seismic trouble when they read this prediction.

A regular storm period is central on the 19th, covering the 17th to 22nd. The indications are that little intermission of fair weather will appear between this and the preceding storm period. This will likely cause a prolonged spell of threatening weather, increasing into renewed storms of rain and snow on touching the 19th, 20th and 21st. By the touches of these storms the barometer will rise and change to south-easter with high gales will come out of the northwest.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 24th, 25th, 26th and 28th. This period will culminate on and touching the 25th and 26th, moon being on the celestial equator on the 26th. Low barometer, higher temperature, with possible lightning, thunder and rain, on the 26th. Rising barometer and change to colder will come promptly behind the storms. The month goes out at the oncoming of a regular storm period, with moon in apogee on the 30th, and new moon on December 1st. Falling barometer, rising temperature and increasing cloudiness will appear in the west by the 30th, bringing to that section rain and snow by December 1st. The 28th to 30th are in a seismic period.

Ratepayer Protests.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

I often seen in your valuable paper the words "A Better and Brighter Belleville." Now I would like to know what that means. It does not look like a brighter and better Belleville to see the poor fathers mend the four butchers in the old meat market when they gave them notice on Thursday to vacate the building on Monday; four days' notice. Now that is not fair justice to a citizen of from 25 to 30 years' standing. All their money is spent in the city. One of the butchers has six children, making eight, and I wonder so that some city man gets a good trade out of him in a few years. Well, they had to get out. The chairman of the market strolled into the meat market last Thursday. The butchers asked him if they could rent a space in the butter market. His answer was, I will see you in session first; then when the Council meeting was held Mr. Wallbridge asked him to find a place to put the four butchers? The chairman of the market got up and said: No, kick them out, or don't want them here. I ask fair play; is this a brighter and better Belleville. Thanking you for the space in your valuable paper, I am

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hogan, Olive street, died on Thursday-ing day.

AT GRIFFIN'S.

Large crowds attended the afternoon performances at this popular playhouse yesterday. The management regret being unable to the chine last night, owing to which we were unable to show the pictures, but can assure our patrons it will not happen again.

Three very clever vaudeville acts were given and thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

The Goldings, comedian, made a hit with his clever jokes and songs, his imitation of an Italian boy who was arrested for stealing money to buy medicine to save his mother's life pleading his own case before a judge in a New York police court brought down the house.

Professor Dobbs and his talking and mind reading dog, made a pronounced hit. The various tricks performed by this clever dog were of almost human intelligence and well worth the price of admission alone.

The Thatchers gave a clever musical and singing act, Mr. Thatcher giving an imitation of a small orchestra on a combination of instruments, finishing up by playing the Holy City on a set of bells, slides being used to illustrate the song. His daughter singing the chorus in a scenic effect representing a large cathedral. The same performance will be repeated tonight and to-morrow. Don't miss this big show.

Several English railroads have built freight cars especially for aeroplanes, the ends having double doors which open to the full height and width of the car.

If hoard water is used for drinking purposes, care should be taken that the water boils for 15 minutes before it is poured off.

ROBBED HIS BENEFACTORS.

CHARGE AGAINST ANDREW MILLS

A FRIENDLESS BOY, AT COBOURG.

Cobourg, Oct. 31.—A boy, giving the name of Andrew Mills, fifteen years of age, strolled into town last August penniless and hungry. Mr. Robert Scott took the lad home and gave him his supper, and after washing himself, Christ mas, he was found employment. A few days ago he again appeared at the home of his benefactor, and again befriended, but suddenly departed. After he was gone, Mrs. Scott missed two five-dollar bills from her purse, the police were notified, and the young lad was taken into custody. He appeared before Police Magistrate Boggs, charged with theft, and was committed for trial. He is said to be a native of Pennsylvania, and will probably be deported.

WOOD AGAIN DEFEATS CAMERON

Montreal, Oct. 7.—Abbie Wood of Montreal defeated Fred Cameron of Amherst, N. S., in a fifteen mile race at the Jubilee rink here this evening. With the exception of a couple of laps in the second mile Cameron made the pace all the way into the last lap. This was the fourth race between the Montreal and Amherst runners and each time the Montreal man has won by his speed at the finish. Wood and Cameron are now New York to-morrow where the former will be matched with Meadows and the latter with Hollenbeck in the 20 mile race at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Runaway Smashed Window.

On Saturday afternoon a lively runaway occurred on Victoria Avenue and whilst no person was seriously injured considerable damage was done. A horse attached to a delivery waggon the property of Mr. E. Sprague became frightened near Church street and off it started at a rapid rate towards Front street. The animal ran against Mr. A. W. Dickens' place of business at the junction of Victoria Avenue, demolishing a plate glass window. The impact with the window and building stopped its wild career. A lad named Rogers who was driving was thrown between Rinmaids and Front street, but he escaped with slight injuries. The vehicle was considerably damaged. In the early part of the day the same animal ran away on Bridge street but did slight damages.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Yesterday about twelve of the Y. M. C. A. Boy Scouts enjoyed a trip through the country, the boys gathered at the rooms and a start was made at 10 a.m. Out across the lower bridge and up Bridge st. to the exhibition grounds and then the route led over and through the reins until the Trenton road was reached which was followed until we were out past the cemetery. The boys at least some of them got the tired feeling about here and a halt was called at Jones Creek. Fires were built and the pork and beans were warmed in the cans and dinner was served in true gypsy style. After dinner the boys indulged in several games a couple of which were Scout ing games.

Plans are under way for a paper chase for next Saturday.

The Deacon Shirt Co's annual road race which was postponed will be run off on Saturday at 4 p.m. The race will be run rain or shine.

Start and finish at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

Distance will be five miles.

Four prizes will be given if six entries are secured. A medal will also be given the first man finishing also the Deacon Cup to be held until August 1st, 1911.

Arrangements have been made so that the runners will be able to use the Y. M. C. A. rooms for dressing Entries must be sent in by W. G. Sovereign, physical director of the Y M. C. A.

Entries must be sent in by twelve o'clock Friday noon, Nov. 5th.

The Cups and medals are on exhibition at Mr. Symons store.

HOCKEY

A Toronto despatch last night said: It is stated here, on good authority that only two of last year's Ottawa professional hockey team will play this season, and that those two are Bruce Bidgnah, the Toronto boy, who played right wing, and Gordon Roberts, who played left wing. Both were recruits last season. The only vfleteran to be retained is said to be Bruce Stuart, who will manage the team, it is said that Ridpath will be moved to centre.

In Montreal a local sporting writer was told that Ernie Johnston, the Wanderer's cover, would go to Ottawa. The chances are that the Ottawa team will give Gerard and Broadbent, last years sparce, a chance and fill up with other Ottawa men who have been showing class locally More real news comes in the closing paragraph which states:

There is trouble brewing in the champion Wanderers camp at Montreal. The players are sore on Manager Doran, and the franchise had been sold to Eddie McCafferty, the secretary of the Montreal ball club.

ATHLETICS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1st—Canada is to be represented in the 20-mile team race at Madison Square Garden on Friday night, November 4. Fred Meadows, the phenomenal 15-mile runner, who carried off several races here last year and Abbie Woods will be the pair who will defend the honors of the Dominion. Meadows and Woods will make a hard fight for first money in the coming contest. There are fully 50 teams who want to enter the contest but they will be sifted down to the best men obtainable's representing each country

BELLEVILLE BOYS WIN.

The indoor meet at the Covered Rink at Port Hope (Friday) evening under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers Club, was carried but and thoroughly nejoyed by those present The 220 yard dash was one of the features of the evening, while the tug of war between teams from Plant No. 1 and 2 of the Standard ideal proved very interesting. The results of the various events were as follows:

50 Yards dash.

1st heat—Moore, Belleville Athletics 1st; Martin T. C. S., 2nd; Smith, Peterboro, 3rd.

2nd heat — Ketcheson, Belleville Athletic Village 1st; Pritchard, Belleville Albert College, 2nd; Ham, Port Hope, 3rd.

Final—Moore, 1st, Ketcheson, 2nd. Moore was disqualified for starting before the pistol and 1st was awarded to Ketchinson. Time 5 2-4.

The two —mile relay race between four teams, one from T. C. S. one from Albert College, Belleville and two from the Y. M. C. A. proved very exciting. The T. C. S. won MacCaulay finishing first. Time 9.42 2-5.

1-2 Mile Run, Boys.

Stone, T. C. S., 1st; Caldwell T. C. S., 2nd; Craig, Port Hope 3rd Time 2.40 2-5.

1 Mile Run, Seniors.

Caldwell, T. C. S., 1st; Smith, Peterboro, 2nd; Ham, Port Hope 3rd.

1-2 Mile Walk, Seniors.

McCreary, Belleville Y. M. C. A., 1st; Toner, Port Hope, 2nd; Lindsay, T. C. S., 3rd. Time 3.40.

220 Yards. Seniors.

1st heat—MacCauley, T. C. S., 1st; Marshall, Belleville Athletics, 2nd.

2nd heat — Pritchard, Belleville 1st; Ketcheson, Belleville, 2nd.

Finals — Pritchard, 1st, MacCauley 2nd. Time 2 1-5 seconds.

The tug of war came next between teams from the Standard ideal and the Central Foundry. It was for the best two out of three. The teams were very evenly matched and the first three pulls were dead heats, the handkerchief not moving over the mark. In the fourth attempt Plant No. 1 gained a few inches on the start and managed to hold it until the report of the pistol.

3 Mile, Seniors.

Smith, Peterboro, 1st; Wallace, Belleville, Y. M. C. A., 2nd; McCreery Belleville, Y. M. C. A., 3rd. Time 16.50.

The twelve mile invitation road race had to be called off owing to the condition of the roads. Ike Bennett, of Port Hope gave a fine mile exhibition.

HELP FOR OLD BACKS THAT ACHE

GIN PILLS Cure Them

Age is no barrier to the wonderful, soothing, healing properties of GIN PILLS, the great Canadian Kidney Cure. We have on record many letters from men and women of 60, 65, 70, 75, 80 and over, testifying to the great relief they received from taking GIN PILLS.

Mr. Samuel Martin of Shelburne, Ont., suffered for twenty years with misery in his back. Some months ago, he tried GIN PILLS and after taking only three boxes, was entirely cured. Mr. Martin is now 84 years of age and enjoys the robust health of a vigorous man of sixty, thanks to GIN PILLS.

All elderly people are troubled, more or less, with Kidney and Bladder Trouble, and pain and weakness in the back. GIN PILLS are a guaranteed cure for all these misfortunes. Money promptly refunded if they fail to give complete satisfaction.

In The Wide World Of Woman.

ELLEN TERRY AND MRS. PHILIP SNOWDEN.

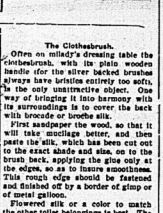
It is at her farm in Small Hythe, Tenterden, England, that Miss Terry is preparing for her American tour beginning the last day of October. Here she potters about in her garden among her animals and with her guests, seeming to bring pets as well as friends under the spell of her magnetism, for to be with Ellen Terry seems to mean to the love of Shakespeare and to make the love of Shakespeare on the one hand and the simple life on the other the two most gorgeously attractive things on earth.

Miss Terry finds it hard to resist pretty country cottages and has a habit of buying them when they strike her fancy. In all she has seven at present. She keeps no buying mood all the time, so that generally there are two or three charming Terry cottages in various corners of England for sale, as, in fact, there are at the present moment. But Small Hythe is her favorite, and it is there that she will complete the discourses which she is preparing for America. She calls them "discourses," because she objects to the reports that she is going across to lecture.

"I am going over to talk to my friends there," she said, "not lecture them, and it is going to be about Shakespeare. Can you see me standing solemnly, all dressed in black, with a high stiff collar and very, smooth hair, delivering an eulogy or perhaps a learned exposition about some one who doesn't need any eulogies from anybody! I can't even imagine it.

"I suppose," she continued, "you want to know about my plans. Not a jot want I don't want to talk about. Isn't it enough to know that I am going to have a splendid time talking to my friends all by myself and that it is going to be about Shakespeare? I am not going to lecture at all. I am going to give little discourses about Shakespeare's plays, because I love them better than anything else, and I would like everybody to love them as I do. My method will be to go from grave to gay, from lively to severe, to interest my hearers and show them little side lights which seem to have escaped the notice of many. You see, it hasn't been their business to look out for those little points, whereas it has been mine.

"I shall not speak of any one heroine, but many—Rosalind, Cleopatra and Imogen and others whom I specially love—and I shall give little scenes to illustrate my points. Shakespeare's genius is so many sided that I can't possibly attempt to interpret it by a prosy paper on one heroine. And even if I did it wouldn't be Shakespeare. I don't see such a small piece of him that it couldn't be representative.



"Do you? Well, then you will act some of the parts?" ?

"Lots of them, whole scenes. I couldn't give my interpretation without it. And I shall dress up, possibly in Elizabethan costume. But I don't think I shall change during the discourse. That might seem just a little bit too much like a circus, and besides, I cannot feel that it would be artistic. And if my little discourse were not artistic it would fall on most of the points."

Will you not have more than one subject?

"There will be two anyway, perhaps four or even more. To some audiences I shall speak of Shakespeare's women, to some of the letters in Shakespeare's plays and to others of how Shakespeare knew everything in the world before anybody was ever born or thought of—Shakespeare the Prophet."

Mrs. Philip Snowden is another charming Englishwoman who will again lecture in America this fall.

The Clothesbrush.

Often on milady's dressing table the clothesbrush, with its plain wooden handle (or the silver backed brushes) always have bristles entirely too soft, to be the only unimportant object. One way of bringing it into harmony with its surroundings is to cover the back with brocade or some like stuff.

First sandpaper the wood, so that it will take mucilage better, and then paste the silk, which has been cut out to the exact shape and size, on to the brush back, applying the glue only at the edge, so as to insure smoothness. This rough edge should be fastened and finished off by a border of gimp or of metal galloon.

Flowered silk or a color to match the other toilet belongings is best. The brush thus treated makes an attractive gift and one that will be appreciated by the dainty women.

Cretonne, by the way, or even small figured chintz may take the place of the silk if the former is used elsewhere in the bedroom furnishings and accessories.

Homemade Perfume.

The French extract the perfume of roses by means of grease, and an adaptation of their method would form an interesting little experiment that could be made at home. Get a shallow wooden box, fairly tight, with a sheet of glass to fit it. In the box upon a dish lay a thick layer of rose leaves. Cover the inside of the sheet of glass with a thin layer of vaseline. Place over the box and let it stand for twenty-four hours. In that time the vaseline will have absorbed the perfume of the rose leaves. Throw away the leaves and put in a fresh layer and let it stand for twenty-four hours again.

MONARCHY'S CLOSE CALL

GOVERNMENT COUP AVERTS A TERRIBLE REVOLUTION

Between Five Hundred And One Thousand Spanish Republicans Are Under Arrest—Widespread Plot Nipped In The Bud.

PARIS PAPER GAVE TIMELY WARNING

(Intelligencer Special.)

MADRID, Spain, Nov. 2.— From five hundred to one thousand Radical Republicans are under arrest this afternoon. A descent was made by the police following the discovery of a plot to rise at midnight in almost every city and town in Spain. It is thought that the bloodless revolution of modern times was averted by the Government coup.

London, Nov. 2.—A despatch from Paris to The Daily Telegraph says a rumor is current that a revolution has broken out in Madrid.

No confirmation of this rumor has reached London.

While the suddenness with which the revolution in Portugal became an accomplished fact, would attach more credence to the above despatch than it might otherwise receive, still there reasons for expecting an upheaval in Spain just now.

Less than a fortnight ago, Senor Jose Canalejas, Premier of Spain, interviewed by a special correspondent of The London Chronicle, who was fresh from Lisbon and the scene of the revolt, said:

"I will answer with my head that events in Lisbon are not repeated in Madrid, or in any other part of Spain." He emphasized his words by tapping his heel on the ground.

The late Portuguese Government must have been living in a fool's paradise. Everyone outside Portugal appears to have known what was about to happen. We, in Spain, were not surprised at the upheaval, but we did not look for it so soon."

"No, I do not think that the republican success in Portugal will have any repercussion in Spain. We tolerate republicans. They have a perfect right to freedom of speech and liberty of action so long as these are legal and constitutional.

"You ask me if the republicans have succeeded in undermining the loyalty of the army, as they did in Portugal. My answer is, emphatically no. The day they attempt it they will pay the penalty prescribed by the existing law of the land."

Discussing his reform program, Senor Canalejas declared that the present Government would do its best to carry it through in the Cortes. The Government, he declared, had put its shoulder to the wheel of reform, and would not be deterred in its task either by the thunders of the church on the one hand or by the fury of revolutionary socialists on the other hand.

RAISE BARRIERS TO IMMIGRANTS

Prospective Settler Must Possess Fifty Dollars To Enter Now

KEEPS OUT LABORERS

Object To Prevent Their Becoming a Charge on Community During The Winter

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 1.— Greater restrictions were to-day placed on immigrants from the United States, when the monetary requirements from prospective entrants were doubled. As it was is, any person more than 18 years of age entering Canada may be asked to produce fifty dollars. Between the ages of five and eighteen years the amount now necessary is twenty-five dollars. The regulation will be in effect until March 31, 1911. The purpose is to keep out poor laborers who would be unable to last through the winter and because of the high cost of living. The rule was not operat ve last year and hardship resulted.

TRIUMPH IN SURGERY.

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—When Norman Allen, of Sutton, Ont., cut the main artery in the leg with a sharp chisel some weeks ago, he lost so much blood that the doctors despaired of his life. His younger brother volunteered and surgeons decided to try the transfusion of blood, first of such operations in Canada. At the General Hospital blood was pumped out of one brother into the other, and both have now recovered and were presented to prominent surgeons of the United States and Canada to-day as marvels of the triumph of modern surgery.

T. R. WILL KNOW WHOM TO BLAME

Former President Fully Aware of Trend of Affairs

NOT A SURPRISE

He Decided on [Present Campaign Last April—His Political Future.

New York, Nov. 2.—If the election next week in New York goes against Roosevelt and his candidate for governor is defeated, he has his answer ready, and it is going to be along this line:

There was arrayed against me every "crooked" corporation, every "malefactor of great wealth," every plunderer of the people, every corrupt financial interest that wants to continue corruptly to make money. In addition there was foul treachery among the thieves and grafters of my own party, whom I had thrown out of control and who went over to the enemy. I stood for the people and against the plunderers in that fight, and I am proud of it. I have at least succeeded in purifying the Republican party in the great State of New York.

This is the explanation that comes from a close friend of the colonel's who has been in touch with him since his return to this country from Africa. The man is authority for the statement that Col. Roosevelt went into the fight with his eyes open and fully aware of conditions, and that, therefore, the developments have not surprised him.

That defeat here will put him out of politics, or even diminish his hold upon the people of the country, the colonel is said to regard as particularly absurd. He believes that if beaten, under the circumstances and the way in which he proposes to explain them, it will strengthen him tremendously with the masses, especially in the west, where the ferocity of the fight upon the corporations and the "interests," and his appeal to the mob, strike the old-fashioned that formed the basis of the popularity of that section of the country.

Mr. Roosevelt's friends say, reached the determination to make this fight in New York while on the first western trip the last week in April. It was on the train in Kansas that he made up his mind to accept the defiance of William Barnes, jr., and put on his war paint. At that time he is stated to have expressed absolute certainty of winning the fight for control of the Saratoga convention, the election of himself as temporary chairman and the nomination by the convention of his power to defeat the Barnes-Sherman-Sibley combination he had no doubt.

As the story goes he is said to have voiced the view that he did not expect to win the ticket and was then heard in private conversation the conditions that exist now, anticipating the "laying down" of the "old guard" leaders, the hostility of the financial interests and the opposition of a large part of the New York press.

Mr. Mc Hearst is telling the readers of his newspapers that the reason so many New York newspapers have unusually supported the Republican candidate are just now arrayed against Mr. Stimson is because Col. Roosevelt, who is Stimson's sponsor, has from time to time been forced to the owners or editors of these newspapers as "liars," "unprincipled scoundrels," and the like. Also because, he asserts, Mr. Roosevelt has been a party of suits for libel against one or two of them, which he says cost the defendants large sums of money to settle.

Will Write Up Calgary District.

Calgary, Nov. 2.—Wm. Maxwell, the famous west coast author, is here to write articles on the Calgary district. He is accompanied by Thomas Marlowe, editor of The Daily Mail of London, England.

Peel and grate as many pineapples as are desired, remembering that the sugar loaf gives best for the purpose. Weigh and allow an equal weight of sugar. Let the sugar and pineapple heat gradually for twenty minutes, then simmer steadily after the syrup reaches the boiling point for nearly an hour, or until it becomes a clear amber jelly that thickens as it cools. If extremely juicy some of the liquor may be strained from the fruit and cooked separately to be used in the punch bowl.

Stuffed Peppers.

Cut slice from top and remove seeds. Fill with a forcemeat of chopped English walnuts and hot bread crumbs with tomato, butter, salt and pepper. Stand them in a baking pan with a little hot salted water and cook slowly for nearly an hour.

Iced Cocoa.

To every two cupfuls of cocoa made in the usual manner add a cupful of cream of whipped cream. Beat it into the cocoa, a spoonful to taste and let it stand until cold. Serve in glasses partly filled with cracked ice.

GOVERNMENT COUP AVERTS A TERRIBLE REVOLUTION

Between Five Hundred And One Thousand Spanish Republicans Are Under Arrest—Widespread Plot Nipped In The Bud.

PARIS PAPER GAVE TIMELY WARNING

(Intelligencer Special.)

MADRID, Spain, Nov. 2.— From five hundred to one thousand Radical Republicans are under arrest this afternoon. A descent was made by the police following the discovery of a plot to rise at midnight in almost every city and town in Spain. It is thought that the bloodless revolution of modern times was averted by the Government coup.

London, Nov. 2.—A despatch from Paris to The Daily Telegraph says a rumor is current that a revolution has broken out in Madrid.

No confirmation of this rumor has reached London.

While the suddenness with which the revolution in Portugal became an accomplished fact, would attach more credence to the above despatch than it might otherwise receive, still there reasons for expecting an upheaval in Spain just now.

Less than a fortnight ago, Senor Jose Canalejas, Premier of Spain, interviewed by a special correspondent of The London Chronicle, who was fresh from Lisbon and the scene of the revolt, said:

"I will answer with my head that events in Lisbon are not repeated in Madrid, or in any other part of Spain." He emphasized his words by tapping his heel on the ground.

The late Portuguese Government must have been living in a fool's paradise. Everyone outside Portugal appears to have known what was about to happen. We, in Spain, were not surprised at the upheaval, but we did not look for it so soon."

"No, I do not think that the republican success in Portugal will have any repercussion in Spain. We tolerate republicans. They have a perfect right to freedom of speech and liberty of action so long as these are legal and constitutional.

"You ask me if the republicans have succeeded in undermining the loyalty of the army, as they did in Portugal. My answer is, emphatically no. The day they attempt it they will pay the penalty prescribed by the existing law of the land."

Discussing his reform program, Senor Canalejas declared that the present Government would do its best to carry it through in the Cortes. The Government, he declared, had put its shoulder to the wheel of reform, and would not be deterred in its task either by the thunders of the church on the one hand or by the fury of revolutionary socialists on the other hand.

RAISE BARRIERS TO IMMIGRANTS

Prospective Settler Must Possess Fifty Dollars To Enter Now

KEEPS OUT LABORERS

Object To Prevent Their Becoming a Charge on Community During The Winter

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 1.— Greater restrictions were to-day placed on immigrants from the United States, when the monetary requirements from prospective entrants were doubled. As it was is, any person more than 18 years of age entering Canada may be asked to produce fifty dollars. Between the ages of five and eighteen years the amount now necessary is twenty-five dollars. The regulation will be in effect until March 31, 1911. The purpose is to keep out poor laborers who would be unable to last through the winter and because of the high cost of living. The rule was not operat ve last year and hardship resulted.

TRIUMPH IN SURGERY.

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—When Norman Allen, of Sutton, Ont., cut the main artery in the leg with a sharp chisel some weeks ago, he lost so much blood that the doctors despaired of his life. His younger brother volunteered and surgeons decided to try the transfusion of blood, first of such operations in Canada. At the General Hospital blood was pumped out of one brother into the other, and both have now recovered and were presented to prominent surgeons of the United States and Canada to-day as marvels of the triumph of modern surgery.

T. R. WILL KNOW WHOM TO BLAME

Former President Fully Aware of Trend of Affairs

NOT A SURPRISE

He Decided on [Present Campaign Last April—His Political Future.

New York, Nov. 2.—If the election next week in New York goes against Roosevelt and his candidate for governor is defeated, he has his answer ready, and it is going to be along this line:

There was arrayed against me every "crooked" corporation, every "malefactor of great wealth," every plunderer of the people, every corrupt financial interest that wants to continue corruptly to make money. In addition there was foul treachery among the thieves and grafters of my own party, whom I had thrown out of control and who went over to the enemy. I stood for the people and against the plunderers in that fight, and I am proud of it. I have at least succeeded in purifying the Republican party in the great State of New York.

This is the explanation that comes from a close friend of the colonel's who has been in touch with him since his return to this country from Africa. The man is authority for the statement that Col. Roosevelt went into the fight with his eyes open and fully aware of conditions, and that, therefore, the developments have not surprised him.

That defeat here will put him out of politics, or even diminish his hold upon the people of the country, the colonel is said to regard as particularly absurd. He believes that if beaten, under the circumstances and the way in which he proposes to explain them, it will strengthen him tremendously with the masses, especially in the west, where the ferocity of the fight upon the corporations and the "interests," and his appeal to the mob, strike the old-fashioned that formed the basis of the popularity of that section of the country.

Mr. Roosevelt's friends say, reached the determination to make this fight in New York while on the first western trip the last week in April. It was on the train in Kansas that he made up his mind to accept the defiance of William Barnes, jr., and put on his war paint. At that time he is stated to have expressed absolute certainty of winning the fight for control of the Saratoga convention, the election of himself as temporary chairman and the nomination by the convention of his power to defeat the Barnes-Sherman-Sibley combination he had no doubt.

As the story goes he is said to have voiced the view that he did not expect to win the ticket and was then heard in private conversation the conditions that exist now, anticipating the "laying down" of the "old guard" leaders, the hostility of the financial interests and the opposition of a large part of the New York press.

Mr. Mc Hearst is telling the readers of his newspapers that the reason so many New York newspapers have unusually supported the Republican candidate are just now arrayed against Mr. Stimson is because Col. Roosevelt, who is Stimson's sponsor, has from time to time been forced to the owners or editors of these newspapers as "liars," "unprincipled scoundrels," and the like. Also because, he asserts, Mr. Roosevelt has been a party of suits for libel against one or two of them, which he says cost the defendants large sums of money to settle.

Will Write Up Calgary District.

Calgary, Nov. 2.—Wm. Maxwell, the famous west coast author, is here to write articles on the Calgary district. He is accompanied by Thomas Marlowe, editor of The Daily Mail of London, England.

Peel and grate as many pineapples as are desired, remembering that the sugar loaf gives best for the purpose. Weigh and allow an equal weight of sugar. Let the sugar and pineapple heat gradually for twenty minutes, then simmer steadily after the syrup reaches the boiling point for nearly an hour, or until it becomes a clear amber jelly that thickens as it cools. If extremely juicy some of the liquor may be strained from the fruit and cooked separately to be used in the punch bowl.

Stuffed Peppers.

Cut slice from top and remove seeds. Fill with a forcemeat of chopped English walnuts and hot bread crumbs with tomato, butter, salt and pepper. Stand them in a baking pan with a little hot salted water and cook slowly for nearly an hour.

Iced Cocoa.

To every two cupfuls of cocoa made in the usual manner add a cupful of cream of whipped cream. Beat it into the cocoa, a spoonful to taste and let it stand until cold. Serve in glasses partly filled with cracked ice.

CAMPAIGN DRAWING TO A CLOSE

(Intelligencer Special.)

ARTHABASCA, Que., Nov. 2.—With the meeting in Victoriaville this afternoon and another here to-night, the campaign in connection with the bye-elections here to-morrow will come to a close. Crowds flocked into these places to-day to hear the final outbursts of oratory. French-Canadians will make to-day and to-morrow great holidays. Sir Wilfrid will not be here for the meetings, notwithstanding reports. It is no secret that opposition to the naval policy on all sides here is very intense, but to an impartial observer it doesn't seem quite enough to overcome the influence of the Liberal candidate. Impassioned Nationalists continue lurid tirades against England and English influence in Canada.

BRIAND QUITS

(Intelligencer Special.)

PARIS, France, Nov. 2.—Premier Briand and his Cabinet have resigned, it is understood, preliminary to reorganization and dropping of Briand's colleagues who didn't like his methods of settling the recent railroad strike.

NEW TERMINALS.

(Intelligencer Special.)

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—The first step in the Grand Trunk's scheme for providing Montreal with big passenger terminals to replace the present inadequate Bonaventure Station was taken to-day, when the work of dismantling a portion of the property bought by the company for the purpose was begun. During the last year or so the company has acquired all the property between the present station and Cathedral street in the east, and bounded by Chabolles Square and St. James Street.

On Good Breeding.

A great part of our education is sympathetic and social. Boys and girls who have been brought up with well informed and superior people show in their manners a distinguishable grace. Fuller says that "William, earl of Nassau, won a subject from the king of Spain every time he took off his hat."

You cannot have one well bred man without a whole society of such. They keep each other up to any high point. Especially women; it requires a great many cultivated women—a large number of bright, elegant, reading women, accustomed to ease and refinement, to spectacles, pictures, sculpture, poetry and to elegant society—in order that you should have one Mme. de Stael.—Emerson.

A Vacation Hint.

Young girls who lend unaccompanied by escort of any kind at an out-of-town resort, as it is sometimes necessary for business women to do, need to be careful of the acquaintance they make. If some perfectly unknown man is assiduous in his attentions the unprotected girl should make a point of airing under the wing of some responsible matron and stay on the house until the man has proved his worth.

CURRENT EVENTS.

Sarah Barnhardt will bid us all "farewell" at Kingston a year ago. Is again back in America for another farewell.

It is said that there are at the present time over one thousand aeroplanes in course of construction in England.

Rapid age. The lad who a scant six months agone was borrowing the family clothes line and practising throwing the lasso has abandoned the Wild West idea and is building an aeroplane.—Exchange.

The old rumor of danger of a coal famine is appearing in the papers. That's why it always is the coal famines invariably seem to come just when it is cold weather and we most want the coal. It wouldn't be half so provoking if the famines would come in the summer time.

German scientist has invented the televisian, an apparatus enabling the operator to "see over the wires" at a considerable distance. Good. Want something that will enable us to take a look at the telephone operator's face when she softly purrs "busy." Have an idea she's laughing.—Exchange.

The Prime Minister of Paris has spoken strongly against the railway strikers in France, and here is the result:

Paris, Oct. 29.—A bomb was discovered this morning inside the carriage entrance of the residence of the Under Secretary of War, M. Sarraut. The fuse of the bomb had been partially consumed.

A rumor reached the Crown Prosecutor's office in Montreal that Sheldon, the Montreal swindling broker, has been traced to Bermuda. Telegrams have been despatched for further information and if the rumors prove to be true an officer will leave Montreal for Bermuda with instructions to arrest the fugitive.

The Liberals are jubilant over the result of a by-election in South Shields, England. In 1906 the Liberal majority was 6,286. The Liberal majority at the election just closed was 4,236, a falling off of 2,050. Not a very significant victory.

The bricklayers at St. John, N.B., have gone on strike because two expert cement workers, who were engaged on the same job, worked overtime for the purpose of burrying through the contract. These workmen are veritable tyrants. When they so decree, they will not work themselves nor allow any one else to earn an extra cent. How is this last?

Halifax, Oct. 29.—The Pleasant Bay district in the northwest of Cape Breton is suffering from a very serious plague of mice. They have destroyed in turn the hay crop, the grain, the potatoes, and then attacked the bark of the young trees in the woods. Finally they are coming through the walls of the houses, and destroying clothing and furniture. There seems to be no way to fight them effectively.

An Ottawa correspondent to the Montreal Star of the 29th Oct. says:—It is probable that the Canadian Government will follow the example of that of Australia and ask Parliament to send a Canadian delegation to attend officially the coronation of King George and Queen Mary in London, in June, next year.

If the proposal is made, there is no doubt whatever about its adoption, and it is believed here that the delegation may be composed as follows:—

Twenty Liberals and twelve Conservative members of Parliament, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the Provincial Premiers of Canada, and the whole of the Federal Cabinet.

The Attorney-General of the United States has given a certificate of the quality of Canadian whiskey. On the 29th of October, says a Washington despatch, he handed down his decision in the Canadian Club whiskey case, declaring that it will not be necessary to brand the whiskey a "blend," but that the word "Canadian" is sufficiently distinctive to differentiate it from all other whiskeys. The attorney-General further says that the two ingredients which go into this particular whiskey are both whiskeys, and therefore it would be impossible to have a blend among like substances.

Of course this decision doesn't apply to Yankee adulterations.

The State of Illinois has been fighting the Illinois Railway, claiming that the road had not paid to the State its fair proportion of taxes. The Supreme Court, in rendering its decision, virtually lays down the rule by which the decision of the charter and non-charter line shall be made and settlement made with the State. The result is that the company will have to pay the State about $3,000,000 a year, instead of $1,000,000, as at present.

The State wins its contention that the earnings of the company on the charter and non-charter lines shall be pro-rated according to mileage. This was the big contention and the main point in the State's case.

Very True.—A lady called into the Review office the other day offering tickets for sale for a local function. She was a charming lady but we made our minds adamant and did not buy. Now, how is it that people will come to a newspaper office and offer tickets for sale? The newspapers are everlastingly giving free write-ups and elaborate reports also free of charge to affairs far out of proportion to their news value. The Review does it, so do other papers. So do the papers in Hamilton, in London, in Ottawa, Brantford, St. Thomas, Toronto, Havelock, Jerusalem and Jericho. We think when we have to send these things, good, bad and indifferent, we should at least have tickets provided.—Peterboro Review.

Australia is following Canada's example in matters of church union:

Canada, the first country on the globe to attempt to solve the question of church union, is being closely followed by Australia. The following letter was received yesterday from the Convenor of the Union Committee of the Presbyterian Church of Australia:

"I take the liberty of approaching you for information. The Joint Committee on Union, representing the Presbyterian, Methodist and Presbyterian churches of Australia, have been for some time engaged in devising a scheme of policy and a basis of doctrine for the proposed united church, and our labors have so far been very successful, and a delightful spirit of brotherly harmony has characterized our deliberations."

The New York bricklayers have discovered how some of their "walking delegates" have been using the union to feather their own nest at the expense of the working men. In the past it was in the power of the walking delegate to go upon a job, find things over, and if he saw anything of which he disapproved, to order the bricklayers to quit work at once. The walking delegates abused this privilege. Now it has been established that it was utilized for grafting purposes, the contractor being informed that by the payment of a stipulated sum he would be allowed to violate regulations of the union. To put a stop to this dishonesty in the future strikes will only be ordered on the vote of the union and for good cause. So flagrant were dishonest acts that it is not strange that the members of the union rebelled.

Tobacco.—The cultivation of this plant is developing rapidly in Ireland. A London correspondent of the New York Herald informs its readers that it may not be long before the "Irish perfecto" will be as familiar as the "clear Havana." Tobacco raising is being developed with some rapidity in Ireland. "It is about twenty years since Colonel Vaghell Talbot Everard commenced experimenting in growing tobacco on his estate at Randlestown, County Meath. Others have imitated him, and the result is that now, in addition to his twenty-five acres, there are Lord Barrymore with ten acres, Lord Dunraven, with twenty-five acres, Captain Otway Cuffe with seven acres, and many others with small plots.

The total area under cultivation in Ireland is 120 acres, comprising 70 acres of pipe tobacco, 28 acres of cigar tobacco and 13 acres of cigar tobacco. In Dublin a company employs 60 workmen and turns out pipe tobaccos and cigars and cigarettes, all made from the home-grown product.

Gentleman Writes On So Called "Pranks" of Hallowe'en

Belleville, Nov. 1, 1910.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—West Belleville suffered last night from an outbreak of lawlessness which is a disgrace to a civilized community, and ought to be put down with a strong hand by the authorities. Fence rails, farm gates carried away, small houses thrown over, and the sidewalk destroyed in many places by these mean and cowardly young rascals, sneaking around under cover of darkness, and doing wanton destruction that they would not dare to do in daylight, and all under the name of fun.

The damage to my property will cost about $5 or $6 to repair, and I hold this is just as much a crime as if they had come into my house and stolen that sum.

This destruction is not wrought by children, but by strong youths and young men, who ought to know better. If they do not, then the Police Magistrate should send them to school in jail for a few weeks. That is glad to see young people enjoy themselves at this time-honored festival, but this wicked destruction of private property should be put a stop to. I am

Yours, etc.
A SUFFERER.

Remembered By Employes.

A dissolution of partnership having taken place in the firm of Messrs. Ward & Kelcheson, the former is about to leave the city. On Saturday evening Mr. Ward was the recipient, on behalf of the employees of the store, of a handsome travelling bag and the accompanying address, which speaks for itself:

Belleville, Oct. 29, 1910.

Mr. J. A. Ward,

Dear Sir.—We deeply regret your departure from among us, and desire to express to you the accompanying gift as a token of respect for you, and as a faint expression of our appreciation of your kindly efforts to make everything agreeable in the store.

In commencing this short connection must be severed, and shall gratefully remember our association in the past, and hope always to be held in pleasurable remembrance by you.

Wishing you every success and God speed.

Signed by the employees.

Vestry Entertained Congregation

The Vestry of the Emmanuel R. E. Church entertained the congregation last evening at the Rectory, Victoria Ave., to a social evening, the house being comfortably filled. During the evening addresses were delivered by the Rector, Rev. Mr. Hubly, and Rev. Mr. Hemingway. Instrumental music was rendered by some of those present. Mr. Hubly presented to Mrs. J. D. Ford, the retiring organist, a gold headed umbrella on behalf of the choir. Refreshments were served and all present enjoyed themselves.

IN THE POLICE COURT

Ald. Wallbridge Disposes of a Couple of Drunks.

Ald. Wallbridge, acting Mayor and Police Magistrate this morning conducted police court. Two drunks were brought up before him and disposed of. Frank Hemingway was fined $5 and George Humphrey $3 and costs. The fines were paid.

Last night the police cells were well filled with two drunks and three weary pilgrims. The latter were all comparatively young men who claim that they were looking for work.

C. N. R. BRIDGE ACROSS THE RIVER.

A special meeting of the City Council presided over by Ald. Wallbridge, acting Mayor, was held in the Council Chamber this afternoon. The object of the meeting was to consider the question of the C. N. R. bridge over the mouth of the river. Mr. Simmons engineer of the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners and Messrs. Greenwood and Mackenzie engineers of the C. N. R. were in attendance. Before the Council meeting the engineers and a number of the members of the Council visited the proposed site of the bridge so as to be better informed as to its locality and the city's interest in the matter.

Good Yield of Grain

Mr. J. G. Davison, of this city, who has just returned home from Saskatchewan Province, in conversation with a representative of The Intelligencer, spoke in glowing terms of that section of the country and the crops. He threshed from 220 acres of land 6,280 bushels of grain, which was an average of 28 bushels per acre. Mr. Davison stated that in some cases a larger yield per acre was the result.

St. John vs. Halifax

The Hon. William Pugsley, Minister of Railways and Canals, is a gentleman not over-scrupulous as to the means adopted to purchase constituencies.

His last act in using a civil servant to influence the electors of St. John, N.B., is not only unprecedented but an outrage upon our system of government. Civil servants have been dismissed by Liberal Governments for interfering in political affairs. This policy is not only a theory but a practice in our system of government; that civil servants shall remain neutral; but Mr. Pugsley takes one of them to St. John for the purpose of influencing the electors of that city, by telling them what the Government intends doing for them. He not only did this, but went to the length of telling them, at the expense of Halifax and other ports, that there were in his opinion but TWO "POSSIBLE PORTS" in Canada, Montreal and St. John.

Mr. Caste, it must be borne in mind, is the chief engineer of Mr. Pugsley's department—of public works; and that a couple of years ago Mr. Coste prepared plans for the CREATION of a harbor at St. John that would cost the people of Canada from $10,000,000 to $30,000,000; and at a banquet recently tendered to Mr. Hays by the St. John Board of Trade Mr. Coste told the entertainers, when called upon to speak, that

He had come here, on the invitation of the Minister of Public Works, to explain the plan for Courtenay Bay development. Unlike his friend, Mr. Hays, HE could only see TWO possible ports in Canada. ONE was Montreal and THE OTHER, the natural winter port of Canada, ST. JOHN. (Prolonged applause.)

Is it any wonder that this statement was received with "prolonged applause?"

The most important feature in this statement is that Mr. Coste stated that he was present "on the INVITATION of the Minister of Public Works" to explain to them what the Government intended to do for St. John, and no doubt to intimate to those present that St. John was the only POSSIBLE MARITIME port in CANADA. True, he mentioned Montreal, but that is an inland port, hence the only inference to be drawn from his declaration is that the Government looks upon St. John as the ONLY "natural port in Canada." Halifax must, therefore, until the Courtenay Bay crew are turned out of office, take a back seat and submit to a little more of the Pugsley insolent snubbing.

For Falling Hair.

YOU RUN NO RISK WHEN YOU USE THIS REMEDY.

Will Take Action Against Hotel To Which Cecilie Michaud Was Carried

Dominion Alliance To Bring Charges Against Thorton Villa Hotel--Will Also Make Over Fifty Over Cases For Il'egal Liquor Cases.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—The Dominion Alliance has taken definite and very-pointed action in the case of the hotel at Cote St. Paul to which the girl Cecile Michaud was lured on the evening of the 30th of August.

This announcement was made by Mr. J. H. Roberts, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, in a sermon at the West End Methodist Church on Sunday evening.

Proceedings are also being instituted against fifty-two other licensed houses for selling drink illegally. The information upon which the Alliance is acting has been supplied by an outside detective who was brought here by a committee of four independent gentlemen, and who reports would bring it from death to life. Some people might look upon the city—a modern city like Montreal—and see in it nothing but an aggregation of buildings without realizing its methods and comprehending its activities—the splendid possibilities that might be inherent in it. Christ saw the ignorance—the criminal ignorance of Jerusalem when he wept over it.

"An investigation of the condition of Montreal," said Mr. Roberts, "has convinced me that there will be an awakening one of these fine days and somebody will get hurt.

"Law-abiding citizens who are on the side of righteousness and disapprove of wrong doing and immorality, and whose fault is that they are silent when they ought to speak out, will assert themselves and say that these things that have been going on in our midst will not be tolerated.

"Why do the ninety per cent. of the people consent to all this evil that the other ten per cent. commit? Either because of ignorance or silliness.

It seems as if there were a conspiracy to keep the people in ignorance of the real state of the city." I wonder if the people really know that $5,000,000 is spent every year in Montreal in strong drink. The license holders in Montreal have over $20,000,000 invested in their trade. In order to pay dividends on that capital it is necessary to procure that $5,000,000 worth of drink. And how to be consistent?

"The drink bill for each individual in Canada was something like $11 per head per annum. Multiply that by the population of Montreal and it gave in round figures more than the amount he mentioned, and a close study of the conditions would convince any impartial person that he had understated rather than overstated the amount. Crime, poverty, insanity, lawlessness and all the other evils that were rampant, had their origin in the drinking facilities of the city.

"Take talk about Sheldon and his get-rich-quick scheme. The liquor dealers here are engaged in a far worse scheme than Sheldon. He only attacked the purses of the people, but the liquor dealer attacks and destroys the morals, the character and the souls of the people. There is a wave of lawlessness in this city that will bring a fearful retribution upon it.

"One can hardly take up a daily paper without seeing something that shocks the senses. Not long ago a woman walking over the bridge was run down and killed by an automobile driven furiously by a number of men who had been spending the Sunday drinking at a place on the south side of the river.

"A few days ago the skeleton was found of a young girl little more than a child, only thirteen years of age, who was lured to a hotel by a bartender and another man, who was engaged in the hotel business, for immoral purposes. She and another girl of fourteen were taken to a place in an automobile and afterwards the dispatch from human sight and nothing more was known of her until her corpse was found in a ghastly state.

"The city is seriously menaced by a horrible wave of drinking and immorality. Wherever you find crime and lawlessness rampant in a city you will find that drink is at the root of the social disorder."

The city had far more to fear from the enemies within itself than from the competition of other cities, Toronto, Boston or New York, continued the speaker. Sir Henry Vivian, an English member of Parliament, who was here the other day, speaking of the slums that existed in Montreal, described some of them as the vilest he had ever seen. If they put an end to the drink traffic there would be no slums. Something like 1,200 places exist for the sale of intoxicating liquor here and those who kept them were nothing but human parasites—only human parasites, living upon others and producing nothing themselves. If the traffic were banished to-morrow the trade would never be missed.

Mr. Roberts severely criticized the morality squad for its inefficiency and failure to suppress gambling, and while giving credit to the present administration for its activity in street cleaning, denounced it for its laxity in other respects.

Be On Your Guard Against Imitations Of "PROGRESSO" Overcoats

The successful article is always imitated.

"PROGRESSO" is the most successful creation in Overcoats ever introduced into Canada.

Its distinctive features are so unique and valuable that they have been patented.

This, however, does not prevent others from making extravagant, fly-by-night imitations—nor in giving ordinary overcoats names sounding something like "PROGRESSO".

Sensible men know that there is no economy in buying these imitations when the genuine "PROGRESSO" OVERCOATS can be obtained at reasonable prices.

This trademark is in the genuine.- It means value, satisfaction, money's worth. Look for it.

Tried to Assassinate Empress.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 2.—Major C. C. De Rudio, who in the early stirties attempted to assassinate Empress Eugenie by lurking a bomb under her carriage, is dying at his home in this city. He is 78 years old.

Major De Rudio was sentenced to be guillotined for his attempt to assassinate the empress, Queen Victoria interceded in his behalf, at the request of his English wife, and the punishment was reduced to exile. He came to the United States, and participated in the civil war.

Postoffice Robbery.

Regina, Nov. 2.—News has just leaked out of a robbery committed at Pilot, Butte, on Saturday last, when the postoffice safe at that place was broken open and some $500 stolen. While no arrests have as yet been made, it is believed that the robbery was committed by local men well acquainted with the premises.

A MODERN MIRACLE

FACTS SHOWS HOW ZAM-BUK CURES ARE PERMANENT

1. He had Eczema for 25 years.
2. His hands were so bad he had to wear gloves day and night.
3. Doctors said he could never be cured.
4. For 25 years he tried for cure in vain.
5. Then he tried ZAM-BUK.
6. ZAM-BUK cured him.
7. TO-DAY, three years after his cure, he says: "I AM STILL CURED—there has been no return."

Mr. T. M. Marsh of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, has had this wonderful experience of Zam-Buk. Mr. Marsh has lived in Montreal for over 30 years, many of them at his present address. He is well known and is willing to satisfy any enquirer as to the genuineness of his cure. He suffered 25 years from eczema in the hands and had to wear gloves day and night, the itching was so terrible when the air got to the sores. Doctors said there was no cure. Three years ago Zam-Buk cured him. Interviewed a few weeks ago he said:—

"From the day I was cured by Zam-Buk to the present moment I have had no trace of the eczema and feel sure it will never return. When I think of the marvellous cure Zam-Buk worked in my case I am more and more impressed by the value of this great household balm. I had letters of enquiry from all over Canada, and am glad to personally corroborate the published facts of my cure."

It is by working cures like this that Zam-Buk has won for itself a world-wide reputation. Unequalled for ulcers, abscesses, blood poisons, bad legs, piles, scalp troubles, ringworm, sciatica, skin diseases, bites, burns, cuts, etc. All druggists and stores at 50c box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

LAWYER CAUSES DELAY.

Crippen's Appeal Is Postponed Now Till Nov. 5

London, Nov. 2.—Upon application of his counsel yesterday, the hearing yesterday of the Criminal Court of Appeals of the appeal of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, was postponed on behalf of counsel for the murder of his actress wife, Belle Elmore, was postponed to November 5.

J. A. Tobin, K.C., who defended Dr. Crippen, returned his brief, so it will be necessary to instruct another lawyer to conduct the case for the applicant.

Justice Darling said: "It is very unusual to return a brief and be civil enough to say nothing, and then appearing for a man convicted after a month's trial. Appeals of persons convicted on a capital charge should not be postponed. Such postponements lead to evils in the administration of justice and are sometimes procured designedly."

Justice Darling refused Dr. Crippen leave to be present at the hearing of his appeal, but on behalf of Dr. Crippen, his appealed against the refusal. The appeal will be heard on Saturday, at 10:30 o'clock.

U. S. Needs Yearly Airships.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Yearly aeroplanes at least are needed by the United States Government, Secretary Dickinson says, Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer of the Army, in his annual report made public last night.

They should represent advances of instruction for regular troops and organized militia. Twenty aeroplanes would provide but two for each camp of instruction. To operate this number would require at least twenty-four specially trained officers as pilots. In his opinion, the United States can carry at least one aeroplane, which, experience of the Army has shown, both training and actual practice before the machine is efficient and the aviator is attained."

Gen. Allen deprecates the fact that, although the United States was the first nation to recognize the aeroplane officially for military purposes, the Government has not kept pace with the progress of the aeroplane and dirigible aeronautics. The aero equipment of the United States Army at present is one small practice dirigible balloon, one-Wright aeroplane, and three small captive balloons, the report says.

Another Arrest.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—One more arrest has been made in the Montreal-Longueuil case. This time it is a girl who has been taken into custody. She is a sister of the first arrested girl, and it is believed will be able to swear that she saw Ouellette lying on a sofa in the Bellevean Hotel on the night she disappeared.

It has been ascertained that two girls were missing at the time that Cecile Michaud disappeared, and both were evidently seen in Bonaventure Station district about Sept. 1. Detectives are now trying to find out the exact address of the second girl. She is believed to be somewhere on Lavan Street, and it is also believed that the second girl knows something about the fate of the first.

It is even thought possible that it was the second girl who was killed and that Cecile Michaud is still hidden somewhere.

Yesterday morning the Westmount City Council offered a reward of $250 for information which would lead to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who caused the death of Cecile Michaud.

A Thousand More.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Killed 3,693, injured 62,274; this is the appalling record for the railroads in the United States during the year ended June 30 just announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday. It is an increase of 1,041 in the number killed and 18,404 in the number injured over the previous year's figures.

There were 5,861 collisions, killing and injuring 1,150 and damaging railroad property $4,021,279. In the year there were 2,451 derailments, 340 persons were killed and 4,894 injured. During the last three months of the year the total killed or injured was 20,000.

Pretty Pickle.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 2.—When Mrs. Louis Voelkel sent her son to a grocery store yesterday to get vinegar to make pickles, he brought back quite a line indeed. Mrs. Voelkel poured the grocery over the pickles on a hot stove. Flames filled the kitchen, and the house caught fire. She saved the pickle pot, ran out of doors with it and threw the contents into the next yard, setting the house next door afire.

Firemen turned water on the two houses, the pickle pot and Mrs. Voelkel, who is uninjured.

Winnipeg Building Boom.

Winnipeg, Nov. 2.—Building permits here for ten months reflect activity in constructive work which has been the feature of the whole season. The total is $13,642,250, representing 3,051 buildings, as compared with $8,993,640, representing 2,722 buildings for the same period last year. In permits for October represented 320 buildings, valued at $956,170, as compared with 255 buildings, valued at $531,250, in the same month last year.

A Veteran Navigator Passes.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—Capt. H. W. Shepherd, who had seen more years of service afloat on the inland waters of Canada than any other navigator, died at his residence in this city on Monday, aged 86. For many years Capt. Shepherd was master of the Ottawa River Navigation Co.

Killed Family and Suicided.

Jacksonville, Ga., Nov. 2.—Joseph Wallace, a well-to-do farmer of this place, shot and killed his wife and his three children, and then ended his Heyerdahl boy, drowned dandy and ex-away from home and then turned the revolver on himself.

Alienated Wife's Affections.

Walkerton, Nov. 2.—A suit for alienation of his wife's affections brought by Wm. Macdonald, a farmer near Hanover, against Malcolm Macdonald, a neighbor, was settled out of court by a payment of $1,000 damages.

Did Building Collapse?

Winnipeg, Nov. 2.—Fire gutted the building of Alex. MacDonald, wholesale grocery, on Market Street. The loss is put at a quarter of a million with insurance of $200,000.

The firm denies that collapse of the building started the fire, but claims that the fire started in the upper. It is stated, however, that building Inspector Rogers examined the warehouse about a week ago, and that he made a special report as a result.

Alleged Murderer Escapes.

Winnipeg, Nov. 2.—An Italian named G. Vestie is wanted by the provincial police in connection with the murder of the city car plows at Fort Rouge, Du Bois Monday. One of the laborers was killed by knife wounds during a quarrel, and Vestie is alleged to have wielded the weapon. He escaped in the direction of Winnipeg, and the chances for his being captured are not bright. The name of his victim has not been revealed.

New Socialist Paper.

London, Eng., Nov. 2.—Keir Hardie has planned to start a new Socialist evening newspaper in London.

"I am going to make a general election before the first of May I shall make a big effort to bring out the paper before that time," he says.

Four Miners Blown to Pieces.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 2.—Four miners were instantly killed and their bodies blown into shreds by an explosion yesterday in the Leonard mine, one of the properties of the Boston & Montana Co.—All of the victims were Finns.

Jardines to Be Remanded.

Goderich, Nov. 2.—When Edward and Thomas Jardine come before Magistrate Butler today in connection with the murder of Elizabeth Anderson, they will be remanded until Nov. 8.

Fatal Hunting Accident.

Kemptville, Nov. 2.—Pringle Smith, a young farmer of South Gower Township, was accidentally shot by R. L. Beaumont, plumber, of Ottawa, while out hunting and instantly killed.

Oshawa Inaugurates Y.M.C.A.

Oshawa, Nov. 2—(Special)—The new Y.M.C.A. was dedicated last night at a meeting held in the Simcoe street Methodist Church, which was attended by about 1,200 people. Rev. R. McMechin, president of the association, occupied the chair.

The chief speaker was Ven. Archdeacon Cody of Toronto, who, in an inspiring address, spoke on the history of the Y.M.C.A. movement, and the world-wide vision and world work of the institution. In his theme he wove the words from the dedication of the biography of Sir George Williams, founder of the Y.M.C.A., "A whole Christ, for my salvation; a whole Bible for my inspiration; a whole world for my parish."

The word Christian, said the archdeacon, implied something more than merely human, than merely national. It had a world-wide outlook. He also spoke of the great opportunities which lay before Canada, lying as it does in the central position between two great continents, Asia and Europe, opportunities of commerce and mediation between the nations on the great race questions.

Revolting Cruelty.

London, Ont., Nov. 2.—A week ago James Bates was arrested charged with neglecting to support his wife and child. The wife told one of the most revolting cases of cruelty and neglect ever heard. She said the husband did not feed her or her babe. When she called for hunger, he shoved his finger down its throat to prevent its yells being heard. Through neglect the child took sick and died. Magistrate Lee sentenced the husband to six months in jail, and, when passing sentence, he made the threat that if the child died he would be indicted for manslaughter. The magistrate was not aware of the fact that the child was then dead.

Berlin, Nov. 2.—The report is current here that the Foreign Office has sent an ultimatum to Great Britain demanding the immediate withdrawal of British troops which were landed Monday in Persia.

London, Nov. 2.—The British Foreign Office has received no ultimatum from Germany on the Persian situation and it was officially stated there yesterday that none was received, for if British marines had been landed at Lingah, they were there to protect foreigners and for no other purpose.

CAPTAIN KIDD IN CANADA.

Famous Pirate Is Believed to Have Planted His Gold In Nova Scotia.

According to Arthur Hawkes, there is a pot of gold hidden in Nova Scotia —and it isn't at the end of the rainbow. Mr. Hawkes, of August, Canada (formerly Canada-West), he tells of a ramble "With Captain Kidd in Arcady," and of the treasure the old buccaneer hid in the Oak Island Money Pit.

"The whole Atlantic Coast," says Mr. Hawkes, "from Newfoundland north to Nova Scotia, is honeycombed with legends of treasure buried by Kidd after in the slashing days of the Spanish Main, and Mahone Bay, almost within hailing distance of the Hackmatack Inn at Chester, has one of the most imposing of these legends in the Oak Island Money Pit. Although the staid citizens of Nova Scotia never, in the dark of the moon, trotted around a hole in the ground saying charms and wearing their clothes inside out, as the fathers of Rhode Island and Massachusetts did around the Darby Ring, joint stock companies have spent about a million dollars in trying to keep the Pit clear enough of water to permit them to unload its depths. But they could neither bail out nor dam out the waters of the Atlantic and there treasure lies, as safely guarded as that in the Rich Rock at Lynn, or the cache somewhere above the Long Island coast, for the old Captain is supposed to guard the Oak Island gold o' night, carrying his head under his arm for coolness, for as Nova Scotia knows Captain Kidd is as rich a Jew as was in the days when his ballad was new:

> My name was Captain Kidd,
> As I sailed, as I sailed;
> My name was Captain Kidd,
> As I sailed.
> I had heavy bars of gold,
> And dollars manifold;
> And riches uncontrolled,
> As I sailed.

"It is a dreadful and fascinating pleasure to go sweethearting at dusk along the woodland paths, with the possible vision of his gritty spectre behind every bush."

Mrs. Jersey's Dainty Breakfast.

This is a cow story, and it is true at least if the differential accounts of a bunch of town campers are reliable. At a late hour one morning, after noon when the boys were all away fishing, Mrs. Jersey was alone in a sitting, and finding no one at camp to breakfast with she decided to make the best of her disappointment all the same. On entering the huge tent she was confronted with huge bowls and a string of oats, all so topsy-turvy that the old cow could not help eating them but the smile soon ended and a mother's grandeur took its place when she saw a large dry goods box full of dirty clothes. Straight away she started to clean up. She was a hard job, and the skin on her tongue was very sore before the last scrap of them be shine. She then walked over the cots until satisfied that they were well aired and aired. Being quite fatigued from refreshment, and on finding a long green bottle emptied a gallon of gasoline into her dietary system; then she clean up on four hunks of bread, and her sore tongue paining her considerably, she breakfast on the four pounds of butter.

Feeling very much refreshed her bovine highness took on the same old grazzy look and smiled complete satisfaction at the work accomplished. But a good housewife, as thinks she herself, so Mrs. Jersey on supping an extremely long bathing suit pulled it on and went in for a bath. On returning she ate three cakes of soap, a box of cold salve and a dish cloth. The dishcloth did not at all agree with the pure food regulations of her creamery and she laid down on one of the cots and went to sleep off the effect. Here the boys say they found her.—Leamington News.

Winnipeg Leads.

The figures of general reports at Winnipeg show that that city is now the largest wheat market on the American continent, displacing Minneapolis, which has held the leadership for a long time. For the crop year, ending recently, receipts were 88,269,230 bushels. Figures for the same period at Minneapolis are not available, but for the calendar year ending December 31 last receipts were 81,110,310 bushels. During the past few months there has been a falling off in receipts at Minneapolis, while deliveries at Winnipeg have continued to increase. Buffalo and Duluth still rank high in the list, but old time grain centres like Chicago, Kansas City and Milwaukee are dropping down. In oats Winnipeg is easily the largest market outside of Chicago. Receipts were 30,838,900 bushels. New York came next with 22,717,562.

To Caravan Through Canada.

Miss Ida Gordon-Stables, of London, England, daughter of the late Dr. Wm. Gordon-Stables, the favorite author of boys' books, has been spending a few days in Toronto on her way to the western coast. The late Dr. Gordon-Stables spent much of his time caravaning, and the desire and love for the open life is still in his daughter. It is with the intention of planning such a trip through Canada that she has crossed the Atlantic. Like her father, this young lady, who prefers "roughing it" to keeping up her large social connection in London, has also more than ordinary talents in the literary line. This is her first visit to Canada, and she intends coming with her caravan next year, and will devote her leisure time to the writing of articles on "Caravaning in Canada."

Women at Bitter Creek.

New York women are to be found in almost every business and profession, it is not surprising to learn that members of the fair sex will risk perils in the search for gold. It is reported that several women rushed to Bitter Creek, near Stewart City, British Columbia, in the hope of being able to peg out the limit of 1,500 square feet for claims.

RATIONS FOR THE CALF.

Feeding the Youngsters Too Early May Prove Injurious.

It is well to leave the calf by itself for at least twelve hours and, in case the calf has run with its mother for several days, possibly twenty-four hours. Attempts to feed the calf earlier than this usually do the calf no good and may injure the feeder's temper. Such is the opinion of an authority on dairy matters. If the calf's muzzle is held in the milk and its mouth pried open once so that it tastes the milk it will drink without the feeder being obliged to place his hand in the milk and allow the calf to suck his finger.

The calf is unable to handle hay or grain until it is a week or ten days old. During this period it is not wise to try to feed skimmilk. At first the whole milk should be fed three times a day—four pounds in the morning, four pounds at noon and four pounds at night—at blood temperature. In a week or ten days the new calf can safely be fed twice daily. During this time the allowance of whole milk can be gradually increased to about twenty pounds. This amount depends somewhat on its ability to handle increased quantities.

The stomach of the young calf is very delicate, and all changes should be made gradually. When about two weeks the calf, if a strong, vigorous one, can be gradually changed to skimmilk. During the first day decrease the amount of whole milk one pound and add one pound of skimmilk, and so on each day until the change is complete. Previous to this the calf should have a little grain (corn or Kaffir corn meal or a little mixture of both placed in its mouth immediately after drinking its milk. In this way it gets a taste of the grain and will soon go to the feed boxes and eat with a relish.

After the change to skimmilk is completed the amount may be gradually increased as fast as the calf is able to consume it without scouring. Care must be taken not to increase too rapidly. The calf is a greedy animal and will appear more hungry after drinking its milk than before, and if given too much it will soon be on the sick list. The milk fed should be weighed or measured at each feeding. Our experience has been that a calf three to five weeks of age can be fed from ten to twelve pounds daily, from seven to eight weeks old fourteen to sixteen pounds, and when three to five months of age can be fed from twenty to twenty-four pounds of milk. The milk should always be fed warm and sweet.

FOR CHURNING RESULTS.

Close Attention Always Necessary to Realize the Best.

There can be no definite rule laid down as to the temperature at which the cream should be churned, as different conditions require different temperatures. The fat is in the form of microscopic globules, and they must have a certain degree of softness if they are to unite.

When the cream enters the churn that is properly ripened and contains 26 to 30 per cent fat the temperature should be such that the cream will churn in thirty to forty-five minutes. This will give an exhaustive churning and produce the best butter in a condition in which it can be easily handled without injuring the texture.

Before putting the cream in the churn the churn should be thoroughly scalded and as thoroughly chilled with cold water. The advantage of this is that it will freshen the churn and the cream is the more apt to churn. The cream and butter will not stick to it. The cold temperature of the churning room should be as nearly as possible the same as the churning temperature. If it is warm the cream will warm up rapidly and the butter will likely be soft and will require more washing to remove the buttermilk.

It is useless to lower the cream rapidly to the churning point just before churning. It should be there at least two hours before churning. The reason for this is that fat is a slow conductor of the heat, and, although the cream has cooled and the thermometer reads the right temperature, the fat has not actually reached it, and the result will be the same as if churned at an actually higher degree.

THE HORSEMAN

Don't Whip or Jerk the Horse.

It is a shame to whip or jerk a shifty horse that has shied or been frightened by an unusual obstacle. Soothe him rather than try to unnerve him.

Wash For Horse Lice.

For lice on horses take half a pint of kerosene in two gallons of water and wash the horse with this twice, with an interval of two or three days between the applications.

Raising a Spirited Animal.

A spirited horse will in the end be made slow and spiritless by constant nagging, twitching of lines, peevish urging and other wearing processes that fretful drivers practice.

Excellence of Hay.

A cut of timothy hay will live and develop good hay alone, but he will thrive better upon a two-thirds ration of hay and the rest straw. A ration of oats given with these will be all the better.

Rolling Scratching Horses.

After a hard day's work in the field the horses will enjoy a few moments to roll in the yard about the straw pile. Your horses will scratch themselves more in five minutes by rolling than you can do with a currycomb in thirty minutes.

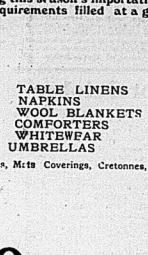
WITH THE SOOTHSAYERS.

Quaint Horoscopes of King George and Queen Mary.

The stars are favorable to a glorious reign by King George and Queen Mary. At least, that is the conclusion come to by the editor of "Modern Astrology," who has been casting the horoscopes of their Majesties. Apparently King George has one defect, however. This is his lack of diplomacy.

"He loves the straight and direct course, hates the sinuous, the secret, and can rely sufficiently upon his own judgment, but this necessary quality of diplomacy will need to be supplied by his admirable wife, whose gift in this direction is shown by the moon in conjunction with Jupiter at her birth. He will suffer from nervous headache at times, also stomachic troubles, but have no real organic disease. He loves temperance, is passionately fond of his children, and will be a good husband and father."

Queen Mary will make an ideal queen. Here is her character and future as indicated by the stars: "The Queen has a very strong and decided opinions, with a quiet, firm, and determined nature, a disposition she lets open, frank, truthful, and self-contained. She is very faithful in all her friendships, constant in her attachments, a shrewd judge of human nature, and excellent in her estimate of the character of others. The poor and all who suffer will be glad to know that Queen Mary's chief concern will be the welfare of her people. A good nurse and thoughtful observer, she is sympathetic towards the sorrows of others."



"Queen Mary will in many respects be a remarkable Queen, and the nation is fortunate in having one so capable and responsible as she and King through his great responsibilities."

Regarding the young Prince of Wales, it is predicted that his marriage will take place in his twenty-third year. "He will not marry under the most favorable auspices," says the same authority, "and will be blessed with a beautiful and good wife. The horoscope denotes exceptional ability, and the mind being very active intuitive and receptive he will absorb information readily, and pay attention to original and unconventional thought, and will have a love of music and the fine arts, also metaphysics and mysticism."

The Jack Snipe.

His body is somewhat longer than that of the woodcock, but his bill is not otherwise he is built pretty much along the same lines that the king of game birds. However, he has not given none of the rich brown colors to of the latter possessed. In the Canadian lands, his feathers being of a greyish brown color that lends well to the dead rushes over which he darts during the early autumn.

The jack snipe is a shy bird, and on other grounds than that the marsh can match him for cunning as he takes to flight. He takes to wing at the slightest provocation, darting in zigzag flashes low above the sodden bog lands. Only the cleverest of wing shots can hope to bring him down as he starts away, for the marsh-dwellers has learned that after thirty yards the danger has been passed, the bird's course will be as straight as an arrow as that of a goose. Consequently the old expert will let the bird pass per moment, and log his bird, while the novice will shoot too soon and miss.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid rising in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, sallow at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you probably suffer from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient, liver invigorating, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. A PUZZLING PINE.

Peculiar Tree That Is Something of a Mystery to Botanists.

Upper California is the home of a tree that has puzzled botanists. It is a pine which will grow only near the seacoast. Its growth is slow, and it does not attain to great size.

The strange thing about it is that there are, to all appearances, insurmountable difficulties in the way of the perpetuation of the species. Some specimens of it exist in Kew gardens, in London. They have been carefully examined by competent authorities, and all admit that the tree presents a problem unlike anything elsewhere met with.

This pine produces at regular intervals the usual cones containing seeds; but, strange to say, the cones are so thoroughly protected that the seeds cannot be released. The cones are hard and tightly closed and have strong chemical odor.

More extraordinary still is the fact that the time after producing its almost invulnerable cones, keeps them hanging on its branches year after year. Cones through some peculiar accident the seeds would apparently remain attached to the parent tree forever. Many of the cones on the trees in Kew gardens have been there for years, as shown by the size of the branches and the formation of the bark.

It has been found that the seed vessels which this tree so powerfully retains are so well protected that it requires a sharp knife with the assistance of a heavy hammer to cut the cone into sections. No ordinary conditions of temperature can make a cone open.

The following is the only explanation yet offered that seems to have any degree of plausibility: The species may be perpetuated by fire. One who has studied the tree asserts that nothing but the intense heat of a forest fire could compel the cones to release their seeds. It has been found that under the influence of intense heat they crack open and the seeds fall out uninjured.

TURKISH RED TAPE.

Getting the Kinks Out of a Custom House Tangle.

In the far east rules and restrictions may be made to yield to influence with a latent force behind it, as instanced by this semi-comic incident found in Captain A. B. Townsend's book, "A Military Consul in Turkey." A certain highly influential foreigner at Adrianople wanted a Christmas tree and ordered one from Sofia to come by train, but when the tree, an unprecedented little fir about ten feet high, arrived at Adrianople the custom house officers stated that it was illegal to receive "plants" from abroad.

"Yaask" (it is forbidden), said the custom house.

"Yaask," echoed the sentry on duty. The foreigner said whatever was the equivalent to "rubbish" and demanded the tree.

Here was a nice quandary for the authorities. Evidently it was a most fearful thing to receive a tree from abroad, and yet the consignee was capable of getting some one into very serious trouble if he did not get his tree, and he said he must have it within forty-eight hours.

Some one at the custom house soared above the difficulty. The tree was sent on to Stamboul on the Orient express, an eight hours' journey. It came back to Adrianople by the next train, and the person for whom it was intended received a notice that "a tree from Constantinople" had arrived for him and would at once be handed over to his messenger.

So the wonderful little Bulgarian tree had become a Turkish one, brought from Constantinople, and by that means it satisfied officialdom and served its purpose in the end.

The significance is apparent. Dr. Ilis ey says in reference to the European statistics: "It was shown that eyes with hyperopic refraction greatly outnumbered the emmetropic and myopic eyes, particularly during childhood that the emmetropic eye was comparatively rare, but that the state of refraction most nearly approaching this ideal condition retained an almost uniform percentage throughout school life; that myopia, extremely rare or entirely absent before the beginning of the education process was found to advance steadily in percentage with the progress of the pupils in the schools, while the percentage of hyperopia diminished in about the same degree."

Interments.

Mrs. Ralph Pelsh-buck, nee had been employed at the Lehigh Cement Works, died last evening at the family residence on the Dome of death. Deceased was 28 years of age and had been in this city for some time. She with family in Austria survives. This afternoon the remains were interred in the Belleville cemetery. Services were held at Tickell & Son's undertaking establishment, being conducted by the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, rector of Christ Church.

Land of Windmills.

The great western country is Argentina—plenty of water from 10 to 300 feet underground throughout the vast level, unbroken plain, a distance to seen as one-third of the whole United States, but all these our prairie lands, and wind blowing across the eyes stretches all the year around. The grazing lands are dotted with windmills, and Argentina keeps on importing them, chiefly from Yankeeland, at the rate of more than a thousand a month.

A Comma.

The controversy in England as to the placing of the Lord's Prayer seems to be raising a good deal more dust than is necessary. There is no diminishing the value of any thing that is done in earth as it is in heaven" without a comma. To insert one after "Our Father" and "which art on earth" seems quite unnecessary. It also has the unfortunate effect of spoiling the rhythm of the magnificent prayer.—London Globe.

Smoking Cliffs.

A portion of the cliff between Lyn Regis and Charmouth, England, has the appearance of being on fire. A thin, vaporous smoke rises from the ground and there is a strong smell of sulphur. If a hole a few inches deep is made the clay is too hot for the hand to be held there. The heat and smoke are said to be caused by the decomposition of iron pyrites in the soil.

Her Protection.

"Why don't you marry, Mary?" asked her, apropos of the marriage of her friend.

"I can't," she answered, "without committing bigamy. I haven't my divorce yet, you know. It's probably a good thing, a great protection. I might have married some good for nothing again if I had had it. I am so unfortunate in my selections."

"True," he said. "You might have married me."

Works Like a Charm.

Hendon—Wonder how it is that the Juggleons get along so harmoniously. They never have any quarrels, apparently. Barker—The reason is simple enough. Juggleous always lets Mrs. Juggleous have the last word, and she never tries to prevent him from having his own way.—Boston Transcript.

The Pumpkin tea held at St Agnes School on Monday evening was a great success and was fully enjoyed by the pupils and their friends.

The Only Thing They Ever Did.

John Bright's powers of sarcasm were almost unrivaled. Some of his most pungent utterances were against members of the nobility. When boasts had been made of the antiquity of a prominent family, that their ancestors came over with the Conqueror, his reply was prompt. "I never heard that they did anything else."

Red Moon Is Coming

On the evening of the 10th of this month the strange phenomenon will be witnessed of a red moon.

This, at any rate, is the assertion of Mr. A. O. Granger, a Montreal amateur astronomer.

The reason for this change of coloring is that the moon will be so nearly in line with the centre of the earth and the sun that it will pass into the great shadow of the earth. Instead of entirely disappearing in the shadow, as in an ordinary eclipse, the moon will turn reddish or copper-colored. This will be the result of the refraction or bending of a portion of the sun's rays through the atmosphere of the earth, in the same manner as any article struck into water appears to bend inwards.

On the 10th, in the evening, the rays of the sun, passing through the earth's atmosphere, will be refracted enough to strike the moon, and give it a reddish color.

Boston, Mass. October 31.—A bad spill late on the opening day of the six-day bicycle race at the Boston Arena reduced the twelve teams to ten, and Jake Lawson, of Salt Lake City, Utah, will be laid up for some time by a broken collarbone.

At the end of the seventh hour, nine of the teams had covered 185 miles and two laps, while a new team, Hill ten and Walker, was one lap behind. As a result of the spill, in which eight of the teams were mixed up, N. M. Anderson of Denmark, partner of Floyd Krebs, was so injured that he withdrew. Krebs was unable to get another partner. Fred West, of San Francisco, of the West-Millen team, was also obliged to retire, and Lawson had his collarbone broken.

Gordon Walker, of Australia, who had been paired with Lawson, and Worth Millen, of Davenport, Iowa, who was West's partner, made up a new team, and went into the race with a handicap—of one lap against the field, which had not been made up by the seventh hour at 8 o'clock to-night

THERING.

Utica, N. Y. October 31.—Con O'Kelly, who has aspirations to meet Jack Johnson, was outgeneralled by Hank Griffin, of California, here to-night in a ten-round go. Griffin knocked O'Kelly down in the third round and opened a deep gash over his right eye a moment later with a savage jab. Griff th proved the better of the two, but O'Kelly's extra weight enabled him to stay until the finish.

THE RING

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 1.—Sailor Lagrave woke up this morning to find himself famous. This, because at Dreamland last night, he held the world famous "Battling" Nelson to a draw after fifteen rounds of tumultuous fighting. The affair was a whirl of fists from the beginning to end, and the pace held on with lightning. In some of the round the thing resembled an altercation between a couple of drunken men. There were differences of opinion as to the merits of the decision rendered by Referee Ed. Smith but all things considered, it was a fair verdict. The fight was devoid of knockdowns and for that matter it did not even have a staggering punch.

Nelson will have to do a little more ring work before judgment is passed on his chances of coming back. He showed that he has the knockout punch, that he is the "Durable Dane" of old, so far as assimilating punishment is concerned. He held before rapidly than he did in former fights and it looked at times as if he was unnecessarily wild in his delivery, but Lagrave is a clever fellow and had the bulge on the Battler in weight.

SWIMMING

Miss Mabel Lawson a Los Angeles girl, considered one of the most remarkable feat of swimming from the southern end of Deadman's Island at San Pedro to the bathhouse in that city, it is a feat no man or woman can boast to be able to before and cheering thousands greeted the victorious girl from the Long Beach pier.

They shouted, waved hats and parasols and abandoned themselves to an ovation that awoke all the echoes. For more than an hour they had stood in the grilling sun on the pier, having come early to get good seats, expecting Long before they could make out the girl swimmer as a bobbing speck in the tumbling waters they had sighted the boat that accompanied her and the interest grew intense. At last she was near enough for them to catch a flash of her arm as it shot forward in the big overhand Australian stroke. It was then the first cheer burst forth and was taken up and continued as each sturdy stroke brought her past their vast audience to the breaker line.

One after another she fell to rid the riding the crest of a wave about to break and atop of it was carried clear to the shore and landed easily as if stepping from an escalator. Then the girl went mad in its worship of this sea heroine.

From Deadman's Island to the Long Beach bathhouse is seven miles and she had covered the distance in four hours and ten minutes and after half an hour lost in battle with the tide rip and more minutes wasted when she was scared by a giant jewfish that swam alongside to see what manner of rival she was.

In reality she did much more than swim the seven miles, for the big bank held her in most of the way and she had to swim within zones of the surf to prevent getting lost and

Your Old Enemy Rheumatism

CURE YOURSELF RIGHT NOW WITH "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

There is just one thing that causes Rheumatism—Uric Acid in the blood. Uric Acid is formed when either the Liver, Kidneys or Skin fail to rid the system of waste matter. This waste, or Urea, remains in the body unchanged into uric acid. It is this uric acid that poisons the blood, inflames the nerves, and causes Rheumatism, Sciatica and Lumbago.

Liniments and ordinary rheumatic remedies won't cure Rheumatism, as none of such preparations go to the very root of the trouble—the blood, and the vital organs. "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest cure for rheumatism in the world. And we will tell you why.

"Fruit-a-tives", by its action on the bowels, kidneys and skin, prevents the formation of an excess of uric acid. "Fruit-a-tives" cause the bowels, kidneys and skin to throw off the waste of the body, and thus keeps the blood absolutely pure.

If you have suffered with Rheumatism, and dread a return with the coming of cold weather, start in at once to take "Fruit-a-tives" and thus Get your old enemy. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Tomatoes Should be Skinned.

Before being used for salad. To do this easily place the fruit in a basin and pour boiling water on them.

When Cutting New Bread.

Heat your knife by dipping it into a jug of hot water. In this way you may cut the thinnest bread and butter from a new loaf quite easily.

Toast.

Should always be thin and crisp. Cut the slices from a stale tin loaf and dry in the oven before toasting.

A Damp Room or Cupboard.

May be dried by keeping in it a tin containing quicklime. The lime will absorb the damp and keep the air dry and pure. It must be frequently renewed as it loses its power.

A Porcelain Sink.

Can be quickly cleaned with paraffin. Rub the paraffin lightly into the paraffin and rub the sink till all stains are removed then thoroughly wash it with soap and sodawater.

Brushes and Brooms

Would do their work better and last longer if washed occasionally in soapy water, or, better still, lukewarm water and ammonia. Four tablespoonfuls of household ammonia to two quarts of water is a good mixture. Let the bristles or straws stand in this for just a few minutes, then rinse them thoroughly, and drain dry in a cool place

Knives

Should never be put into water, as it injures the handles. The blades may be placed upright in a mug of hot sodawater, for in this way the grit, sand, etc., will fall away. Should the handles come off, fix them again thus: Take powdered resin, and mix it with a small quantity of powdered chalk whiting or slaked lime. Fill the hole with the mixture, heat the shaft of the knife, and fold it in. When cold it will be quite fast.

When Boiling Meat or Fowls.

Add a spoonful of vinegar to the water, which helps to make the flesh tender when done.

A Murder Mystery.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Nov. 2.—The badly-decomposed body of a Chinaman washed up on the shores of Lake Ontario at the farm of Peter Landry, six miles west of the Niagara River, uncovered a murder mystery which is just now taxing the wits of every detective in this section of New York state.

That the man was first murdered and his body then thrown into the water is a certainty, proven by the post-mortem examination. The throat was terribly swollen and the tongue protruded from the mouth. When an effort was made to force it back between the teeth, blood oozed forth. This lead the coroner to believe that the man had been strangled. The left eye had been gouged out and there was a bad discoloration on that side of the face. A cord was found in the small cord and lay on the face when the body was found. There are also bruises on the right arm and thigh, which the physicians and coroner declared were ante-mortem marks of violence.

Roadway Across Continent.

Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—A beginning has been made to establish Manitoba's section of the proposed western highway, but, pending the final determination of the project, little action has been taken.

The idea is to construct a first-class roadway from the great Lakes to the Pacific coast, and it is understood here that the scheme is already under way in Alberta and British Columbia. Automobile enthusiasts are of course deeply interested, as it is proposed to call a conference of various public bodies in the near future along.

Burglary In Belleville.

Belleville, Nov. 2.—A daring burglary occurred in this city on Tuesday midnight Monday when Jonas Bargrowder and general storekeeper, was robbed of a large amount of jewelry. "She goods were in a bag and were thrown into a gangway by the party who was carrying them. The discovery, by the police, led to gave his name as Thomas Geazier, Toronto.

Lawyer Struck the Mayor.

Walkerton, Nov. 2.—During the hearing yesterday of a perjury case arising out of a liquor selling prosecution, Mayor Mickle made a remark to the effect that there was probably "something in it," for J. R. Mackenzie, K.C., Dominion lawyer appearing in the case. Mr. Mackenzie, who is elderly, promptly resented the remark in the face, but further hostilities were prevented.

Canadian Pacific Steamer Returning.

Vancouver, Nov. 2.—The Canadian Pacific steamer Empress of Japan, which left here on October 15 for Yokohama, will return to this port on November 5, instead of November 4, as originally announced. The change in the sailing date is made necessary by the fact that the Empress of Japan will be required to take the place of the Empress of China, which will be withdrawn from the Pacific service for a short time.

Navy Back in Asia.

Insurance Merger.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—Negotiations for the absorption of the Royal Victoria Life Insurance Co. by the Sun Life Assurance Co. are far advanced, and it is expected that the absorption of the Royal Victoria by the larger concern will be finally effected this week.

A Youthful Delinquent.

Grand Forks, N.D., Nov. 2.—Probably the oldest man ever arrested in the United States was imprisoned at the Sutten jail here, when C. M. Ziebach, aged 107 years, was arrested for selling and introducing liquor on the Indian reserve.

Worked in Lunch Hour: Caused Strike

St. John, N.B., Nov. 2.—The Hansen Paving Co. of Worcester, Mass., which has an extensive contract here at permanent street paving, has a miniature strike on its hands.

Included in the number of men who are engaged in laying brick for catch basins in the streets are two members of the Bricklayers' Union. These men, being particularly expert in that line, were engaged at $5 per day. One day this week they worked during their lunch hour in order to finish a particular piece of work. The local union fined them $20 a piece, and because the company would not enforce the payment of the fine, the strike was declared.

Cook to Wellman.

London, Nov. 2.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the discredited explorer, has sent a congratulatory message to Walter Wellman to a London newspaper. It reads:

"Acting upon your kind offer to transmit to me a message to Mr. Wellman, kindly send him my heartiest congratulations for his wonderful initial success. If he crosses the Atlantic by air he will have gained an object of greater use to mankind than the conquest of the pole."

(Signed) "F. A. Cook."

Hung Himself In Barn.

Essex, Ont., Nov. 2.—When Mrs. Henry Mills, Malden, living near here arose yesterday morning and saw her husband was not in the house, she went to the barn and found him hanging by a trip rope from a beam.

A New Record.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—The Canadian Northern Railway yesterday announced that the Royal Edward, received at Point Edward at 5.20 Monday night, has made a record-breaking run, for Fort Bristol at 6 p.m. last Thursday and left the air at the Quebec dock early to-day, barring accidents. The Royal Edward thus beat her own previous record by four hours, while it shatters the records of all competitors by at least eight hours.

Bribed to Fix Jury.

New York, Nov. 2.—Charged with soliciting and agreeing to pay $1,000 to "hang" the jury trying Edward T. Sourbeer, ex-police lieutenant, for the alleged murder of Miss Grace Nough by striking her with his automobile, George W. Beadle, an architect, selected as juror No. 7, was arrested yesterday. A warrant for the arrest of Beadle was remanded to the Tombs for examination to-day.

Child Burned In Barn Fire.

Cornwall, Nov. 2.—Richard Justus' barn, situated in Chesterfield, with all the season's crop, 30 pigs and several head of horses, were destroyed by fire. A seven-year-old child was burned to death. The little fellow was not missed till after the fire. Loss is about $6,000

Loss of $225,000.

Winnipeg, Nov. 2.—Insurance on the Winnipeg Industry Co. warehouse and contents, which burned Monday, totals $225,000, and of this the largest part by far is on the stock. It is estimated that the loss is $26,000, with insurance of 90 per cent.

King of Missabotti.

Toby, an old aged decrepit aboriginal, said to be about 120 years of age, travelled in the blacks' camp at Keewatin, Wild Rice Township, a very old man. To the oldest inhabitants of the Rainy River district he has always been regarded as exceptionally aged. When his sisters were young, Mr. W. F. Sullivan, who died in 1904, the first white settler in the district, looked on Toby as a boy. The birthday of Toby was then worn with age, and was fully 70 or 80 years ago. He reigned for a century ago the gentleman mentioned, presented Toby with a brass plate, on which was engraved, "Toby, King of Missabotti," and he wore that plate continuously until the day of his death. At the time of the presentation the honor was much coveted among the local blacks, and hence, forth he was known as the "King of Missabotti." Local rumor weaves quite a tale of happenings above the old man.

SHOE

The Michaud Case.

Montreal, Nov. 1.—Achille Deromo, the chauffeur who drove Mr. Michaud girl, now under arrest, will appear in Police Court to-day on the charge of killing the unfortunate young woman. The evidence against him is declared to be conclusive. Deromo, it is the general opinion appears to be the scapegoat around in the net men, Perrault and Cherrier, against whom no evidence has been produced, except that they were with the chauffeur between them, yet it is quite probable that they left her early in the evening.

Chance For Heroism.

It Generally Is.

Greatly to the pride and pleasure of his father, Lord Rosebery's second son, the Hon. Neil Primrose, was elected to Parliament for a division in Cambridgeshire.

During the contest, however, reference was constantly made to Lord Rosebery's opposition to the budget, which his son supported.

On one occasion the candidate was asked whether this action on the part of his father did not somewhat "tell" against his son.

"Not at all," said Mr. Primrose, "But when one's father does not like one, it is generally below the belt."

A Strenuous Life.

A remarkable career has been that of Captain Archibald Campbell, of the Canard liner Saxonia, who has retired from the service of the company. He was born in Sydney, N.S.W., joined the Canard service as fourth officer, and commander in 1904. While in Burmah he was attached to the Irrawaddy flotilla. He holds the Brasilian captain's certificate for the Amazon, and has a master's certificate for the Indian and Australian coasts. Captain Pentecost's escapes from death have been many. Once in the lower ribs on his left side and the fracture of one of his lumbar lines, notwithstanding these experiences, the captain says he is in the prime of life, looks robust and fit for many more strenuous years.

Vol. 44 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY NOVEMBER 3, 1910. NO. 29

BOURASSA-LAURIER FIGHT IS IN DOUBT

Result in Drummond--Arthabasca Is As Yet Uncertain.

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT

Voters Are Against Naval Policy of Government But Swear By Laurier.

Victoriaville, Que., Nov. 3.—With several meetings yesterday, the Drummond-Arthabasca bye-election campaign has ended in appropriate manner. The quiet, easy-going habitants have given little sign how they intend to vote. The Liberals exhibit public confidence, but admit personal anxiety. The supporters of Mr. Gilbert, anti-marine oppositionist, loudly proclaim their hope, but privately admit that the result is dubious. Those not directly interested in one side or other, look for a Liberal victory by a reduced majority.

There has practically been but one subject of discussion during the fifteen days' campaign, the navy program. Mr. Gilbert has emphasized that he was nominated not as Conservative nor Nationalist, but as an "anti-naval oppositionist." Mr. Bernault, Government candidate, has frankly supported the whole naval policy, admitting it is a bitter pill, but that if it is refused the Conservatives would give the country a still more unpalatable dose of imperialistic medicine.

The County of Drummond-Arthabasca is a singularly hard one to estimate. It is twenty miles long by forty-five wide, and comprises thirty-five parishes. The majority of the population is French, but perhaps ten per cent. are English-speaking. The latter are expected to vote pretty solidly for the Liberal imperial policy. The result is in doubt. The Liberal organizers look for a majority of 500 in Drummond, and hope to break even in Arthabasca. The Nationalists look for a good majority in Arthabasca and hope to break even in Drummond. There are 10,000 possible votes in the riding, and at the last election 6,674 were cast, Mr. Louis Lavergne, winning by 834.

Tuesday, in a speech, Mr. Blondin, M.P. for Charlevoix, voiced very strong sentiments. "We owe nothing to Great Britain," he said. "England did not take Canada for love, or to plant the cross of religion, as the French did, but in order to plant their trading posts and make money. The only liberties we have are those we won by force, and to-day England tries to dominate its colonies as imperial Rome once did."

There was some applause at these remarks, and in reply Mr. Beland, M.P. for Beauce, turned to Mr. Blondin and said it was the first time in his career he had ever seen a member of parliament under a British flag denounce the Mother Country.

Apparently Mr. Gilbert, Nationalist candidate, is not so strongly opposed to the navy as to its imperial aspect. If it were to be a strictly Canadian navy he said on Tuesday at St. Germain, he would not have accepted the candidature, but what he objected to was that it should be the Canadian fleet part of the imperial navy in time of war. But Mr. Beland replied that a vote for Gilbert would be equal to one for Bordon and a more advanced imperial policy.

Toronto Police Anxious to Locate Relatives of Mrs. E. Maybee.

The police are anxious to locate any relatives of Mrs. E. Maybee, the aged domestic at the home of Mrs. Frazer, College street, who was found dead in her room there. Among her effects there have been found papers which point to the fact that she is Mrs. Isaac Maybee of Belleville, Ont., and lived there from 1900 to 1908. Receipts for $4 monthly rent paid to a Mrs. McGuire in that town are among the papers.—Toronto World.

Phillips-Woolley at Guelph.

Guelph, Nov. 3.—Here in the home town of Rear-Admiral Kingsmill, C. Phillips-Woolley of the Navy League, was given a hearty welcome and a sympathetic hearing, when he addressed the Guelph Canadian Club at its first meeting of the season, speaking on the Navy League and the Empire.

Up-to-Date Burglars.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 3.—Motor cycles are the latest vehicles to be used by burglars in Kentucky. A gang of them mounted on these swift-moving machines, raided six small towns in Boyle County Tuesday night and early yesterday morning, and escaped with nearly a thousand dollars in cash.

Let Off Easy.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—John Pelletier, the ecaste wardrobe keeper, arrested on Tuesday for attempting to shoot his son and the latter's wife, got off yesterday with a fine of $10 and $2 costs. The charge was reduced to one of discharging firearms in the city limits.

OWNER AND CHAUFFEUR GET SIX MONTHS EACH.

Occupant's of Car Which Killed Woman Receive Severe Sentence.

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.—Six months in jail with hard labor was the sentence passed upon Louis A. Dionne, owner, and Jean Louis Keifer, chauffeur, of the automobile which killed Miss Beatie Smith on Victoria Bridge the night of April 29th. The two men had been found guilty of manslaughter at the September session of the Court of King's Bench, and had been allowed out on bail, pending sentence.

This is the first case in the history of the criminal annals of the Dominion in which a chauffeur has been sentenced for killing a pedestrian while in charge of a car.

In imposing sentence upon the two accused, Judge St. Pierre said the matter was not to grave as people believed, but the fact which did aggravate the actual occurrence was that after the woman had been struck by the car the occupants drove away without waiting to render aid or learn what was the extent of the accident. It was impossible to believe they were unaware of the collision. Such an action on their part raised the public indignation against them.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT GANANOQUE TODAY

Fire broke out at six o'clock this morning in the dry kiln of the Ontari wheel Works at Gananoque and before the fire apparatus of the place arrived the blaze had spread to the main factory buildings and was soon beyond control. The fire ate its way into the works with great rapidity and before it was finally checked the works were practically destroyed. The fire department was summoned from Kingston, but by the time it arrived the local brigade had the blaze confined. At noon the fire had spent itself.

The loss to the Company is a heavy one, but just what the Intelligencer was unable to learn. One hundred men are thrown out.

MRS. BEAULIEU TELLS STORY ON THE STAND

Two Girls Spent the Monday Night at Her Montreal House.

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.—Claiming that she recognized Bennadette Dagenais at the inquest last week as one of two girls who engaged a room in her house on the last Monday in August and spent the night there, Mrs. Rose Beaulieu, 116 St. Andre street, has told to the detectives a tale which, if true, would throw an entirely new light on the mystery. In any event the police are looking carefully for the man whom Mrs. Beaulieu describes as passing by the name of "Jim Crow," and who, she says, came to her house while the girls in question were there. Today's evidence and the examination of various prisoners held in connection with the Michaud case failed to reveal any special news. The police seem to be baffled.

BARNETTE ONLY JUST LIBERATED

Modern Raffles Served Term For Burglary In Central.

A SAD ROMANCE

Toronto Girl Elopes With Man Who Proves To Be Burglar

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Nov. 3.—George Barnette, alias Kemp, Raffles burglar imitator, who was arrested in Baltimore with Florence Tomlinson, of this city, with whom he went through a mock marriage ceremony, was only recently released from Central Prison, where he served two years for burglarising at Woodstock.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 3.—George H. Barnette, alias Kemp, aged 25 years, 20 Christie street, and Miss Florence Tomlinson, aged 18 years, daughter of Albert T. Tomlinson, 526 Delaware avenue, both of Toronto, Canada, were arrested here last night by Headquarters' Detective Herman Pohler and detained in the local police station.

Barnette is charged with being "Raffles" in real life. When arrested he wore evening clothes, carried two pretty gold mesh masks, had a loaded revolver and $200 worth of jewelry in his possession. He was arrested when about to enter a pawn shop. He has confessed to Chief of Detectives Mulvern of committing a score of burglaries in New York, Philadelphia and other cities.

Miss Tomlinson, whose father is a car inspector of the G.T.R., was made the victim of a mock marriage, when she was taken from home by Barnette. The couple went to Niagara, where a fake ceremony was performed on Aug. 26. At headquarters last night she announced her supposed husband, and says she shall leave him.

About two months ago, while living in Newark, N.J., Miss Tomlinson shot herself accidentally through the left breast with the revolver taken from Barnette.

Police chiefs throughout the north have been notified of the capture of Barnette. He has confessed to a number of robberies.

Miss Tomlinson says that Barnette forced her to read "Raffles" to him, with stories of famous detectives. Miss Tomlinson will be held by the authorities, pending word from her parents.

EASY DIVORCE UNDER NEW PORTUGESE LAW

Government Will Decree Act To-morrow — May Be By Mutual Consent.

LISBON, Nov. 3.—A divorce law will be decreed Friday. It will grant divorce for infidelity, ten years' desertion, insanity. (It pronounced incurable after three years), lengthy imprisonment, or mutual consent.

Alimony will be payable to either party if without means, but the payment will be terminable upon the remarriage or immorality of the recipient.

Divorce by mutual consent will only be granted after two years of marriage, and will not be made absolute until the parties apply for it after a year's separation.

PROMISE NOT KEPT IS ATTENTION NOW

Time Is Up and 150 Grand Trunk Men Are Still Idle.

(Intelligencer Special.)

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.—"I think the conductors and trainmen are well satisfied with the result of the strike," said Mr. Berry, the leader, when discussing the recent Grand Trunk strike. He said the strike had cost the Federated Union some sixty thousand dollars in strike pay.

Striking conductors and trainmen from Windsor, Niagara Falls and other centres have stated that they will make it interesting for somebody if not reinstated immediately.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Although, according to the terms of settlement of the G.T.R. strike, all the men should have been returned back to their former positions, there are still, approximately, 150 conductors, trainmen and yardmen still out on the system. There is a bitter feeling existing between the Vice-Presidents Murdock and Berry, representing the Brotherhood of Trainmen and Conductors, are now in Montreal trying to fix up. Originally 2,900 men went on strike on July 15. Mr. Murdock was commissioned with last night and declared there was no doubt that the matter would be ultimately settled to the mutual satisfaction, but he strongly resented the "vindictive and retaliatory attitude of the company" in delaying to live up to the understanding. When Sir Wm. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, left Toronto, it appeared that it was by this quarter that Mr. Murdock hoped to obtain speedy redress. The Labor Minister went as a delegate to Mr. Murdock and Berry on Aug. 17, when the settlement was made, assuming that all the men were to be reinstated. This was taken by to a demurring message from the two vice-presidents, which presented a strict interpretation of the words "as soon as possible," contained in the company's agreement with the employes.

The greatest obstruction in the way of reinstating the men has come from London, it is reported. The men still out are practically all west of Toronto, viz., Stratford, St. Thomas, London, Palmerston and Windsor, and also at Allandale. There are a few not reinstated on the Central Vermont Railway.

"I am wiring every point on the line to-day," said Mr. Murdock, "to ascertain the exact conditions, and when I receive the replies I will take the matter again to the Minister of Labor, Mackenzie King, to-given us the most wise course that the matter would be taken back, and I am sure everything will be all right."

A Montreal despatch of Thursday last said Mr. King had conferred with Manager Hays and that the Grand Trunk would make an effort to reemploye all the men still out of work.

KINGSTON NURSES ARE AGITATED JUST NOW

The nurses in training in the General Hospital are very much agitated over the fact that an intermediate nurse who has spent about 16 months in the institution left today for her home, her departure having taken place under unusual circumstances, says the Kingston Whig.

The nurse, it is said, was on night duty with several intermediate nurses a few days ago, failed to immediately answer a bell rung by another patient acting at the time very busy with another patient. On complaint being made by the patient who was kept waiting but a short time, the nurse was punished, and finally returned to her duty. When the patient went home she wrote to the hospital authorities relating the case and incidentally mentioned the matter of the nurse not answering the bell. Although the nurse was punis ed before, it is said that she was again relieved of her duty and brought before the Board of Management on Monday night. It is said that a long slate of trivial charges were brought up against her some of which dated back to the time she was a probationer, and the result is that the nurse has gone home with nothing but good feeling towards the Kingston Training School. The matter has created much discussion at the General Hospital and elsewhere.

ARRESTED AT KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, Nov. 3.—Frank and Cora Bennett, husband and wife, of Gouverneur, N.Y., are under arrest here on a charge of vagrancy, and were remanded for a week by the Police Magistrate. The couple were really taken in charge because of a hold-up scheme they were alleged to be putting into effect. They will likely be deported, as they came here from Syracuse only two weeks ago.

A Delightful Hair Dressing That Makes Hair Grow

FAVORITE WITH MEN AND WOMEN THE COUNTRY OVER.

"There is a reason for the phenomenal sale of Parisian Sage in the Dominion since it was first introduced into Canada.

And the reason is plain to all: Parisian Sage does just what it is advertised to do.

Ask J. V. Doyle about it, he will tell you that he rightly guarantees it to cure dandruff, stop falling hair or itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

There is no reason whatever why any man or woman should fail to take advantage of the above generous offer.

But one thing that has made Parisian Sage so famous is its peculiar power to turn the harsh unattractive hair that many women possess into luxuriant and radiant hair in a short time. Women of refinement the country over are using it, and it never disappoints. Read this letter:

"I procured PariSian Sage and found that it was a great hair tonic and cleanser. I have used other preparations, but Parisian Sage cleaned the hair fluffy, silky, and left no trace of stickiness as some other hair tonics had." Mrs. Sarah Sunderhuff, 1003 N. Washington St., Owosso, Mich., June 22, 1909.

Sold by leading druggists everywhere, and in Belleville by J. V. Doyle for 50 cents a large bottle. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package; mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by the Canadian makers, Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

If you find Parisian Sage a good hair remedy, My brother has also used Parisian Sage and says it is fine." Yours sincerely, Julia Carlon, Huntingdon, Pa., Oct. 29, 1909.

CURRENT EVENTS.

It strikes us that the safest plan for the C. N. R. to follow is to have as few piers as possible in its proposed bridge across the Moira. It is just possible the company may save money in the long run. If property owners and merchants suffer losses through floods they will probably not hesitate to make those responsible for their losses pay for them.

Vancouver is to have the tallest building in British Columbia. It will be erected for the Vancouver World, of which L. D. Taylor is the publisher and proprietor, and will rest in the neighborhood of $500,000.

The new home for the World will be seventeen stories high, with ten stories in the main building and seven in a tower.

The new home for the World will be only be the tallest structure in the British Empire, but will hold a record as the tallest newspaper building on the Pacific coast. Structural steel has been ordered at a cost of $120,000 and the edifice will be rushed to completion as fast as possible.

Why should not Judges pay taxes upon their incomes, as well as other people? In Toronto there is a rumor that the Judges who appealed against their income assessment expect to get relief in the shape of an amendment to the Assessment Act at the next session of the Legislature, and thus in any case would not pay the taxes next year which would be levied on the assessment now being made.

Why should a woman who wears a bobble skirt and otherwise dresses in the height of fashion be called a plain d—— fool? She shouldn't be, any more than the man who encloses his neck in a two and a half inch starched collar. Modern dress, no matter what it is, is open to criticism. Perhaps a caller from another world would call all of us d—— fools, but that wouldn't make us so. It seems to us that the woman who dresses according to her means and taste, whether it is in a bobble skirt or a cotton wrapper, is a rather sensible person. At all events she is independent. The Peterboro Review is a trifle severe, to say the least.

We have a striking illustration of the amenities of public life in the battle now raging in Drummond and Arthabaska. The other day Mr. Lavergne, a Bourassaite, met Mr. McCrea, a Laurierite, in the county, and when addressing the electors Mr. Lavergne stated that he had already charged Mr. McCrea with robbing the Quebec Government of some dues on timber land, which accusation, he said, he would repeat in the house that his opponent would have him arrested, or at least agree to pay the Crown Land Department its due. Then "You are a liar!" was the retort by Mr. McCrea. "You are a thief!" replied Mr. Lavergne. These Liberals know each other, and the country is learning from themselves what they are.

BANG UP SPORT AT ARMOURIES LAST NIGHT

COMPETING FOR TROPHIES AT GOLF LINKS

At the Armories last night two indoor baseman matches were played both of which were witnesses by a goodly number of spectators. The first game was between teams representing the Fifteenth regiment and when seven innings had been played the game was called in order that the second game might be played. The score was a tie both teams securing seventeen runs. The line-up was as follows:

Dowrie, p.	Sharpe.
Knitting	Clarke, c.
Mills, 1st b.	Burridge, 1b.
Hayes, 2nd b.	Westover, 2nd b.
Cook, 3rd b.	Adams, 3rd b.
Walbridge s.s.	Freeman, s.s.
Rutherford r.f.	Wardrope, r.f.
Lynch c.f.	Ketcheson, c.f.
Elliott, l.f.	Hutchinson, l.f.

The second game was between a team representing the Regiment and a team from the Cadets. Major Harrngar was among the proud of his boys and he certainly had reason to be. To use a well worn expression the boys simply put it all over their opponents piling up in the nine innings played as runs while the regimental team had to be content with fifteen runs. The boys played well and it will take a good team to defeat them. The line up of the teams was as follows:

Cadets.	Regiment.
Mallory p.	Freeman, p.
Vandervoort c.	Hitch, c.
Wardrope 1st b.	Boyle, 1st b.
Cronk 2nd b.	Hutchinson 2nd b.
Greatrix 3rd b.	Barrett, 3rd b.
Ellis s.s.	Elliott, r.f.
Bell s.s.	Hayes, s.s.
E. Elliott, c.f.	Doolittle, c.f.
Mimms l.f.	Bishop l.f.

The score by innings will be as follows:

Cadets—4 8 2 3 0 0 0 0 0—17
Regiment—0 0 7 1 0 0 2 2 1—15

Mr. T. Barrangr umpired the first game and Mr. Walbridge the second. Both gave splendid satisfaction.

SUSPICIOUS CHARACTER LURKING ABOUT STORES

Police Last Evening Hunt for a Mysterious Stranger.

Last evening it was reported to the police that a man who appeared to be acting in a suspicious manner was about Mr. Burke's premises on George street. When an officer arrived upon the scene the man had disappeared, but it was subsequently learned that he was about a place on Victoria Avenue. The police obtained a fairly good description of the man and although they made every effort to locate him were unable to do so.

THE CHEESE BOARD.

2190 Boxes of White and 903 Boxes of Colored Boarded To-day.

At the local cheese board which was held at noon today there was boarded 2190 boxes of white and 903 boxes of colored cheese which is a large board ing for this season of the year. There was a large attendance of salesmen and buyers. Bidding commenced at 10 3-4c and closed at 10 15-16c, the highest bid made. The buyers were Messrs. Cook and Son, T. Watkins-M. Sprague, M. Bird and D. Gunn All cheese boarded were sold at 10 7-8 and 10 15-16c as against 11c and 11 1-8c last week.

At the conclusion of the Board meeting the salesmen buyers and other invited guests were entertained at a banquet at the Anglo-American Hotel, by Mr. J. Elliott, Manager of the Standard Bank here.

HABITUAL DRUNK.

Palmer Makes Plea Which Touches Alderman's Heart.

Joshua Chrysler Palmer who hails from Prince Edward County and who is 56 years of age was this morning charged before Mr. Walbridge, with habitual drunkenness of drunken ness. Joshua's plea for liberty was of such a nature that he was allowed his liberty and advised not to get drunk again. He was profuse in his thanks to the Magistrate.

DAUGHTERS OF EMPIRE ORGANIZE IN BELLEVILLE

Large and Enthusiastic Gathering In Armouries Tuesday Afternoon.

A large meeting of the ladies connected with the A.V.th Regt. met in the Armories on Tuesday afternoon and organized a Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire. Col. Stewart explained fully the many objects for which the league is formed, and all present enrolled themselves as members. The following officers were elected:—

Regent—Mrs. W. N. Ponton.
1st Vice-Regent—Mrs. L. W. March.
2nd Vice-Regent—Mrs. S. W. Vermilyea.
Secretary—Mrs. A. C. McFee.
Secretary—Miss Helen Wallbridge.
Standard Bearer—Miss Anna Ponton.

The Chapter was named "Argyll" and the motto Secundus Avelli.

Colonel Stewart congratulated the Chapter on its enthusiastic beginning, which makes for future success and usefulness assured.

In connection with the Chapter, Miss Merrill, of St. Catharines, the Hon. Secretary, will address the members on the work in the Armories on Monday next at 3 o'clock. When it is to be hoped a large attendance of the members and all those interested in the work will be present.

IMMIGRATION.

It is stated that the British and European immigration for the past three months is away ahead of the corresponding period of last year and that the total for the year will reach well up to 300,000 persons. This is a phenomenally good this year. Three years ago this autumn the immigration authorities at Winnipeg were spending at least $100 a day in giving temporary assistance to needy arrivals. Now there is practically no expenditure on this account. From now until March immigrants must have fifty dollars in their possession instead of twenty-five as in the spring and summer months. This is considered necessary at this time, when opportunities of employment are to some extent limited, if the arrivals are not to prove a charge upon the public purse.—Bradstreets.

Their Own Medicine

The fight now raging in Drummond and Arthabasca between Sir Wilfrid and his former trusted Lieutenant, Bourassa, is evidence of the truth of the old adage that "curses, like young chickens, are sure to come home to roost."

The Toronto Globe is much troubled and disgusted with what it calls the Bourassa policy, and gives an extract from a circular which it says the Bourassa campaigners are circulating among the electors, which reads as follows:

"When the volunteers shall have gone to the bottom in their old vessels of war, and when the law demands of the mother of a family—after she has sacrificed her eldest son—that she give up also her husband and her last child, I say, Mr. Laurier, if the CONSCRIPTION will respect her tears and her grief."

If these sentiments are circulated among the electors, it is but a reproduction of the tactics of the Laurier party, in the same constituency in 1900, when they frantically appealed to the electors to vote against the Conservative party on account of an appropriation of some $300,000 for the purchase of rifles, etc., with which to arm the Canadian Volunteers, and now when they ask for a ratification of $10,000,000 for the same purpose the administering of but a small dose of their own medicine is not relished. This exhibition of inconsistency is but one of many that are daily practiced by Sir Wilfrid and his slavish followers.

That the Government is alarmed is proven by the fact that the counties are inundated with stumpers. Here are the names of a few of the faithful who have looked after the interests of the Laurier candidate: Hon. L. Brodeur, Hon. Jacques Bureau, Ernest Roy, M.P.; Adelard Lanctot, M.P.; Ernest Lapointe, M.P.; Melleric Martin, M.P.; Arthur Eeremeni, M.P. Adolphe Mayrand, M. P.; Charles Gauvreau, M.P.; D. A. Lafortc, M. P.; Senator Lavergne and Senator Mitchell.

In addition to this army of political campaigners, who know well how to produce an election SUCCESSFULLY, there is Mr. Gladu, M.P. for Yamaska, who told the electors, in a speech delivered by him in the county, that the defeat of the Liberal candidate would be practically murderous. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as he would not be able to survive such a blow. This is the kind of idiotic appeals that are being made to free and intelligent electors to stave off defeat for the Government.

If this election is not carried by the Laurier candidate we misjudge the manipulating powers of those engaged in it.

LITERARY NOTES.

We are in receipt of a copy of a nicely bound and fully illustrated book entitled "The Small-Mouthed Bass," by W. J. Gordon, Professor of Mechanics in the University of Toronto, and published by The Hunter-Rose Co. The book is not strictly a record of scientific investigation, but is based upon a collection of observations by the author during the past ten summers on the habits of the small-mouthed bass. Sportsmen and anglers should secure a copy of Professor Gordon's "Small Mouthed Bass." Illustrated—retail price $1.50.

The significance of the co-operative movement among farmers in Western Canada is strikingly shown in an article by George Fisher Chipman in the November Canadian Magazine, entitled "The Voice From the Soil." According to Mr. Chipman, western farmers are now in a position practically to dictate to the Government. Another noteworthy contribution to this number is a chapter entitled "My Early Connection with London Journalism," which is taken from the Reminiscences of Goldwin Smith soon to be published. Mr. Newton, Mc-Tavish gives a sprightly account of the visit of 160 school-teachers of Manitoba to Great Britain, and Alan Cooke Mills has a fine article on the new tunnel under the Detroit River. "The Golden Nickel Plate" is another article by Harold Sands on the romantic aspects of British Columbia's mining. Other articles are well illustrated. "The Settlement in South Africa," by Lionel Curtis, is a splendid article summing up the situation in the new British Dominion.

There are also short stories by Clare Giffin, Fred M. White and Jessie M. Scott, with poems by Isabel Ecclestone Mackay, May Austin Low, Theodore Roberts and Margaret O'Grady.

The longest and highest cableway in the world is in Argentina, traversing 34 miles or mountains at heights varying from 3250 to about 16,000 feet.

FAMOUS PRIMA DONNA DOESN'T LIKE DUKES

Miss Geraldine Farrar Has, Indeed, Very Decided Opinions Respecting European Aristocrats.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Geraldine Farrar, the grand opera star, enriched the language with a little picturesque profanity when she arrived today from Europe.

This is what the naughty Miss Farrar said:

"Dukes, I've met many of them and believe me, taking them individually and collectively, they are not worth a damn."

But the way Miss Farrar said it took the curse off. What had prompted the remark was a question from one of the ships news reporters who boarded the ship at Quarantine. Miss Farrar had been telling of the trip which she and Caruso made to the Kaiser's summer palace on the occasion of the celebration of the Germania's birthday.

"You know that by appointment I am one of the court singers of the German court and I am supposed to be in attendance whenever my services are needed," she said. "This however, was my first appearance before their Imperial Majesties. After the concert the Kaiser chatted with me for about twenty minutes very pleasantly. I was much struck with his strong personality. He seemed annoyed when I told him it was soon my intention to return to the States and asked me why I was not content to stay in Berlin and sing. I told him that I was an American and proud of it, and that I never expected to forsake my own country people."

"May be if you had consented to stay you might have contracted a matrimonial alliance with a duke or somebody and acquired a title?" suggested one of the interviewers.

The singer's aristocratic nose ascended and she sniffed. And then she raised her voice so that all nearby plainly heard, and uttered the remark touching on the worthiness of dukes, singly and in bulk.

BRINGS ACTION AGAINST A PRIEST FOR DIVORCE

Reno Witnesses One of Strangest Cases In All Its Strange Career—Brooklyn Woman To Prove Secret Marriage With Father McGunn.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Alleging that her husband, Louis T. Hare, is in reality the Rev. Louis T. McGinn, for years widely known as a Roman Catholic priest in Brooklyn, Mrs. Helen F. Hare will sue for divorce this week in Reno, Nev. The plaintiff, whose father was Frederick Haase, a wealthy butcher of Brooklyn, will charge desertion and non-support.

Mrs. Hare's story of love and bitterness is stranger than any of the Reno courts have heard. It begins thirty years back, when she and her husband were pupils in St. Joseph's parochial school, Greenpoint, and later on through his education for the priesthood at St. John's College, for his appointment as assistant pastor of St. Anthony's, Greenpoint, in 1895, to his assignment to the Church of St. Mary, Brooklyn, in 1900. All this time, Mrs. Hare says, their affection for each other continued, and on Nov. 13, 1902, the priest persuaded her to go to him in the home of the Rev. Dr. Frederick Mortimer, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, by whom they were married.

Because of his vows, she adds, Father McGinn assumed the maiden name of his mother and became Mr. Mrs. Louis T. Hare. Dr. Mortimer she says, had no suspicion of the identity of the man whom he was thus solemnizing.

Mrs. Hare went to live two blocks from St. Edward's Church, St. Edward's street, of which Father McGinn had been transferred, the night her younger brother discovered the priest in her company. She took her brother into the secret and induced him to keep the knowledge to himself.

By and by a baby girl was born, and to avoid detection by the other brothers and her aunts, her parents declared that Mrs. Hare moved to another part of Brooklyn. There she lived until May, 1904, when the relations between her and Father McGinn were disclosed in such a way that they were brought to the attention of Bishop Charles E. Schlenbeck.

Bishop McDonnell took immediate action; Mrs. Hare says. On May 14 her husband received $100 and was placed aboard a steamer for Europe. He went by direction to a Trappist monastery in Ireland and remained there for two years. Then he returned to the United States, being sent, Mrs. Hare says, to a parish in the South. How long he remained there she does not know, but she believes he is now somewhere in the West. In Brooklyn it is said he came back for a visit not many months ago.

Mrs. Hare, who is now forty years old, has been in Reno since last April. She has not been known as a member of the divorce colony, and even among the friends she made there her story was not known until a week ago. At the time of her marriage she was about to go on the stage. she says. She had taken a course at the American Academy of Dramatic Art and had signed a contract to play an ingenue part. But she had taken part in only one play, when she became the wife of Father McGinn, her story runs.

The charges in her suit for divorce will be restricted to desertion and failure to provide. Depositions from friends of hers in Brooklyn will be offered in evidence to show, she says, that even before her marriage became known she was compelled to support herself. Her baby died within a year after birth.

Father McGinn was a wide circle of friends in Brooklyn. His power over children was especially marked, and his first success came when he was placed in charge of the Sunday School at St. Anthony's. He was popular, too, as a teacher in the Church of St. Mary's he took great delight in driving a speedy horse. When he left St. Edward's unexpectedly his parishioners were told he was going into a retreat in Ireland. Father McGinn was tall, slender, dark-haired and bright-eyed—altogether a striking figure. But on his return, a year and a half later, it is said, he had changed so greatly that many who had known him intimately did not recognize him.

DECLINE OF TEA MAKING.

Even In England Lovers of Beverage Have Fallen on Evil Days.

A certain family of inveterate tea drinkers are reduced to economize on the occasion of new people coming to the neighborhood. "Do they keep a good teapot?"

"Alas," exclaims a correspondent of The Lady's Pictorial, "a good teapot nowadays could the question be answered in the affirmative! For my own part, being something of a fogey, I look back with keen regret to long past days when tea making was tea making, and every self-respecting hostess took the matter seriously.

"Even though one fine flunkey carries in a kettle and another equally fine follows it in bearing with a heavily laden tray, though they offer one sandwiches in the dozens, cakes and buns innumerable, nothing makes up for the flavor, the aroma, of the old lukes and touchons.

"Then the fragrant leaves were the crysis shilling a pound; now people buy some filthy stuff at a pound a pound a price. Then the hostess made, she, too, brewed with better frugs; a kettle on an adjacent fire; now it is left to the waiter menials of domestic or the cook.

"No one knows or cares whether it is weak or strong, or how long it has been drawing before its arrival in the drawing-room, and even then the dispenser of hospitality has to be reminded more than once before she sears herself away from some more congenial occupation. Shades of our grandmothers! is it any wonder the tea we now get is undrinkable? either but water bewitched, scalding to the tongue, or a stewed decoction tasting of wood and warranted to injure the strongest digestion.

"For the golden age of tea drinking we must go back many years to a time when the mistress fell some pride in sitting behind her own tea urn, or, maintaining the tradition at home her sunset to occupy in her absence, and incidentally, it may be remarked, there is no occupation more becoming to a charming woman than to be presiding over a well appointed tea table.

"It is to be feared that nothing less than some commercial catastrophe bringing the price of tea up to alarming figures will ever convince middle class housekeepers of the wastefulness of an unconsidered teapot. We may be very sure that in the days when Dr. Johnson need—as Boswell tells us—to drink exorbitant quantities of tea at all hours, it was no rapid, mawkish brew he enjoyed, but a decoction of beverage, pleasant and exhilarating, and he would hardly have had the spite of a naturally feeble constitution, to the ripe age of 75.

"If statistics are to be trusted English people are the greatest tea drinkers of modern times. We regard our yearly increasing consumption of tea with considerable pride, and joice to think what a sober people we be becoming and how much better it is for the national well-being than an excessive use of alcoholic drinks. But I would like also to put in a plea for better tea, for a fair price and more carefully made beverage. Do not spoil a rich cream tea with a thin drink, even fewer whiskies and sodas would be made if only we knew how really good tea was served in her house."

Should Have Remembered.

It was after the Trafalgar square riot in 1886, when, as "the man with the red flag," he had led the mob, that John Burns had his experience of prison life. A reminiscence of his relating to the recent general election bears back to the same episode.

Shortly after the riot police addressed a meeting of my constituents in Battersea. At the end of my speech a disgruntled socialist, one of the Sexton Keeley irresponsible sort, got up to ask questions and to give me the dressing down that the Social Democratic Federation had promised themselves I would have at my first meeting.

"Do you mean to accept a salary of £2,000 a year?" he asked.

"Yes," I said. "It is the Trade Union rate of pay for Cabinet Ministers. Not being a blackleg like you I could not accept less."

"What do you mean to do with it?" he demanded.

"Hand it over to my wife as I used to do with my week's pay," I said.

"Is it true," he continued, with a wink to his friends, "that you are going to wear court dress when you go to court?"

"Certainly I will," I answered. "It will not be the first time I have worn the King's uniform."

"He simply tumbled into it. 'When did you ever wear the King's uniform?' he asked.

"I were it in Pentonville Prison when you occupied the next cell," I replied. And would have thought every man in the room had received an electric shock. That was the last of the Sea-green Incorruptible."

The Genius of Britain.

Sir George Reid, the Australian High Commissioner, declared at Hartford recently that he found no trace of "dry rot" in Britain. "I hope," he said, "you people in England will show up. It is a dreadful thing to get down in the dumps when there is nothing the matter with you." (Laughter.) "With an increase of £20,000,000 in six months' trade, I begin to have some hope for you. That's the yet. You are a curious lot. When all the civilized world is fighting against you by every rule of political economy, you exploit their countries. The genius of your success is that you have the magnificent knack of minding your own business. You let the devil be himself, and Heaven bless you all."

Queensland Wants Hands.

Agricultural laborers seem to be greatly in demand in Queensland. A well-known farmer there has undertaken to take on, say, an English agricultural hand with his wife and three children, and to pay him 25 s week with free house, and liberty to use the produce of the farm for his own benefit. Queensland in organization authorities in London should have no end of applicants if they happen to have many jobs of that kind on hand.

WOMEN SWIMMERS.

Some Rare Feats of Experts at the Natatorial Art.

"And when are you going to swim the Channel again?" a society lady asked Captain Webb, shortly after his historic feat. "Never, madam," answered the hero of the hour, with a bow; "it is the ladies' turn now." And, in consequence later, it really seems that, if ever the gallant Webb is to have a rival, it will have to be a woman; for since his day a dozen men have wrestled with the Channel and have always come off "second best."

Thirty years ago there was one woman—or rather a girl—who might conceivably have swum the Channel under favorable conditions. Once she swam twenty miles in the Thames in 6 hours 40 minutes; and, again, she covered ten miles in the excellent time of 2 hours 45 minutes; but Miss Agnes Beckwith had no ambition to try conclusions with such a formidable opponent as the English Channel.

Other doughty Naiads there were, too, of that day—Miss Emily Parker, who swam nine miles in the Thames in 2 hours 24-12 minutes (a feat of which any man might have been proud); and Miss Dick and Miss Lizzie Dickinson, who thought nothing of swimming half-a-dozen miles or more in a choppy sea. But in their wildest flights of ambition not one of these lady-swimmers ever dreamed of emulating Captain Webb.

Their successors of today, however, are no longer afraid to challenge man's supremacy even in a sport which requires more strength and endurance than any of others than any other. How splendidly this challenge preceding was proved a short time ago in a swimming race from Dover to Calais, the full distance of thirteen miles. In this race, for which a variety of entries were made swimmers entered, the second and third places were taken by two girls, of seventeen and eighteen respectively, one of whom was within a few yards of actually victory from the winner. As it was, they were able to "show the way to twenty-nine of their masculine rivals."

Not long since Miss Lily Smith, the eighteen-year-old captain of the Tottenham (Eng.) Ladies' Swimming Club, attempted to beat the record for the longest of eight hours for the twenty-mile swim between Dover and Ramsgate.

Miss Smith, owing to the rough sea, was obliged to turn back when within two miles of Ramsgate. She completed her twenty miles in the splendid time of seven hours.

Miss Littlewood, a hospital nurse, performed a remarkable feat some little time ago, by swimming from Sunbury to Kew, Eng., a distance of six miles, in three hours. Miss Claire Parlett, a Kingston, Eng., young lady, has covered three and six miles in eight hours and a half; and Miss Greene, another girl, and a very young girl—have performed wonderful swims feats.

But all these performances, highly creditable as they are, sink into insignificance before those of Mme. Ieronymo, who thinks no more of a thirty-mile swim than most men of a mile. Some years ago this doughty lady actually swam forty-eight miles in the Danube, and was as fresh at the end of her long journey that she could easily, so it was said, have added twenty miles to her record. As it was, the distance covered was more than equal to a direct Channel trip across the Channel.

So far only one lady has made a really serious attempt to swim across the Channel, and that is Miss Annette Kellerman, an Australian, who is considered—and, no doubt, rightly—the champion lady-swimmer of the world. Five years ago Miss Kellerman tried both the Channel for six hours, during which time she covered a dozen miles, only to be compelled by sea-sickness to abandon the effort. "When," she says, "my friends insisted on my drinking hot water I was physically as fresh and fit as when I entered it six hours earlier."

A Princess as Typist.

Princess Mary has recently learnt the use the typewriter, says the London Daily Mail. There are two lady typists attached to the personal staff of the Princess's House, one of whom, at the princess' urgent request instructed her first pupil in the art of typing.

The princess proved an apt pupil and devoted herself so assiduously to her work that after a few weeks' instruction and practice she was able to work a typewriter at quite a fair rate of speed. Her first typing exercises were typical of the high-born daughter of King George.

The princess also intends to learn shorthand, and it is understood with regard to helping Queen Mary regularly with her correspondence when the royal family settle at Buckingham Palace. Queen Mary is the first English royalty to have learnt typing, and it may also be added that her Royal Highness was the first royalty to open an account at the Postoffice Savings Bank, which the princess did on her tenth birthday.

The Queen's Fan.

When Queen Victoria was crowned she accepted a British manufacture from the Worshipful Company of Fanmakers, and at the time of the Jubilee another one was presented to her as the company. Queen Alexandra also received a similar gift at her Coronation, and it was replied that "she will do so with pleasure for all friends, especially as you mention that it is of British manufacture." Queen Mary on occasion has solved to encourage home industries and has given this fashion a fillip in the form of one of her mottoes, the Duchess of York, who did so much for them.

Walnut Tree Borders.

Walnut trees in the Netherlands are usually fifty years old before they are allowed to be cut down.

Caring For Eyeglasses.

Most people seem to "think that glasses will stand any kind of treatment, and yank and pull at them until they go to the repair shop with alarming frequency. Glasses should never be taken off with one hand; an optician advises that they be carefully grasped by the front of the spectacles by both sides and removed by pushing up the temples. Of course the nose piece bends the frame; with nose glasses it loosens the screw, and the lens shakes about unpleasantly. Unless one happens in spite of care, and then it is well to purchase one of the tiny screwdrivers used in repairing and tighten them whenever necessary. Clean your glasses with some soft material—a common piece of tissue paper is better than any medium yet discovered—and occasionally give them a bath in warm water into which a little ammonia has been dropped.

Ran Amuck, Fined $5.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 3.—Armed with an empty bottle, Frank Bogosa, an Italian Hungarian, ran amuck in Falls View Tuesday night and terrorized the whole quarter, and after rapping several heads, cleared the premises of customers. In the Police Court yesterday afternoon Bogosa pleaded guilty on a charge of disorderly conduct and was fined $5 and costs.

Leaves Visits Crippen.

London, Nov. 3.—Ethel Claire Lenove has had an interview with Dr. Crippen, the murderer, by permission of the order in the usual way. The conversation was held entirely in the presence of warders. The interview took place at 11 a. m. It is understood that the disposal of the prisoner's property, in the event of his appeal being unsuccessful, was discussed.

Sir Richard Cartwright Ill.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Sir Richard Cartwright, who is now 86 years old, is laid up at his office for several days. It is stated that he is suffering from a severe cold.

Sir Richard is a native of Canada. New Zealand and Australia steamship line are his, and a number of others. Sir James Mills is in the city in this connection.

Cuban Blew Up Maine!

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 3.—Lecturing at St. George's Church, Col. Jasper E. Brady, one of the four officers sent by the United States Government to investigate the destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, on Feb. 14, 1895, declared Tuesday night that the mine which destroyed the battleship was placed by the Cubans, in order to bring war with Spain and the deliverance of Cuba.

Continuing he said: "Now I will tell you for the first time the name of the man who blew up the Maine. He is Ramon Jose Quesada. He was an electrician at Morro Castle. It was he who pressed the switch which set off the powerful mine that destroyed the ship and sent 267 poor little eternity flash. Zavalda was afterward shot by order of Gen. Blanco. He wrote a piece of the cable that led from the mine to the wire-room in Morro Castle. The piece of cable is now in the Navy Department at Washington."

Three Years For Perjury.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Convicted of perjury, in having sworn that Fricks Mitchell had shot him, whereas his own previous statements, the medical evidence and the testimony of other witnesses went to show that he had shot himself, Christo Yane, a Macedonian, was yesterday sentenced to three years in penitentiary. The offence is a serious one, and one that must not be tolerated in this country. He swore falsely against an innocent man, and caused that man, who was innocent, to spent several months in jail awaiting trial. Winchester.

The interpreter didn't divulge the sentence until Yane had left the court, whereupon he wept violently.

Change In Colonial Office.

London, Nov. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The London Daily Mail says that the work of the Colonial Office will shortly be divided into a new Department of State being appointed to deal with the business of the self-governing dominions.

The Mail's announcement is probably the intelligent anticipation of events, as some change in the Colonial Office has been mooted at by Lord Crewe, but in any case it will not be brought until after the Imperial Conference, and it may not involve the appointment of a new Minister.

Old Practitioner Dead.

Belleville, Nov. 3.—Dr. Leonard Luton, one of the oldest practitioners in this city, and an ex-alderman, died at his home here Tuesday night, aged 75 years, after a few days' illness. He was a native of Yarmouth, and was formerly superintendent of schools in East Elgin. He has been for years a member of the council of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons.

A SINGULAR DUEL

Story of a Meeting in an Ancient Ruin in Italy.

By MARIA G. MORGAN.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

It was moonlight in Rome. A carriage stopped before a building occupied for apartments in the Piazza del Doquisito and received a single person, who before entering gave the coachman her directions, whereupon he drove down the Via Carcour to the foot of the Esquiline hill, threaded a street leading to the Colseum, towering massive and dark against the bright sky, circled it and, entering a street leading southeastward, finally drew up before the baths of Caracalla.

A woman opened the door from within and stepped out of the carriage.

Walking up to the little building where lives the keeper of the ruins, she was admitted, evidently by appointment, and, passing over the curved walk that led to the great structure, passed in under shadow.

The remains of the baths of Caracalla are one of the great ruins of antiquity. Built at the height of Roman splendor by one of the most and most luxurious of the Roman emperors, it was finished in the imperial style, and from it at a later date were taken several of the most famous antique pieces of statuary.

The moon, standing almost directly overhead, shone down on the woman who paced back and forth within the central part of the ruin. A thin robe falling from her shoulders covered her whole figure, and as she walked it floated gracefully behind her. By her side, nervous and restless, was another, something of moment was on her mind and likely that she was impatiently waiting for some one to join her.

Presently bearing carriage wheels she listened. They stopped where her own had stopped, and she heard footsteps approaching. A man entered, paused, looked about him and called:

"YOU WILL FIGHT?"

"Margaret!"

"I am here," a voice replied, and the girl who had stepped stepped out of the shadow into moonlight She waited for him in the center of the enormous space in which she stood, and he advanced toward her.

"Now, in the name of all-the gods," he said in broken English, "will you tell me what new freak is this that leads you to summon me here at this time of night?"

"Perhaps you have forgotten, my prince, how, shortly after our return towards in New Mexico, you fired the ranchman's daughter's imagination with tales of these wondrous ruins in the city to which you were going to bring me as your bride. You were a Claude Melnotte ejaculating upon your palace. I, Pauline fastened of on the Lake of Como. Cap [illegible] me for desiring a last meeting with you here within these indestructible walls, where, especially since I have been obliged to wait for you, I have been able to feed my fancy with the wayworn forms of Romans, dead near 2,000 years, coming and going to bathe, to drink, to flirt, to while away their time in sanguinous indolence. There! I can see the ancient emperor, with his back his slaves, for whom even in this vast edifice there is not room. He passes through his private bath—"

"Enough of this fancy flight, Margaret. I understand that it was over between us. I knew you for a wild antelope of the prairie, a woman with all the love of freedom of the red men of your country. And I knew that you would love as well as feared; that you were a child of enthusiasm and contrary. I loved you and wished you for my wife. You knew not that I, whose ancestors were sovereigns over a portion of this fair Italian land, have inherited a throne. You knew, you know, that my fortunes are wrecked, my palace is not much better condition than this ruin"—

"Yes, and so long as my father was supposed to be the sheep king of New Mexico you wished to bring me here with a dowry to rebuild it. When the great lithium mine, destroying sheep flocks by thousands, and he was obliged to abandon it from a simple fear that the process seeped so slow that your love cooled."

"My love was the same. My interests demanded other things."

"And so, my prince, you have at last got down to the bottom facts. This that you have done is European, not American. Never have your princes of the blood are in certain matters very sensitive. You cannot bear that another should tread on your aristocratic toes—not that you cannot endure the touch of others within those toes—not the blood of a Fabian. But when you come to America and are kindly received by a man who considers that the heart of a ranchman's daughter is of any importance compared with the whim or the interest of a prince of Italy."

"I have expressed my sincere regret."

"Your regrets will not wipe out the stain put upon an American girl any more than regrets would restore a slight done you had one of your countrymen robbed you of a wife. You knew that that injury would be atonement."

"I do."

"At the point of the sword. And it is at the point of the sword that your insult must be wiped out by your countryman for. A girl's heart is as sacred as a prince's honor. She is not to be robbed of it any more than the prince is to be robbed of his wife. Were we in my native country of yours, you and I could fan the hands of our adversaries face, we could throw the lariat, the long rope, and by the dexterous use of it, hauling the other. Those are barbarous ways, not fit for a prince of the blood. Therefore I have come to you for more attractive. There is romance in the air in Italy. When the Italian comes to our wild western country his sentiment lies dormant and he considers only his interest. There is nothing to him. A cowboy's shooting match is abhorrent. But here in his land of art, poetry and romance he soon is reminded by works that have endured for the centuries of the loveliness of the Marcus Aurelius and the shame of a Nero, it is well that he should pay the penalty of his heartlessness at the point of a Damascus blade and within the walls of an emperor's bathe."

With the last words she threw back the wrap that thus far had covered her and displayed a woman's fencing costume. In her left hand she held two rapiers. Taking one of them by the blade, she held the hilt toward the prince.

"Do not shrink from it, my prince. It is of gold. And did a Fabian ever shrink from handling a sword? Could there be a more more befitting a prince than settling his affairs with a golden hilted blade, the moonlight pouring in from the breaches in the walls of the baths of Caracalla?"

As the prince shrank away Margaret advanced.

"I will not fight you—a woman—a woman I loved, love today, love still. I cannot. Is there nothing that will appease you? I will sign a pepe admitting my error."

"You will fight."

By this time she had forced the handle of the sword into his hand. Then she put herself in the attitude of a fencer.

"Hold!" he cried. "A sword is not your weapon. Desist and I will go to your cause. And if I must defend my self will do so at the point of the weapon you have given me and how to use—the revolver. In God's name, to force me here now to die or take your life."

"On guard!"

"I will break my engagement. I will marry you."

"I will not break my engagement."

"What do you mean?"

"I am to marry a rancher of New Mexico, but not till I have wiped out the stain put upon me by a prince of Italy."

There was something in the last words of the girl that seemed to appeal to him in a stormy beach. The prince had the sword but to die or defend himself.

Two of Italy's gentlemen, one a prisoner, the national Italian police, who had been waiting in the moonlight, were called coats, cocked hats and swords hanging by their sides, happened to be passing through the road that led from the ruin when they heard sounds of the clash of steel. They stopped and listened. Hearing the noise came not from within the walls, they hurried there to find two fencers at work as attacking, the other defending himself. The carbineer stepped between the fighters and separated their swords.

"What—prince!" exclaimed one of the officers. "You here fighting at this time of night, and without attendants?"

"It was not premeditated."

"Then," said the officer of Margaret—"who are you?"

"An American woman."

Without heeding the prince, "this affair must go no further. You know that the majesty would not wish it known that the son of my uncle was found fighting with a woman under these circumstances. Besides, the lady's name should not be connected with such an affair."

"I am very seeking to conceal," said Margaret.

Then all left the ruin. Margaret was put into her carriage and the coachman told to drive her home. The prince had a long conversation with the carbineirt, drove to the palace of Viminge and returned to the city.

The following morning early Margaret left Rome, having received a polite message from the king's chamberlain that his majesty regretted that he could not grace a person to be permitted to be free among the noblemen of Italy. A month after the prince married and married at her home in the far west, decided down to the raising of sheep and babies and became not only a domestic, but in certain respects a prominent woman. But the story of the duel in the baths of Caracalla was never divulged till years afterward.

WHAT A CHILD DID

He Turned a Tide That Ran Black to a Limpid One.

By EDWARD HUNTINGTON.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

Some say that a mother's love has more influence for good than any other kind. Others say that the love between father and son is most effective. I think that if good alone is considered the mother's love is far the stronger. If both good and evil are included the sexual love is far more powerful.

The following story is told of these influences, but the greatest that ever swayed me was from a child.

I was engaged in a bank. One day I came across a feature in my books that I didn't understand. I called the cashier's attention to it, and he came over to my desk to look into it. As soon as he saw what I referred to he told me that he would examine the matter the next day.

The following morning, when I took up my books and turned to those pages which had puzzled me the day before, I saw evidences on certain figures of very delicate scratching. I never saw such entries myself, and these erasures surprised me. While I was examining the scratched figures with a little pocket magnifying glass one of the boys came up to me and told me that the president wished to see me.

The president was not in the habit of sending for the clerks, and I naturally felt a dread as to what he wished to see me for. At the same time the puzzle about my books presented itself to me, and I felt a sudden vague terror. I remembered that in the president's private office who seemed to be interested in my coming. He was not talking to anybody when I entered, but looked me over as though sizing me up. The president said to me:

"Mr. Twining, there is a deficiency of $20,000 in our cash, and there are evidences of tampering with books of such a kind as to make it appear that the money has been covered up. It is my pain ful duty to hand you over to the authorities—that is, unless you are able to restore the funds, in which case we will not prosecute you."

As soon as I could get my breath I denied the charge. Of course my denial had no effect, and I asked that the cashier be called, and my request was granted. He came in, showing me his special concern to one who did not suspect him as I did. I saw evidences, however, in his eye, that he was carrying a big load.

"Mr. Twining," I said, "did I not call your attention yesterday before closing to an irregularity I had discovered in the books?"

"You did, but I had not time to investigate it."

"Then," I said, turning to the president, "should I call attention to a deficit I was attempting to cover up?"

I never forget the look about what Mr. Twining wished to cull my attention from the cashier put in. "For a week past I have been at work on my books nights with a view to discover this deficiency, and I have wished to speak of some other matter."

It was all clear to me. Wilcox had set $20,000 of the bank's funds and had been tampering with my books for the purpose that I had been covering up such a deficiency. I was so once that I was ruined and broke under a cloud of infamy. This would considered evidence of my guilt. I was turned over to the men I have spoken of, found a constable, taken to jail and put to a cell.

I had no thought of my suspicions as to the guilty party; but, whether so believed I was mistaken or that I was guilty, I made no attempt to throw the burden on the cashier. Perhaps he thought it better to advocate an delivery—by which I was ruined—than he made a lamentable failure of my defense. I was convicted and sent to state prison for ten years.

I never speak or write of that horrible period of my life. I spent seven years getting off three for good behavior—because I do not wish to exercise the faculty which I have of living over in imagining the prison.) I formed a resolution to do what I could do as soon as I got out—I would kill the man who had ruined me. My first resolve was to be a quarrel with him, giving him an equal chance with me for his life. But upon consideration I saw the injustice in this and resolved to kill him on sight. But to do this I would have to suffer death on the gallows or life imprisonment for life. My final plan was to go to his house at night, kill him secretly and fly to some foreign country. From this determination I never swerved.

As soon as I was discharged I went to the nearest ocean port, learned all about the sailing of vessels and fixed the date of my revenge for a day and hour to enable me to reach a ship just as she was getting under way. I went to the city where I had been ruined and where my enemy lived. He was still president of the bank, and I found he had been employed and lived in the same house. I ascertained that he was still indebted to the bank for the sum I had been made restitution without exercising one.

To carry out my plan I must work as an ordinary criminal. But why not? This was the only way open to me in the world in the position of a criminal, and my proposed act would confirm me in that position. I provided myself with an auger and a circular saw with which I could gain entrance into his house. I took no firearms, only a sharp knife.

When all was ready I was obliged to wait for several days to expire before the sailing of the vessel on which I had taken passage. During the interval I kept continually brooding on my revenge, and the terrible years in prison and the nineteen I had before me. The result was that I could not wait for the time to arrive. But the hands of the world's clock never stop, and at last the night for my revenge arrived.

Having reached Wilcox's house, I found that all the family had gained on a piece of the panel large enough to insert my arm and shut the bolts. I found a window in the rear of the house played to the bank and had recently been occupied. I knew that Wilcox slept in a room by himself and that it would be occupied. Therefore, though I had nowhere with me, I did not expect to use it.

Nevertheless I found that I must have a weapon. I had left the knife with which I was not familiar and not hearing any one stirring had as in sleep, I dashed my light in front of me and tearings. I turned it rapidly here and there till I saw on a table in front of before I realized what I was doing a flood of bright light fell on the face of a baby I should say about two months of age, and before I could turn my blisters made my eyes were blinking at the dazzling rays.

The next thing for that child to do would be to cry, and that would send me back within walls and without any reward. I resorted to a desperate expedient. I went to the child and, bending to him a tune in a low voice. Still it fretted. Then, knowing other days was no one but the child and myself in the room, with the door to the nobody could hear me, I sang to him which I had quieted from the hall also I heard, I sounded to him the air of though I kept it turned pretty low. Then I went back to continue my efforts to quiet the child.

The moment the little fellow saw he be quieted at once.

If you can conceive of an ugly storm suddenly giving way before balmy sun- ribbon you can imagine the change in my heart melting before that baby's little, I crooked my forefinger and held it up to the baby's head, and he clutched it. There's a line in poetry, "Baby fingers, waxen touches," that when I read it always reminds me of that boy's grasp. Then he caught sight of a real plaything little finger and mother had given me and let go my forefinger to investigate the ring.

I had come into the house to kill that boy's father. For the first time the horror of my act in the savage became apparent to me. Before the child's calling smile, his innocent eyes, under its waxen touches, I had not been intending to do him through his father passed back into that horrible impression which I had received.

The door that led to the adjoining room opened and Wilcox's wife, clothes, entered. He stared at me for a few moments, then, recognizing me, exclaimed:

"Twining! What are you doing here?"

"I came to kill you. Your boy has saved your life."

A blush never forget his agonized expression.

"If it were not for him and his mother's love I would plunge this knife through me at this moment."

I paid for his and his mother's sake to forgive me.

Reckoning me to follow him, he went into the hall, then on to the main floor and into the library.

"Twining," he said brokenly, "you are a man of honor."

"I have been had you not put me into jail to ruin myself."

"It was I, not yourself, that effected a temporary change in you. You have been a man of honor, and you are now an honorent boy. God grant he may never know that to save myself I ruined you."

"He never shall know it from me, and I can help it he shall never know it from any one else. I will be your deserver for him and from him. But that I deliver—by—by—I will not."

"I have gained the money to repay it long ago. I should have done so but for the fear that my embezzlement would be found out. I could not owe my meanness."

"You owe me that now. I will confess to what I denied. If you will to make restitution though me, do so. I will not prevent you."

"There's a better way. I can send it anonymously."

And so it was that an innocent child saved me from murder, enabled his father to restore the funds he had taken and to exonerate me.

The French municipal authorities in Paris are making a strong effort to increase the number of a system of cabs which can travel more than three miles an hour. The present system is costly and inefficient.

MARNA'S MISTAKE

It Didn't Stand in the Way of a Happy Wedding.

By MARTHA MC'CULLIAM.

"You old poke! Take that for being so horribly late!" a girl's voice said as Trevor went along an overgrown path to one of the summer houses, while the words came a handful of rose petals, crumpled, damp and deliciously fragrant. It had rained all day, clearing just before sundown. The rain had kept him prisoner at the inn three miles away. He had meant to reach Marlaw early in the morning instead of thus upon the edge of dusk. The rain had kept the creek all out of its banks. Thus he was coming to his journey's end afoot rather than behind his prancing blacks. The footsteps defied the flood. That for carriages was swinging gorgeously in the rushing water. He could not rest until he had seen his uncle. Some thing had to be settled one way or another, something vital to his whole future.

He looked about him. The dusking greenery betrayed no human presence, but the mocking voice went on: "You're a fine fellow! Open my word, if you aren't the limit! Here I've been stewing over what could have marched you off to the pastors to have you married, and you're not even man enough to come to me and tell me you're not going to marry Mr. John Doe."

"Oh, I say! Hold on! You—you must be Miss Lee—Marna—of whom Uncle John has told me such glowing panegyrics interrupted, his face scarlet, his eyes blazing, his heart throbbing violently. He had never dreamed the very prettiest girl he had ever seen in his life was she who was saying: "And you have come to marry me! Well, I can tell you you had better die than marry me wife!"

"Let's shake hands," John said joyfully. "It appears we're in exactly the same fix. I found a note on my desk from Uncle John and he off, because the nearest girl in the world will be whisked away by Europe, clean out of my life unless I can manage to marry her all in a wink."

"Oh, how jolly!" Marna cried, giving him both her hands. "If you'll only promise to wait and be married without a wedding, with bridesmaids and flower girls and everything, it would be borrible to miss them, but there seemed nothing else to do, so Billy Martin and I were getting all ready. Come! We won't wait for him any longer. I dare say he is water bound, but we be married in the rain creek, considering. Don't you think so?"

"Undoubtedly. I am sure he doesn't deserve it, letting such a little thing hinder him," Trevor said, still holding her hands. "You mustn't blame me for him, so we must look a little bit alike, for I disown the likeness. You would not have had to wait for me, not if the stars had fallen."

Marna? Suppose that other girl herself upon him, saying sweetly, with her lids lowered, a naive smile lurking in her eyes, "John pressed her hand and drew it upon his arm, saying softly: "Keep close to me. The path is narrow, and I cannot be sure of the way. But Marna appeared to feel sufficiently answered. She smiled more winsomely than ever, and as the two of them came out in the clear lawn, "Cousin John—we are cousins, you know; your uncle is my stepfather—you must tell me—will you do something for my sake? And not demur—promise?"

"Certainly," Trevor said, smiling himself. Marna was silent for three seconds, then said hesitatingly: "I have anything about anything until morning? Pepa Trevor doesn't sleep well at the best of times, and I am always worrying all day abeflt your delayed arrival, and if you let me have the upsetting of his most cherished plans he won't get a wink tonight and will be horrid to me tomorrow. Promise!"

"Does he know about Billy Martin?" Trevor demanded. Marna looked at him, amazed.

"Oh, dear, no!" she said. "If he had known, why, I shouldn't have been out there waiting. Papa Trevor has a habit of hating his own way"—

"I'll say it's Pepa Trevor interrupted, stealing an arm about Marna and kissing her cheek. She brushed away the caress as though it were some slight annoying insect and went on: "It's perfectly known, because, you see, I did not really know myself until yesterday after your telegram came. Then I knew I must have it out in a storm with me. I don't really, truly care about Billy, but I do in my own way as well as though my name were Trevor"—

"Oh!" But was Billy Hobson's choice?" Trevor interrupted wickedly. Marna frowned at him, saying: "The idea! Now you're horrid. Why, only a dozen beaus, but it happened Billy Martin first, and he's the best dancer. And you'll admit there wasn't much time for planning when Papa Trevor sent for me. I was in the middle of packing for the rector and the wedding cake in the Calcutta. Is there anything else needed? John Trevor said in the morning, and you had better go and get married. Then I'll see what I can shall take you abroad. There you'll have a chance of getting fairly acclimated before the season.'

"I'm! That was a close call. Did you know? Trevor asked, his eyes twinkling. Marna tossed her head indignantly. "Of course: I'm not a fool. I'm not blind, either. I'm not deaf, either. I'm not dumb. I'm not a stone. I'm not a log. I'm not without having that on her hands. Besides, there are such loads of pretty things. Papa Trevor has been a real dear, gold-hunter ever since he took a notion to marry us off this way. I never! If he didn't see them he wouldn't remember them. Marna was quite out of breath.

"Quite too bad. You made me feel utterly conscience stricken. I didn't know that you were not one of us in this plan," Trevor said. After a while he burst out hotly: "But he has only himself to blame, I'm determined, I'm not to be my home, and he has kept me in exile all the seven years since he married your mother. He has brought me up to regard myself as his son and heir, and now unless I marry whom he chooses I am to lose everything."

"Oh, seems to think it would have been a case of 'I came, saw, conquered,'" Marna said, her eyes dancing. Trevor turned suddenly upon her. "If you could put up with a Billy Martin for the sake of your own way, I don't think you could be quite like a man," he said almost angrily. He truly loved Marna. He was, moreover, proud of his name and the consequence attaching to the big Trevor fortune. I want to have his stories about me all of him when he was thus at grips with hand fate. She was adorable; so adorable, in spite of her pert ways, so other girl, it gave a sharper edge to his contempt for her.

"Indeed, you are right. I might have chosen you if it had been made my own choice," Marna said, pouting. "But surely, her head a little aside. They were nearing the open hall door, through which came shouts and the brand stream of white light. It fell full upon them, throwing them up strongly against the background of leafy darkness. Somebody upon the veranda shouted when he saw one of them. Under cover of the shouting Marna said, by this time plaintive, "If you had not sent for that other girl, but I always play fair."

"You're outwitted me-you-young villain! John Trevor, Sr., said, clapping his nephew's hand. "I never thought you'd get that pretty baggage there until I was ready to give her leave you for good and all. You know your self-will, Marna, clean out of the room your room exactly as you left it when you went away a boy."

"Let me be still a boy for this one night, Uncle Jack," Trevor pleaded, clapping hold of a tremendously elderly hand. Papa Trevor wagged his head, saying: "Aye, aye, lad! Don't think you must wake up, ready to play a man's part."

"Yes—"

Trevor slept badly and woke late to find the world full of sunshine and singing birds, to hear his uncle shouting impatiently at the men mowing the lawn and across the blurred noises, Marna's clear, the silver tinkle of Marna's laughter. He went downstairs like one in a dream. There was a bridegroom's breakfast set at the nearest brightness. As he came out on the steps a messenger on a bicycle halted at the gate and handed him a yellow telegram, saying apologetically. "Shure, sir, we tried to git ye this bit the night, but the line was in the wires and besides, the b'ye that writ it cut aid to be married himself."

Trevor opened it and read:

"Am all right. Marry Paul in London. He did not deceive us. His name is Trevor. Love to you and anybody's wife. MARY."

Just then Marna danced up to him, both hands full of dewy roses. She caught both her wrists and said husk- "Are you anxious me for Billy Martin. Can't you be jolly enough to marry me?"

But Trevor answered did not answer. She looked down, her breast heaving, her cheeks rivaling the richest among her roses, and with a minute pause, during her eyes: "You are not quite accurate, Cousin John. The fact is, Billy Martin is delicate."

Of course they were married, as Papa Trevor would have ordained. They lived happy ever after, but they never quite forgot the incident with which they themselves chose.

THE BRITISH MINT.

A Flourishing Concern Which Issues Coins for Many Dependencies.

The recently published report of the operations of the British mint during 1909 brings that concern to the attention of the public. Not only does it possesses that movie slowly and with a profit, the year's work is of a high order of ordinarily. It is a flourishing concern, and only six times in the last 38 years have its expenses exceeded its income, the last occasion since 1882 has a deficit occurred. Its profits, it is true, show extraordinary fluctuations, but in the long period it has had an average net annual profit of $100,000 or more.

The mint issues coins not only for Great Britain and Ireland, but for the Channel Islands, for British Guiana, British Honduras, for Ceylon, for the East Africa and Uganda, for Newfoundland, for Nigeria, for the Straits Settlements, and for other British colonies and dependencies. In addition, it has coined for Egypt, for Persia, for Bombay mint for India, the Ottawa mint for the Dominion of Canada, and the new Australian mint, all of which have direct relations with the London headquarters.

The mint's prosperity is displayed by the British public in this great money-making concern may be inferred from the fact that in the year 1909 no less than 8,712 persons during 1909, even this long, slightly over one per cent. of the age. The Britisher evidently takes this department, as he takes so many other executive bodies, largely on trust.

New Group In Charge.

Montreal, Nov. 3.—The directors who have managed the affairs of the Montreal Street Railway Co. for many years past are down and out, following one of the most brilliant and daring raids ever made by one group of capitalists on another.

It was supposed that Senator Forget, Sir Montague Allan, Robert Meighen, and several other millionaires were responsible in the interest of the control, and so they were before such bright men as L. Robert, D. Lorne McGibbon, J. W. McConnell and others, started in to buy control about a year ago. Yesterday the old directors did not even make a fight, neither did they ask for a vote. One ballot was cast and the change was made the new directors being: F. E. Wilson, J. W. McConnell, George G. Foster, K.C., D. Lorne McGibbon, W. D. Finley, A. E. Dyment and E. A. Robert. The new president is E. A. Robert, while F. W. McCuaig is the vice-president, with D. McDonald re-elected general manager.

It is said that it took nine millions of money to swing the deal.

Must Not Interfere.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—In connection with the approval of the route map of the Canadian Northern Railway from a point a short distance west of Edmonton to Yellow Head Pass, yesterday, Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways, laid down the important stipulation that the Canadian Northern must not in any way interfere with the townsite of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company.

When plans were produced, Mr. Kelliher, chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific, stated that, from a point twenty-five miles west of Edmonton to Yellow Head Pass, the Canadian Northern very closely parallels the Grand Trunk Pacific, so closely, in a matter of fact, that there was a danger that a line might be built through various townsites, which had been laid out by the G.T.P. Co., which municipalities are interested.

Sir Percy Lake Leaves.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Major-General Sir Percy Lake left for Quebec yesterday afternoon, en route for England, his term as military adviser of the Government having expired. He will be accompanied as far as Quebec by his brother, R. S. Lake, M.P. for Qu'Appelle, Sask.

All of the chief officers of the Military Department and his successor, General Mackenzie, were at the station to bid him good-bye, and among the civilians present were: R. L. Borden, M.P.; Lord Lascelles, Lady Sybil Grey, and Lady Evelyn Grey. A member of Lady Lake's lady friends in the city presented her a few days ago with a diamond bracelet, as a little remembrance of her sojourn in the capital.

Sir Percy Lake has not been made acquainted as yet with the purposes of the War Office regarding his future movements.

Too Frightened to Cry.

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—Lying in bed beside her sleeping husband on Tuesday night, Mrs. Antonio Valentine heard a crash of glass, and a moment later saw two men climb through the window of the room from the porch roof. Too frightened to move or cry out, Mrs. Valentine watched one of the intruders steal up to the bed, place a pistol at her husband's head and fire a shot that brought instant death to the sleeping man. By the time the woman recovered her voice the murderers had escaped.

Too Cosmopolitan.

Brantford, Nov. 3.—After a month's effort to get the city council to vote enough money to provide accommodation for a new patrol wagon, already built, the request of the police commissioners was negatived by a tie vote, taken three times Tuesday night, half of whom are approve of the idea of a patrol. The local police of police is being accused of being too cosmopolitan.

Guilty of Manslaughter.

Winnipeg, Nov. 3—William A. Hope, Saltburn, Sask., was found guilty in the Assizes yesterday of manslaughter, in connection with the death of Frederick Smith, at Black Bear Island, Lake Winnipeg. The wife of the dead man was the principal witness against him.

Dead Mute Tried to Suicide.

Brantford, Nov. 3.—Harry Bowen, a deaf and dumb mute, arrested for being drunk, tried to commit suicide in the police cells yesterday morning by hanging himself with his clothes, but was noticed by another prisoner and was cut down in time.

IN SEARCH OF RECIPROCITY.

resident Taft's Tariff Ambassadors Leave Tuesday Stones.

Washington, Nov. 3.—For the purpose of resuming negotiations looking to the establishment of closer relations between the United States and Canada, which was begun last spring, Henry M. Hoyt, counsellor, and C. M. Pepper, commercial attaché of the State Department, will leave for Ottawa to-day. The preliminary conference with the Canadian officials will be held Nov. 5. Secretary of State Knox expects to visit Ottawa shortly after the negotiations are re-opened.

President Taft is especially anxious that a reciprocity treaty be the outcome of the negotiations. Both Mr. Hoyt and Mr. Pepper have been in conference with the President almost constantly during the past few weeks, and they go to Ottawa bearing his instructions, and his confidence that a satisfactory agreement will be reached.

Ottawa, Nov. 3—A reciprocity conference between representatives of the United States and Canadian Governments will be held here on Saturday, but the news occasioned a bit of a spatch from Washington, to the effect that a deal will be closed up before the end of the present month is without foundation.

There seems to be a fairly general disposition throughout the Dominion against reciprocity, of which the Government is thoroughly aware, and so it may be safely conjectured that no complete reciprocity arrangement will be reached for some time to come at least.

The call for a change in the tariff is from the grain growers of the west, who desire a reduction in the duties on agricultural implements.

French Cabinet Resigns.

Paris, Nov. 3.—The French Cabinet resigned yesterday. Although in fact that there was a divergence of views among the Ministers concerning legislative measures designed to prevent crises similar to that brought about by the recent railway strike, was well known, the resignation caused a sensation, as it had been expected that Premier Briand would reconstruct and remodel the Ministry in harmony with his views.

The exact nature of Briand's proposal has not been announced, but it is understood that both M. Millerand Minister of Public Works, Posts and Telegraphs, and M. Vivani, Minister of Labor, dissented, particularly Millerand, who insisted upon the principle of arbitration.

Yesterday afternoon President Fallieres asked Briand to form a new Ministry and the latter accepted the task. The new Cabinet will be largely the old Ministry re-organized, the portfolio left vacated by Millerand, special reference to a solution of labor problems, including the development of means by which employes of public service corporations may obtain redress for grievances without resort to a strike, paralysing traffic and industry generally, and to devise a method of combatting the revolutionary element of the proletariat.

Pellatt's Gift to Knight.

London, Nov. 3.—Sir Henry M. Pellatt of Toronto has donated $2,500 yearly to enable the Society of Knights Bachelor to acquire a site for the London headquarters of the society.

Sir Henry Pellatt, in responding to the toast of his health, assured the gathering at the dinner that there was a deep and abiding loyalty among the people of Canada. The people were looking for opportunities for close union, believing that Canada and Britain should co-operate in every way in peace and war. He was glad to say that the Little Englander was diminishing rapidly, the British Empire was no longer a dream, but the acknowledged platform of all statesmen.

Signers Were Not Voters.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 3.—Chief Jones Cowell at its meeting Tuesday night rejected a petition asking that the Dominion Parliament be permitted to voters Jan. 1. The meeting was a lively one. The petitioners had signers, but the names of 15 temperance advocates were found to be not on the voters' list, as required by statute.

Burglar a Would-Be Murderer.

Port Arthur, Nov. 3.—A man who gave the name of Jamie Anderson has been sentenced to 23 months in the Central Prison for burglary of the Marks' Claus store. If his threats are to be believed, he was looking for a certain man, and if he found him off the train for the west.

Rather Bulky Exhibits.

New York, Nov. 3.—The doors of the criminal branch of the Supreme Court were taken down yesterday afternoon and a big 60-horse power automobile, the front badly battered and bent, was hauled inside. A wrecked touring car was next carried through the door, and when these two unsightly exhibits had been placed in front of the judge's bench the trial of Edward T. Rosenheimer, for the murder of Miss Grace Hough, was resumed. It is charged that Rosenheimer, a wealthy motor car manufacturer, ran down Miss Hough with the automobile on the night of Saturday, May 14, on the boulevard.

Charged With Murder.

Vancouver, Nov. 3.—Richard Berryman, formerly of Butte, Mont., and for two years resident in this city, was taken into custody yesterday by the local police, charged with the murder of Mrs. J. P. Mott Woodworth. Her death following an alleged illegal operation, said to have been performed by Berryman on Tuesday. On the charge Berryman was arraigned before the local police arrested Mrs. Mallory, 1,000 Granville street, and Mrs. Morse, Keefer street, charged with supplying medicine.

Steel Industry for Canada.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Mr. Davies, the representative of the steel works at Newcastle, England, who is in the city and is gathering information from the officers and others interested with reference to the proposed location of a steel industry in Canada. He will go from here to Sydney.

New Government Steamer.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The Government is calling for tenders for a new steamer to be used in connection with the St. Lawrence Ship Canal and Montreal River, and the name proposed is the Dollard.

In the Cheese Bill.

Warkworth, Nov. 3.—The dairy instructor for this district estimates that there has been 30 per cent. more cheese made in his locality this year than last year, with fewer cows.

O. A. C. Students' Rowdy.

Guelph, Nov. 3.—Following up the Hallowe'en doings, the Ontario Agricultural College students attended the performance of "The Alaskan" at the opera house here Tuesday night, 200 strong, and forced the curtain down. They had formed a torchlight procession down to the city, headed by the college band, and lined up in a body in the gods.

Contest-throwing and pea-shooting started the show, and in the last act the boys threw down little bags of flour, indiscriminately at the actors and the audience. In the finale the shower was so great that the curtain had to be rung down to protect the company.

The opera house will be closed to them in future, Manager Green says.

System Needs Extending.

New York, Nov. 3.—The opinion of the Toronto sub-committee on medical inspection, who are studying the system here is that Toronto is on the right track, but that the system needs extending, so that it will cover all the schools. They have been investigating the schools in the "Bowery" under the guidance of Dr. Leopold Marcus, one of the supervising inspectors. The pupils are examined very rapidly, nearly one per minute passing through the doctor's hands.

Labor and Socialist Gains.

London, Nov. 3.—The results of Tuesday's municipal polls in England and Wales show a distinct revival of the Labor and Socialist parties. After defeats in the last two years in Manchester the Labor party gained five seats, on the balance.

West Ham, the most interesting contest in greater London, was carried by Progressives and Socialists by a majority of six, there being two Labor gains and one Progressive.

Strikers Riotous.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Following a battle between striking garment workers and the police yesterday morning, when the police broke up a tin horn and tambourine demonstration before the Schloss-Carson Tailoring plant, rioting and disorder began to spread, and there were several attacks on places where strikes had been called.

The appearance of a few policemen in every instance checked the mobs.

Thirty-Eight Years a Teacher.

Windsor, Nov. 3.—Miss Elizabeth Bartlett, in point of service the oldest member of the public school teacher staff in Windsor, has asked to be relieved of her duties at the end of the year. Miss Bartlett has taught school in Windsor for 38 years.

Walthamstow Elects Liberal.

London, Nov. 3.—In the Walthamstow bye-election Sir J. Simon, Liberal, was elected, polling 10,373 votes against 12,097 cast for J. S. Johnson, the Unionist candidate.

Walthamstow went Liberal at the general election of 1906 by 175. It was then Unionist till the by-election of 1907, when it went Liberal by 279. At the Mahi election of 1909 it went Unionist by 2,605. In 1906 J. A. Simon, Liberal, was elected by 3,200.

Mr. Simon held the seat in 1910 by 2,295 and on his appointment as Solicitor-General Mr. Simon, now Sir John Simon, had to return to his constituents, and has been re-elected by a majority increased to 2,766.

Walthamstow, on Middlesex Essex, is an industrial constituency, being mainly occupied by unskilled men who earn their wages in London, but live in Walthamstow. Many of the prominent Unionists wished Sir John Simon to be returned unopposed, allowing for this cause of Unionists' weakness, the election indicates that Mr. Asquith Government is holding its own.

Bouquets for Teddy.

New York, Nov. 3.—The Democratic state campaign here reached flood tide last night at a meeting in Carnegie Hall, where John A. Dix, the nominee for governor, made his first public address in the city. The meeting is conserved as the occasion for Mayor Gaynor's long-expected formal announcement of his support of the ticket.

Mr. Dix devoted the greater part of his 3,000-word speech to a denunciation of Theodore Roosevelt, whom he referred to as an apostle of tumult and the propagandist of unrepresentative legislator and egoist, creator of unrest, instigator of panic and destructive agent of business depression.

No Wife For Husband.

Kingston, Nov. 3.—Married but six months, Cora Bennett, when arraigned in the Police Court on a charge of vagrancy, said she had been left a life of shame because her husband Frank Bennett, was a drug fiend. Frank Bennett, was also locked up on the vagrancy charge. They came here from Syracuse two weeks ago. "Mrs. Bennett," said one of her callers on the streets said in the city parks. "My husband could not get work, we had no money, and he went to the 'dope resort,' she said. As they are American citizens, they will likely be deported.

Will Operate All Winter.

Port Arthur, Nov. 3.—For the first time since their establishment, in 1907, the Atikkian Iron Co.'s blast furnace will operate all through the coming winter. The success attending the manufacture of commercial iron from the highly-sulphurized ores of the Atikkian furnace has now been demonstrated beyond a doubt, and it is said as can be seen now, there'll no reason why the blast furnaces should ever again be closed.

What Is Vinol?

IT REPRESENTS TWENTY YEARS WORK OF TWO EMINENT CHEMISTS.

After twenty years of study two eminent French chemists discovered a method by which the alkaloids of medicinal elements of the cod's liver might be separated from the useless oil or gluten, retaining all the good of cod liver oil and dispensing with the bad, as the oil has no medicinal value. These wonderful elements blended with tonic iron and a mild medicinal wine—make Vinol.

Vinol is not a secret medicine, as its ingredients are printed on every bottle, and in all cases where the healing, strengthening influence of cod liver oil is needed, Vinol will give better results, for it contains all the nutritive medicinal properties of cod liver oil, but without the oil, and it is easily assimilated and acceptable to the weakest stomach.

For all run-down, weakened conditions, and to cure chronic coughs colds and bronchial troubles, Vinol is unexcelled. We sell it always with the understanding that if it does not do all we claim for it, we will refund the money paid us for it. The Rexall Store Drug Store, J. S. McEwen Belleville.

At Griffin's

A fine bill will be presented at this theatre for the last half of this week. There are three live acts also three reels of feature pictures.

What the press have to say of Geo. Auletta and his company, a singer and his verdant-appearing assistant making a laughing hit. His hat feature while expensive one entitles him to several rounds of applause. His comedy wire acts were as amusing as they were thrilling and combined to make him a favorite with the audience.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

George Auletta and his clever pianimous wire walking and hat breaking act, is of course the headline feature of the bill and saying goes would make a dog laugh. Dubuque Daily Telegraph.

Mlle. Dolores and Co., in their jingle act will surely please Mr. Esl. Martin as the "Mikado" in a screen and will please both old and young.

Ernie, the original and only one-legged roller skate artist introducing burlesque and fancy roller skating. Hand balancing and feats of strength on the horizontal bar is an act full of life from start to finish. Don't forget the biggest show for the smallest admission.

Owing to length of programme the first performance will start at 7:30 sharp.

No one questions the honest motives of those who advocate local option, or prohibition —not even we who brew Regal Lager. But the temperance folk who use Regal Lager as a daily beverage, for health's sake know from experience is the idea that so pure and tonic a drink is an intoxicant.

The Court of Revision in Toronto has had no little trouble in dealing with what value, during boom-times, should be put upon property for assessment purposes. The Toronto News says the following interesting facts were unfolded of the rise of Mr. Massey Street property up near College Street:—

The Burgess-Powell Company, who own Nos. 431-433, at the corner of Jan Street, appealed from an assessment of $40,257. Mr. Burgess, however, admitted that they had paid $60,000 for it. He said also that he would not sell it for $80,000, and its real value in a speculative sense was $150,000. The assessment, though, he said, should be based on the rental value not on the speculative values.

Mr. Burgess said they bought this property from Senator Cox six or seven months ago for $60,000, and would not had got it some four months before for $45,000.

Mr. W. A. Smith, one of the members of the court, said that he had a client who bought a piece of property on Church street, corner of Queen, years ago, and when the boom came on in connection with the stories about the Carlton-Yonge corner, he was offered $16,000 for it. He refused and was later offered $20,000.

Mr. Burgess got a reduction of $2,350 on the property, the court taking the view that it had been a "gamble" in real estate, and the intrinsic value could not be gauged at all by the purchase price. The appellants had, of course, themselves had not done this.

This points to the fact which is not properly respected yet, that the eye of the young are in an unstable or changing condition, and that every child before starting to school should have the widest field obtainable, if found abnormal, should have the refraction examined, then, if found much shortsighted, have the proper correction given. Many people who have only small defects of hyperopia or astigmatism which has given them little or no trouble during the early years of life, will when they have started in business which requires them more continuous close work, complain greatly of the headache or painful sight, or misfigured of the print after a long or hard day's work.

Council on Record As Favoring As Few Piers In Bridge As Possible

At Special Meeting Strong Resolution to That Effect Is Passed--Views To Be Forwarded To Railway Commission and to The C. P. R.

A special meeting of the City Council was held yesterday afternoon to discuss the matter of the number of piers to be used by the Canadian Northern Railway in the erection of the railway bridge over the river. Mr. Simmons, engineer of the Dominion Railway Commission, and Messrs. Greenwood and Mackenzie, engineers of the C. N. R., were in attendance.

The members of the Council present were Acting Mayor Wallbridge, Ald. Vermilyea, McCrodan, Chown, Parks, Carlaw, Knox, Canning, Bogle, Adams, Thompson, Flagler and Sills.

On motion, the Council went into committee of the whole to discuss the matter of the Canadian Northern Railway bridge across the mouth of the river, Acting Mayor Wallbridge in the chair.

Ald. Wallbridge said the aim of the Council in the matter was to get away as far as possible from any obstruction which would cause the backing up of the water in the river during the winter months and in the spring of the year. He thought it was possible to narrow up the river to some extent.

Mr. Greenwood said he was present on behalf of the C. N. R., but he was not in a position to say that the railway would alter their plans in reference to the bridge, which plans had been filed with the Railway Commission. He understood the Council had decided to leave the matter in the hands of the Railway Commission.

Ald. Carlaw thought that if the plans proposed were the same as the plans of the Meyers and Hawkins, there would be no need to discuss them.

Ald. Wallbridge was of the opinion that the city had fairly with the C. N. R. In this matter the only desire was to work for the best interests of the city. If the river was narrowed up to 380 feet one pier in the centre would only mean a span of 190 feet.

Ald. Vermilyea said the concensus of opinion in the city was there should be as few small a number of piers in the river as possible.

Ald. Thompson spoke of the old piers remaining until the month of July, which had the effect of preventing a flood in the backing up of the southern piers. He would do all in his power to protect the citizens in this matter, and favored a small number of piers as it was possible.

Mr. R. S. Bell, who was called upon, referred to floods which had occurred in the city and his opinion was that fewer piers would no doubt obviate the terrible of flooding caused by anchor ice backing up.

Ald. Carlaw said if the anchor ice could be got rid of the piers would be built in the river and no trouble ensue. He thought it would be a good idea for the C. N. R. to build two dams up the river, thus forming dead water and preventing the formation of anchor ice. Anchor ice is formed by shallow water flowing over the bed of the river. Under present conditions there should not be more than three piers, and only one if possible.

Mr. Greenwood said the Canadian Northern Railway realized that Belleville had dealt fairly with the company, but he had no authority to make or propose any change in the plan of the proposed bridge.

Mr. Simmons, being called upon, stated that he could not impart to the Council his ideas in this matter, but would have to report to the Government Commission. He was instructed to come here and obtain the views of the Council in regard to the matter.

Ald. Bogle said it was feared that there would be trouble in the city if seven piers were placed under the bridge across the river.

Mr. Greenwood suggested that the matter be allowed to lay in abeyance until the Railway Commission had reported upon the same, although it would mean some inconvenience to the railway.

Ald. Vermilyea moved, seconded by Ald. McCrodan, that it is the sense of the meeting that in the construction of the Canadian Northern Railway bridge over the River Moira in this city that as few piers as possible be placed in the river and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the C. N. R. Co. and to the Railway Commission.

Mr. Simmons asked if it would be possible for the Council to designate the number of piers they would like to have under the bridge.

Ald. Vermilyea—"We would like to have only two or three piers, but the motion was for the purpose of the C. N. R. and Railway Commission having something definite to carry away with them and consider."

Ald. Wallbridge said that all that was desired was to have as few piers as possible in the river.

Mr. Simmons—"With seven piers would you not have a better and freer water space?"

Ald. Adams—"If there were seven piers in the river and we had trouble would the C. N. R. compensate us?"

Mr. Simmons—"Could you not make that agreement with the city?"

Ald. Wallbridge—"Perhaps we can."

Mr. Simmons—"Would the Council be willing to have the river narrowed up to 380 feet and have but one pier in the river?"

Ald. Wallbridge—"Personally I would prefer that."

Ald. Adams stated that Mr. Simmons had informed him that a report on this matter would be forwarded to the Council from the Railway Commission. There might be suggestions in that report that the Council would desire to discuss.

The resolution proposed by Ald. Vermilyea was adopted.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted, and the Council adjourned.

OBITUARY

MRS. ANN DEAN.

Well Known Lady Passes Away at the Age of 74 Years.

Mrs. Ann Dean, widow of the late Mr. John Dean, passed away yesterday afternoon at the home of her only daughter Mrs. M. Johnston, Wicketstreet, after being ill for some time. Deceased was in the 74th year of her age. She was born in England but had resided in this County for the past 60 years and about 1 years of age. Mrs. Dean was twice married, her first husband being Mr. J. Palmer. For upwards of half a century the deceased had been a member of the Methodist church and was a lady who was esteemed by all who knew her. A family of two sons and six daughters survive. The sons are, F. Palmer, Foxboro and S. Dean of Thurlow, and the daughters are Mrs. Frankish, of California, Mrs. R. Hicks, of Mich., Mrs. H. Arnold of Chicago, Mrs. H. Reddick, of Minneapolis, Mrs. J. Johnston of Seaforth and Mrs. Wm. Johnston of this city

THE "INTERNATIONAL LIMITED."

One of the most artistic folders issued by the Grand Trunk is a brochure just out giving information regarding the "International Limited," which is heralded as Canada's fastest train, as well as its finest. The booklet is prepared in most attractive style, well printed and illustrated, while the esthetic relation of type and illustrations is maintained to a noticable degree. The story of the "International Limited," its familiar one to Canadian, as well as American, travellers, but, as shown in the latest publication of the Company, it is still not merely interesting but attractive. A full description of this train between Montreal and Chicago is given, together with all the information regarding time and accommodation, that any passenger could require, the whole tastefully put together and artistically illustrated. A copy may be had free on application to Grand Trunk City Office, Mr. H. C. Thompson, Belleville.

HOCKEY

The Ontario professional hockey league, with six teams and Western division, is being organized. A well founded report states that there are to be two divisions with four teams in each. The Western Ontario division will be made up of Guelph, Berlin, Acton and Brantford, and the Eastern to include Peterboro, Belleville, Picton and Port Hope. Organization of this league is said to be already well under way and arrangements for a meeting to elect officers are being made. The championship can be decided by the winners of the two divisions playing off. In Guelph the rink company will finance the team with Jimmy Cockman acting as manager.

THE RING

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—That Jack Johnson, the world's champion, is not afraid of anything is indicated in the announcement that the big colored fighter has been drafted by the Democrats as a campaign speaker, and that he will assail Col. Roosevelt as an enemy of the negro race.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Jack Johnson world's heavyweight champion, with a $20 000 guarantee offered, is likely to go to Paris to show some of the French and English fighters that there are a few kinks in the fight game with which they are not yet familiar. Johnson has received a cable from Paris making the big offer, with round trip transportation for four, and has started east to spend a couple of weeks in New York.

FOOTBALL

Hamilton Rugby authorities are trying to get back at Ottawa for the Kid Smith charges and now they have come out with a statement that Jack Williams of a professional ball player is having received money for playing with the Kingston Foxies but Williams claims that the team he played on were all amateurs, and that they played nothing but amateur teams. Ottawa people think that this latest charge is only a come back from the Smith charges, and that Hamilton is trying to put Ottawa in the same hole as the Tigers were put in when they were forced to drop Smith. Williams says he will go before the board of governors to stand investigation. We wonder who will be the next to be charged for breach of amateurism?

Can Argos beat Ottawa in Ottawa Saturday? Not if their backs do as much fumbling as they did Saturday—and Ottawas try hard to keep in condition will work a win. The same men were not a great football team by several cents worth and it still looks a near great team to beat the Rought Riders in their own back yard. And it might be well not to count the Montreals altogether out of the running as yet. The wet field did much towards working the Montreals' undoing in Montreal Saturday, it may be dry in Hamilton on Saturday and the result may be reversed. Anyway, it will be just as well to wait till the week-end before awarding any Big Four championships.

THE TURF

LATONIA, Ky., Nov. 3.—Jack Atkin demonstrated his racing quality to-day by picking up 123 pounds and defeating about the best of the six furlong horses at the track in the feature race of the day.

The report is travelling around the racing centres these days to the effect that the week-to-week circuit schedule, adopted by the Canadian racing associations last season, has been tried and found wanting, and that next year the jumps will be no fewer, and, as the fourteen day limit to a track per season cannot be increased, it naturally follows that the circuit will be more compact, unless new mile tracks should be created in populous centres of the Dominion, as is not improbable. In all probability the circuit will open about the same time as usual, but will close earlier. It is said the schedule will be so arranged that there will not be more than two days intervening between meetings, which will give just the time required for leisurely shipping of horses. Probably owing to the investigation which has been undertaken in behalf of the Ontario Jockey Club, in various centres, the report continues to spread that the pari-mutuels will be used exclusively in the Dominion next season, to the exclusion of all bookmakers. This report, to say the least, must be regarded as premature. To date Toronto is understood to have adopted a favorable attitude toward the machines and Hamilton may swing that direction, but to date there has been no intimation that Fort Erie or any of the other tracks will follow suit.

THE TURF, THE RING, BASKETBALL

BASEBALL

PITTSBURG, Nov. 3.—It looks now as if Dan Fletcher means business and that the third big league will be in operation next season. We are looking somewhat worried. Recreation Park on the North Side, used as a National League ball park years ago, was yesterday sold by United States Realty Company to a Western capitalist acting for the new outlaw league of D. A. Fletcher. The price paid was $60,000. (And that's what's causing the worry.)

The purchaser announced the new circuit would include Chicago, Cleveland, Louisville, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, St. Louis and possibly two other American Association cities. No mention is made of Toronto or Buffalo.

It was said that the American Association was interested and lending its support. Local business men have been asked to subscribe for stock in the new league, coming on the heels of Fletcher's announcement in Chicago that he has 20 old league players under contract. Indicates that Pittsburg is to have opposition ball next spring.

PHIADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—President Fogel of the Philadelphia National League baseball club, when asked to-day as to who would succeed Manager Dooin, said:

"There are four or five men in our club capable of running the team, and we won't go outside of the club to look for a manager."

It is likely that Shortstop Mike Doolan will be the choice.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—It is said on good authority that Artie Latham will not wear a Giant uniform next year as he will be let out to make room upon the eligible list for some useful player. Latham is more than 50 years old and noisy coaching is his only asset. He may amuse old-timers who remember him as a great ball player with Comiskey's St. Louis Browns but the new generation of fans seems to regard his efforts on the lines with disfavor.

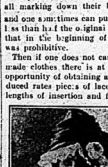
In The Wide World Of Woman.



NOW'S THE TIME TO BUY LINGERIE COWNS.

This is the season of the year to buy a lingerie gown cheap. The shops are all marking down their best models and one sometimes can purchase for a less than half the original price a frock that in the beginning of the season was prohibitive.

Then if one does not care for ready made clothes there is at present the opportunity of obtaining at greatly reduced rates pieces of lace and lovely lengths of insertion and flouncings.

IT'S FRENCH, BUT MAY BE EASILY COPIED.

The lingerie gown illustrated is a French creation; but as you see, it may be copied at small cost. The materials used are all over eyelet embroidery flouncings. The skirt consists of two deep pieces of the flouncing put together with a wide insertion of val lace. At the bottom of the skirt, under the scalloped edge of the flounce, is a scanty ruffle of the val-incidences lace. The peasant bodice is formed of eyelet and lace. Outlining the round back is a piping of black velvet.

MINOR POINTS IN FASHION

The new Paris models are showing more high collars than ever, and side frills, plisses and jabots are still in vogue for the tailored blouses of sheer linen.

Frocks for evening wear are largely trimmed with fringe of beading. Silk fan tunics are also embroidered with beads.

Wallet and green are the favorite colors just now, but black still leads, sequins and velvet in that shade being popular trimmings.

Empire girdles with long streamers have again become fashionable. They are usually in silk and satin, though ribbons of these fabrics are also employed.

Waists are trimmed with fur, and by a sort of reversal of the usual style gold lace hoods are worn over the hair.

With Persian gowns or turbans having of the same fabric and figuring will be used as bandeaux or interwining for the coiffure.

Open bags are being shown in moire, colored with heavy antique tapestry binding and gold lace trimming. The forms are square, of gold or copper.

Colored leather bags about eight inches wide are most fashionable, a moderate size, somewhere between the very small and the enormous bags.

IN THE WOMAN'S WORLD.

The woman suffrage amendment to the constitution of Oklahoma will be voted upon at the general election November 8 by order of Governor Haskell.

The State Agricultural College of Kansas has what it calls morale schools, which are sent about through the State to teach home economics to the girls who cannot attend college. Girls' home economics clubs are being formed in all parts of the State.

The Women's Trade Union League in New York, who with Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Inez Milholland are being sued for damages for the aid and comfort that they gave to the striking shirt waist girls, have engaged Louis D. Brandeis to defend them.

One woman out of every four in New York City is a wage-earner, and out of this army of workers only 47 per cent. earned more than $6 a week. Thirty-one per cent. of the women employed in factories work forty-eight hours a week, while fifty per cent. are forced to work from fifty-two to sixty hours a week.

Mrs. Potter Palmer is an enthusiastic fisherwoman, and is now on a small lake in Wisconsin, making a try for black bass and pickerel. While she has fished on many of the fish preserves in Europe, she was eager to try her skill in the wild lakes of the Northwest.

A FEW DON'TS.

Don't talk to any person; talk to them.

Don't dress loudly or showy.

Don't run down the customs of any other country when traveling in it.

Don't always mention the price of things.

Don't make yourself conspicuous by laughing or talking loudly.

Don't when on a holiday imagine that noise means enjoyment.

Don't compare the furniture in one friend's home with that in another's.

Don't imagine everyone else is more fortunate than you are.

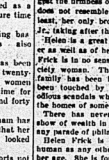
Don't forget there is no time like the present.

A WOMAN ATHLETE.

A young girl, Miss Margaret A Graham nineteen years of age, and employed in one of the silk mills of Massachusetts, has developed into a wonderful athlete. Always a lover of outdoor sports, she has just made a new record for women by throwing a baseball 262 feet and six inches.

Standing six feet three and three-quarters inches in her stocking feet and tipping the scales at 180 pounds Miss Graham was born in Ludlow Mass., and although employed as a mill operator, spends her leisure time in a local gymnasium.

She is a fast swimming, boxing basketball and tennis, she has also made remarkable records.



One of her sporting feats has been a one-hundred foot swim in twenty-three seconds. In skating for women from one to ten miles her time for half a mile was one minute and forty seconds.

As a fancy skater Miss Graham has acquired much local fame, so that her appearance is always eagerly looked for.

In discussing her love of sports not long ago she confessed to have been early aroused from a lethargic state by watching boys play baseball. Once interested, though the pleasure derived from it was almost all thoughts of excelling the boys, and it was only in her physical development became so great that the natural inclination to excel once more took possession of her.

She is apparently very modest over her achievements which have caused coaches and experts to wonder what her limit may be.

Plain, wholesome food she declares the proper sort to enable any girl to keep in good form. Of course of outdoor sports is followed.

HELEN FRICK, DAUGHTER OF PITTSBURG MILLIONAIRE.

Less is known about Helen Frick, the Pittsburg heiress, than about almost any other rich girl, says the New Idea Woman's Magazine.

Her portrait has been painted by a great artist, but the picture is jealously guarded by the family. It portrays a typical American girl, with broad forehead, wide apart hazel eyes, a wealth of reddish brown hair which falls naturally and a softly curved mouth. Only the nose and chin suggest the firmness of her character. She does not resemble her mother in the least, her only brother, Henry Price, Jr., taking after that parent in looks.

Helen is a great chum of her mother as well as of her big brother. Mrs. Frick is in no sense of the word a society woman. The home life of the family has been ideal, never having been touched by a breath of those odious scandals which seem to cling to the homes of some of the rich.

There has never been any garish show of wealth in the Frick home nor any parade of ostentation.

Helen Frick is just as femininely fond of clothes as any young woman of her age. She is fond of pretty clothes and likes to plan and shop for them herself. Most of her gowns are, during her visit to New York, for like the rest of the family, she cares little for European or its products, although she has, of course, traveled extensively abroad.

But shopping is not the unalloyed pleasure to her that it is to other girls because of the fact that when she starts on such an errand she is obliged to take two detectives in plain clothes along with her. She has objected strenuously to this time and again regarding it as an infringement on her personal liberty. But on this one point she has never been able to outgeneral her father.

A Guide to Good Manners.

If you are puzzled about a question of etiquette and have not time to consult the rules of good breeding, friend or relative apply the Golden Rule—to do as you would be done by—for this will almost always bring you out of your difficulty with flying colors. The expression "a nature's gentleman" is often applied to some simple minded and unsophisticated man who is thus guided, for, whether we be gentle or simple, the truest good breeding is shown by our care for the feelings of others.

Tungsten lamps, many with short and strong filaments to withstand shocks are coming into use for automobile headlights, the small voltage being an advantage over carbon filaments.

Pretzels are such unhandy things to pass around a table that a New Jersey man has invented a plate with a standard in the centre to hold them.

So perfect an insulator is dry air that it takes 10,000 volts of electricity to leap a gap or an inch.

Bedtime Hour For Guests.

Until the end of time it will probably be a mooted question whether guest or hostess should make the first move for retiring for the night. When staying in a house for the first time this is one of the most difficult points for a guest to decide, and it takes a great deal of tact and discernment to arrive at a correct conclusion.

On the basis that a hostess owns the house and the guest conforms there is no doubt that the person whose home it is should make the first move. One who is staying in the house for the first time cannot be expected to know the habits and rules of the place, including the hour for arising, on which greatly depends that for retiring.

In the summer house at country or seashore the chances are, if the host goes to town for business every day, that the whole household is up early. The hostess is certainly, as a rule, if her husband is a business man, in that case it is almost essential that they go to bed early. Logical as this conclusion may seem, a guest does well suggest going too early to her own room lest she should seem to be bored during the evening, and thus it is when both really would like to turn in to a reasonable hour they are often are kept up by a desperate attempt to be polite.

Facial Contortions Bad Form.

A great many of our facial contortions are due to nervousness, but if we owe to the same cause equally objectionable habits of tapping with the foot and handling small objects which happen to be within reach of restless fingers.

All of these annoying little habits are due to a lack of repose and lack of training in early youth to acquire control of the nerves.

So-unconscious are the perpetrators of these tricks that they will actually find fault with other people for like habits and be ignorant that they themselves are guilty of similar bad breeding.

It is really ill bred to have these restless habits, no matter how unconscious one is of possessing them, for anything ill bred that gives annoyance to others.

Facial contortions and grimaces are usual among womankind, and it really is too bad, because after awhile they cause lines and actually alter the expression for the worse.

A Guide to Good Manners.

If you are puzzled about a question of etiquette and have not time to consult the rules of good breeding, friend or relative apply the Golden Rule—to do as you would be done by—for this will almost always bring you out of your difficulty with flying colors. The expression "a nature's gentleman" is often applied to some simple minded and unsophisticated man who is thus guided, for, whether we be gentle or simple, the truest good breeding is shown by our care for the feelings of others.

UNITED PEACE REPLACES WAR

First Parliament of United South Africa Is Opened.

A BLAZE OF GLORY

Duke of Connaught Represents King George—Lemieux For Canada

(Intelligencer Special.)

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Nov. 4. —With the Union Jack of the British Empire raised to the staff head in every city and town throughout South Africa, which just ten years ago was disunited from within and without, and the scene of all the horrors of war, with every evidence today of loyalty to the British crown and institutions, and with every promise of becoming one of the most prominent stars in the crown of England's glory, the first Parliament of United South Africa was opened today by the Duke of Connaught, on behalf of his nephew, King George the Fifth. Hon. Louis Botha, Premier, formerly General of the forces which fought against the British, replied to the Duke's remarks in a most loyal speech. There were representatives from all the colonies and nations present. Hon. Rudolph Lemieux spoke for Canada.

PRESERVES PARK FOR THE PUBLIC

Cochrane To Keep The Algonquin For The People

PROGRESSIVE STEP

Threatened Destruction Of Magnificent Forests Leads To Step.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—One of the most progressive steps yet taken by the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines for the conservation of the natural resources of Ontario was announced yesterday by Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, involving the settlement of the question that has arisen over the rights of certain licensees to cut timber within the boundaries of Algonquin Park, by a payment of $200,000 out of the provincial treasury. The licenses are held by the Mum Lumber Co., Orillia, and include nearly every kind of timber found in that part of the province.

While no statement is forthcoming as to the final form which the $200,000 will be drawn, it is not unlikely that debentures will be issued to provide the amount. The negotiations have been carried on for nearly three months, and the settlement necessitated a survey of that portion of the park involving 100 square miles, which was done under the personal supervision of the Minister.

What the saving to the province is can only be estimated, but apart from the conservation of the natural beauty of Algonquin Park, and maintaining it as a forest reserve and game preserve, the value of the timber this secured from destruction is said to be in the neighborhood of one million dollars.

A statement was given out yesterday by Hon. Frank Cochrane, in which he said:

"It is well-known that the destruction of the beauties and uses of the Algonquin National Park was threatened by certain timber licenses, proceeding to cut and remove varieties of timber other than pine, which their licenses gave them the right to do. As soon as the devastation began an outcry arose, and the Government promptly resumed the company to cease cutting, in order to arrive, if possible, at some arrangement whereby, without injustice to them or the public, the park might be preserved to the people of the province for the uses to which it was dedicated by act of the Legislature.

"The territory was set apart in 1893 to provide a public park and forest reserve, fish and game preserve, health resort and pleasure ground for the benefit and enjoyment of the people of the province. A staff of rangers were placed in it, the game protected, and forest fires kept out. All this has entailed a large expenditure. Now the park is alive with game of all kinds, deer and beaver being very numerous. It has become a great pleasure resort. Thousands of people have visited it and it is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful natural parks in the Dominion, if not on this continent.

STAGGERING BLOW FOR LAURIER GOVERNMENT

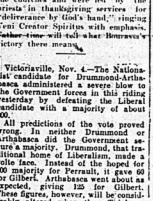
Nationalist Candidate Wins In Drummand Bye Election By a Majority of 200—Bourassa Says Victory Would Be Repeated In Any County In Province.

LIBERALS THROUGHOUT COUNTRY PARALYZED

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—Despatches from all parts of Canada this morning indicate general astonishment at the sweeping victory for Nationalist candidate Gilbert over the Liberal, Perrault, at Arthabasca yesterday. All editorial comments agree that Laurier's navy policy, assisted by the Nationalist appeal to racial prejudice did the trick. Bourassa, interviewed in Montreal this morning, says it is an augury for the success of his party. The victory would be repeated, he said, in any county of Quebec.

LIBERALS APPREHENSIVE.



(Intelligencer Special.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—There is no concealment of the fact that the Liberal leaders are very apprehensive about the result in Arthabasca and what may follow in Quebec at the general elections. Some go so far as to predict the early retirement of Sir Wilfrid. The Premier hasn't made a statement yet. That an alliance between the Church and Nationalists was very close is shown by the fact that when they were assured of victory at Victoriaville they paraded to the churches and were led by "the priests" in thanksgiving services for "deliverance by God's hand," singing Veni Creator Spiritus with emphasis. Father time will tell what Bourassa's victory there means.

Victoriaville, Nov. 4.—The Nationalist candidate for Drummond-Arthabasca, administered a severe blow to the Government forces in this riding yesterday by defeating the Liberal candidate with a majority of about 200.

All predictions of the vote proved wrong. In neither Drummond or Arthabasca did the Government secures a majority. Drummond, that traditional home of Liberalism, made a polite face. Instead of the hoped for 500 majority for Perrault, it gave 60 for Gilbert. Arthabasca went about as expected, giving 125 for Gilbert. These figures, however, will be considerably altered when the official returns come in from the widely-scattered polling districts.

One of the great surprises of the election was the English-speaking vote. There are about 500 English-speaking electors in the riding, and it was thought that the impassioned anti-imperialist appeals of the Nation-

M. GILBERT,
The Winning Candidate.

alists would have turned these solidly to the Liberal side. That was not the case, and apparently the majority of them voted as they were used to, against the Government.

Of the two remaining English-speaking divisions, Tingwich gave a majority of 8 for Perrault, while Birnes gave a plurality of 26 for Gilbert. Aston, which is largely English, gave only 19 for Perrault.

Arthabaskaville itself, the Premier's home, furnished another surprise, and gave a majority of 25 for Perrault, the first time since 1877 that the parish has given a Liberal majority.

The full returns of the vote can as yet be given, owing to incomplete figures. Straggling returns from various districts show a considerable variation from the telephonic figures, it being reported that Perrault's 56 majority for Perrault, instead of 9, as first reported.

From the start, Gilbert took the lead. Victoriaville giving him a majority of 67. Then this grew, with nearly divisions, to close upon 200. The results were received in silence, everybody looking to Drummondville to offset this Arthabasca vote. But as the returns kept coming over the wire, it became apparent that this old-time Liberal county had changed, and long before the final returns were received, the manager of the Liberal campaign stated they had met defeat, and that all they was left was to figure Gilbert's majority.

If there was no enthusiasm exhibited during the day, the pentup feelings of the victorious candidate found ample expression last night, when Gilbert, the victorious candidate, with Messrs. Lavergne and Sevigny of Quebec, arrived here from Arthabaskaville.

The procession formed up and, as arranged, at which religion and politics were fully discussed, Gilbert calling upon the audience to sing "Veni Creator" as a token of thanksgiving for victory, and the audience caught the idea, and sang the ancient chant with resonant effect.

The Nationalist leaders were met at the station by a big crowd, headed by the town band, and escorted to the town hall, which resounded with spurious cheers.

Gilbert was cheered to the echo, and in opening said it had been a victory of David over Goliath, with his friends as the real heroes. It was, he said, a providential victory, for which they should thank God. He called for "Veni Creator," after which "O, Canada" was sung with equal enthusiasm.

NEGOTIATIONS TO BEGIN SATURDAY

United States Experts Ready For New Ottawa Conference."

FIELDING ANNOUNCES

Minister Of Finance and Minister of Customs To Conduct Negotiations.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—It was announced officially by Hon. W. S. Fielding last night that Mr. Henry M. Hoyt, counsel for the United States Department of State, and Mr. Chas. M. Pepper of the Bureau of Trade Relations, will be here on Saturday to begin the negotiations looking to reciprocity between Canada and the United States. They will confer with the Dominion Government through its representatives, the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Customs.

The conference is expected to get to work with the fewest preliminaries. No announcement as to the outcome may be forthcoming for some time, but the negotiations will be carried on with as little delay as possible, and some progress, if such is at all possible, may be made before Parliament assembles a fortnight hence.

It is believed that Messrs. Pepper and Hoyt will come here quite ready to indicate clearly the extent to which the United States is prepared to go and, furthermore, there is reason to believe that the views of the Canadian Government have been carefully considered. As a consequence, concrete proposals are likely to be exchanged very shortly after the conference begins.

THREE MEN MEET A SUDDEN DEATH

Scaffolding on Big Stand Pipe At Weston Gives Way

FALL 100 FEET

Rivetting The Last Plate At The Top When Trestles Broke.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—The mutilated remains of three men were taken from beneath the waterworks stand pipe at Weston shortly after noon hour yesterday. At the time they were still living, but only nearly were they injured that they shortly passed away.

The dead men are: James McVey, 629 East Gerrard street; Robert McGregor, boarding at Weston, and Elen Mehta, a Macedonian known as Louis Smith, 18 Eastern avenue, Toronto.

The men were engaged rivetting at the top of the pipe, when the scaffolding upon which they were engaged gave way without warning. The collapse was a complete one, nothing being left but the pipe, which is but low than was a sheer drop of close to a hundred feet.

Other workmen were engaged near at hand, and when they heard the grinding of the timbers as they gave way, they rushed to the bottom of the pipe, but all that was left for them to do was to haul out the mutilated bodies from the mass of splintered lumber.

The stand pipe is of steel construction, and was fast nearing completion, only a few of the being left to be added on. The scaffolding inside was built up from the bottom, and an idea of how complete the collapse was may be gained when it is known that it fell almost from the top of the ladder being found on top of the pile.

McVey was the foreman of the six men who have been employed putting up the stand pipe since early in the summer. With him on the scaffold was McGregor and the Macedonian.

From the top of the pipe another scaffold was hung outside the pipe, and upon this another workman was engaged helping in the rivetting. The platform upon which he was standing was in no way connected with the one within the pipe, and to that fact he owes his life.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. Their secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by the hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising either to cover, inside or envelope. COMPACT WORKBAG.

It Makes a Nice Christmas or Traveling Gift.

A BIRDSEYE VIEW OF THE BAG.

The chief charm of this workbag lies in its compactness and handiness. The bottom being oblong, double, is arranged that it, opens and forms a needlecase, scissors holder and pincushion, with a small pocket for buttons, etc. The second portion is secured to the bottom of the bag by means of buttonhole hinges on one side and pins on the other. To make the bag you will require four pieces of cardboard four inches square and enough silk ribbon wide enough to form the bag. The bag is more convenient if fairly shallow. Six inches deep is a good size. Narrow satin ribbon is needed for a runner and a small piece of white flannel for the needlecase; also pins, needles, cotton tape, thimble, buttons, etc., for furnishings. Form your squares of cardboard into octagons by cutting off the corners. Line each with fine flannel and face each piece with satin, catching it by means of long stitches at the back.

Secure a strip of narrow ribbon across the middle, one end then sew each pair of edges together to form two octagon pieces with the satin outside. The bag is secured to the octagon with a strip of ribbon which is underneath and gathered slightly. Join up at the side, turn in the top and make the running casing and buttonhole openings at each side to pass the ribbon through. Now cut a little pocket of cardboard to fit the other octagon. Face both sides with satin, make and sew on the flannel flaps for the needles and sew this to the second octagon, which is then secured to the bottom of the bag by means of three

Have You Neuritis?

This seems to be a neuritis age. Almost everything you meet is being laid to nerve strain and telling of the pain it gives her.

It is small comfort that we bring these pains on ourselves by our way of living. What we want to know is how to get rid of our discomfort.

The surest time to do this is at the first sign. Neglected, neuritis is acute agony that may not yield to remedies through long years. The first thing to be done is to go easy. Stop rushing, let up on your round of engagements, cut out bridge, even the care of your children for part of each day—anything to give you a long rest.

Live simply, in the open air, but do not make the mistake of overexercising. Your nerves need rest, not excitement.

Eat simple food, for dyspepsia is hard on nerves, and neuritis is a disease of the nerve centers.

Stop worrying. Learn to let things slide and cultivate optimism.

Take daily massage. If you cannot afford to get some one in your family or one of your maids to rub the arm from the shoulder down in circular sweeping motions. Use a little cold cream or cocoa butter to avoid friction.

Electricel treatment is excellent for neuritis, but should only be taken under advice of a physician. In cases of acute pain this is the only thing that will relieve it.

When the pain becomes acute the arm should be kept very warm. In cold weather this is done by wrapping it in cotton wadding; in summer a light knitted shawl of wool will be found soothing. Do not let your neuritis run on too long without consulting a doctor. There may be some serious cause that only treatment will cure. As the doctor will doubtless insist upon complete rest, it is well to forestall him by taking a partial rest

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

Guy Fox plot discovered, 1604.

CURRENT EVENTS.

Here is another Hallowe'en prank A gang of young fellows in Prescott, Ont., were going along the street when they met a lad named Miller, aged 12 years. They seized him, frightened him, and to scare him still more, tossed him over a nearby fence, when he fell and broke his arm. None of the offenders are known. These ruffians should have a month or two in jail.

In another column of this day's issue will be found a graphic account of a mouse plague in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. As the Leader Government takes credit for the bountiful harvests of late years, is it not fair by the same parity of reasoning to hold it responsible for this mouse plague? After all, these mice are but pupils of grafting Laurierites, both devouring everything within sight.

There must be a strong feeling in Drummond and Arthabasca against the Laurier Government. A Liberal majority of 2,476 in 1901 turned in a minority of about 242 in 1908, is a wonderful change. This, too, against a combination of Laurier (personally), a dozen M. P.'s, M. P. P.'s, the Government and bonds, proves that among the electors Laurier's sun is setting.

The programme has been completed for a Central Ontario Adult Bible-Class conference, to be held under the joint auspices of the Ontario Sunday School Association and the Toronto Federation of Adult Bible Classes, in the Bloor Street Presbyterian Church on November 24 and 29. The meeting is to be addressed by the Rev. Joseph Clark, B.D., of Columbus, Ohio, who is said to be one of the most bright and most inspiring speakers in the Sunday School world. Prominent features of the meeting will be separate conferences for officers and also men and women.

It must not be forgotten that the bi-lingual schools were created by the Ross Government after the discovery had been made that Administration was conducting schools from which English was excluded. It was supposed at the time that the schools would be an improvement upon the state of things in that they would enable the children to learn English. Bishop Fallon, however, maintains that they are failures, in that they give no education in either language. This is a matter requiring attention, with a view to the application of such reformatory measures as may be prudent. Recognizing this fact, the Whitney Government has ordered an investigation.

Germany appears to be determined to have a navy equal to any other country. Newspapers now state that the forthcoming naval estimates will exceed the previous ones by $5,000,000, making a record total of more than $115,000,000. A significant item is a provision for a naval attache at Vienna, where Germany hitherto has had none. The appointment of such an attache shows recognition of the importance by Germany of the Austrian fleet. Were it not that Laurier has declared that Canada is not to take part in any foreign war unless he approves of the quarrel, one could understand why Germany is increasing her navy. But, then, Laurier might approve; hence Germany is alarmed.

Mr. F. W. Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carter of this city, was united in marriage yesterday to Miss M. Maston, the eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs. George Maston, of Prince Edward County. The ceremony took place in the Holy Trinity Church, Fergusson Ave., Rev. Mr. Owen, officiated. The bride was attired in pretty rolling suit which was very pretty and many beautiful presents were presented to them. The happy couple left for Detroit and other cities. Their future home will be in Toronto. Their many friends wish them every success in wedded life.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE AT QUEENSBORO FRIDAY

Barns of Mr. Eugene Johnson Suddenly Discovered to be in Flames.

What might have proved a very disastrous fire, occurred about 3 o'clock Friday morning when the barns of Mr. Eugene Johnson at Queensboro was found to be in flames. The contents of the barn, viz.: a valuable horse, buggy, cutter and also some poultry were burned. Great excitement prevailed in the village, as the barns are in the center of the block, and it was feared lest the fire might spread to other buildings. The origin of the fire is as yet a mystery. It is understood that the barn and contents were partly insured.—Tweed News.

Laurier Losing.

Well, the Drummond-Arthabasca election has passed into history, and our French-Canadian friends will forget for a time to shout Vive Laurier! or Vive Bourassa! On the average Canadian the result matters little, but the contest was more or less interesting from the fact that it furnished evidence that many French-Canadians have ceased to regard Laurier as a little tin god, so to speak, and have found a new idol in Bourassa. Laurier's double-dealing policy has been too much for even the people of his own race and creed, and many have turned to a man for guidance in whom they have confidence. Many French-Canadians do not know where Laurier stands to-day; many English-speaking Canadians are equally at sea as to his principles and ideals. But there are some, both among the English-speaking, and French-speaking Canadians who know precisely where the wily Premier stands. His sympathies are those akin to Bourassa's, but in order to hold power he is compelled to consent to a programme at variance with his sympathies. This accounts for the growing defection in the French-Canadian ranks of the Liberal party. Many of our Quebec friends cannot bring themselves to longer worship a leader who is not powerful enough to express his true sentiments and accomplish the things they most desire, but who must play a part in order to curry favor with the rest of Canada and hold the reins of office. It would be well if a larger portion of English Canada read Laurier as clearly as many of the people of his own race and tongue are beginning to do.

1910 vs. 1877

Laurier's Defeat

In 1877 Sir Wilfrid met, in Drummond and Arthabasca, his first Waterloo. In 1910 it has been repeated.

In 1877 the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier (now Sir Wilfrid) was taken into the Mackenzie Government, sworn in as Minister of Inland Revenue, and returned to his constituency, Drummond and Arthabasca, for re-election, and was defeated, resulting ultimately in the overthrow, a year after, of the Mackenzie Government. Though not in sympathy with the Government, nor with the Bourassa policy, both being inimical to British connection, there will be no regret at the result in Drummond and Arthabasca. No change in the Government of the country could be worse than the present combination of Rouge-Grits.

Rounding Up Roosevelt

It is hard for a great man to be always great in the sense which the world measures greatness. If it sticks to the game which he is playing he generally, sooner or later, discovers that he is holding a losing hand and must acknowledge defeat, for the time being at any rate. A man does not always win, no matter how expert he is at the game he is playing. Sooner or later superior forces developed and he must take the count, so to speak. It looks now as if Roosevelt would have to acknowledge defeat in the contest he has waged in New York State, despite the characteristic vigor he has put into it. It is altogether too bad, for our friends across the border still need the dominating influence of Roosevelt in public affairs. There cannot be too much Roosevelt. In absolute monarchy, even, it just is better than a democracy, say, it unjust. No sensible person would claim that Theodore Roosevelt is absolutely faultless. But no sensible person, unless blinded by prejudice, would deny that Roosevelt is a thoroughly honest man who has the interests of the American people at heart. Ever since Lincoln has the trust of the American people been given so thoroughly to a man as to Roosevelt. Roosevelt has clearly outlined the issue of the present campaign in New York State. Said he:—

"Three essential points were made in our platform of principles—the three points upon which the contest this fall in New York is to be waged. In the first place: that we stand, not timidly, not half-way, but aggressively, for honesty in public and business life.

"In the next place: that we stand for governmental efficiency; and in the third place: that we stand for the right of the people to control themselves, and not to be controlled by some one else. Those are, in sum, the three essential points of our platform."

Dix, the candidate of the Democratic party, was selected by Charles M. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, and everyone knows who that means. Mr. Dix has an excellent personal record, but this does not and cannot affect the fact that he was Murphy's choice and can and must wear the Murphy collar. It is easy to retort that Roosevelt was boss of the Saratoga convention. But Henry L. Stimson's record shows that he is not likely to wear the collar of any man and between Roosevelt and Murphy as bosses, most people would choose the former.

MICE INFEST PLEASANT BAY IN CAPE BRETON

Myriads of Rodents Visit Section--Eat Up The Grain And Devastate Potato Patches--No Remedy In Sight and Outlook For Winter Is Bad.

The Halifax Herald says that a plague of mice that is causing great alarm is prevailed in Pleasant Bay, on the northwestern coast of Cape Breton, some twenty miles beyond Chetican camp.

This year a dread plague—one of those occasional visitations that are inexplicable—threatens to devastate the place. Dr. Patterson, in his history of the county, gives a graphic story of "The year of the mice." 1909 is "the year of the mice" in Pleasant Bay. The mice invade swarms with this destructive creature. The housewife on her way to the dairy or the well will come upon a group of these hairy animals, strolling across her path. They have burrowed underground and excavated a network of subterranean roads for themselves. The cats have grown weary of killing them, although in the earlier stages of the plague it was not an uncommon thing to find a dozen mice corpses about the door, telling the story that pussy was not sleeping all the night. There is an actual case reported of a cat that was suckling her young in the barn having been locked out over night. Before morning she had piled up twenty-six dead mice in front of the barn door.

The mice began their destructive work on the hay crop, cutting it as it stood in the field. When that was stored they attacked the grain. To show how completely they have done their work it need only be instanced that from the forty farmers (of course many of the farmers are fishermen too) there have been only seven bushels of grain saved in the entire settlement. Next they destroyed the garden vegetables and many a dinner during the coming winter will lack the usual delicacy imparted to it by the addition of carrots, cabbage, parsnips and beets. Already the mice have attacked the potatoes and the diggers on opening up the drills find a little more than the skins of the larger potatoes left in the ground. The mice have carried their work of destruction to the woods and are stripping off the bark from the tender saplings and shrubs as far as they can reach. Now they are entering the houses, cutting their way through the walls and threatening to destroy clothes, curtains, carpets, and the household furniture generally.

CHILDREN BORN DRUNK

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 4.—British doctors are all worked up over the growing intemperance among women. The weight of medical opinion is against the liquor trade. Addressing a big north of England demonstration Dr. Bruce Johnson of Salford, rejected that the grape crop was a failure this year everywhere in Europe.

He went on to endeavor to show that imbecile children are born in great numbers after seasons in which the vintages are good. The schools of Switzerland and Austria are full who said of short witted children born in vintage localities.

From that he warned British women that their drunken habits are becoming a national reproach, since American and other visitors are constantly commenting on the number of women thronging the liquor saloons.

Dr. Bruce Johnson said the figures of children in the slums of Edinburg and York who were born drunk, thousands of feeble-minded babies imbibed alcohol from birth. Fireside drunkards often feeble-minded because of honey moon intemperance.

These and many other medical testimonies are being given to disprove the contention of Prof. Karl Pearson of London that children of alcoholic parents are as strong as others if placed in proper environment.

AMERICAN EASY FOR LONDON CROOK

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A young American of the name of Chaudet has been robbed of money and drafts for a considerable amount by an unknown swindler.

Mr. Chaudet met seeing London's sights, and succeeded in the street by a stranger who entered into a conversation with him. The pair took refreshment at a public house, and afterwards Mr. Chaudet smoked a cigar which had been given him by the stranger.

The cigar, Mr. Chaudet thinks, was "doped" because he fell into a semi-conscious condition. When he recovered his chance acquaintance had disappeared and he found that he had been robbed of bank notes to the value of £100.

The thief also took Mr. Chaudet's return ticket to America and two gold coins on English banks for large sums. These, however, were returned later through the mail.

RIGHT WAY TO BRUSH TEETH

Painstaking Care During Childhood Pays Handsomely.

There are harmful as well as beneficial ways of brushing teeth, says the Designer.

A too vigorous application of the brush sensitive of the teeth may result in forcing the gums away from the backs of the teeth, leaving the roots more or less exposed. The gums require the friction of the brush as well as the teeth, but this friction should be applied in such a way as to force the gum down over the tooth instead of away from it. To accomplish this the brush should be given a rotary motion, letting the bristles impinge against the gums and the teeth on the downward trip and against the lower ones on the upward trip. This will cause the gum to force the bristles in between the teeth and force out any particles of food which may be lodged between them.

If the gums show a tendency to bleed in brushing, the brush should be continued in this way with cold water till the bleeding stops, and by this means the gums will be hardened and become normal. If this does not cure the gums the cause should be referred to a dentist to learn if there are not some hard deposits forming under the gums in the way of tartar.

The ...Veiled Lady...

Don't humiliate me, Jack!" said the pretty chatelaine, as she fled away to join her most unruly guests. The roses nodded and smiled around the old home on this happy day!

General Everett, informed by some subtle freemasonry, essayed an ovation at dinner, which brought rosy blushes to Marguerite's cheek. Thi-effort was saluted by a gust of wild laughter from Flossie, who said archly, "You dear old prophet! I knew this secret ages, yes! ages ago!" Gordon gazed around the table, and sought refuge and protection from the free lance Flossie, in the tender glances of the woman, who watched with love and pride, his now tranquil face! It was safe at last to take her home!

Two weeks later, Jack Gordon sat as if stunned, in the room where Marguerite Calhoun had so recently plight ed him her life troth! An open letter was in hand. It was signed by Jo-f Eschenlaub, the still unsatisfied v-let of the Shaheen-teins. It told the whole shameful story of the grave yard fraud, and of Irene's lying decei. Gordon passed his hand over his bloodshot eyes.

"Am I dreaming? Am I in my right mind?" For the mere word of gold had let the discarded lover on, to tell the story of Comparsino! "I can give you all the proof I can prove what I say! And Montreal woman you want, is not alive! Your agent is deceiving you!

Who knows how much she has paid him?" And so, poor Jack Gordon learned at last of the awful degradation of the "Veiled Lady."—His last ship was wrecked!

"I know not the present location of the woman you seek; but she is surely alive; and just the same as ever! It was a traveling show!" — For two long hours, Jack Gordon, with tears in his hopeless eyes, communed with the gentle woman, who sat as still as a waxen specter! — The hands of the saddened man fell on her cold as death blow.

"I have now told you all, Margueri det! all!" said the dejected medi and what can we do? His voice was eager. Its intensity was heightened by his eyes burning in a strange fever!

"My darling!" said his hostess, you know how I come of a race and chara which do not admit any separation of what has once been joined, before the altar of God! — You ask me,— you ask me, Gordon, what can we do! Nothing!" said the loving lady as she smiled through her tears "Nothing! my love! We can only be true to ourselves,—and wait! Some day,—some day, my own, we can be all in all to each other!"

"I am bound," whispered Gordon "in a slave's shameful chain, — but you are free! My beautiful darling! It is too hard!"

"I am yours, till my last dying breath!" the mistress of Fair Oaks said simply. "I will marry no man but you! You can trust me, Gordon!" The soldier covered her hands with hungry kisses! Like a white rose, leaning on a bended stem, she stooped and silently kissed her lover! Marguerite Calhoun glided away to her hopeless sorrow and left the dazed jarring lover gazing at her vacant chair—A stroke of the Gods!

"This is a world of surprises!" growled old General Everett, as he left Montreal, the changed atmosphere of the home of sudden happiness! — "I think I will go over to Washington and look up the other fellows at the club!"—Military prudence! — He's would be "out of the line of fire there!"

Flossie, the invincible, moped around the house. "I will find out this lurking secret," she declared, "if it takes me an eternity! yes! an eternity! She stamped her little arched foot, as she uttered this piece of wisdom, and muttered, " All men are fools! Why she's simply madly in love with that man! It is unheard of!" And with a pardonable pride, even in this unfortunate trouble, she said — with a toss of her dauntless head, —"Ill am glad Gordon is not in our regiment! That's all!" Flossie had her ideas of discipline!

Alas! Miss Flossie's merry viaduct as to this lovers quarrel, was no help to the unhappy beings who repeated daily that sad refrain. "We must wait!"

In two weeks, Gordon quietly announced: "I think I will go out to California, Maxwell is thinking of leaving the service, and I must settle some business with him!" "That Will!"

"Where does he go?" said Marguerite, with an anxious glance, as General Everett protested against the loss, of such a promising young officer to the service.

"He intends to marry Rose Durnford soon, and go to Europe, and take charge of the foreign branches of the great steel works!" the cavalryman replied.

Marguerite Calhoun dropped her dreaming eyes; they filled with sudden tears. Miss Flossie dominated out of the room, with a "Parthian shaft at random sent"; "I am glad that some one is going to be married!" She was of rigid ideas as to the Law of Contracts! —

Before the eyes of the heart broken Marguerite, rose the tableau of that early gray morning on the far away plains when Ruth Heart subdided with his wounded body, the man who boldly faced death for her, "It is too much I cannot live it!" I must suffer alone! A day will come when you can look at me in the face and say 'Be mine!' But! Jack! My Heriberta! I am proud of you! —and this blow almost breaks my heart!—

My own soldier!"

"And will you wait, Marguerite?" Gordon asked in loving unrest. Her answer was unheard, as she threw herself sobbing, on his bosom. He knew now that Orton had spared him a full report, to save needlessly rend ing his soul. He departed quietly, and left the gentlest heart on earth breaking in silence!

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF

CURES CROUP

In attacks of this dangerous disease prompt attention is all-important. The moment signs of Croup appear apply Radway's Ready Relief freely to the throat and chest, and take internally a quantity of the Syrup of Ipecac to produce vomiting. If this treatment is followed not one case in a thousand will prove fatal. Ask for RADWAY'S and be sure you get what you ask for.

Bitter Toward Grand Trunk.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 4.—Things look rather hopeless here for the Grand Trunk trainmen who lost their jobs at the time of the strike. Fourteen unemployed men have had no say of hope that they would be given back their old runs. Feeling is bitter towards the railroad, and the men and their sympathizers do not hesitate to say that the road has violated their understanding of the agreement which was instrumental in bringing the strike to a peaceful end. The men declared that they know of no acts of violence that any of their number participated in. This was the only reason given by the road for refusing any striker his old job back again.

Attacked Captain With Knife.

Kingston, Nov. 4.—Michael Divine, a young man and well-known character, was arrested last night. It is

[illegible] the county gaol of a [illegible]

In Charleston, S. C., the writer came across a man transplanting palmetto trees in a public square. He noticed that each tree had a small white string tied to one leaf frond. Not seeing how such a thing could identify any particular tree, as all the strings were exactly similar, he asked what they were for. He was informed that before the tree was dug up a string was tied to the part facing the morning sun, so that when the tree was replanted it could be placed with the same face to the east, that a palmetto tree would die if transplanted in any other manner.

Is it possible that in all tree transplanting this rule is followed? It certainly is not necessary in places of one of two seasons' existence. The reason apparently is not hard to understand. If a plant gets used to having one side warmed first every morning for several years, its sap there consequently expanding and becoming quickened, it is extremely probable that certain automatic actions are set up that require the same routine for good working. However, no explanation of the phenomenon can be recalled.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Hope is so sweet with its golden wings that at his last sigh man still implores it.—De la Pena.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

SNCLAIRS SINCLAIRS

FLING AT HYDRO.

Hon. G. P. Graham Implies That He Has a Scheme Up His Sleeve.

Brockville, Nov. 4.—Hon. G. P. Graham, the Minister of Railways and Canals, was the honor guest of his friends last night, when he spoke to the Young Liberals' Club. The Minister treated at a wide range of political subjects, dealing with the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Hudson Bay Railway, the Georgian Bay Canal scheme, the enlargement of the Canadian canals' system, the deepening of the harbors, etc.

All these projects, he argued, were necessary to keep pace with the rapid development of Canada, and the large expenditures which they entailed he blandly defended. He dealt minutely with his railway policy, and intimated that at its present rate of construction the Canadian Northern would clash with the C.P.R. and the G.T.P. in becoming a transcontinental line.

Mr. Graham took credit for helping his constituency in the Canadian Northern acquiring the Brockville, Westport and Northwestern Railway, and he threw out the hint that in the not distant future the Grand Trunk would have direct communication of its own between Ottawa and Toronto through Brockville. He spoke in the strain of a man having some inside information without imparting details.

He also took a fling at the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, saying the commission never made a genuine offer of cheap power to Eastern Ontario. This section of the country, if the Minister is sincere, would be given entire and equal opportunity of competing with Western Ontario by the powers that be at Ottawa, as he is at present working out a plan by which Eastern Ontario will get all the power it needs for manufacturing purposes at a small cost.

A Rap at Toronto.

London, Nov. 4.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Sir Alfred Mond, in a lengthy interview in The Morning Leader, said the people of England ought not to take their views of Canada from Toronto, the headquarters of the Canadian protectionist party.

Sir Alfred Mond found in the eastern part of Canada relatively little known of the strength of the movement in the west towards free trade, and yet he was surprised at the number of free traders seen in the east.

He was still more surprised at the fact that the leading and most influential newspapers in the east were free trade papers.

The Morning Post says it is now realized that the vociferous assertion here of a sweeping free trade agitation in Canada is a record achievement of political bunkum. The typical pillar of the glorious cause of Mond.

Schoolboys Strike.

Windsor, Nov. 4.—Peculiar conditions arose in Park street school, this city, during the absence of Principal Downey from the city for a few days. Twelve boys went on strike, and trouble is said to have occurred because a substitute engaged to fill Mr. Downey's place during his absence was a Catholic teacher.

Mr. Downey returned and took charge of his class yesterday, and all the twelve strikers are also back but Inspector Hall says he will punish them for their action.

Canadian Nurse Dead.

Detroit, Nov. 4.—Miss Mary E. Feenan, a Canadian girl, and a graduate nurse of St. Mary's Hospital, Detroit, died here yesterday after a long illness of her profession. She contracted typhoid fever three weeks ago while acting for a patient. Miss Feenan was a daughter of Timothy Feenan of Tilbury, Ont.

A Permanent Secretariat.

London, Nov. 4.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—What is contemplated in the Colonial Office is a permanent secretariat for the dominions, whose official spokesman in the Commons would be the Premier. This expansion will not occur for some time.

Big Mail From Britain.

London, Nov. 4.—The Postmaster-General's report shows the weight of letters and postcards despatched to Canada and Newfoundland in 1909-10 to be 453,000 pounds; circulars, book packets and newspapers, 1,589,000 pounds, while there was received 333,000 pounds and 1,030,000 pounds, respectively.

The number of parcels despatched was 314,700, received 191,671. The "C.D.D." system is rapidly fostering the trade within the Empire of small articles.

Jailed For Ill-Treating Horse.

Brockville, Nov. 4.—For cruelly ill-treating a horse, Duane Shipman of Ivy Lea, was sentenced to sixty days in jail by Magistrate Jones. As the result of exposure to the elements without covering, the animal contracted paralysis, and had to be shot.

A Municipal Hop.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—First Ward, in a clearing way out in Milwaukee election, in which the Socialist elected Mayor Seidel as chief city official, was announced in the date of the first municipal "hop" over given by a city in America.

MARRIED IN TOILS.

Barnette and Miss Tomlinson Are Wed at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Nov. 4.—Thomas Barnette, in custody here on the charge of having burglarized the residence of Howard Kellogg at Buffalo, and Miss Florence Tomlinson of Toronto, were married in the central police station here yesterday.

Barnette and the young woman, who is said to be the daughter of an official of the Grand Trunk Railway, eloped from Toronto last August, and she believed she had been legally married to him till Wednesday night, when, after his arrest, he admitted that he had deceived her with a mock marriage and declared that a minister be sent for to propose the knot.

The girl was arrested with Barnette on the same larceny charge, and both were committed in default of $2,500 each for the action of the Buffalo authorities.

Barnette Had Record.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—Miss Tomlinson's parents decline they both discouraged the attentions of Barnette here, as they had known of his conviction at Brockville, Ont., for burglary, for which he served a term in the Central Prison.

BRITISH CABINET CHANGES.

Earl of Crewe Goes to India and Harlech to Colonies.

London, Nov. 4.—The retirement of Viscount Morley from the office of Secretary of State for India was announced officially last evening.

At the same time the following appointments, approved by the King, were made known:

Viscount Morley, to be Lord President of the Council, vice the Earl of Beauchamp; the Earl of Crewe, Secretary of State for India; Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies, vice the Earl of Crewe; the Earl of Beauchamp, First Commissioner of Works, vice Lewis Harcourt.

Union of African States.

Cape Town, Nov. 4.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At the Governor's House banquet Col. Jameson said that if the solution suggested for the impasse in Britain were successful, they might anticipate the first step towards the union of the Empire's five states. He eulogized Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux's settlement of the Asiatic difficulty in Canada.

Premier Australian Premier said that nothing had occurred in the world's history in recent time which would have greater effect than the union of South Africa. They now had five natives willing to cooperate in common affairs, united by unseen bonds to whom just nature was done to all peoples.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux aroused enthusiasm by an eloquent speech. He had sent a message to the people of Britain through The London Daily Mail. In South Africa, as in Canada there was great and generous knowing that a brave foe makes staunch friends, granted the equality and freedom of self-government of the two races, a Canada had been welded into one by the generous and unstinted forbearance. Obstacles could be successfully overcome in South Africa which was bound to play a brilliant part in the history of the greatest Empire the world has ever seen.

Return of Rejected Immigrants.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, and W. D. Scott, superintendent of immigration, were waited upon yesterday afternoon by a large deputation of American railway men, who came to Ottawa to confer with them in respect to an important matter affecting the administration of the immigration lands.

George G. Foster, K.C., Montreal, general counsel for Canada of the New York Central lines, who introduced the deputation, and several of the railway men explained that the regulation, under which an immigrant rejected at the frontier must be taken back to the place where he purchased his ticket for Canada, was a hardship on United States railways. This was so because under the interstate commerce law a railway cannot carry a passenger free.

Crushed In His Skull.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 4.—Arthur Lenahan, laborer, in the employ of the Clifton Sand and Gravel Co. of Stamford, was probably fatally hurt when the drum pin on which he was working for out of its socket and let the derrick arm come down on the man. The steel cap of the arm struck Lenahan heavily on the head, crushing in a circular piece of the skull three inches in diameter. The man was brought to the hospital here, where Drs. Kellam, Wilson and McGarry trepaned his skull. Lenahan has not yet regained consciousness.

Winnipeg Water Supply.

Winnipeg, Nov. 4.—Manufacturers here have taken a hand in the agitation for a new source of water supply, and have demanded that the present system of artesian wells be abandoned in favor of a public supply of pure, soft water. They realize that this step cannot be taken hurriedly, and recommend that in the meantime the city authorities arrange to instal an equipment for softening the present supply.

Starved Wife and Baby.

London, Ont., Nov. 4.—That James Bates, already convicted of ill-treating his wife, and also neglecting his baby, James Bates, jr., aged four months, and that it died of malnutrition and starvation, was brought out before Coroner Dr. McLaren and a jury last night. Mr. Bates was brought from Hamilton by the crown to testify, and the father also gave evidence. He blamed his wife.

A Pioneer Dead.

Cobourg, Nov. 4.—There passed away at Presque Isle Point, near Brighton, a pioneer of Northumberland County, William Mason. Mr. Mason was born in Wales and when six years of age came with his parents to this country and settled on a farm, the site of which is now Victoria Park, Toronto. It is stated that Mr. Mason put the first load of gravel on the Kingston-Toronto road.

Will Go Over Horseshoe Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 4.—Prof. (Bobby) Leach says that he will go over the Horseshoe Falls here on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 13, at 2 o'clock. The venture is to be made in an encased boat, invented and loaned for the occasion by well-known aeronaut, James Mitchell of Akron, Ryer, N.Y. Mr. Mitchell wanted to go over in the boat himself, but was persuaded by his family that he is too old. He has arranged share profits of the venture. The Leach boat is now on its way here. It is a cedar-five feet long, of steel, pointed and cigar shaped, with a motor propeller. Its inventor has sent a duplicate boat to Liverpool, and seeks to have its adopted by the British navy for use as a lifeboat.

Canada a Model.

Melbourne, Nov. 4.—Thomas Tait made an important speech at a demonstration in his city, following his resignation as director-general of the railway system.

He urged upon his hearers the necessity of advertising the resources of Victoria abroad. He was to draw upon his long experience in Canada to widen the scope of the progress had been quickened by advertising.

It is understood Mr. Tait does not propose to enter the railway world, but will attend to his private affairs in Canada.

Great Peace Celebration.

Winnipeg, Nov. 4.—To celebrate one hundred years of peace between Canada and the United States, a huge demonstration of veterans will be held here in 1912, in which it is hoped will old soldiers from all America. The celebration will also commemorate the British victories during the war of 1812. Next year the local veterans' association will invite all veterans from western Canada and the northwest states to a convention which will be held here during July, and it is expected over 1,000 grand old warriors will be in attendance.

Fight Pictures Seized.

Regina, Nov. 4.—A party of Northwest Mounted Police, under Inspector Heffernan, pounced on a local theatre in search of films of the Johnson-Jeffries prize fight were being exhibited, and seized machines and films. The manager of the theatre subsequently offered no resistance, of course, and admission charges were refunded at the box office. The raid followed instructions from the department of the Attorney-General, and means that the picture will not be shown in Saskatchewan.

Cheese-Weighing Fraud.

New York, Nov. 4.—The first of several arrests which the Government has ordered in connection with what is alleged to be wholesale frauds in the underweighing of cheese imported, was made yesterday afternoon, when Antonio Cornegliano, described as one of the most influential Italian politicians of the city and prominent in the Tammany Hall organization, was taken into custody by United States Marshal Henkel.

Big Fire at Gananoque.

Gananoque, Nov. 4.—The plant of the Ontario Woollen Mills was completely gutted by fire yesterday morning. The loss is estimated at about $75,000, fully covered by insurance.

The works are owned mainly by Colonel Carey Taylor, M.P., and employ about one hundred hands.

HEADACHE AND EYESTRAIN.
Continued

Then again, another class of patients who have had good and easy sight all their life, will begin to complain of eye ache after reading at about 30 or 35 years of age, they are apt to consider that there is some other cause to lay it to than the eye when the fact is that they are early presbyopes, and the remedy lies in the use of a weak lens for close work

Where the defect is great and cannot be overcome by any reasonable amount of endeavor, the patient gives up the effort and resigns himself to defective vision and its consequences and is comparatively free from pain or headache, and if one eye is good and the other very defective, the poor eye gives up the unequal contest and deviates out of the line of sight, and remains so or suppresses the image.

Practical Addresses Delivered At Banquet Given by Mr. Elliot

Salesmen and Buyers of The Belleville Cheese Board Royally Entertained At Anglo-American By Popular Manager of The Standard Bank--A Splendid Programme.

PRACTICAL.

Yesterday afternoon, for the fourth annual time, Mr. John Elliott, the popular manager of the Standard Bank here, tendered a banquet to the salesmen and buyers of the Belleville Cheese Board. In addition to the members of the local Board, a number interested in the cheese business in Picton were present. They were W. A. Carter, W. A. Williamson, B. R. Hepburn, F. G. Wright, B. F. Wilson, W. S. Hinkley, S. Geary, Mr. Allerton, H. S. Miller and Capt. Christie.

The affair took place at the Anglo-American, and it is at once a most tempting repast provided by Mr. J. Harte, proprietor of the hotel. Mr. Elliott occupied the seat at the head of the table and Mr. F. R. O'Flynn was toastmaster. After the good things had been well sampled, the following toast list was carried out, all the speakers referring in an eulogistic manner to Mr. Elliott for his hospitality:—

"The King"—The National Anthem by the company.

MR. ELLIOTT.

"Our Host"—Mr. Elliott, in rising to respond, was greeted heartily with the song "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." In his opening remarks he said this was the fourth annual banquet given by him and he was pleased to meet all his agricultural friends. During this time he had been stationed in the city for two months on a visit to the old country. He reviewed the trip from Canada to England, which, he said, was a most pleasing one. While in England he called upon some of the great cheese markets, such as Liverpool and London. He saw the cheese in good conditions in London. Through the kindness of Mr. John Rickard he was enabled to inspect at one time 180,000 boxes of cheese in the warehouse, and some of it was from this district. The cheese is taken admirable care of after it is taken from the vessel. The cheese is not cheese that goes into England that is so much thought of as Canadian made cheese. It is therefore important that we see to it that good cheese is made, as the cheese from this district is sold on the market in the city of Liverpool. Some improvement is required both in the locality cold storage, where cheese may be placed when brought to the city for shipment and also in the cold storage in the boats' hold. We should have here in Belleville a vessel provided with a cold storage compartment, in which cheese can be shipped to Montreal. He hoped that this defect would be remedied so it would avoid unnecessary loss. While in the old country he did all he could to advertise Canada and especially the cheese industry. "All eyes are turned on Canada," said he, "and England expects Canada to be the country to supply grain for the millions of the inhabitants of that country."

Mr. Elliott referred to the Canadian office on the Strand conducted by the Ontario Government. It was doing much good, he said, in an agitative, but what he desired was that the cheese industry, and especially that of this section, should be better advertised and known in the old land. He thanked all present for the honor they had done him by attending this annual gathering.

PRESIDENT MYERS.

"The Belleville Cheese Board"—Mr. C. B. Myers, President of the Belleville Cheese Board, said that he considered Belleville Board the best was the premier Board of this Province. The prizes paid for cheese on this Board this season has been exceptionally good. The great majority of the cheese boarded here had been purchased by the buyers of the city. This was a proud record.

Messrs. A. Mason and J. Balcanquel spoke to the above toast.

"Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association—This toast was responded to by Mr. James Anderson, of Ameliasburg, who eulogized Mr. Elliott, who, he claimed, was not only a banker but an agriculturist, taking a deep interest in that department. He spoke of the duty on cream which was imposed by the Government, namely about 6c. per gallon. Delegates are being appointed to wait upon the Government to have the duty taken off or at least one-half reduced. He urged upon the Belleville Cheese Board to interest themselves in this matter. Mr. McVannes, who is an instructor of agriculture sent out by the Agricultural Department, made a practical address touching upon cheese making, apple growing and other branches of farming occupation.

Mr. A. D. McIntosh, instructor of the agricultural class at Stirling, also spoke briefly of the work he is engaged in.

Mr. Hinkley, President of the Picton Cheese Board, and a director of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, and Mr. B. F. Wilson, of Northport, were called upon and acceptably responded to the work of the Dairymen's Association.

A SPLENDID SONG.

Song—"Sunshine and Rain," by Mr. Thomas Holgate, whose fine bass voice was heard to advantage.

"Our Salesmen"—Mr. J. Miller, of Colborne, ex-President of the Belleville Cheese Board, responded in a most appropriate manner.

"Our Inland Navigation"—Mr. R. B. Hepburn responded, referring to the fact that he would place a proper boat or the bay for carrying cheese with a cold storage apartment on board.

Song—"Three or Jock," by Mr. James Dyer, in fine style.

"Our Manufacturing Interests"—Responded to by Messrs. A. J. McLaren, of this city, and J. F. Hill, of Shannonville.

"Our Exporters"—Mr. W. S. Cook, of this city, was called upon to respond to this toast and did justice to it. He referred to the fact that Mr. Elliott had taken a great interest in the cheese industry and was doing much good for the cheese trade, which was much appreciated.

Song—"I'm Off to Philadelphia," by Mr. Holgate, in an excellent manner.

"The Press"—Messrs. J. O. Herity, Mr. Seiff, of the Ottawa Valley Journal, and P. Harrison, of The Intelligencer, responded.

Mr. J. A. Holgate, of Foxboro, responded appropriately to the toast of "The Standard Bank."

Mr. Elliott returned his thanks for all who had taken part, including Prof. Phelps, who played the accompaniments for the songs rendered in a splendid manner.

After a hearty vote of thanks had been proposed by Mr. Elliott and seconded by Mr. J. R. Anderson, to Mr. O'Flynn for the able manner he had carried out his task, the singing of God Save the King brought the pleasant and profitable gathering to a close.

AT GRIFFIN'S.

The mid-week change at this popular theatre was witnessed last night by a large and appreciative audience.

Ernie, the original one-legged roller skater and buck and wing dancer performer, was a scream. His opening of the performance put the audience in good humor. For a man with only one leg he certainly performs some astonishing feats on a roller skate with and without the aid of a crutch. He also does some clever work on the horizontal bar, while his description of a man when he first attempts the use of a crutch until he is proficient brought down the house.

Geo. Austin, assisted by Miss Isabella Jansen, is one of the best slack wire performers in the business. He does many clever stunts, introducing much comedy with his awkward country girl from "Posey" County. Sis Hopkins, he is justly termed the comedian on the wire. His act is a screan from start to finish.

The show closes with Mlle. Dolores and Co. in an unique jungle act entitled Monkey Shines, and is composed of three people, who carry all their paraphernalia with them. Mlle. Dolores, Chico the Monkey, made a hit; he is a well-trained circus performer and his work is clever. He finished, calling forth continuous applause. Mlle. Dolores as the Indian Maid and Bob Garrod as the Cannibal Chief were both well received. They both sing jungle songs, which were well received by the audience. Another member of this act not to be forgotten is a small monkey, not much bigger than a squirrel. Taken all in all this is about the best vaudeville performance seen here for some time. The Griffin Amusement Co. are sparing no expense to give Belleville patrons the best acts procurable.

There was, it is said, one Government campaigner in Drummond and Arthabasca for every 25 electors. The cost of this election will be pretty heavy. It would be interesting to know against which appropriation in the estimates it is charged, or from what series of contractors it is drawn. That the Laurierite did not carry this election with all the help and boodle at his command, was a marvel.

FOOT-BALLER'S BAD KNEE HEALED

ZAM-BUK ONCE AGAIN THE ONLY CURE!

Mr. H. Allipan, of 467 King street, London, Ont., says: "While a member of the East Kent Division Football Team, and during a rough and exciting game of football, I fell on the hard gravel, obtaining a badly lacerated knee. This required prompt medical attendance, as sand and gravel filled the open wound, which was very painful and sore.

"For several weeks the doctor treated my injury, and it was thought to be well healed over; but no sooner had I begun to move about than the skin broke, and I suffered more than at first. For seven long weeks I was actually laid up. It then developed into a running sore and I was alarmed for fear the result might be a permanently stiff knee. The doctor's treatment failed to heal the wound, so I procured a supply of Zam-Buk. The result was almost magical in its effect on the sore. The discharging sore ceased—The soreness and pains were banished and perseverance with Zam-Buk made the badly-lacerated knee as good and firm as ever. Zam-Buk has no equal in clearing and healing open wounds, and I recommend it to all athletes and sportsmen."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, eczema, blood-poison, varicose ulcers, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, 'babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. You are warned against harmful imitations and substitutes. See the registered name "Zam-Buk" on every package before buying.

Ancient Greek Calendars.

Among the Greeks and Romans almanacs and calendars were not written for the general public, but were preserved as part of the esoteric learning of the priests, whom the people had to consult not only for the dates of the festivals, but for the proper times when various legal proceedings might be instituted. About 300 B. C., however, one Eschus Flavius, secretary to Appius Claudius, stole these secrets by repeated applications to the priests and collated the information so gained. It was really publishing an almanac. When, as Livy relates, Flavius exhibited the text on white tables around the Forum. From this time similar tablets containing the calendar, the festivals, astronomical phenomena and sometimes allusions to historical events became common. They have been dug up in Pompeii and elsewhere.

When Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cured Her Chronic Liver Complaint

Mrs. R. Smith, of Winnipeg, Man., tells an interesting story of relief from almost intolerable sufferings:

"I can hardly tell you how great my sufferings have been. Chronic liver complaint accompanied by biliousness were a daily source of trial to me. During that time I experienced the sickening effects of these ailments. I longed for some medicine that should permanently drive them away.

Hearing of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, I thought they were worthy of a trial. My surprise was indeed great. From the very first I experienced relief. Continuing with them I found my troubles were slowly but surely leaving me, and before long I took more than what it was to be free from the harassing effects of the ailments that had long darkened and weakened me. So great is my faith in Dr. Morse's Indian Pills that I shall never on any account be without them."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cure Bowel and Kidney as well as Liver troubles, and keep you healthy. 25c a box at your dealer's.

RUNNING

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Alfred Shrubb, the little English professional runner who has completely recovered from the injury to his leg, and is planning a busy winter campaign as the indoor season approaches, will engage in the twenty-mile international team race, which is to be held at Madison Square Garden in April. Shrubb could not secure for a partner an Englishman whom he thought was fast enough or possessed of sufficient staying qualities to go through such a gruelling contest.

Shrubb is coaching at Harvard now but has sent out a challenge to race any man in the world over a distance of ten, twelve or fifteen miles, winner take all.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—That the twenty mile international team race at Madison Square Garden to-night may be the most gruelling and sensational contest ever held in the line of an was demonstrated yesterday, when Holmer and Quen, who will be the representatives of America in the contest, worked out ten miles over the Garden track in 47 minutes 3-5 seconds.

At this clip the full distance will be reeled off close to an hour and thirty minutes. This will mean a sprint from start to finish, with the shifting of partners every couple of laps. The record for the distance at this style of racing is 1 hour 34 minutes 35 seconds, made by Queal and Svanberg on the eight lap track in Brooklyn last summer.

The indoor record for twenty miles is 1 hour 50 minutes 58 seconds, made by Ljungstrom last March. The six teams that will go to the post are Holmer-Queal, Ljungstrom-Svanberg, Meadows-Woods, St. Yves-Laroque, Maier-Vambra, and Kolbemainen-Nieminen

KINGSTON, Nov. 3.—Queen's team to meet Varsity in Toronto on Saturday will be practically the same as the feated McGill here last Saturday. The Presbyterians are very hopeful of beating Varsity at Rosedale, and are practising steadily.

HAMILTON, Nov. 4.—Sol Mintz, manager of Tommy Longboat, the famous Indian, is trying to arrange a match walking race at any distance from ten to twenty miles between Longboat and Jack Johnson.

THE TURF

S. C. Hildreth, who leads the winning owners in the country, got in yesterday with his wife and Jockey Schilling, who will do the stable riding, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. Mr. Hildreth and his party left Baltimore yesterday, after the success of his representatives, Montgomery, Restiguache and Shannon, at Pimlico.

Mr. Hildreth states that sixteen of his horses were sent from Baltimore yesterday and would arrive this morning. In the consignment will come Fitzherbert, champion of the year; Elkhorn, another ranking topnotcher; Novelty, this season's champion two-year-old and winner of the rich Futurity; Zeus, Shannon, Montgomery, Restiguche, Firestone and other favorites than that put Hildreth at the top of winning owners. The fast Priscillan, owned by August Belmont, is also in the consignment and will be looked after during his stay here by Hildreth.

Jockey Schilling, who is accounted the best rider in the country, will do the stable riding, and is kept busy, as it is the intention of Mr. Hildreth to send his representatives in active competition for the stakes and purses immediately on arrival. Mr. Hildreth also announced that Frank M. Taylor, his bookmaker, would ship here from Baltimore at the close of the Pimlico meet with the horses under his charge, which include Adams Express and Fauntleroy. Mr. Hildreth is undecided what his entry would be in the two-mile race that the any chance of the proposition going track management is intending to feature, but looked upon the race with favor, and will designate one or two from his stable as starters in this event. The probable starters from the East that will be due to arrive no later than Wednesday are those owned by B. F. Carman, Beverwick, H. B. Duryea and Captain E. B. Casatti. Each of these stables will have crack jockeys, a welcome addition to the now doing saddle stunts at Latonia.

HOCKEY

MONTREAL, November 4.—It is stated on the best of authority that Mr. Emmett Quinn is the favorite for the position of executive head of the senior professional hockey body. Hockey seems to come natural to the Quinn family, and his eldest brother, Percy, became quite famous in connection with the sport.

Guelph Herald: "The news from Guelph, outlining an Ontario professional hockey league sounds like one of those old time black Irving stories," stated a local hockey supporter to-day. "Mark my word; Norman Irving originated that in Guelph to because Norman and pro. hockey are inseparable.' At that the story does have a strong flavor of Irving. Possibly the proposed new league does not look very good. Brantford has got to have something better than Guelph and Waterloo to go up against. Both these towns are rank failures, while Berlin isn't half bad but it might be better. Brantford needs Toronto really to become a noise maker in hockey or anything else. It has been conclusively proved by that if the Ontario League does get going this year, the Brantford franchise can be secured pretty cheap.

There is a lot of talk going the rounds about the Tigers making a stab at hockey this winter, entering a team in the O. H. A. says the Hamilton Spectator, but much active club would like to do it, there is hardly

THE RING

CALGARY, Nov. 4.—Tommy Burns the pugilist, who was one time champion of the world, is making a stay of somewhat duration here, and has allowed it to become known that he may open up a refill furnishing establishment in this city.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, arrived in New York, to-day from Chicago minus a pretty cut head as the result of being struck by a brick thrown late yesterday afternoon in Chicago while he was riding in the railroad station in a non-union taxicab.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Jack Johnson and Joe Jeannette in a finish fight for the heavyweight championship of the world, the battle to be staged in Paris on the night of the Grand Prix, when the greatest number of sport followers attracted by any event in the world is annually assembled in the French capital.

This is the proposition that Dan McKittrick, manager of Joe Jeanette, the negro, who has spent several years in France, to-day put up to Johnson, acting on an offer cabled him by a syndicate of rich French fight promoters.

NICE HANDS.

Housework is beautiful when it achieves the softer appearance of many people's hands. But with a little care housework need leave no ill-effects. Housework divides itself into dry work and wet work. For both sorts, housewives, fastidious about the look of their hands, should wear gloves—for dry work, loose chamois leather ones; for wet work the Indian-rubber gloves are a necessity. Made for the purpose. Before putting on the gloves the hands should be steeped for a few minutes in very hot water to which a little fine oatmeal has been added. Then a mixture of lemon-juice boiled with white of egg rubbed well into the skin helps towards a whitening effect. Raw-de-lonque is similarly useful.

The nails require special attention. The skin at the roots should be pressed back regularly with the towel after the hands have been steeped in hot water. Scissors for shaping the nails' contours should never be used for the purpose. To brighten the nails a touch of rouge applied with chamois leather has the desired effect.

Whatever strong soap may have been used for household purposes, the hands should at once be well washed with a good toilet soap. This practice alone saves the hands to a marked extent.

NOVELTIES IN HAND BAGS.

Nobody need be without a pretty handbag this season.

Prices are varied as the styles.

Most of the new bags are oval, and many have cords and tasse's instead of the usual leather handles.

An elaborate novelty seen in one of the shops was of leather lined with colored kid and fitted like a dressing bag with eight small toilet articles—a brush, comb, mirror, and bottles This might hold a nightgown and a pair of pumps and yet was so small and flat it looked like an ordinary shopping bag.

Grandmother would smile to see some mode of Paisley.

Beads, jewels, tapestry, and brocade all figure in the making of a dainty reticule, while the mountings are usually of gilt or German silver

SOUTH AMERICAN PESTS.

Giant Snakes and Deadly Insects That Render Life a Torture.

Relating his experiences during extensive travels in Bolivia in 1907, zoological society, Major P. H. Fawcett remarked that voyages up the Amazon rivers were not without their dangers.

There are anacondas (giant snakes), poisonous snakes, electric eels, sting rays and the peraima, a small species of shark, with razor-like teeth and an unappeasable appetite for blood. Men unfortunate enough to fall into the Paraguay, where the peraima is most prevalent, may be picked clean before they can be rescued.

The anaconda is ubiquitous, moves by night and has a weird cry. The negro's party killed one sixty-five feet long, and another party reported killing one measuring seventy-two feet.

Insects are legion and render life a torture. Mosquitoes are the least objectionable. In places one is covered from head to foot by bees, inside one's clothes and outside, in one's ears, nose, eyes, hair and mouth if it is opened. Nothing but a fly under each circumstance is out of the question. These bees are a whole list of dreadful and obscure diseases, and the Ibiuil nut tree, drooping its heavy fruit from 100 or 150 feet, often breaks the traveler's head. There is also a tree which drops a colorless liquid which causes the body to swell, and contact with it swell and gives acute pain.

There are rumors which cannot be disproved, since no one knows the heart of the continent, of a white race with blue eyes and red hair. There are also tales of strange beasts and huge and ancient ruins, so that South America may well hold for explorer surprises greater than those of the African pygmy and okapi.—London Mail.

CRIPPEN'S FATE SEALED.

CRIPPEN TO DIE ON THE GALLOWS

Last Hope Of Unfortunate Man Dashed To The Ground.

AN ABLE ARGUMENT

Tobin, His Counsel, Will Not Recognize Defeat—Le Neve Collapses.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 5.—Pale and trembling, as if the shadow of next Tuesday's gallows already were upon him, Dr. Crippen was brought into the Court of Appeals this morning to hear his lawyer's argument before the court as to why he should not be hanged. The Lower Court had refused to permit Crippen's presence, but the Appeal Court ordered it. Lawyer Lobin's first plea that the jurors had not been properly isolated during the trial was immediately overruled by the court.

LATER.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 5.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen must die on the gallows next Tuesday for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore. The last hope in the courts was rudely dissipated this morning when the Court of Appeals decided that the case was well and truly tried and that the sentence of death was just and equitable and quite according to the laws of England.

Crippen received the verdict of Justice Channel, Pickford and Channing with great emotion. His face was even paler and more deathly than the pallor which the confinement in prison had made. He trembled like a leaf when he was led out to his cell between the crowds of curious ones, there to remain til Tuesday, when he will be brought to the gallows unless the Home Secretary interferes, which is considered unlikely.

Lobin, M.P., the lawyer, fought to the last ditch for the condemned man but his arguments about the isolation of the jury, chance of mistaken identification of the remains all proved of no avail. Lobin will now go personally to the British Cabinet and ask for commutation to life imprisonment or pardon. He will not admit that all hope is gone.

The verdict was communicated to Miss Leneve, who collapsed.

WILL HE FIGHT LAURIER?

Rumor Says Bourassa Will Run In Quebec East.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—Several of the Liberal organizers coming in from the back countries tell harrowing tales of the way in which popular feeling has been aroused to the highest pitch against the navy in the country. For a Liberal worker to enter a house and endeavor to talk navy, was a sign for an uproar, punctuated by a copious outpouring of tears on the part of the women folk.

Mederic Martin, M.P., for St. Mary's, tells of one case which he witnessed at St. Albert. Here a woman, at whose house the Liberal worker had called, grew hysterical when the navy was broached. "Pas de marine, pas de marine," she screamed, lashing herself into a terrible fury, and afterwards lapsing into a state of unconsciousness. A doctor and a priest had to be summoned.

Latest returns from Drummond indicate the final majority for Mr. Gilbert will be between 180 and 200. The outlying polls have not materially changed the standing of the candidate.

Private advices received here are to the effect that Henri Bourassa has decided to oppose Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Quebec East at the next general election.

The news is of the most significant character, for it will be remembered that after Bourassa left the Federal House and went into provincial politics, he entered the lists against Sir Lomer Gouin, the Leaders' Premier, in the St. James' Division of Montreal, and actually defeated him in an enormously strong Government constituency. Since then Mr. Bourassa has grown much stronger.

The Ottawa Free Press, the Government organ, discusses the situation in Quebec in the following editorial: "There is no use blinking our eyes to the fact that the Government's hold on Quebec is weakening, but unlike the cause in Drummond, there is time to repair the damage before it is too late. A systematic campaign of education must be started now. Instead of running about the world, participating in the welding of the Empire, members of the Cabinet will have to stay at home and set to work welding Canada, nor must these campaigns be confined to Quebec. The war must be carried into Ontario and the other provinces of which the Government may receive another painful awakening. That is the lesson of Drummond, and it is not a Laurier lesson nearly so much as it is the Liberal party lesson."

WOMAN'S SORROW ENDS IN SUICIDE

Mrs. Cardelia Dicaire Grieved Over Loss Of Sister.

LIVED IN HAMMOND

Is Found By Young Husband Hanging By Automobile Veil.

Hammond, Ont., Nov. 5.—The body of Cordelia Dicaire of Bourget, who was married to Theo. Dicaire one month ago, was found in the woods near the C.P.R. line here Thursday night, hanging to a small tree by her automobile veil, which she had rolled up in the form of a cord. Her rosary was hanging in her right hand. On the ground near her was a flask, half full of brandy, her hat and gloves.

The girl has been missing since Wednesday morning, when she left her home to attend early mass. After mass, she walked to this town by the C.P.R. track, arriving here at noon. She bought a bottle of brandy at the Gendron Hotel, and a bottle of javelle water, a solution for bleaching. She was seen going into the woods late in the afternoon. Nothing was known of her until Thursday night, when her husband found her by the aid of hounds.

It is stated that Mrs. Dicaire's sister died two weeks ago, after being insane two years. Mrs. Dicaire had married her until a month ago, when she married.

It is understood that the young girl was broken-hearted over her sister's death. She went during the whole church service Wednesday morning. No inquest will be held. Coroner Ferguson of Rockland was called, but he said it was a clear case of suicide.

No trace of the bottle of javelle water could be found. Dr. Bourque, who examined the body, first stated that there were no evidence of her having taken poison. Mrs. Dicaire was particularly handsome young girl. Her husband is 24 years old and a good living man. She was a daughter of Levier Ethier of Clarence, Ont.

CHINA TO HAVE HOUSE FOR 1913

Imperial Edict Creating Parliament Goes Forth

AN ASSURED FACT

Ambassadors To Foreign Governments Are Ordered To Cut Their Queues.

Pekin, Nov. 5.—An official decree was issued yesterday, announcing that an Imperial Parliament, the first in the history of China, would be convoked in 1913.

The police went from house to house informing the people of the new edict. Presently the dragon banner and paper lanterns appeared above every door. Beyond this there was no public manifestation over the momentous event.

The importance of the throne's concession is appreciated when it is recalled that the provincial assemblies, the first step toward modern and popular government in China, are still in their infancy, and that the senate, the first general body approaching anything like popular representation, met for the first time on Oct. 3 last.

It is understood the senate did not promise much in the way of popular legislation, as one-half of the hundred members were appointed by the throne. Nevertheless, it early took a stand in favor of an imperial parliament at an early date, and met with surprising success.

There was consternation in official circles yesterday when an imperial edict was announced commanding all representatives of China in foreign countries to sever their queues.

The edict is believed to be only the forerunner of another commanding all Chinese to follow suit, entailing such a wholesale haircut as the world has never before witnessed.

The opposition to the queue is not definitely known, but it is supposed that it was forced on the southerners, or Chinese, by the northerners, or Manchus, as a mark of conquest.

FALLS ON VERANDAH.

FIRE DESTROYS INSANE ASYLUM

Six Hundred Patients Have Narrow Escape At Brandon

GUARDS HEROIC WORK

Big Provincial Institution Demolished But No Lives Are Lost.

Brandon, Man., Nov. 5.—The Asylum for the Insane, which housed over six hundred patients, was completely destroyed by fire, which was discovered at 5.30 yesterday afternoon. So far as could be learned at a late hour last night not a life was lost, the heroic work of the guards and other members of the staff having resulted in the saving of every one of the unfortunate inmates. Screaming and shouting the hundreds of insane were safely herded out of the doomed building just in time to keep them from becoming a prey to the flames, but the real task of the guards and others ensued when the maddened patients were found themselves in the open and started a stampede in every direction. Most of them were soon quieted down, and stood shivering in the piercing cold wind until rounded up and driven into the sheds and stables awaiting their removal to better quarters.

Hundreds of citizens, who soon arrived on the scene in every available automobile and vehicle in Brandon, assisted in the unpleasant task of herding the patients and bringing them back. Last night the great majority of the unfortunates were safely housed in the Winter Fair building and the Armories, but a number are still missing, and guards and police are scouring the prairie in every direction. The night was intensely cold, and it will fare ill with any who are not found.

Just how the fire started is still a matter of conjecture, but there are apparently well-authenticated rumors showing that one of the patients secured a supply of matches and set fire to the main building, the blaze gaining considerable headway before being discovered. The alarm was sent into the Brandon fire department at 5.30, and the whole brigade turned out to the asylum, which is on a hill a mile and a half away from the centre of the city.

When the fire was first noticed a terrible panic ensued among the patients, and the guards had their hands full trying to control the unfortunates. Nothing was done at first to combat the fire, as all realized the utter hopelessness of getting the patients out of harm's way.

The scenes in all parts of the building could not have been duplicated outside a mad house, and the remarkable escape of all in the building is ascribed to the splendid work of the guards and the staff, and the heroic work of several of the patients, who seemed to realize the danger and remained cool. Other too dense to realize their danger acted as calmly as the marine of H.M.S. Prospero and assisted the guards in getting out of the building. CURRENT EVENTS.

A ghastly record.—"Killed, 3,804; injured, 82,374"—this is the casualty record for the railroads in the United States during the year ended June 30, 1910, according to the Interstate Commerce Commission's report. It is an increase of 1,013 in the number killed and 19,545 in the number injured over the previous year's figures. There were 5,861 collisions, killing 453 persons and injuring 7,705 and damaging railroad property, $4,029,276. In the year's 5,010 derailments, 340 persons were killed and 4,814 injured. During the last three months of the year the total killed or injured was 20,650.

The Protestant Liberals are to revolt in Toronto for the reason that the Grit local patronage committee has recommended that the six vacancies at present existing in the Toronto Customs be filled by the appointment of five Roman Catholics and one Protestant, and a special meeting of the committee has been called to consider the matter. A resolution from East Toronto Liberals calling for a reorganization of the patronage committee has been forwarded to the central executive.

PRESENTS PETITION TO DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Mr. Porter Believes Parker's Sentence Will be Commuted to Life Imprisonment.

Mr. E. G. Porter, K. C., M. P., was in Ottawa yesterday and presented to the Minister of Justice the largely signed petition asking for the commutation of the death sentence passed upon Robby Parker. The learned counsel informed the Intelligencer that while nothing definite has yet been done in the matter he felt confident the sentence of death would be commuted to life imprisonment. The petition will be considered in the near future by the proper authorities.

LADIES AID SOCIETY

The Ladies Aid Society of the Tabernacle were entertained at the home of Mrs. Col. Bonisteel, Chatham st. on Thursday afternoon. After the regular business was transacted the members spent a social hour, during which dainty refreshments were served, and a musical programme present ed. Mrs. Wilby's solo was much appreciated. There was also several choice selections on the graphophone. About thirty ladies were present and all voted the afternoon a most enjoyable one.

TOWN TOPICS

DOING GREAT INJUSTICE TO FRONT ST. PROPERTIES

Mr. Flint Presents Able Arguments Why Property OwnersOn Front St Should Not Pay For Work Of Paving.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir,—To avoid liability for accidents by non-repair of streets, city corporations must keep them in good repair. Who pays the verdict and costs in the many suits successfully brought against the city? The citizens, excepting those whose properties are exempt from taxation. This course is considered just. It is just because the streets are city property, and the city should meet all obligations connected therewith. Who derives Front Street paved? All persons who desire clean, rather than muddy, dusty, unsightly streets. Whatever renders the city attractive and is likely to bring residents, is a common benefit, and should be paid for by all. Owners of property on Front Street say their properties are now assessed one-fourth higher than their value. The tenants think their rents are high, and although they want the street paved, they have no intention of making the cost so burdensome to the property owners that they will be constrained to raise the rents. Tenants who are, as many are, under long-hold leases will not pay a more rent. Repairs on Front Street have never been charged, as a special tax, as is now proposed, against owners of Front Street properties. If the city repairs Front Street by paving it, it is surely offair to make no difference by way of increasing the taxes of the property owners. From Victoria Avenue north property lessens greatly in value, and rents lower rapidly. Is it equitable and fair that owners north of the avenue should pay as much frontage tax as the owners of much more valuable properties between Bridge Street and the avenue?

The Council is composed of men who have a right to their views on municipal matters, and ought, in my judgment, to be encouraged to do all in their power to advance the interests of the city. Their position is unprofitable and sometimes unpleasant.

Property owners are opposed to this Pavement By-law, and all fair-minded citizens think that as all must participate in the improvement to be made, that all should pay their fair share of the cost. In view of this, I sincerely hope the Council will take into consideration the great injustice that will be done to owners of Front Street properties should this special, discriminating tax be imposed upon them. I am

Yours,

J. J. B. FLINT.

MASQUERADE PROMENADE

Splendid Success Attends Annual Affair Held By Albert College Last Evening.

The annual Albert College masquerade promenade was held last evening and was attended with the usual success. For the past week the interest in this notable event has been rising to the boiling point, each girl doing her best to conceive a costume that would be a complete disguise, while each boy sought to discover just what his opposite would wear.

Last night at 7.30 all was in readiness, and many dainty forms came out of the Commercial Hall and were in turn presented with a partner by Miss Gardiner. The effect was very much merriment was produced by attiring to discover who the other many disguises completely baffled everyone; others caused very little trouble; some were handsome and artistic, representing various periods and countries; others were exceedingly grotesque.

At last the masks were removed and all proceeded to the dining room, where Mrs. Betts had provided dainty refreshments. Each table had been given the name of some planet, and much laughter was caused by Miss Gardiner and Prof. Doxsee reading marconigrams to and from the various planets, in which many students were made the butt of the joke. The girls Glee Club songs were made specially interesting for some and very amusing to all.

After the programem the general promenade was the order of the evening until 10.30. Hallowe'en games were played and potatoe races were run. Some few, however, took but little part in these, but sought the seclusion of the gyms rest in the library.

The hour of 10.30 came all too soon. A number would have liked to linger, but Miss Gardiner gathered all her flock together and promptly sent the boys away.

MINISTER DROWNED GUT DUCK SHOOTING.

Rev. Mr. Childey of Stauffville Loses His Life in Eight Feet of Water.

While duck hunting at Bold Point Sturgeon Lake, Saturday morning Rev. Mr. Childey of Stauffville, met a watery grave. Mr. Childey had spent three days in the marshes and intended returning home Friday evening. He was drowned in eight feet of water about 30 feet from the shore. He was a swimmer. It is surmised that a loose seat in his skiff fell and the jolt upset him. He was a heavy man He leaves a wife and family.—Bancroft Times.

THREE RESIDENTS OF PEMBROKE DROWNED

On a Duck Shooting Trip When Their Canoe Overturns.

Three well known residents of Pembroke, Harry Irwin, druggist; Emett Duff, clerk; and H. B. Christmas, armeloneer, were drowned. They were on a duck shooting trip in Mud Lake on Saturday their overturned canoe was found by a farmer. Later on the three bodies were found in shallow water, apparently the men capsized, and the occupants could not reach land, owing to the deep mud. All were married men. —Bancroft Times.

BEGINNING OF THE END

Mr. E. G. Porter, M. P., in speaking of the result of the election in Arthabasca and Drummond said that he considered it was but the beguming of the end. If Sir Wilfrid Laurier was unable to elect his candidate in his own constituency, where could he elect one?

Mr. W. B. Northrup, M. P., expressed his pleasure at the result of the election, as it demonstrated that the Government's naval policy was by no means as popular as the Liberal party would have people believe it was.

Foolproofty Delegates.

Anxious indeed must United States business men be for reciprocity when they knock at the door of Canada for admission to her markets. Before the National Policy had forced United States capital, to the extent of millions of dollars, into the Dominion it was Canadian delegates that used to be trotting off to Washington seeking trade favors, with the result that they returned with a refusal to report. Things have changed and now we have reciprocity envoys from the United States, consisting of Charles M. Pepper, tariff expert, and Mr. Henry M. Holt, counsellor of the State Department, and Col. Foster, United States Consul in Ottawa, seeking favors.

"There is one point I would like to make clear," said Mr. Pepper to a newspaper reported. "We come here not as experts, but as negotiators or commissioners, whichever you please to call us."

"And we expect something to come of the resolutions which will be of mutual and reciprocal benefit," added Mr. Holt.

"Would you care to indicate your proposals?" was asked.

"We cannot very well do that," was the reply. "We will meet the Canadian representatives and have an informal talk. When that is done we will the better understand each other and be better able to submit views." The delegates declined to be drawn out further as to their intent. Nor could they say how long the negotiations will last. They intimate, however, that they will be here some days. These gentlemen want to get back the millions of United States capital that has been invested in Canada back to the United States. Will they?

Important.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, who has just returned from the west, is reported as saying that the Canadian Pacific Railway so far has been building lines that generally run east and west and work to develop interprovincial trade. He intimates that if a wide measure of reciprocity with the United States is agreed on the company may be led to consider the construction of north and south lines to meet the possible developments of traffic. The situation as thus presented is one that is worthy of serious thought from those who will have the ruling on Canada's side as to whether there will be a reciprocity treaty, and, if there is to be one, what it shall provide for.

Sir Thomas' practical mind suggests at once what the result of free interchange of wheat and flour would be. The carrying trade would be south instead of east, hence the construction of additional roads to the United States would be necessary. Such would be wholly in the interests of United States millers and railways.

You Look Old.

In nine cases out of ten it is not because you are old, but because you are tired, all worn out, and you act as if you just wondered how you are going to get through the season and do your work.

This condition may be caused by a run down and debilitated condition, or by a bad cold which has left you without strength or ambition.

We want to ask every such person to try Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil. If it does not build you up and make you feel young, strong and well again, we will return the money you paid us for it—let that fair! The Red Cross Drug Store, J. S. McKeown, agent.

RESULT DIDN'T SURPRISE LEADER OF OPPOSITION

Mr. Borden Discusses Resul: Of Election In Drum mand Arthabaska End of Autocrat, Declares Mr. Perley.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—It will take the capital some time to recover from the surprise occasioned by the Drummond Arthabaska election result. That everybody from the Ministers down is astonished at the defeat of the naval candidate is quite apparent. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. L. P. Brodeur, who were the Ministers to participate in the campaign declined to say anything this morning.

Mr. Brodeur, however, intimated that he might have a statement to make later on. The official Conservative opinion is set forth in statements handed to the press by Mr. R. L. Borden, the Opposition leader, and Mr. George H. Perley, M.P., for Argenteuil, Que., chief Conservative whip.

Mr. Borden's statement is:—

"The result is not surprising. Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the Opposition in 1896, has defeated Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister, of 1910. The Nationalists in Drummond and Arthabaska (which by the way is the home of Sir Wilfrid Laurier), used exactly the same arguments, proclaimed the same policy, and exercised the same strategy that Sir Wilfrid Laurier used in 1896, and for many years before in the Province of Quebec. The master has been beaten by his own disciples and by his own methods. The pupils learned their lesson too well, and refused to forget it. There is a homely English proverb that chickens always come home to roost. This has never been better exemplified in the political sense than by the result just announced from Drummond and Arthabaska."

Mr. Perley said:—"It seems to me that two points stand out prominently when we consider the result of yesterday's election in Drummond-Arthabaska. For fourteen years Laurier has ruled Canada in almost an absolute way, and has grown accustomed to deciding important matters without submission to the people. Last session he insisted upon forcing through a naval programme, although every member of the Opposition felt strongly that the question should be referred to the people before anything definite was done. The election yesterday was fought entirely on this issue, and the result shows that the people of Quebec are absolutely opposed to the Government's naval programme, as, in fact, are the great majority of all Canadians.

"I am glad to see that Mr. Bourassa said last night in Montreal that 'those who state that this contest has been an anti-British one do not know what they are talking about.' This election further shows that the people of Quebec are no longer willing to submit to Laurier's autocratic methods and that his paramount influence in the province is practically at an end, as there is no doubt that the constituency of Drummond-Arthabaska was considered probably the strongest and safest Liberal seat in the Province of Quebec, and that is why it was opposed by the Government at this time."

BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

Intelligencer Inaugurates New and Attractive Feature—Valuable Prizes to Be Awarded For Best Answers To Bible Questions.

VALUABLE PRIZES FOR BIBLE STUDY.

We call the attention of our readers to the "Suggestive Questions in the Sunday School Lesson" in this issue. They only need to be read to be appreciated, and if used carefully, comparing the questions with the Scripture upon which they are based they will not fail to impress the reader with their great significance.

These questions are inspiring sermons, addresses, and newspaper articles in hundreds of towns. They are a stimulus and help to thousands of Bible Class Teachers and studentsthe man on the street reads and discusses them with his chum; they are read in the homes of the people and afford interesting subjects for profitable discussion. Almost any one question will suggest as much thought to the average reader, as would take a newspaper column to express, and the thought will be his own.

The questions are not dry ones they are fresh, interesting and suggestive, and one can learn from them by way of suggestion, more than by reading an entire magazine devoted to the philosophy of every day life.

These questions cover the all round needs of human nature, and they are a wonderful help in elucidating and enforcing the Bible lesson upon which they are based.

Don't fail to read them from now on, and be ready to start in the easy Bible contest which is to commence in a few weeks, and thus you may hope to win one of the beautiful gold medals.

See our announcement last week and those that are to follow. Subscribe for the Intelligencer, if you are not already a subscriber, to-day, and get in line with is popular Bible study movement.

SUGGSTIVE QUESTIONON ON SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

November 6th, 1910.
(Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.)

The Last Supper. Matt. xxvi. 17-29; Golden Text—This is my body which is given for you, this do in remembrance of me. Luke 22.19.

Verse 17.—What was the feast of the passover, and what did it commemorate?

What purpose does the feast of the passover serve as evidence of Bible history?

What is the practical benefit of anniversaries, religious, national and personal?

Verse 18—Has Jesus the right today, as in that day, to invite himself and friends to any man's house? Why? Was Jesus' "time" for his execution, a necessary or a contingent event i. e., was the event fixed by God or would he have preferred that they had accepted and not rejected Jesus?

Verse 19—What are the advantages of making proper preparation in advance, for religious services that is of the heart and mind, as well as for the place and the services themselves?

Verse 20—Which time is preferable for the most solemn and impressive service, the morning or the "even," and why?

Would it tend to spirituality, and cultivate a spirit of love and unity, if the children of God were to sit down and eat together, at Christmas or prayer meetings? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 21—Did Jesus know that Judas was going to betray him from passing events or supernaturally? Give your reasons?

If human actions are contingent and not necessary, how can God know in advance what they are going to be?

Verses 22-23 — Were the loyal disciples actually in doubt, as to whether they were going to betray Jesus and whether, or not, what was their state of mind?

Are there some acts which we may be absolutely sure we never could commit, or should we always stand in doubt of ourselves? Give your reasons.

Verses 24-25—Could Judas have refrained from betraying Jesus and have been forgiven? In him, had he chosen to do so? Give your reasons?

Verses 26-28—Did Jesus' blessing of the bread and wine change its nature, and if not, what effect did it have?

What was the precise thought Jesus meant to convey by the words "this is my body," and "this is my blood?"

What reasons are there to believe that Jesus meant this sacrament, "till the Lord's supper to be kept up perpetually?

What blessed purposes are served by keeping up the Lord's Supper?

Verses 29-30—Will there be eating and drinking in heaven and, whether or not, what did Jesus mean by these words?

Lesson for Sunday, Nov. 13th, 1910: World's Temperance Sunday. Matt xxiv: 29-51.

VOTERS' LIST. 1911.

Clerk's Notice of first Posting of Voters' Lists.

For the Municipality of the City of Belleville in the County of Hastings.

NOTICE is hereby given, that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in sections 8 and 9 of "The Voters' Lists Act," the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered of the list made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality at Elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal Elections; and that said list was first posted up at my office at City Hall, Belleville, 5th day of November 1910, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called upon to examine the said list, and, if any omissions or any other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

W. C. MIKEL,
Clerk of the Municipality of the City of Belleville.
Dated, Nov. 6th, 1910.

Builds you up and makes you strong

How do you feel to-day? Not quite right? Energy a little below standard—not strong enough to make much exertion?

NYAL'S COD LIVER COMPOUND

is what you need. Don't get frightened about these words "Cod Liver." You'd never know it from the taste. It's a real tonic, containing cod liver extract, extract of malt, wild cherry and hypophosphites—a splendid combination. The cod liver extracts build you up—so does the extract of malt. The wild cherry soothes the bronchial tract and the hypophosphites supply phosphorus to the nervous system—just the thing it needs. And the taste is pleasant. As an all 'round tonic, strength restorer and body-builder you'll find nothing better than Nyal's Cod Liver Compound—so why look further? You will be pleased. The price is One Dollar.

Anything you buy with the Name Nyal's Reliable Drugs will give you entire satisfaction.

Sold and guaranteed by The Belleville Pharmacy, Limited, J. V. Doyle, Albert L. Green, and J. R. M. Known, Belleville Ont.

Two Minute Talks About

PANDORA RANGE

for Coal or Wood

OF course the Pandora Range is a few dollars more than an ordinary range. But it will soon pay for itself in the fuel it will save for you.

How It Will Save Fuel For You

The "Pandora Flue System and Wide Fire Box," designed by our brainy stove experts, save about half a ton of coal per year, because they supply more air than the flue systems and fire boxes of ordinary ranges, causing better combustion of fuel.

The Steel Oven saves some more fuel, because it heats up more rapidly than a cast iron oven. The heavy Fire Clay Coating on the main bottom of range prevents any heat wasting towards the floor. It drives the heat back into the oven, and thus saves still more fuel.

But the big economizing feature is this: The draft for cooking on top of the range is also the draft for baking in the oven. The heat does double duty and your fuel bill is largely reduced.

Get the Pandora—the range that pays for itself. No other range is high-class enough for you.

The ...Veiled Lady...

Gordon's trip to California, was accomplished in a dazed uncertain sorrow. A band of ice seemed to press on his temples. Force, fraud, or fate—what, had dragged the dark St. Cecelia down into the whirlpool of deceit and crime?" All lonely and unneeded flew by the autumn fields, all unnoticed, he crossed the dismal prairies of the west. He marked not the glories of the royal Sierra Nevadas, with their dimpled, wooded lakes, crowned by icy peaks. For a past sorrow, a present bitterness weighed him down! No star of Hope sent down a single ray!

"I shall tell Maxwell all! Perhaps he can aid me! And yet I see no help! No present release; no way out!" He knew only too well Marguerite Calnoun would never yield a cardinal point of her ancestral religion.

"I am doomed to a life of sadness and silent shame! One woman's work! thought the dejected man. His mental sufferings drove him onward, as a good I—"It were not for my trust in the mercy of God—if I did not look to Marguerite's future—I would end it at once!" he glo omily pondered. A morbid hatred of society, and of his own kind seized him. Beverley Scott's haggard face returned to him "That Fatal Night! What was the mysterious secret of the past? If I ever face Seaton, I will know the worst! Yes! By Heaven! he shall speak!" On the train, the handsome young officer's sullen moods attracted much attention. "He has been wounded!" thought a bevy of bright-eyed eastern girls; leaving all their summer flirtations behind them.—The distinguished air of the Kentuckian was not Lost on these pretty travellers. Stone could not be more insensible than Jack Gordon was to the raking fire of their bright eyes!—For he was wounded; sorely wounded in his heart of hearts! His sorrow was all the more bitter that it gnawed in secret.

Dashing down into the golden valley of California, Gordon saw spread out before him, the royal Bay of San Francisco. A coterie of army men, at the Occidental Hotel, greeted the young hero of K troop.

"But for the life of me, I can't make Gordon out!" said Ratcliffe of the Engineers, who tried to show him the "local lions"—"Jack was as frank-hearted and happy a cadet, as ever shouldered a musket. His whole life seems to have been drained away in that cursed scouting! Man delights him not,—nor woman either! I give him up!

"Ratcliffe! old fellow! I'm not well! I am only waiting for Maxwell to come up from Los Angeles! I think I'll leave the service and go abroad!" In vain did the anxious headquarters circle strew Jack's table with club cards bid to soiree and rout, and gorgeous barbaric displays, among the rising golden kings and their diamond-spang led queens! — It was in the early dawn of the growing bonanza splendor and San Francisco's mad saturnalia was approaching! — Jack would not be diverted. His telegram from Maxwell at Los Angeles told him that Vinton would soon join him.

COUNT ON UP-STATE VOTE.

Roosevelt Group Grant Dix a Majority of 40,000 in New York County.

New York, Nov. 5.—There was a meeting of the Republican New York County leaders yesterday afternoon at county headquarters, and, after it adjourned, County Chairman Griscom announced his estimate of what the vote here would be at the coming state election.

Mr. Griscom believes that the plurality of John A. Dix, the Democratic candidate for governor, in New York County, will not be more than 40,000. Although Mr. Griscom's political jurisdiction does not embrace all of the greater city, he said that, roughly speaking, he thought Dix's plurality in the five boroughs would not be over 70,000, giving him the most liberal figures.

In 1908 New York County gave Chanler, Democratic candidate for governor, a plurality of 49,324, and the Democrats carried the greater city by 59,904. Republican leaders declare that the vote up-state will be enough to elect Stimson, as it did Hughes in 1908.

Mr. Griscom added that, considering the marked decrease in registration and the consequent falling off in the total vote, the Republicans would be satisfied if they kept the Democratic plurality in New York City to the figures of two years ago.

Chairman Prentice of the Republican State Committee and Chairman Hupgard of the Democratic State Committee are working on more detailed estimates of the vote for the whole state, which they expect to make public today. In previous statements, given before receiving reports from all the leaders, Mr. Prentice estimated the Republican plurality at from 90,000 to 110,000, and Hupgard talked of a Democratic plurality of about 150,000.

Fred Beardmen, superintendent of the Montreal Herald job printing department, has been appointed superintendent of the Dominion Printing Bureau, made vacant by the superannuation of E. MacMahon.

The Best Medicine For Little Ones

The best medicine in the world for little ones is the medicine that will promptly cure all their little ills and at the same time can be given the very youngest baby with absolute safety. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. They never fail to cure the ills of childhood and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they do not contain one particle of injurious drug. Concerning them Mrs. John Robertson, Streetsville, Ont., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation with the very best results. They are indeed a valuable medicine for little ones." The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Neilson's Chocolates

The Chocolates That Are Different.

The first enticing piece of Neilson's Chocolates you taste, will show you how different are these delicious confections.

To secure the richness of flavor and delicacy that are inseparable with Neilson's "Hard Centers", we use rich, sweet cream—and make the centers only firm enough to be easily eaten. To keep these centers just right—neither too soft not too hard—is the perfection of candy-making—and Neilson's "Hard Centers" are as perfect as they are different.

The chocolate coating forms a thick, firm, crisp shell perfectly enveloping each wholesome centre.

All these chocolates have the "Extreme Split Dip". It's a Neilson specialty—exclusive with Neilson's Chocolates de Luxe—another touch of distinction that makes them different.

Perhaps you prefer Créams to "Hard Centers"—or "Cherries in Maraschino Chocolate Dipped" to either. You can get all three under the Neilson name—also 30 other packages of these different Chocolates.

If you cannot get Neilson's Chocolates in your neighborhood, send 60c. for a pound box of the most delicious assorted Chocolates you ever tasted. 3

MODERN MARTYRS!

The age of martyrs is not passed. There are thousands of women all over the country endure physical torture and mental anguish almost beyond description. They are the victims of persecution, like the martyrs of old, only their persecutors are not clothed in flame, but their fiery darts are hurled at them in silence and hidden from the world at large as only scarcely human instinct.

These ladies, as a rule, are women and girls of refined sensibilities, and the reason of saying that their sufferings are due to "nervousness" is that they have not found any positive remedy to relieve them from pain and give relief in the earlier stages; and when they have reached the climax, they simply get some drug mixture to take internally, which is not the remedy required, and they become worse than ever. Some think that a few doses of a spoonful, a bottle, or any other liquid medicine will cure them.

The seat of the trouble being in some part of the female organs, the remedy to be effective must be one that will act directly upon these organs.

This is the secret of the success of Orange Lily—namely the use of ORANGE LILY in the treatment of that kind. It is a strictly local treatment. It is the only remedy that reaches the parts that are inflamed and congested and its beneficent, soothing influence is noticeable almost from the start. The irritation of the delicate membranes is relieved, the congestion is overcome, the pain ceases, and in a short time the matter which served to depress the nerves and cause mental depression and worry passes away and toned and invigorated, and the sunshine and joy of life again becomes part of the existence. The following letters explain:

Archer, Ont., Feb. 5, '09.
Dear Mrs. Currah,—I received your kind letter and thank you for the following letter. I am still reading medicine, that I neglected replying sooner. I must say I have more confidence in it than in any other thing I have ever used. Before I knew or found out anything about it I had spent over a hundred dollars, and when I thought I was done with inflammation of the womb, one dose of ORANGE LILY was sent me through the mail from a friend. The first supposed I was cured, but I was not, and in a few months completely run down. That was almost ago. But, of course, you can imagine with what esteem I hold the ORANGE LILY. I am thankful there is such a relief for poor, suffering women; for I have been one and can sympathize with others. Your sincere friend, MRS. NORMAN WEAVER.

Mrs. F. E. Currah, Windsor, Ont.

Dear Friend,—I feel it my duty to write you a testimonial as to what Orange Lily has done for me. Last winter I was feeling very miserable indeed, and could scarcely do my housework during my menstrual period, and for two months or more I was never free from pain in the womb and ovaries. The pain would run down the groin, so I would frequently nearly double up. Then the pain began going up the back, and I had a bearing down feeling, and was very nervous. I felt that life was a burden indeed. I thought I must get relief in some way, so I sent to our town doctor and had an examination. He told me I had a bad case of female trouble, and the irregularities organic, producing displacements of the uterus. He said I would have to take a course of treatment, and if that failed to relieve me, I would have to undergo an operation. I then decided that I would not be operated on if I objected to that, so called out Dr. Cooley's symptom blank and forwarded it to him. He prescribed for me, and I took the medicine for a short time, but decided to take Dr. Cooley's treatment. I have used two jars of Cooley's Medicine, two packages of Herbal Womb Tonic, and one box of Cooley's Liver Pills, and have been cured since I began the treatment, but I feel like a new woman. I work right through everything now. Hardly know a pain, even during menstruation now. I would say, "I would not take $100 and be in the same state that I was last March." I feel that Dr. Cooley's Home Treatment is a Godsend to suffering womankind, and shall continue to use it as long as I live. Yours truly, MRS. ALBERT HATTON.

ORANGE LILY as a remedy for female troubles, as well as in the treatment of painful irregularities, corrects in their earlier stages, leucorrhoea, displacements, infections, and all ovarian troubles, has long since passed the experimental stage. So remarkable is the fact of this that it will send a full month's treatment free of charge to any sufferer ABSOLUTELY FREE. The treatment is inexpensive, used at home, and no physician's services are required. Write at once for the Idea For Women.

TELLS HOW RADIANT HAIR CAN EASILY ADORN ANY HEAD.

It's a mighty good thing for the women of Canada that Parisian Sage can now be obtained in every town of consequence.

No preparation for the hair has done so much to stop falling hair and eradicate dandruff and make women's hair beautiful as Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is the only certain destroyer of the dandruff microbe which is the cause of 90 per cent. of hair troubles.

These pernicious, pest-breeding dandruff microbes thrive in the oil of ordinary hair tonics.

Parisian Sage is such an extraordinary and quick acting rejuvenator that J. V. Doyle, who is the agent in Belleville, guarantees it to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

Parisian Sage is most daintily perfumed. It is an ideal preparation, not sticky or greasy.

It is a magnificent dressing for women who desire luxurious, lustrous hair that compels admiration.

And a large bottle of Parisian Sage can only 50 cents at J. V. Doyle's and at leading druggists all over Canada. The girl with the Auburn hair is in every package. Made in Canada by Giroux Mfg. Co., Toronto, Ont., who fill mail orders, all charges prepaid.

OUT-DOOR WORKERS AND ZAM-BUK.

HOW IT PROVES A BOON TO THEM IN WINTER.

All out door workers will find Zam-Buk a boon. For cold sores, frost bites, chapped places, etc., it is a speedy cure. Cuts and skin diseases are often made worse by the cold weather and refuse to heal. Zam-Buk will cure them.

Mr. A. J. Tyrell of C. P. R., Camp Black Canyon, Ashcroft, B. C., writes: "While engaged in cutting rock, my hands got badly bruised and cut, the cold weather keeping the cuts open. I was advised to try Zam-Buk and sent for some. Just as that time I had the misfortune to fall over the bank upon which I was working, a distance of about forty feet, receiving some very bad scrapes and bruises. At once applied Zam-Buk and was surprised at the way it soothed the pain and healed the broken skin. It is certainly a sure cure and I would advise all navvies and out door workers to keep a stock on hand."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure remedy for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, eczema, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

You are warned against harmful imitations and substitutes. See the registered name "Zam-Buk" before buying.

More Trouble in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—The employes of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. have voted their executive committee and the national officers power to call a strike of motormen and conductors whenever they deem it expedient." The same men were vested with like authority a short time before the strike of last February.

The arrest here Thursday night of C. C. Pratt, organizer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, and the leader of the street car men in their recent strike, who has been making speeches for the Keystone party candidates, has caused an acute situation in labor circles.

Pratt after his release declared that he had been "railroaded to jail by the up" and that the detectives were anxious to secure any papers which he might have upon him showing the plans of the men regarding another strike.

Convicted of Perjury.

Prince Albert, Sask., Nov. 5.—Helen Seamer, a girl whose evidence before the police investigation caused B. J. McDermott, formerly of Renfrew, ex-chief of police here, to resign, was sent to jail yesterday for three months on a charge of perjury, committed at the investigation. She arrived from Quebec yesterday morning, where she was arrested.

Was recommended to us by one of TORONTO'S JUDGES and we have used it ourselves. Those writes a prominent citizen of Toronto.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

Roosinhaimer Acquitted.

New York, Nov. 5.—The charge of murder in the first degree against Edward T. Roosinhaimer, a wealthy manufacturer, for killing Arthur Lesch, through running down the buggy in which she was driving August 18, with his automobile, was reduced, to second degree manslaughter by Justice O'Gorman at the trial yesterday.

The jury, after a half hour's consideration, returned a verdict of acquittal. The evidence went to show that the accused and Mrs. Lesch, while speeding late at night, struck a buggy in which Miss Hough and two companions were driving. She was instantly killed, and another girl crippled. The chauffeur hurried right ahead.

One of the original jurors in the case is under arrest charged with accepting a bribe of $500 for his services.

Dredge Sinks.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 5.—Nine men had a thrilling escape from drowning early yesterday at Black Rock Harbor, when the dredge Capital City, on which they were sleeping, sank suddenly, carrying them down with it in ten feet of water.

In the early morning the nine men were awakened suddenly by the water pouring in on them. Some got out through windows while others escaped by the doors. Five of them swam to a scow. The other four got hold of the dredge and were taken on the scow by others.

A heavy gale was blowing at the time and the men for four hours had a hard battle. They were without clothing.

Pope's Health Causes Anxiety.

Rome, Nov. 5.—The condition of Pope Pius, whose health is said to be very weak, is giving his physician, Dr. Marchiafava, considerable anxiety.

It developed yesterday that the physician wants the Pope to give up the daily audiences for two weeks, but he refused, though he has lessened the number of persons he receives daily. Worry over the Portuguese situation is held responsible for his present condition.

His general health is satisfactory, but the state of his heart is understood to be such that at time of unusual stress, the physician thinks he should exercise the utmost caution.

The Racking Pains Of Rheumatism

CAN ONLY BE CURED THROUGH THE BLOOD — TRY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS WHICH ACT DIRECTLY ON THE BLOOD.

Rheumatism will rack you just as long as there is acid in the blood to cause rheumatism. That's the whole trouble—acid in the blood. Cooling lotions may start the pains going but it is not the cause. Once it is noted in the blood and can only be cured through the blood. Years ago when blood science did not know as much about the complaint as to-day, rheumatic sufferers were given something to rub on the swollen knots and joints. Some people why did not know any better still admire to the old fashioned way, but it does not cure their rheumatism—and never will.

When the acid is driven from the blood the rheumatism is gone—it's cured. The thing is to get the right medicine to drive the acid out Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured more cases of rheumatism than any other disease except anaemia. They do this because they enrich the blood supply, thus toning up the system to a point where the rheumatic acid is expelled through the natural channels and the trouble disappears. They were intended to do this and they do it thoroughly. Mr. Henry O'Donoghue, Viscount, Sask., says, "About four years ago I came here from Scotland for the purpose of taking up land. Even so recent a country as this the country was quite different from what it is to-day. Then the nearest shack to me was ten miles away, and the nearest town much farther away. In those days homesteading was not all sunshine, and in the spring of 1907 I contracted a severe cold. I had never been sick in my life before, and paid no attention to the cold, and almost before I realized it, I was down with an attack of pleurisy and as the pains of this trouble began to leave me, those of rheumatism set in and my sufferings were something terrible. Help was found for me, but it did me no good, nor did the medicine given me have any effect, and for five months I was confined to the house. Then one day I had an unexpected visit from my brother who came from Australia, and whom I had not seen for nine years. When he saw my condition he at once urged me to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as he knew of a number of cases in which they had made marvellous cures in Australia. The result was he went to town and purchased six boxes, and before I had used the last I was out working with my oxen and am now as healthy as any man in the province. For this I must thank the Pills and my brother's advice, and I strongly recommend the Pills to other rheumatic sufferers."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Kicked Off Fire Escape.

New York, Nov. 5.—One woman was killed, several persons were injured and there were numerous narrow escapes in fires in various sections of the city yesterday.

Mrs. Rebecca Abner is reported to have been kicked from a third floor fire escape to her death in the court yard by Mrs. Elizabeth Seelig with her husband and children from a fire which was discovered in the adjoining tenement in which they lived. Mrs. Seelig's assailant has not been identified. He is declared to have deliberately kicked the woman off the fire escape when she refused to get off the ladder which she had mounted in an effort to reach the roof with her children.

Lieut.-Col. Galloway Ill.

Toronto, Nov. 5.—Since Wednesday evening last Lieut.-Col. Galloway, D.D.A.G., has been in a critical condition with what is generally known as neuralgia of the heart. It is believed that over-exertion in the medical manoeuvres on Thanksgiving Day is the cause for the return of the trouble, which threatened the colonel's life seven or three years ago.

Dr. J. T. Fotheringham, the physician in charge, stated last night that Col. Galloway spent a good day yesterday, and was resting easily, and that his condition was favorable. He would be altogether likely that he would recover.

Mexican Bureau at the Stake.

Rock Springs, Texas, Nov. 5.—Antonio Rodrigues of Las Vacas, Mex., on, 32 years old, was burned at the stake Thursday night by a mob, following his confession that he had killed Mrs. Lem Henderson, wife of a ranchman. Thursday became a big "spoke mean" to him.

Several thousand persons stormed the frail jail, overpowered the guard and escorted Rodrigues to a prepared pyre. Without a show of emotion, Rodrigues was bound to the stake.

Archbishop Victim of False Report.

St. Boniface, Man., Nov. 5.—Archbishop Langevin has started from Montreal on his return to Rupert's Land. He denied emphatically that he was arrested or concerned in any way in a case of automobile speeding at Springfield, Mass., a few days ago, as reported in despatches to western papers.

Where the Office Seeks the Man.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 5.—"Any man that did not have any more sense than to nominate me for the position of justice, ought to see elected a man like Joseph Zehner, even though he is a Democrat."

That is the kind of a stump speech Isaiah Shafer, Republican candidate for justice of the peace in Delaware Township, this county, has been making. He has been working hard for the election of his opponent, Joseph Zehner, and declares that he has been working just as hard trying to elect him. The office pays little and would interfere with the business interests of the candidates.

Chair Factory Burned Down.

Hanover, Oct. 5.—A disastrous fire occurred Thursday night, when the Diebel Chair Factory was totally destroyed. The firm were working 12 hours a day, making their closing hour 5 p.m. When the foreman left the factory everything seemed to be all right, but in less than half an hour smoke was seen in the lower part of the building through the floor. Firemen were quickly on the scene, and poured on it for four hours, it is a total loss. The loss is heavy, but fairly well covered by insurance.

Left Estate to Neighbors.

London, Ont., Nov. 5.—By the will of the late Luke Rispin of South London, who died Wednesday afternoon, a number of families in the neighborhood receive considerable amounts. The estate is worth about $20,000. One-quarter, it is stated, goes to a nephew, of whom nothing has been heard for some years. The remainder is left to a few neighbors, Charles McMillan, George Arthurs, Miss Etta Colquhoun and others.

Trying Flight to Paris.

London, Nov. 5.—Willows, the young Welshman, who recently made a flight of 160 miles right in a storm in his flexible airship built by himself and established a British record, ascended in his dirigible at Wormwood Scrubbs at 3.35 yesterday afternoon and headed for Paris.

Willows was seen near the Kentish coast at 6 o'clock, but nothing has since then no news has been received of him.

Bad Fire at Gilbert Plains.

Gilbert Plains, Man., Nov. 5.—A fire broke out in a restaurant here shortly before noon and fanned by a strong wind swept through the main street, causing damages estimated at $12,000, with very little insurance. The buildings destroyed included the post-office block, and Mrs. Lowe's millinery store, as well as the restaurant, general store and smaller buildings. The fire brigades of Dauphin and Roblin rendered assistance.

Can't Hunt the Buffalo.

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—Messages received yesterday say that the United States Government has refused to allow sportsmen to hunt for buffalo on Michael Pablo's reserve in Montana. The buffalo belong to the Indian Government, but cannot be controlled, and it was proposed to have a party of western sportsmen go there to shoot them. It appears that shooting buffalo is contrary to the laws of Montana.

Not Wanted in Canada.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 5.—Efforts of the United States officials to deport into Canada undesirable citizens were yesterday frustrated at this port by the vigilance of the local staff inspectors.

Orazio Clabraso, aged 47, an Italian, was formerly employed as a laborer in this city. On Aug. 22, in company with three of his countrymen, a negro and two married women, of this place, he took flight to the States. Next day the party was located at Rochester. Clabraso was arrested on a warrant charging him with importing into the States alien women for, the purpose of prostitution.

The American authorities decided to send Clabraso across the line, and to Inspector H. J. Martin was assigned the job. He wisely tried to get rid of the charges on Thursday night and yesterday, when he gave up in disgust and left for Rochester with Clabraso. The inspectors would not take the man here because he was under a criminal charge in the United States.

Separate Coats Are to Be Extremely Smart This Season

We Feature all The Latest Models in Women's Garments

This season the stylish, serviceable separate coat will be strongly in favor, no garment ever had more practical value to back up an extremely attractive appearance. New models show it as this store are distinctively smart, embracing both conservative and novelty effects in black and colored cloths in excellent quality.

Expert tailoring is evidence in the superior cut and finish of the garment. Their lines are graceful, accentuating the slenderness of the figure which is the newest style note. Even in the most minute detail they show care and skill in construction, they were made by master craftsmen and exemplify thorough excellence of quality, many individual creations are included.

At present prices ranging from $7.95 to $42.80, they represent some of the best outergarment values we have ever offered.

The New Coats for Children Are Now on Display

Models are very modish, including both plain and novelty effects. The latter styles embrace some extremely clever creations smartly trimmed with buttons and bindings.

Good warm garments of beaver, tweeds, serges and blanket cloths in all the desirable colors are embraced in this impressive showing, they range from 6 to 12 year sizes.

We have been especially exciting about the quality of the tailoring. Only the work of expert craftsmen has been accepted, this insures not only elegance of appearance but durability of shape and fit. We have looked after our customers interest also in regard to price. Everyone Of These Coats Is A Splendid Value.

They rose from $1.75 to $10 including styles to suit all tastes and pocketbooks.

Flannelette Blankets from 75c to $1.65

This is the weather that suggests warm bedding and we are ready for it with all sizes in Grey, Fawn and White Flannelette Blankets, to sell at 75c, 90c $1.00, $1.15, $1.35 and $1.65 a pair.

formed on the retina, but if the defect is small enough to be overcome by effort it is tried, and the result is eye-strain, headache, and allied symptoms.

It is a fact which is daily observed that when the eye-strain results in reflex symptoms such as headache, or nervous disorders the eyes will be free from all local manifestations of disease, such as blepharitis, conjunctivitis, etc., and when the strain results in disease there will be no headache or pain.

I do not wish to leave the impression that because of the almost universal presence of some refractive error most people should wear glasses nor do I wish to imply that glasses are the only treatment of the effects of eye-strain.

Patriotism Keynote of A Delightful Lecture

Colonel Ponton Pleases and Instructs Large And Representative Audience In The Holloway Street Church Last Evening.

"Canada, Her Mother and Sisters," was the subject of a patriotic and descriptive lecture given in Holloway Street Church last evening by Col. Ponton. There was a large attendance and all present were not only highly pleased but profited. General views of Canada from Prince Edward Island to Vancouver, B.C., were shown and lucidly explained by the Colonel in his usual able and eloquent manner; also some views were shown of South Africa, Ireland, Scotland and England. The local views showed the harbor, Front street in gala attire, the Deaf and Dumb Institution, and a fine picture of Sir Mackenzie Bowell which was received with loud applause. The Colonel spoke in an eulogistic manner of Sir Mackenzie, whom he referred to as a highly honorable and esteemed citizen of the beautiful city of the bay.

The pictures shown of the late King Edward, the Queen Mother, Queen Mary and King George brought forth loud applause from the audience.

During the evening Mr. J. S. Dyer rendered a solo entitled "Canada," which was very appropriate, and he was never heard to better advantage. Miss Anna Ponton sang sweetly and pathetically a solo entitled "There is No Place Like Home." Mr. H. Wrightmyer's solo, entitled "The Children's Home," was well rendered. Mr. Roblin executed an organ solo, which was much appreciated. Mrs. (Prof.) Denmark played the accompaniments.

The pastor of the church, Rev. B. Greatrix, was chairman and at the close of the interesting programme referred to the pleasure it was to have Col. Ponton deliver the lecture in the able and interesting manner which he had. He moved, seconded by Mr. F. F. Cannif, a vote of thanks to the lecturer, which was heartily endorsed by all present. The singing of the National Anthem brought the pleasant and interesting programme to a close.

TODAY'S LOCAL MARKET

The market to-day, while by no means as large as that of last Saturday, was nevertheless well attended by sellers and buyers. The display made by the market gardeners and others on the Market Square was much larger than that inside. Prices as usual were good for all produce offered for sale.

Butter was rather scarce and sold readily at 28c. and 30c. per pound. In the great majority of cases the latter price was obtained.

Eggs appear to be a rather scarce article, hens evidently being on strike in regard to laying, nearly all offered for sale being picked up at 30c. per dozen. A few fresh laid were sold at 28c. per dozen, which is an exceedingly good price for this season of the year.

Dressed poultry was not offered for sale in abundance, and in consequence good prices were realized. Chickens sold at from 70c. to $1.25 per pair, ducks $1.25 to $1.50 per pair; geese $1.50 to $1.75 each. A few turkeys were on sale and the price paid for same would average nearly 35c. per pound, which, to say the least, is rather expensive eating.

Strained honey sold at 9c. per pound in tins of 5 and 10 pounds, while in the comb it was sold at 12 1-2c. per square.

Potatoes, which were considered to be an abundant crop, command a fairly good price, namely 75c. per bag. The prospects are that they will advance in price before long.

Apples were quite plentiful, yet still brought good prices, selling quite readily at $1.00 per bushel for Snows, while Northern Spies brought as high as $1.50 per bushel.

During the past few days there has been a decided drop in the pork market. Live hogs, which only a few weeks ago brought $9 to $9.25 per hundred, can now be purchased for $7 and $7.50. Dressed hogs are procured for $9 per hundred. Beef, however, still maintains a high standard, dressed forequarters being sold at $7 to $7.50 and hind quarters $8.50 to $9.

In the hide market there has been a decline in prices recently of a considerable extent.

Our quotations of prices are as follows:—

Oats, new—38c. to 40c.
Live Hogs—$9.
Hay—$12 to $14.
Butter—25c. to 30c.
Fresh Eggs—30c.
Fall Wheat—85c. to 90c.
Spring wheat—85c. to 90c.
Barley—55c. to 60c.
Rye—65c. bushel.
Peas—65c. to 70c.
Buckwheat—50c. to 55c.
Timothy—$2.75 to $3.00.
Clover, red—$9 to $10.
Alsike—$8 to $10.
Dressed Hogs—$9.
Dressed beef, fore—$7 to $7.50.
Dressed beef, hind—$8 and $9.
Spring lamb—15c. to 18c.
Mutton—8c. to 10c.
Veal hides—11c. per lb.
Lamb skins—60c.
Bucks—$1.25 to $1.50 per pair.
Chickens—70c. to $1.25 per pair.
Geese—$1.25 to $1.50.
Turkeys—$2 to $3.50.
City hides, trimmed—8c.
Country hides, trimmed—7c.
Horse hides—$2.50 to $2.75.
Kips—7c.
Deskin skins—60c.
Tallow, rough—2c.
Tallow, rendered—3 1-2c.
Wool, washed—18c.

The Globe TORONTO.

Fourteenth Year in Present Form.

The Product of Canadian Brains and Brawn.

What Lord Roberts said about last year's number:

"It is a remarkable production and am pleased to know that it is the work of Canadians."

The Historical Pictures.

Since the Globe began to publish these historical pictures in connection with The Christmas Globe there have been so many requests for one of Governor Simcoe the first Governor of Upper Canada—the man who did things—that it was decided to produce it this year, although considerably out of the natural sequence of events. The artist has been most happy in the selection of the incident illustrated, and it tells a more graphic story of the time than can be described with the pen. Apart from its historical value, the picture will be appreciated as a work of art, and will be 22 x 16 inches in size, similar to those of Wolfe, Brock, Cartier and Champlain.

This is only one of three supplementary plates. There will be eight full pages in color, as well as fifty-two pages of pictures and stories.

On sale about December 1st, Price Fifty cents each. from your dealer, or sixty cents if mailed direct from The Globe Office, Toronto. Ask your newsdealer about it.

The Demand Is Great And Constant

This afternoon Mr. Charles G. McDermott of Cookshire Que., passed through the city on the "International Limited" en route for Montana. Mr. McDermott who graduated in April last at Ontario Business College has secured through the recommendation of Principal J. W. Johnson, a position with the Shore-Newcom Co., of Miles City, at an initial salary of one hundred dollars per month. Mr. Shore the head of the above firm, is a graduate of the O. B. C. and an old Prince Edward County boy.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of this week five more requests were received for O. B. C. graduates, two stenographers, two for bookkeepers and one from a business college for a commercial teacher. Competent and thoroughly trained young men and women such as those who are being sent to fill the above positions are in constant demand. There is no way by which a young man or woman can be so quickly, so effectually and with so little expense equipped for success in life as by a course at the ONTARIO BUSINESS COLLEGE. J. W. BASEBALL FOOTBALL HOCKEY

SPORT

THE TURF THE RING BASKETBALL

HOCKEY

The proposed salary limit in hockey is bound to create a big sensation, and the most celebrated hockey players of the world are already up in arms against it, says the Montreal Star.

They consider that it will be the source of all sorts of abuses. That the real stars of the hockey world will not allow their salaries to be cut down, and that if they accept the reduced salaries proposed they will simply make a pretense.

They do not hesitate to openly admit that they will get the money somehow.

Ernie Russell, when asked by the Star what he thought of the idea, said: "It is ridiculous, and the real good players will never stand for it. When a man plays the fast and dangerous game we do, and is able to draw the thousands that we draw, he will have to be well paid for it, or they will have to do with the players who will not be able to draw the crowd."

Riley Hern, just returned from a holiday trip in the United States, when seen at his St. Catherine street store, said: "They are foolish and the measure, if carried, will cause all sorts of abuses thus far unknown. Men will pretend to accept the small salaries offered and the clubs will pretend to pay them and then give one another the double cross, and some private person interested in the fortunes of the club will present the players with a sum of money as great again as the supposed salary, the money presumably being a token of his personal esteem, but really coming out of the club's exchequer.

"Hockey players who attract thousands are worth a high salary, and they will have to get it some way or another, or they won't play."

Peterboro Review—A despatch from Guelph says that Peterboro, Port Hope and Belleville will form an eastern division for a new professional hockey league. A repetition of punk hockey, free fights and increased prices doesn't go any more. Then again, it is a question whether Peterboro would dabble in the professional game. If the past experience of other cities and towns is seriously considered, the feeling would no doubt be in favor of amateur association.

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.—The proposal from Toronto to have the rule permitting hockey and lacrosse amateurs and professionals play together abolished at the annual meeting of the A.A.U. of Canada may result in a big fight, especially as far as hockey is concerned.

Things are so mixed up here it could need a special board of control to keep the amateurs away from the professionals. The probabilities are that the hockey people will make a special representation to the union to have the time of the agreement extended.

FOOTBALL

The Argos are playing Ottawa at the capital this afternoon. Russell Bowie, of Gananoque, is umpire, Billy McMaster, of Montreal, is probably the referee, although the Argos have a right on the grounds of incompetency. It is said they threatened to refuse to play, but it is unlikely that they carried their threat into execution.

Montreal are very optimistic as to their chances against Tigers to-day at Hamilton. They are without the services of Cameron, their fast outside wing, who is suffering from injuries received in the Tiger and Argonaut games. Brophy is not in shape yet for another game, and he is off the team to-day. The team with the exception of Cameron, is the same as played the Tigers last Saturday.

George Ballard will referee, and a Montreal man may be appointed as umpire.

Whether Varsity will make it three senior Inter-college championships in a row will be decided to-day at Rosedale when they meet Queen's in what promises to be the hardest fought game this season. A win for the local collegians will give them the right to go into the Dominion semi-finals, and unless something unforeseen happens Varsity will be able to be returned the winners. The game started at 2.30. The teams:

Queen's—Full back, Deacon; halves, Erskine, Moran, Leckie; quarter, Reid; scrimmage, Overend, Smith, Bruce; inside wings, Young, Kinsella; middle wings, Elliott, Dowling; outside wings, Smith, Miller.

Varsity—Full back, Maynard; halves, Gage, Dixon, Gall; quarter, Foulds, scrimmage, Leonard, Bell, Carroll; inside wings, Clark or Germain and Kingston; middle wings, Grass, Lajoie; outside wings, Kennedy and Park or Thompson or Dawson.

ATHLETICS.

THE TURF THE RING BASKETBALL

The annual meeting of the Canadian Athletic Union will be held on Saturday, Nov. 20, at the King Edward, at 3 o'clock, when reports of the various committees will be read and officers elected.

It is likely at this meeting that the rule allowing amateurs to mingle with pros. in Eastern hockey and lacrosse will be abolished, as the agreement entered into expired in September.

About Zutoo Tablets

"I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and since then I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a quick "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effects. My family use them whenever needed, with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as "sweet." I always carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost."

WOMEN AND CARDS.

Women who are polite in practically all other social moments are extremely rude at card tables. It would perhaps help them to be self-controlled and strict in the game if going against them to remember that, after all, it is only a game, and, although they lose, their defeat is only temporary.

However indifferent one may be in fact when one is losing, and few persons are as interested when the cards are against them, it is a matter of good breeding to pretend as much enjoyment as when success is on her side. It is not polite to be cross, and dull just because one is losing. Such conduct makes the winning couple extremely uncomfortable.

Courtesy, at all times desirable, at cards should be regarded as imperative. To comment unfavorably upon the playing of a hand is the height of ill manners, and need not be excused on the ground of instructing the ignorant A woman who might answer with a reply to play a better game does not care to be criticised and drilled in public, and the one giving information is a self-appointed teacher who's not desired.

At a bridge luncheon recently the players at one table were amused to hear, at the completion of every hand, a lecture by one of the guests. The woman who had talked played well; all admitted that, but the afternoon was not a class in card playing. It was a social meeting where women were supposed to stand upon the merits of their games. That one who did the talking was not disagreeable, nor did she select one person for her victim, gracefully instructed the whole table, with the result that when she had gone at the end of the afternoon the remaining four declared that she had almost spoiled their game.

The correct thing for her to have done was to remain quiet, no matter how poor the playing of others might be. If she were asked questions as to what to do she might have answered briefly and courteously, but she should have remembered that the afternoon was one of relaxation and amusement, not of instruction.

The woman who loses her temper with her partner commits an unpardonable breach of good manners, nor is it enough to control the tongue alone at such times. Manners as well as the countenance and one who cannot regard these dictates of good breeding should never play cards.—Hartford Times.

FASHIONS FOR WINTER.

For trimmed suits and dresses of all sorts the acme of fashion this year. And that it is a velvet season no one can doubt. Velvet and velveteen will be used both for dressy and ordinary occasions. Silk velvet has been deemed impracticable for the coat and skirt suits, satin buttons holding, especially on the latter, and requires constant cleaning. Velveteen of a very superior quality is being used for these suits, and there is very little trimming on them, as a rule, except a band of fur at the cuffs, or sometimes the lower edge of the coat and the hem of the skirt.

Braid for dressy trimming of a majority of these fur trimmed velvet suits. The furs next in popularity for trimming are mole and opossum, aigret to match his white markings and frills of white chiffon on the whole. Fitched is still in popularity of our friend the red fox. His skin has been out of date for so long. His skin appears in charming three piece sets composed of a big turban accompanied with a muff and

A great deal of brown is to be worn this year, and this in a measure accounts for the many fur trimmings now coming into view after a long retirement. One even sees sets of natural furs, which in past seasons have been relegated to the black dye pot.

Following out the lighter tones of brown, the yellow evening gowns will perhaps be the smartest of all this year. Certainly one sees more of them than of any other color, and many a smart gown of another color has a touch of gold brought in under some pretext or another.

So far few variations of the kimona sleeve have appeared, and they have taken the form of separate sleeves made to appear one with the bodice by means of artful trimming. The flat top sleeve reigns supreme—a fact for which the smart woman should be grateful, for in certain gores her arm no longer neck line than any amount of fullness, no matter how judiciously disposed. Now that the extreme bolero is disappearing, take it all in all, the fashions of the season are by no means ungraceful.

YOUR BACKACHE WILL YIELD

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rockland, Maine.—"I was troubled for a long time with pains in my back and side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored and doctored, and thought I should never get well. I read a testimonial about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and thought I would try it. After taking three bottles I was relieved, and never felt so well in all my life. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all my friends."—Mrs. Will Young, 6 Columbia Avenue, Rockland, Me.

Backache is a symptom of female weakness, or derangement, and if you have backache, don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this more surely than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Cures the cause of these distressing aches and pains and you will become well and strong.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, restores health to thousands of women.

Mrs. E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge.

$2.50 RECIPE CURES WEAK KIDNEYS

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, etc.—Heals Skin in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say good-bye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back, the growing muscle weakness; the aching before the eyes; yellow skins; sluggish bowels, swollen eyelids or ankles; rheumatic twinges, nasalness, short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency? I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you'll be glad to get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing the prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K 1722 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and it will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this home recipe calls for well known remedies, but it has great healing and pain-relieving power. It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you'll be glad you wrote for it without delay. I will send you a copy "over," so you can use it and cure yourself at home.

The argument advanced in favor of a new phonograph which has its records in the form of a cylinder is that it is possible to provide much longer selections than by the other methods. Obviously, square feet of space for such a purpose will transmit one horse power.

INSPECTOR DEW RESIGNS

Verner, Arrested For Forgery In Toronto Is Wanted In Detroit.

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—Garfield Warner, arrested here charged with forgery, is wanted by the police of Detroit and Western Ontario cities on similar charges.

DEW RESIGNS.

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 7.—Inspector Dew, of Scotland Yard, has resigned, but it is said that the Crippen affair had nothing to do with it.

BURNED TO DEATH.

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 7.—Mrs. Margaret Duffield, aged 80, died in Victoria Hospital this morning as a result of being severely burned yesterday when, in the midst of a heavy snowstorm, she tried to make a fire better by putting coal oil on it.

STEAMER GOES TO PIECES.

(Intelligencer Special.)

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Nov. 7.—After being wrecked on the rocks along the north shore, the steamer Wasaga, of Collingwood, went to pieces. Her crew were rescued after a terrific battle with the wind and waves and brought here by another vessel to-day.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY.

(Intelligencer Special.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 7.—Careful and well informed election prognosticators predict a good working majority for the Democrats in Congress as a result of the elections to-morrow, and it is said President Taft is convinced and reconciled to this and will shape his policy accordingly.

FELL UNDER WAGON.

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—Frank Adams, aged 50, driver of the Canadian Transport Co., attempted to stop his team when frightened and running away. He fell and was crushed to death under the heavy wheels. Just a few days ago he celebrated his silver wedding. He leaves a widow and family.

ILLEGAL SHOOTING.

(Intelligencer Special.)

SARNIA, Ont., Nov. 7.—Pleading guilty to illegally shooting on the Sabbath and assaulting Provincial Constable Thomas Acton, Edward Sufnac, a prominent Michigan man, was sentenced to one week's imprisonment here and a fine of fifty dollars and costs, which he paid. His fellow sportsman, William Jones, was fined ten dollars and costs. Prominent United States people were to secure Sufnac's release, but the Magistrate was obdurate.

SATURDAYS GAMES

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—The Blue and White of Varsity triumped at Rosedale Saturday before fifty thousand spectators, when they defeated Queens for the Senior Intercollegiate championship by the overwhelming score of 25 to 0.

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—In the most sensational football struggle in the history of the great fall game, the Ottawas this afternoon gained the decision over the Toronto Argonauts, the final score being given by the officials as 23 to 20. It is Ottawa's impression that the Inter-provincial Amateur Football Union will be called upon to straighten things which arose in connection with the final play, which resulted so disastrous for the visitors.

HAMILTON, Nov. 6.—As the Hamilton Tigers were pulling off their forts in the club house at the Cricket Field, Saturday afternoon, after outplaying the Montreal squad to the tune of 23 to 6, the news was gently broken to them that Ottawa had beaten the Argos and that the championship once again had come to Hamilton.

WINSTON CHURCHILL TO THE RESCUE OF CRIPPEN

Grants Postponement Of Date of Execution Until Nov. 23rd--Dr. Munyon Offers $40,000 For Information That Mrs. Crippen Lives

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 7.—Contrary to all expectations Dr. Crippen has secured a new lease of life by the execution of the death sentence being postponed until Nov. 23rd by order of the Home Secretary, Winston Churchill. The reason is not definitely given, but it is explained that Churchill is giving consideration to Solicitor Newton's plea of commutation to life sentence. It is credited that there is an English custom to give the condemned criminal at least two Sundays between the final hearing and the execution.

To-day's papers make light of the stories from Philadelphia telling of Attorney Tobin's appeal to Washington in behalf of Crippen. They also characterize Dr. Munyon's offer of $40,000 reward for information that Mrs. Crippen (Belle Elmore) is still alive and taking part in the famous plot to kill her husband as nonsensical. Nevertheless they believe the story has somehow influenced Churchill through his United States relatives.

(Intelligencer Special.)

"Something will yet intervene to prove my innocence," said Dr. Crippen, when told of the postponement of the execution. He was overjoyed later when the news from Washington that Lawyer Tobin had reopened his case in a plea to the British Consul for interference. The police of New York and Chicago scoff at the idea that Mrs. Crippen is hiding somewhere within their limits.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 6.—Frank's Teary Tobin, a prominent attorney of this city, left for Washington, D.C., at midnight tonight to demand that the State Department intervene and save Dr. Harvey Hawley Crippen from death on the gallows Tuesday morning, on the ground that Mrs. Belle Elmore Crippen is still living. Before leaving he said: "Belle Elmore still lives. When she is found it will be in the vicinity of Chicago, where she is hiding. I have letters in my possession from people who know her, and who have seen her since she is said to have been murdered by her husband and her body buried in his London home.

Blaze Of Mysterious Origin Destroys Large Cold Storage Building

Ex-Mayor Graham A Heavy Loser By Blaze Which Breaks Out At Midnight On Saturday--Vast Quantity of Apples Destroyed--Little Insurance

What proved to be the most disastrous fire which has visited this city for years broke out at midnight Saturday, It destroyed the large cold storage warehouse owned by ex-Mayor Graham, and kept the fire fighters on the scene until Sunday morning.

On the line of the Grand Junction Railway, running through the city at the north end of Great St. James St., Mr. Graham a few years ago erected a large brick reserved warehouse three storeys in height, and adjoining it was a barrel and stave factory. The buildings were for the purpose of storing apples and the manufacturing of barrels and boxes for the reception of same. At midnight Saturday, fire broke out at the west end of the upper storey of the warehouse, and when the fire brigade arrived upon the scene the structure was a mass of flames. All efforts to save the warehouse proved futile, and the firemen fought the fire most faithfully, and by well directed streams saved the cooperage department.

An Intelligencer representative, in conversation with Mr. Graham, learned that in the basement of the warehouse was stored about 5,000 barrels of apples, which were ready for shipment, and upon other floors of the building there were about 5,000 more barrels. It was upon these floors where the great loss was sustained, the latter portion of the 5,000 barrels being consumed. Mr. Graham estimated that the loss sustained upon the building and apples would be about $25,000, to offset which he had but $6,000 insurance on the contents and $2,500 on the building. It will thus be seen that the loss to Mr. Graham is the most serious one, being almost three times in excess of his insurance.

How the fire originated is a mystery, as Mr. McGowan, the night watchman a few minutes before the fire broke out. In that portion of the building there was no stove or fire of any description.

STRIKE LEADER MURDOCK PLANS A NEW G. T. STRIKE

Would Not Give Much for Chance of Peace" Unless There is A Change In Way Men Are Treated But Grand Trunk Says No

MONTREAL, Nov. 7.—That the old trainmen and conductors of the Grand Trunk Railway believe that they have not been fairly treated by the company and that there is grave danger of a renewal of the trouble of four months ago was stated to your correspondent by Frank Murdock, former vice-president of the Trainmen's International Union this morning.

For some time past there have been vague rumors among the local trainmen that plans were being made to submit certain questions to the company. The presence in the city of Vice-President Berry, of the Brotherhood of Conductors, and the holding of several conferences between the leaders added importance to these stories.

Some of the men claim that the company is retaliating against those who went on strike by gradually getting rid of the old hands, discharging them on the slightest pretext and filling their places. The officials of the company emphatically deny this, declaring that not a single man has been discharged without just cause.

Yesterday it was rumored that the men of the Central Vermont had gone so far as to draw up plans for the renewal of the strike. When questioned as to the truth of this story, Mr. Murdock said:

"The men of the Central Vermont are in no worse position than those on other parts of the Grand Trunk."

"In fact I think I might say that they have been better treated than most of the others." But very soon, within the next few weeks, there has got to be a change in the way the men are being treated or I would not be much for the chance of peace."

VALUABLE PRIZES GO UP IN SMOKE

Clubhouse of Toronto Hunt Club Destroyed By Fire.

FAMOUS RESORT

Loss Will Be Nearly $50.000 In Cluding Tropies Valued At $10.000.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—The Toronto Hunt, the most active sporting organization in Canada, and a great centre in the social life of Toronto, had its fine club-house on the Kingston road, in Scarboro, (six miles east of the City Hall) totally destroyed by fire Sunday morning about 7 o'clock when the head waiter discovered the building in a blaze. Nothing could be done to save it, and soon only the walls, or part of them, was standing. The loss of building, contents and trophies, the latter alone valued at $10,-000, will foot up to between $40,000 and $50,000, said to be largely, if not altogether insured. A report from a fireplace is said to have started the trouble.

A meeting of the board of directors will be held at Chudleigh, Mr. Beardmore's residence, to-night, to decide upon future plans. The club was about to build an addition to the south for lounge room and ballroom accommodation, and alterations were to have been made to the present house to allow for the introduction of indoor sports, such as tobogganing, skating and snow-shoeing.

Besides the regular furniture and equipment, the clubhouse contained a fine collection of hunting and racing trophies and prizes, cups big and little of all kinds, and a large collection of hunting and racing prints—some of them hard to duplicate. The best portrait was a life-size one of D'Alton McCarthy, another of the master, George Beardmore, in hunting outfit, and portraits of Lord Minto and Countess Minto.

The fire was discovered when Head Waiter Temple came downstairs at 6.45 a.m., and found the ladies' room filled with fire. It is thought a live coal may have dropped from the open grate in the ladies' room during the night. So rapidly did the flames spread to the east and south wings that the servants and three guests, who had remained over night had barely time to escape, without saving any of their personal effects or greatly prized club trophies.

Charles Cronyn, W. D. Ross and Frank Drake were the only guests, and they made an attempt to first save some of the trophies, but finding the rush of flames and density of smoke too great to encounter, tried to save the 2,000 bottles of valuable wines and liquor, but had to abandon this task.

There was absolutely no possibility of checking the progress of the flames there being no water supply for fire-fighting, save enough given to each car effective bucket brigade. Just above the room in which the fire broke out was a big water tank, and an effort was made to cut a hole that would allow the contents to flood the lower floor, but it had to be given up. There were only three fire extinguishers in the place, and these were useless. A section of the city fire department went down, but could do nothing, the large quantity of pine in the construction, together with a strong draft, contributing to rapid destruction. The floors, too, had been re-waxed and oiled many times, that a great density of smoke resulted. In such an evasion, the ladies' room, general lounging room, hall, dining-room and bar, ladies' dressing and cloak room became alike furnaces. Then the flames rushed east and north, licking up the kitchen and servants' quarters, from which nothing was saved. In the east wing and the men's smoking-room, lounging-room and guests' apartments, to the north.

The trees adjoining these wings began to scorch, and the efforts of the fire-fighters were concentrated on these to prevent a spread to the woods A strong wind was blowing from the northwest. The fences leading to the stables and garage were torn down to prevent a spread in these directions.

Refused the Leadership.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—It is learned that C. A. Magrath, M.P. for Medicine Hat, has definitely refused the leadership of the Conservative opposition in Alberta. It is possible that Malcolm S. McCartiy, M.P. for Calgary, may undertake the task of building up the Conservative party in that province.

Alberta is now the only province in which the Conservatives are weak. Saskatchewan is expected to go Conservative at the General election. Less than 100 votes, properly distributed, put them in power last time.

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—Hon. George E. Foster will not proceed with the appeal against the verdict of the jury which found against him in his libel action against Hr. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Globe.

Mr. Foster has instructed his solicitofs to discontinue the appeal," said Mr. I. F. Helmuth, K.C., who was Mr. Foster's counsel at the trial. "Steps are being taken to comply with this instruction."

INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

Cured by—Music and Rhythm, After "Hospital Treatment Failed.

The wonderful results which can be obtained from the scientific use of music and rhythm in infantile paralysis were the subject of an impromptu demonstration recently at the Tiny Tots Guild, a institution in the City Road, London, for the treatment of paralysed children who are considered incurable at the general hospitals.

The first patient was a boy of six, whose right arm had been totally paralyzed following an attack of acute infantile paralysis. A drum and his zeal for beating it in time so as to become a professional drummer when he grows up.

An Asiatic Railway.

The hope of Singapore is for a great inland railway running from that southern point of the Malay peninsula northward through Siam to Burma and on to India and a branch line through Cambodia into China. Some day that hope will be realized. Within a radius of 2,000 miles of the little island on which Singapore is built there is a population of 700,682,000.

Eighteenth Century Dandies.

In the early part of the eighteenth century it was a common thing in London for a man of fashion to spend several hours a day with his valet, among the many quaint operations being "the starching of the beard and the proper perfuming of garments, the painting of the face and anointing with oils, tinctures, quintessences and pomatums." It is even said that some of the dandies of the time bathed in wine and milk "for the preservation of their complexions and the rejuvenation of their energies."

CURRENT EVENTS.

Reciprocity means free trade. Free trade means closing of Canadian factories and idle workmen.

Did you ever know the United States, with their cunning politicians, to give Canada anything? Well, not yet!

What made the United States the great commercial centre it is to-day? TARIFF—a high protective tariff wall that made foreign manufacturers erect factories within the borders of the United States, giving employment to the American workmen.

Laurier Government, having tested their navy policy in a Quebec constituency, now let them open a constituency where there are manufacturing industries, and their reciprocity scheme would put them in the same position as did Drummond-Arthabaska on the navy question.

What does reciprocity with the United States mean? It means giving the U. S. manufacturers a new field—the Canadian market—to SLAUGHTER THEIR SURPLUS GOODS IN OUR IDLE WORKMEN and SMOKELESS FACTORIES. Who wants reciprocity? Certainly not the Canadian workman.

Hon. A. J. Matheson, the Provincial Treasurer, announced on the 3rd Nov. that the total amount received in succession dues for the provincial year ending October 31, was $758,000. This is $108,000 over the estimate of $650,000. The receipts in this branch for the month of October were $151,603, a material increase on the receipts of the same month last year.

The most amusing feature in the political life of to-day is the solicitude displayed by the Grit-Bourge press for the Conservative party, arising out of the result of the contest in Drummond and Arthabaska. It would be well for the Grit press to take their own party under their wings; the Conservatives can take care of themselves.

Lord Collins, who has just retired from the Appeal Bench in England, is the thirteenth Judge to be added to the retired list. The pensions of these men amount to nearly a quarter of a million or dollars yearly. There was an addition of nearly ninety thousand dollars.—Globe.

Poor fellows, if they were in Canada our Liberal Government would have retired them on full pay.

ST. ANDREWS CELEBRATES ITS 79TH ANNIVERSARY

Helpful and Thoughtful Discourses Deiver d By Rev. Dr. McGillivray Of Chalmers Church, Kin eston—Special Music of High Order.

The 79th anniversary of St. Andrew's Church was celebrated yesterday. The preacher of the day was the Rev. Dr. MacGillivray, of Chalmers Church, Kingston. The services were well attended and the discourses helpful, and thoughtful. In the evening, after the usual opening exercises, the Rev. Dr. MacGillivray announced his text, namely, St. Luke, 9th chapter, 49th and 50th verses: "And John answered and said, Master, we saw one casting out devils in Thy name and we forbade him, because he followed not with us." "And Jesus said unto him, forbid him not; for he that is not against us is for us."

A good work was here being done and done in the name of Jesus, and still John the Apostle had some faith to find. Here was a needful lesson to be taught to the disciple and even to others. The unity of all liberating, good work and authority was not to be overlooked. To cast out devils and restore men to their right minds was surely a blessing. It was, however, not John's way of thinking, and he reasoned it, Jesus said to him that a man's world-wide aims are virtually one, namely healing the sick man's soul. If he did a good work, what matter if he did not belong to the company of the Apostles. Jesus did not believe in some doctrines of worship we should at least see something good in it. If other churches should seem to take a different path than the old beaten path, be tempted to err and do not believe. Be fair and tolerant in spirit, as Jesus was. They are honest and loyal to the truth and good men. Jesus also said, "Forbid them not," for, after all, the world, or rather country, then in this good work. Is it their bent of mind in accomplishing good. Because we cannot see as others see, should we judge them unjustly for it? Let us not do so. Some say we are living in an age of dissolution of the truth, which is not the fact. We are living in an age of severe criticism and a dissolution of some beliefs. We live in an age that is intensely intelligent. The great bulwark of faith would to some appear to be crumbling, but such is not the case. Faith is not endangered by reproach; her home is the bosom of the eternal God.

The divine made a comparison of times fifty years ago and to-day and changes which had taken place. Men in the olden days had stated that certain things were impossible, whereas to-day they are a reality. "They should not be rebuked for what they said and did in those times," said he. "We should be patient and tolerant, walking in the the best light we had. Let us avoid the sins which St. John the Apostle fell. He was human and made a mistake. Let us spare no pains to distinguish if possible things aright. Let us be strong in the conviction that all will be right in the end. We should endeavor to grasp the idea of life. To understand God's way with the world and man, we must go back and down deep, as it is likely to be found in most unlikely places. Religious faith stirs the soul from the passing of the world and will go on to the end of time. The pathway of the believer may not be always pleasant and smoothest on account of temptation besetting us on every hand but the gain will surely reflect and gladden us."

During the service Miss Heath, of Albert College, sang sweetly and effectively a solo entitled "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," and Miss Smith's voice was heard to advantage in the anthem entitled "Abide With Me." Mr. H. McKay, as usual, rendered well a solo entitled "Plains of Peace."

PRO. HOCKEY TEAM SURE

That Belleville will actually have a pro. hockey team this winter seems to be assured now. W. R. A. Ponton, manager of the rink here, has received word that "Buck" Irving has been called a meeting of Belleville on Thursday next, at which representatives from Peterboro, Trenton, Cobourg, Picton and Port Hope will be present. It will be the first meeting of the Eastern Hockey Association, and the election of officers will take place. At the meeting it will be decided whether or not to have a four or six club league. An important matter to be discussed will be the change in the time of play from the 60 minute halves to three periods of twenty minutes each. The change, if made, should prove a good one, for it will mean lightning play all the time.

It is also probably be decided to appoint two referees for the season. Those mentioned for the positions are Ken Marsh, of Toronto; Jas. Fraser and W. Hearn, of Stratford, Fletcher Tracy, of Kingston, and F. C. Waghorne, of Toronto.

A salary limit will be fixed and enforced. It is suggested to appoint a man to see that all contracts and obligations are carried out. Alex. Mills is named for this position.

Irving has already completed arrangements for teams at the above mentioned places. Negotiations with other local boys are enthusiastic over the outlook and will be present at the meeting.

DID HE STEAL THE FUR COAT ?

On the 29th day of October a fur lined coat valued at about $70, the property of Mr. Thomas Haslip, proprietor of the Albion hotel, was missed. It appears that at the time a party named Roy Gerow who was boarding at the house departed and it was known that Gerow the evening before had the coat on and was remarking that it was a fine one. He was suspected of taking the garment and a warrant for his arrest was sworn out by Constable Gerow was arrested at Oshawa and yesterday he was brought here by Sergt. Naphin. This morning Gerow was brought up before acting Magistrate Mayor Marsh charged with the theft of the coat He pleaded not guilty alleging that he left the coat hanging in the hall at the hotel. From evidence produced it was shown that coat has not been seen since the time that Gerow had it on. Two parties who were about the hotel at the time testified that they saw Gerow have the coat on but they did not see what he did with it.

After some evidence had been taken the case was adjourned until 10-morrow and Gerow was taken to the County jail.

MISSIONARY SUNDAY

Yesterday afternoon was devoted to missionary work at the Bridge street Sunday school. Rev. Dr. Bateman a returned missionary from India was the principal speaker in the city and an address, referring to his work in that eastern country. The doctor has a large field of labor covering some hundred miles. He spoke most encouragingly of the work amongst the natives and the success that is now following. The address was attentively listened to by the large number who were present.

DR. SHOREY ACCEPTS

Echoes Of The Drummond And Arthabasca Election

Now that Sir Wilfrid has met defeat in his own stronghold, even the hangers on of the party, who are always looking for something, are beginning to growl and desert the ship. A few extracts from their utterances shows which way the political wind is blowing.

In Montreal, say telegraph reports, everyone is after Sir Wilfrid's scalp now that Bourassa's got him on the run. His own friends are condemning the insistence of so many of his followers for office. For example, if there was a man who could have afforded to have waited for a while, it was his chief whip and his old friend, Louis Lavergne. But he demanded a senatorship the moment it became vacant. Members of Parliament demanding jobs are poor kind of cattle as a general rule.

Many now condemn Sir Wilfrid's weakness in giving so important a department as that of the Canadian navy to Mr. Brodeur, who was already more or less discredited in the administration of the marine department, a man whose health had gone back on him, and who was being carried along by his colleagues and his party. He was a deadweight.

The Nationalists in Montreal are laughing at Mr. Lemieux as a political butterfly with Japanese settings. They call him the doll of the Empire.

Others say that Sir Wilfrid's hand is losing its cunning. It has never been explained why he happened to be out of the way when the Eucharistic Congress was on. Nor has anyone told the inside story of the struggle that he had to make in the City of Montreal during the congress to get recognition in it.

Mr. Bourassa and his friends feel that they overshot the mark during the campaign, for all of them rush in to print saying that an anti-British army was miles from their thoughts.

Leading Liberals, and French Liberals too, assert to-day that both English and French members of the House of Commons would be justified in supporting Mr. Borden or any other Government which refused to allow Mr. Bourassa with his little band to control the legislation of the national Parliament.

Mr. Bourassa asks: "What is necessary Canada is the quality of those who did this election work in Drummond and confided to subalterns equal to the task. To-day, however, this is changed. The former organizers of these debaucheries have been shelved in honorable positions, where they are fed from the public chest, and to-day it is the members of parliament, the aspirants to the bench, the Senate and the Cabinet, who carry about the whisky jugs and who distribute the flasks of gin, organize the parish balls, carry the sacks of nuts, and turn the price of dead pigs to the service of the state and the profit of Laurierism."

"In fact," continues Mr. Bourassa, "all this work was accomplished under the serene eye and with the passive connivance of the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, P.C., G.C.M.G., D.C.L., LL.D., etc., etc." After referring to the warning which Mr. Bourassa says he gave Sir Wilfrid in 1905, the Nationalist leader adds: "Whatever may be the result this evening, be the ministerial candidate elected by a thousand votes or defeated, the glory of the great man is about to disappear, buried in the dirt."

Tancrede Marcil at the opening of the campaign said that in the event of a victory, such as was polled yesterday, "the shots at St. Eustache would receive their answer. The blood of the martyr patriots who were hanged would be avenged."

Senator Davis feels keenly the result of the election in Drummond-Arthabasca. The result of yesterday," said he, "shows the difficulty of governing the country under the present system of confederation. A man must face the prejudices which may arise in the different provinces, and he has the alternative of being a traitor to his race or a traitor to England."

Mr. Bourassa, in a brief speech, referred to the great importance and significance of the election. He said that he wished to make it perfectly clear that the campaign had not been an anti-British one. "We are," said Mr. Bourassa, "just as loyal to the British Empire as ever we were, and those who state that this contest has been an anti-British one don't know what they are talking about. I say to you French-Canadians," continued the Nationalist leader, "that we have gotten down a great work; we have taught Sir Wilfrid Laurier that he is not omnipotent, and that he cannot plunge Canada into the responsibilities of supporting a navy without first consulting the people. But this is just the beginning; the campaign will go on, and we will do our utmost to show to the people of the English provinces that we are just as loyal as they are, and that in our fight we are fighting for the autonomy of Canada."

E. D. Monk, M.P., said: "The verdict signifies that the people disapprove of the government's action in imposing upon the country a new and far-reaching policy, while refusing to submit the project to the judgment of the electorate."

Mr. Gilbert, the victorious Nationalist candidate, says: "I am satisfied. The result will show the Laurier people that the country wants to be consulted on the navy; it will further show that Quebec is against the adoption of a navy bill at the present juncture. The people want to examine the ingredients of the 'marine pill' before swallowing it."

Armand Lavergne: "I hardly know what to say," he said. "I am so surprised at this unexpected victory, but now I hope the Liberal party will return to its old principles of government by the people for the people, and not, as heretofore, the one way to have the Empire is by respecting the liberties and privileges of the colonies. They must remember that the Empire is for the people, and people is for its own country. In Canada the best way to be an imperialist is to be a good Canadian first."

"It is not a victory over the English, nor over the Empire," said Mr. Lavergne. "The result of to-day's election simply means that the qualities of the Latin and French races have again shown themselves, that if we would love the Empire we must first love our mother country.

"All have done their duty in the fight," Mr. Lavergne concluded, "the Liberal Red, the Conservative Blue, as well as the Nationalist White. All have contributed towards the defeat of a bad Government."

The defeat of Mr. Perrault was regarded in another light by Mr. Tancrede Marsil, the Nationalist, who won for himself the sobriquet of "The Lion of the campaign."

"It is vengeance," Mr. Marsil declared, "for the shot at St. Eustache. Those who were hanged on the scaffold to defend our liberties are now avenged.

"This is the first time in my life in which I occupy a position like this, and I can assure you that words fail me in the expression of all I feel. I feel that the French language even is inadequate on such an occasion as this to express our sentiments.

"I recognize that my victory was providential. I recognize that we have triumphed in the Lord.

"And I will ask you to allow me further speakers address you that you sing the Veni Creator. (Come, Holy Spirit).

Mr. Gilbert then turned round to his supporters on the platform with a request to start the hymn.

After some little delay, the Veni Creator was sung by the crowd.

A Generous Village.

They are a generous people in Limavady, Ireland. A few weeks ago the workhouse schoolmaster arrived at the retiring age and it was felt that the time had come to put a younger and more energetic man in his place. The old man had served the community well for over thirty years at the magnificent salary of $130 a year, in addition to which he had his meals in the workhouse, which was estimated at being worth about $100 a year more, so it was felt that he was entitled to a pension on which he might end his days in comfort.

The guardians held a special meeting to discuss the matter and with rare generosity fixed the old schoolmaster's pension at $25 a year. The munificence of this action will be understood better when it is mentioned that the same board estimates that every pauper in its workhouse costs it about $20 a year to maintain.

With truly amazing ingratitude the old man refused rather rudely to accept this pension, and said he would prefer returning to the workhouse even if in another capacity to that in which he had adorned it so long.

Miracle of a Bath Sponge.

Horace Savage Landor, at one time a captive of the Lamas in Tibet, tells the following adventure:

"The lamas had got hold of my bath sponge, which was dry and pressed to a great thinness by a heavy weight which had rested upon. Throwing it from them, it fell in a little pool of water. I addressed the sponge in English and in various tongues that came into my head, pretending to utter incantations.

ATTEND DIVINE SERVICES IN EMMANUEL EPISCOPAL CRURCH

Orangemen Out En-Masse Yesterday Morning In Commemoration Of Gun Powder Plot--Interesting And Instructive Sermon Delivered By Rev. A. M. Hubly.

On Sunday morning the Orangemen, resplendent in their Blue Regalia, the city attended divine service at Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church, for the purpose of commemorating the anniversary of the gunpowder plot. There was a fair turnout of the members of the society, the Rector, Rev. A. M. Hubly, officiated. After the usual devotional exercises the Rev. gentleman delivered an interesting and instructive discourse which formed a keeping with the occasion. The subject of his discourse was "Christian Liberty," and his text was from Galatians, 5th chapter and 1st verse.

"Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free; and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage."

Before dealing with the subject the Rector said the pleasure it was to have the Orange Societies worship with them. The teachings of the Reformed Episcopal Church were in line with the principles of the Order. Christian liberty, he said, was a twofold liberty. It was a liberty which Christ effected in order that all might be free from bondage. He referred to the grand old agnominious death and to their spiritual liberty. There the vicarious suffering and death occurred for this liberty. Wherever the blessed Gospel is preached it is the privilege of all to be partakers of this spiritual liberty. This spiritual liberty is of two kinds. To were not redeemed by gold or silver, but by the precious blood of Jesus Christ. We were dead in our trespasses and sins, and were quickened by the death of Christ. His was a finished work. He lored us and gave His life as a High Priest for His people. A perfect christian liberty was established by the Lord Jesus Christ. It was a great honor to preach the glorious religion of the Reformation, which Christ founded. The divine then referred to the teachings of the Roman Catholic Church, and to the Pope, who he declared to be infallible, possessing a power altogether divine. It is no wonder that with this belief that he is impossible for the faithful, priests and the millions of Catholics. The gunpowder plot was referred to at length. As in those days, so at present was the testimony of Protestantism needed. In closing, the Rev. gentleman urged all to be true to themselves, be true to the state, the church, and stand up for simple evangelical faith. Obey the law of Christ and rejoice in the liberty wherein He hath made us free.

During the service Rev. Geo. Worrell read the lesson and pronounced the benediction.

On Friday evening, Nov. 4th, Loyal Orange Lodge No. 1 held an "At Home" in their lodge room, Front St.

Crowe Gets Ten Years.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—A wire was received by the headquarters detectives evening from Inspector Duncan at Winnipeg, stating that Gerald M. Crowe, of Toronto man, who was found guilty of forgery of a check for $2,500 on the Bank of Hamilton, has been sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. Duncan, who intended to bring Crowe back to Toronto to answer to two similar charges here in case he was acquitted in Winnipeg, will return without his man.

The Toronto warrants were for the forged checks on the City Dairy Co.

Commission for Vancouver.

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 7.—Vancouver electors Saturday voted against the bylaw for a local commission part of the civic government. Owing to an all-day rain, the total vote was only three hundred, out of a possible twenty-four thousand electors enrolled, and the bylaw was defeated by the narrow margin of six votes. As a result, the small vote the commissioners in the January municipal elections, when electors may be asked to choose between a board of control and a commission form of civic government.

Heavy Sentences.

Brandon, Nov. 7.—At noon Saturday Carson, Newton and Welsh were found guilty of burglary at the Hamilton jewelry store. Welsh was sentenced to four years in penitentiary. Newton to fourteen years on the Portage and fourteen on the Hamiota charge, the sentences to run concurrently. Carson, the ringleader of the gang, was sentenced to fourteen years on the Portage and fourteen on the Hamiota charge, and 25 lashes.

The sentences were pronounced by Justice Richards, who had sentenced Carson to seven years on a previous charge.

Burned the Mortgage.

Kingston, Nov. 7.—The members of the Queen Street Methodist Church burned the mortgage on the building in the church Saturday night. The church had a debt of $1,750, and raised $4,400.

Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles

Most sickness starts with weak stomach, sluggish blood and poor, impoverished blood. Nervous and pale people look good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating, for, after all, a man can be no stronger than his blood.

A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and prevents overwork and destroys disease-producing bacteria and cures a whole multitude of ailments.

Get rid of your Stomach Weakness and Liver Laziness by taking a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great Stomach Restorative, Liver Invigorator and Blood Cleanser.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery" which is a medicine or known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, none being attested as solemnly as under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

The ...Veiled Lady...

"All coming up! Harold Durnsford expected every day on yacht Lancashire Witch, from Yokohama! We will bring you here with us!"

The grave faced Kentuckian watched the motley throng along Montgomery street. "To-morrow, Maxwell will be here! Thank God!" murmured Jack, biting full his Army and Navy Journal.

With a flourish the hotel coaches drew up, with a load of passengers arriving from Panama and South America. A haggard lever worn traveller strode to the counter, and, as he inscribed the pen down, gazed in wonder, as Gordon watched him register: "Beverly Seaton, Valparaiso."

"Gordon!" cried Seaton, his pale face lighting up. "Where on earth did you come from? he asked in startled tones!"

"I am waiting for Vinton Maxwell! He will be here to-morrow; and you the man I want to see, of all others." In a few hours the once ardent friends had cautiously exchanged their fin de cheries of life. Seaton's eyes, deep set, and weary, told of the lonely vigils and sleepless nights.

"I have come home, to close up my affairs! To do what I can for my people," Seaton said, his voice low. "Before I die at home,—or—I'll resign shore! I've had no home, Gordon none since the war!" A veil of sad reserve covered the two old comrades who intuitively waited for Maxwell. He was the jovial "side arm angle" of the old triangular friendship!

"Some way, I must get into the dark recesses of that man's memory! I will tell Maxwell all! He must relieve here! Force will be of no avail with this great Nicaraguan! He seems heart broken!" So Gordon mused.

While the two friends waited for the momentary arrival of the Los Angeles train, next day, the spacious offices of the Occidental were littered with the extensive luggage of Lord Alfred Beaufort, the owner of the newly arrived Lancashire Witch. Servants, Lascars, and Japanese, busy hurried around. In the mass of trunk, gun cases, hat boxes, portable bathand cook stoves, for the outfit of a Briton of grandeur, Jack Gordon observed several trunks labelled "Harold Durnsford" and in fact, a tall, alert Anglo-Saxon, (instinctively the mentor of the dilettante Lord Alfred,) was now fighting off a horde of social reporters eager to fill the columns of several society journals, with details of this real, "live Lord," and his pink, present and possible future! An Anglo Saxon shake in a western Yankee tub!

An hour later, weary, happy Vinton Maxwell brought new life, and a cheering good humor into the relations of the two Southerners, each of whom felt that the other had an important disclosure to make. Suspicion more potent than any bitter open quarrel, brooded over the men, whose earnest faces were records of mental agonis's past.

In the parlors above, sweet Rose Durnsford was eagerly telling the handsome brother of the debt she owed to Maxwell and Gordon—Robert Durnsford gazed with joy on his reunited family!

"By love," I will not let a moment pass till I get a letter of apology and noble fellows! Never mind formality! Soon the four young men were in the warmest friendly fervency — Harold Durnsford was as hearty an Englishman as ever pulled a Varsity winning boat over the finish, at Mortlake!— He gloried in the fearless devotion of the men who once shielded his sweetheart with their breasts. Maxwell knew now that his courage was won!"

"Ah! Fray excuse me! only for a moment!" murmured Durnsford, as Lord Alfred approached. After a brief colloquy Beaufort claimed the whole party for a dinner at the Cliff house (you see,) Durnsford your people need rest. after their long ride. I may sail at once for Victoria as soon as I can get clearance. If the boat is provisioned to-morrow, I'll go right along, have her refitted up there, and return to you Yamatos! Now you must not say, no! We're all youngsters, and I will give you later, a run to San Diego, when I come down."

"Then Lord Alfred, you must make your own peace with Miss Durnsford! I am sorry to see a little breaking of my icy reserve chilinging to his gloomy friends; it could be done best, over a dinner table. "Excuse me, gentlemen, I may have to use," Maxwell reflected. "For Gordon possibly will be carried a warm in his heart! And as is this new? Bah! Beverly! Is he the same Beverly Seaton he was last year? Still on the fiddle? Was he and Beatrice? God grant that he never will have to! I will not indulge in a tete-a-tete with either, till I have the old heart feelings back again!"

"PROGRESSO" A Real Creation In Overcoats

"PROGRESSO" is a genuine creation from collar to hem. Some dealers think it is enough to make an overcoat collar something like the "PROGRESSO"—or to call an ordinary overcoat a name that sounds something like "PROGRESSO."

But the distinctive features—the master touches—that have made "PROGRESSO" famous, are not there.

The "PROGRESSO" OVERCOAT was designed to meet a specific need—to give men absolute protection in winter. That it does this, as no other moderately priced overcoat does—or has ever done—is proved by the enormous demand for it.

Be on your guard. When you ask for the "PROGRESSO", see that this trademark is on the collar.

IS COMPROMISE MADE?

Veto Conference Is Reported to Have Reached Terms.

Dublin Paper Says Unionists Have Agreed to Support the Government Until Irish Matters Are Settled—Walthamstow Elections Has Convinced Unionists That a General Return Should Be Avoided.

Dublin, Nov. 7.—The Evening Herald, a Nationalist organ, professed Saturday to have learned from an authoritative source that the members of the conference of the Government and the opposition over constitutional questions have reached a compromise regarding the House of Lords, and that the Unionist leaders have agreed to support the Government until the latter has had an opportunity to reframe a plan for the settlement of Irish matters.

Agreement Reached.

London, Nov. 7.—The crisis of the constitutional conference has been reached. Twenty meetings have been held, and an agreement to an agreement has been made. This is conceded by the pessimists, and otherwise the conference would have broken up long ago. Will the eight negotiators arrange a "grand vivendi for coronation year and avoid a general election? The optimists without doubt are more hopeful than they have been since the death of King Edward. They assert that the Walthamstow election has convinced the Unionists that a premature election in January will be ruinous to tariff reform, and must be avoided by a timely compromise.

What politicians are saying at every turn is that Premier Asquith has suggested a basis of settlement for the budget and veto questions, and that Mr. Balfour is hesitating, but is inclined to accept the terms, with the understanding that the House of Lords shall be allowed to reform itself at leisure.

The financial situation has never presented any serious difficulties beyond the necessity of obtaining a definition of the finance bill by competent to do so, the satisfaction of the veto question, if settled by the conference, is likely to be taken into joint session of the two Houses, after the bill has been carried three times by the Commons, and this will be regulated by the Government of the day so as to involve a final passage.

An arrangement of this kind will satisfy the Radicals, but can be tolerated by the Unionists solely on the ground that the elections must be put off in the interests of tariff reform.

Rainbow on the West Coast.

Vancouver, Nov. 7.—His Majesty's Canadian ship Rainbow arrived at Esquimalt at 10 o'clock this morning. Rear Admiral Kingsmill, with his flagship and a salute was fired simultaneously by the Rainbow and the shore batteries. The Rainbow is met by a salute of thirteen guns to the shore at 2 p.m.

Hon. William Templeman and G. Desbarats, Deputy Minister for Naval Affairs, went on board and received the vessel in the name of the Government of Canada.

Deputy Minister Desbarats stated that Esquimalt would be the only naval base on the Canadian coast for the Imperial squadron on Nov. 9.

Will Go to Ottawa.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—It is stated here that Henri Bourassa, Armand Lavergne and Jean Prevost will go to Ottawa at the coming Federal election. Had Mr. Lavergne been a candidate in Drummond and Arthabaska, he would have had 500 of a majority. So great is the popularity in his father's and his uncle's old constituencies, that if he had entered the contest comes around, he will probably run for Montmagny. The seat for Mr. Bourassa, his eyes are said to be on is Jacques Cartier. Mr. Gervais, although he would have hardly work there than in a rural constituency, Mr. Prevost will, of course, run for Terrebone.

ALMOST SEPARATED.

Polish Woman In Sad Quandary at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 7.—Mrs. Marie Wallenstein, with one baby in her arms and about to become the mother of another, was deserted here yesterday morning, when she was held by an immigration inspector and she could not enter Canada. The woman, who is a Pole, and who could understand only little English, had come from Newcastle, Pa., was on her way to Belleville, at which place she said her husband was employed as a machinist, and had not heard from. With her was her husband's brother, Frank, who was also almost penniless.

When stopped by the inspector, Mrs. Wallenstein was about to produce proof that her husband, whom she said had crossed the border into Canada only three weeks ago, was in the Dominion. This she seemed unable to do to the satisfaction of the inspector, so the mother and child were ordered sent back to Pennsylvania by the official. The forlorn little party boarded a said ground to wait for the train, and the child cried pitifully at noon, till the station policeman got it some dinner.

Yesterday afternoon the women rummaged through her bandanna bundle and found several letters from her husband. She presented these to the inspector, who considered them sufficient proof to warrant admitting her to the country, so he switched a point and allowed the lit the group to go to Belleville.

Sues Wife for Not Dressing.

Sterling, Ill., Nov. 7.—James Cooling of Bureau County Saturday filed a petition for divorce, in which he sets forth that his wife refuses to dress like other women in the neighborhood, and that the style of attire adopted by her causes him much embarrassment.

He alleges that she has refused to buy a new dress for years. He states that he had frequently urged her to dress more fashionably and in keeping with the season's styles, but that his wife maintained that it was unnecessary.

He also alleges that she has deserted him.

Queen Mary and the Poor.

London, Nov. 7.—The spectacle of a Queen busy unpacking, sorting and arranging piles of clothing garments for the poor is not a frequent one.

Queen Mary throughout the past week has devoted several hours each day to tasks of this kind and has worked as hard as any of the women who have been helping her. She is patroness of the Needlework Guild, an institution which makes garments for the poor.

Strike Not Settled.

CHAPPED HANDS & COLD SORES

One thorough application of Zam-Buk at night will bring ease by morning. Zam-Buk stops the smarting, heals the cracks, and makes the hands smooth.

PROOF—Miss Hattie Pertrand, Galesburg, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with chapped hands and sore and nothing ever seemed to help them thoroughly until we found Zam-Buk. It has cured them. My father has also used it for several skin troubles and injuries, and thinks there is nothing like Zam-Buk."

Mothers should see that their children use Zam-Buk daily, as there is no better skin preventive. A little Zam-Buk lightly smeared on the hands after washing, will prevent chaps and cold sores.

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin diseases, eczema, itch, ringworm, blood-poisoning, piles, and for cuts, burns, bruises, and all injuries. Refuse substitutes, as most free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 50c., are harmful substitutes and imitations.

JOLLYING A STRANGER

BUMPTUOUS AMERICAN LEARNS ABOUT CANADA.

He Undertakes to Say How Much Better Things Are Done Over the Line and the Canadian Helps Him on His Way—Township That Were Named After the Governor's Wife's Lap-Dogs.

On a train running from Penetang to Toronto, the other day, a Toronto man-fell in with another of those inevitable growing Americans. He was one of those summer visitors from across the border who, being outside his own country for the first time in his life, was able to see on all sides of him evidence in support of his opinion that there is but one country in the world fit to inspire the real affection of its inhabitants. From that country he came, and, as in that land all men are free and equal, he was the equal of any man in it—and the superior of most.

As the train ran out of Penetang he addressed his humble but inferior traveling companion.

"These Canadian railways," he observed, "seem to make fair speed down grades, but on the level they're mighty crazy."

Not being an American of the ingrowing type, his companion glanced hastily at his fellow passengers in the small smoking compartment, seemed embarrassed, and "Never mind" and gazed resolutely out of the window.

The complacent tourist reclined in his seat and also looked out of the window, but with a smiling approval of his important gaze. The stumps, he perceived although he did not speak of it) were not the fine free and equal stumps to which he was accustomed to see at home. The blasted stump of a pine-land was, of it were the victim of monarchial tyranny.

"Do you live in Canada?" he said, hoping to hear Toronto man.

"Well, I exist here," was the reply, and the visitor smiled approval of the distinction made.

"Is this district considered good farming country?" he asked, waving his hand towards the area of stones and stumps through which the train was passing at the moment.

"Oh, yes," said the Canuck, lightly, his cigar, and quickly deciding to be as useful as possible to the stranger. "This is considered one of the finest agricultural districts in Canada. You'll travel a long way before you see any better. Why, lots of these farms aren't worth a mortgage."

"Quite a few stumps, though."

"Stumps don't matter. We have a narrow one-horse plow and can get around the stumps all right."

With his elbow he nudged his companion, evidently believing that the simple Canadian victim was not to be spared the action.

"Do you know what we would do with those stumps over in our county?"

"What?"

"We'd pull them up."

"Well, of course," admitted the Canuck, "that's what farmers do with stumps as soon as they get loose enough."

"But," leaning over triumphantly, "in our country we don't wait for them to get loose. We have what we call stumping machines, and we'd go into a field like that and yank 'em all out in one day."

"Oh, once only?"

The stranger then gave a full explanation of the stumping machine, and how it worked, to which the three or four Canadians listened with every show of interest and surprise.

"By the way," he added, "do you see the name on that mill? The Pay Milling Co." Well, the way that mill got its name is worth knowing. This used to be the township of Flos. There were three townships here, and we had a Governor-General over, sent out from England to govern us, and he named the three townships Tiny, Tay, and Flos, after his wife's three dogs."

Named them after your governor's after his wife's dogs, did he? What did you say the names were?"

"Tiny, Tay, and Flos."

He wrote them down.

"Then," said the Canuck, "Judge Cahuck, 'King Charles spaniels,'" glanced the tourist, adding these words to his notes, "and every few people do anything to keep your townships being named after your governor's dog."

"Do? What could we do?"

Another valuable hint was here given to his silent and rather unconvinced companion, and his face clearly said: "Isn't this fine. Watch me draw this fellow out. I wouldn't have missed this for a good deal."

"Couldn't you have anything you could do? Couldn't you have held a mass meeting and scared the stuffing out of the old skeezicks?"

The Canuck looked alarmed. "Don't speak like that," he cautioned; "you never know who's on a train like this. In a case like as you say, they'd held a mass meeting, but the soldiers would have been down on us, in short order.

A glare in the eye of an elderly Canadian had ordered the conversation partment in the middle of the conversation, and in which his fellow-countryman that there would be an explosion if he continued. He wanted to go away and laugh, he rose hastily and assumed himself, saying he would be back.

But when he returned in half an hour, it was also evident that his smoking compartment had been a battle-actual, real, in wasted material, so nothing of the wear upon your dispositions happened, when they were no longer on speaking terms.

"Why," said the Canuck afterwards "what a fool that Englishman was. The man was a stranger in the country—in a train full of strangers—and he tried to him what he wanted to sell."

"Yes," said the other in the great republic a man is telling the story of Tay and Flos as a proof of the way in which Canada is oppressed by the operations of a tyrannous monarchy.—Toronto Weekly Star.

The astronomer assumed in favor of a new atmosphere which rises its receding in the form of electric belts is that it is possible to prevent such longer selections than by the older methods.

Mr. Stroke

A Sizzling Story in Which There Is a Mystery.

By KINGSBURY WELCH.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

We were sitting in a room above where the boats were stored, in easy chairs, at university men, talking about boating incidents, oarsmen and the paraphernalia for rowing. The air was thick with tobacco smoke, and rapidly from pipes, the students' favorite smoke. We had met to talk over preparations for the coming season, which was soon to begin. Having finished that subject, we dropped, as I have said, into general chat on sporting subjects and from this into stories of feats that had been performed at contests on the water in days gone by. A collegiate, being a constantly changing community, is not a good place for handing down traditions, but occasionally a graduate will return to tell of some episode that happened in his day and was at the time the talk of the institution.

We had with us on this occasion a man who had dropped in unannounced, remarking that he was a graduate of the college of ten years' standing and had in his time been a leading light in university crew. He must have been graduated very young, for he looked scarcely thirty. A cast or some imperfection in his eye gave him an uncanny appearance, but the moment of his appearance he was a damper on our spirits.

"These old men," whispered Tomkins, a sophomore, to me, "who were leading lights before the days of my existence. They're always trying to feel that they are to their teens again, and they only succeed in making to feel as old as they are."

"Had any of you pull in a regatta?" asked the alumnus.

"Yes," was the reply, "I pulled in one."

"What year was that?" I inquired.

"It's not a pleasant subject to talk about; you know," he said.

"To what did you attribute the failure?" asked another, remembering that is always a reason for every beating a crew gets. One time it is the stroke, another the bow, another the coxswain.

"Search me as the cause of the failure on that occasion," replied the stranger.

Never were words spoken in a more melancholy strain. There was not a man in the party who did not take his pipe out of his mouth, draw his eyes on the speaker and feel a cold chill pass over him. The stranger continued:

"We had been beaten by our great rival in two successive seasons, and for this regatta had made every preparation, taking every precaution to secure a triumph. We had the best coach the country afforded, a new boat made on the newest model, and our system of training was perfect and our selection crew was such that the betting began at 3 to 2 on our crew, and before the race was on there were no takers at 2 to 1.

"The day of the race was beautiful; not a cloud in the sky; just enough breeze here and there to ruffle it for invigoration. When the hour for the race came the contestants were in fit condition enough to timber our joints and muscles.

"The scene along the river banks was entrancing. The bright colors of the fair sex dresses and parasols made a perfect flower garden. In the river gaily boats bearing both girls and boys were moving back and forth like water sprites.

"When we went out on the floating platform to get into our boat there was a mighty cheer from our backers that it can hear to this day. Babcock was No. 1, Avery 2, Chambers 3, Brown 4, Willmarth 5, Frost 6, Mayo 7."

"Excuse me for interrupting you," said one of us, "but you should remember their names so well."

"I shall never forget them."

"You left out the stroke," I said.

"Was the stroke."

Why it was that none of us could muster pluck to ask the man his name and address we did not attempt to know it, but not a man chirped.

"We stepped into the boat," continued the stranger, "and took our places. Right good men with not a pound of fat on any of us and in all other respects in perfect condition. We had for months been absorbed to what we were doing, for our every attention had been neglected, and I would have a 'bone' all summer to make up 'conditioned.' But I must not forget that part. My whole soul was merged in the idea of beating our opponents.

"At the starting position, the shot was fired, and we made a good start, of course—two lengths ahead, in the length behind over the line. But we made this up within a minute and passed the first quarter pole, and I heard none of the wild cheers. I saw neither the boat, the water nor the shore, nor the crowd. I saw only my objects. I was conscious only of the quarter pole, and I was conscious of the boat over the course. Once only in the drops of water tossed into the air when the oar of another of our opponents struck the surface, instead of sinking to its proper depth. I don't know why I remember that of this had it not been that 'such splashing is reported to be bad form.'

"We gained steadily, turning the stake boat—it was that kind of a course—two lengths ahead. As we began to pull back down the course, familiar cries of triumph greeted us.

"To prevent surrendering of coal dust clinker, experiments are under way in Germany which aim to fuse the ashes into boring, under pressure. It thus is possible to prevent the dust from rising, and the coal can be broken down with pick-and-blasting.

actions of the wild cheering and waving. It may be that we all somewhat relaxed at this time. At any rate, our opponents, having turned the stake boat behind us, made a spurt and overhauled us. Then down again we go to work and had gained three lengths—quite enough considering there was but a quarter of a mile remaining—to give us the race, when—

"The narrator stopped. A pallor came over his face, and he gasped. Several of us started toward him, but he waved us back.

"Something in me gave way. I fell over into the arms of No. 7. Our competitors shot by us and won the race.

I have never experienced such a depressing, not to say humiliating, moment as when the narrative ended. While the narrator was describing the race I had stood at his side with my eyes dashing onward and hear the cheering. When he spoke of the disaster somehow my imagination pictured blood spouting from his mouth and nose, but the man among us but appeared to be similarly shocked.

"Come," said one of our number, "let's adjourn to the mess and get some supper."

"Good!" cried the rest glad to break the spell and eager for something to brace us after listening to the sad narrative.

We went out into the darkness, the stranger with us. When we reached the dining hall, Tomkins asked, "Well, —Mr. Stroke?"

"Stroke!" he replied one behind "I thought he was ahead with you fellows."

Every one thought he was with some one else.

Mr. Stroke, as we called him, had evidently taken advantage of the darkness to steal away unobserved. We were quite relieved at his doing so. The effect of his story was, to say the least, depressing, and we were glad to get rid of him. We ordered our supper and while waiting for it talked about him, wondering who he could be and what race it was that he said he had lost for his crew. Since he had not given us his name, we did not feel the distinction of classes and accordingly to talk the paths of gentlemen. Besides, if Bernadotte were the revolutionists and brain a power in their councils.

He was one of the three who assisted at the execution of Louis. When he died Oscar I was found tattooed upon his right arm the words "Bernadotte" and "Friend of the French beneath it the legend: "Death to all Kings and tyrants."

With the restoration of order in France came Napoleon and that series of brilliant military exploits which made "the little corporal's" name immortal. France was quick to see Bernadotte's talents. In rapid succession he was made a colonel and a general. In the campaigns of the Rhine and of Italy his military talents found ample scope for display. He was appointed one of the envoys to Vienna, he demonstrated his merit as a diplomatist.

When Bonaparte went to Egypt Bernadotte was appointed Minister of War. He organized the whole French army and had every thing in readiness for the conquest of Holland. In the battle of Austerlitz he commanded the left wing. Although there had always been rivalry between the two men, Napoleon never lost an opportunity to heap riches and honors upon Bernadotte, and in addition to giving him large estates, he created him Prince of Ponte-Corvo.

Napoleon had reached the point in his career where he had begun to realize that France could not forever hold the crown of Europe. To avert the danger of wearing out his country by the continuous raising of armies he began to think of securing on the thrones of Europe members who would be friendly to him.

In 1810 the death of Prince Augustenburg of Sweden left the throne of that country without an heir. Bernadotte conceived the idea of having himself elected crown prince, and in this he was supported by Napoleon. At first great opposition developed in the Swedish Diet, but finally he was unanimously elected.

In 1813 and 1814 Bernadotte turned against Napoleon and joined the coalition organized to crush the emperor's power forever. His Swedish contingent withheld decided the battle against the French at Leipzig.

As a business man Bernadotte demonstrated that he had remarkable abilities. He had inherited from his peasant ancestors ideas of thrift which served him in good stead as the conqueror of his country's resources and the builder up of her industries.

Bernadotte left only one son. He married Josephine of Beauharnais, and upon his accession to the throne took the name of Oscar I. After a reign of 15 years mental weakness manifested itself. Oscar I resigned in his eldest son Charles, who succeeded him. After the death of his father Charles XV. showed himself a good and proved himself a remarkable gifted man. A special consideration for the poorest to which the wealth and nobility of Sweden have subjected his court by mixing with all grades of society. He is a painter, being literary people and artists. His younger brother, Oscar II., succeeded him. He had married a rich wife, Princess Sophia, daughter of the Duke of Nassau, which fact greatly contributed for the fact that Charles XV.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

NO HOPE FOR CRIPPEN

Doctor's Appeal From Death Sentence Is Denied.

Criminal Court of Appeals Hears Lawyer Tobin's Arguments and Refuses to Grant a New Trial—Will Now Ask for Pardon or Commutation—Miss Leneve Inherits Hill Estate, Amounting to About $15,000.

London, Nov. 7.—Dr. Hawley Crippen, convicted of the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, the actress, yesterday played his last card and lost. He will be hanged on Nov. 8.

The Criminal Court of Appeals heard his appeal from the conviction of the lower court, and decided against him on all points. The court refused to grant a new trial, and confirmed the order of execution, which will be carried out on Tuesday next.

The hearing of Crippen's appeal drew another great crowd to the new Bailey court yesterday. Justices Darling, Channell and Pickford heard the appeal. Crippen was brought to the court house, but kept in a cell, pending a decision on an appeal against Justice Bidley's ruling that he could not attend the proceedings. This ruling was set aside, and Crippen was brought into the dock. He was very pale and evidently had lost strength since his conviction.

Crippen as he was physically, Crippen maintained his composure, even in the trying moment when he heard his doom pronounced, and did not betray himself, if his air was assumed. At once when the court's decision was announced a warden insulated the prisoner on the shoulder and the latter, without a word or gesture, turned and left the dock. He was conducted at once to the Pentville prison.

Those who have seen Crippen during his imprisonment say that his bearing has never changed from the moment of his arrest. He sleeps throughout, eats soundly, and eats heartily. He spends much time in reading.

Miss Leneve has visited him in the prison three times.

The prisoner's counsel were the same as appeared for him at his trial. The principal grounds upon which they based their appeal were, first, that one of the jurors had been taken ill during the trial and was removed from the room by physicians without being in the custody of "an officer; second, the identity of the corpse found in the cellar of the Crippen home had not been established; and, third, that the crown's rebutting evidence had been improperly admitted.

Solicitor Tobin said that it was not charged that any one had tampered with the juror while he was temporarily excused, but that an important principle of law was involved.

In reply the crown offered the evidence of a bailiff, that the juror was in his charge throughout his illness.

Deciding this point, the court ruled that the temporary separation of the jury did not affect the trial.

Tobin then addressed the court on the next point of appeal, which was that the evidence of Calliers, a buyer for Jones Brothers, was wrongfully admitted after the case for the defence had closed. Tobin quoted several cases which bore on the question.

Crippen's attorney have announced that their next step would be to ask the Home Office either to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment, or to grant a pardon to the prisoner, as it is considered most unlikely, however, that any power will now intervene to save the prisoner.

Dr. Crippen has made a will in which everything that he owns is to pass to Miss Ethel Claire LeNeve, the young woman who shared his flight for liberty.

It is believed that the estate will total about $15,000. The expenses of the defence will be paid out of a fund raised by unknown parties and, which is said to have been ample for the purpose.

Miss Leneve will, after next Tuesday, become owner of stock in medicine enterprises amounting, according to a recent estimate of an English paper, to about $14,000. The balance is made up of personal effects and articles of jewelry.

Reward for Mrs. Crippen.

New York, Nov. 7.—To back his belief that Belle Elmore, the wife of Dr. H. H. Crippen, still lives, Dr. J. B. Munyon of Philadelphia has offered a reward of $50,000 to any one who will produce her.

"I will even pay it to the woman herself," he said, "if she will come forward in time to save her husband."

Dr. Crippen's appeal for a new trial was denied, and he is sentenced to be hanged to-morrow.

"I believe," continued Dr. Munyon, who formerly employed Crippen, "that either the woman is hiding in fear of one of the most consummate revenges in the annals of jealousy, or else that she has carried an advertising game too far. I have received letters from persons who know Mrs. Crippen, telling me that they have seen her alive in this country within the last few weeks.

"I never could be persuaded that Crippen killed his wife. He was too sensible a man."

A Philadelphia attorney declares that he can produce the living Belle Crippen within four days, said is applying to the State Department to try and stop Crippen's execution.

May Be Drowned.

Kingston, Nov. 7.—Two brothers named Stevens, living at Millhaven, cannot be located, and grave fears are held that they may have been drowned in the heavy gale which raged on the lake last Tuesday and Wednesday. The young men were engaged in fishing, and went out in a boat on the day in question.

Examined the Pope's Eyes.

Rome, Nov. 7.—The Pope's eyes were examined Saturday by his optician, F. X. Cahill of Dublin, and the tests indicated that the pontiff's sight had changed very little since the last examination in 1903. Mr. Cahell presented the Pope with an elaborate spectacle.

THREE HURLED FROM LADDER.

One is Dead and Two Injured in Accident at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 7.—B. Dashney, aged 42 years, was killed and Benjamin Phillips and Richard Misener were seriously injured when a ladder on which they were working broke at the plant of the Ontario Power Co., just below the Horseshoe Falls, shortly after nine o'clock yesterday morning. The men, who are all riggers, were ascending a long ladder to reach the frame work on which to complete their task.

They had started up the ladder in single file, and had gone up about thirty feet, when one of the perpendicular posts supporting the ladder gave way without any warning, and the three men were dashed down. In falling Dashney struck against the frame work of the scaffold, which the men were constructing, and was killed almost instantly.

Officials of the power company physicians, Drs. McGarry and Wilson, were summoned, and succeeded in reviving Misener and Phillips. Dashney was hurried to the hospital, and died just as he was being carried into the building. His skull had been badly fractured, and he had also "internal injuries consist of severe scalp wounds and contusions, abrasions and lacerations to body and limbs. He also may also have received internal injuries. Misener suffered a badly broken leg and many minor cuts.

Both the power plant yesterday afternoon it was said that the men were not to blame in any way for the accident which occurred. Dashney had been up to a short time ago.

Plenty of Roast Apples.

Belleville, Nov. 7.—At an early hour Sunday morning a three-storey brick storehouse, belonging to ex-Mayor Graham of this city, was destroyed by fire. There were stored in the building about 10,000 barrels of apples, some 8,000 barrels of which were destroyed. The loss estimated on the building and contents is $25,000.

Redmond Is Silent.

New York, Nov. 7.—John Redmond, M. P., T. P. O'Connor, M.P., and the rest of the delegation which came here to collect funds for the cause of home rule in Ireland, sailed Saturday on the White Star liner Cedric. Mr. Redmond departed in no very good humor, though he said he was taking back pledges for $150,000 and expected $50,000 in addition as a result of the trip. Mr. Redmond declared how near Ireland was to home rule, and he turned his back upon his questioners. He refused to discuss any other phase of politics.

National Apple Show Closes.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 7.—The first Canadian National Apple Show closed Saturday night. American judges and American exhibitors joined in declaring it the greatest apple show ever held, though the management will have a deficit of at least $10,000. They did not expect it to be a financial success, the prizes alone being $25,000, Kelowna, B.C., carried off the premier prizes, though Washington and Oregon exhibitors won several medals and cash prizes.

Will Die From Burns.

London, Ont., Nov. 7.—Screams from the home of Mrs. Margaret Tuffield of 33 Walnut street, attracted the neighbors yesterday morning, who, on entering, found her enveloped in flames. She is 69 years of age, and was partly unconscious when found. She was taken to the hospital and will die. From her waist down she is terribly burned. How the accident occurred no one knows, as the woman lived alone.

Laying for Briand.

Paris, Nov. 7.—The United Socialists are preparing for a violent attack on the new Briand Cabinet on Tuesday, when it will make its first appearance in the chamber. M. Jaures boasts, now that MM. Millerand and Viviani are back in the ranks of the party, that he can bowl the Cabinet over on Tuesday like ninepins.

The General Federation of Labor has called twenty-five meetings, in all the working centres of France, from Lille to Marseilles, to make a gigantic protest against the pretentions of the Ministry to deny the right of state employes on strike. The General Federation leaders realize that M. Briand is determined to deprive their association of all its political and revolutionary powers, and they are both working tooth and nail to excite the workmen to join them in the struggle. M. Briand is certain to have against him on Tuesday the 183 Socialist deputies who refused him their confidence last Sunday, but it is believed by the best judges that he will find at least a substantial working majority, composed of Moderate and Conservative Republicans and Radicals. M. Briand's popularity with the country at large is greater than anything seen in France since Gambetta.

Entire Fleet Frozen Up.

Selkirk, Man., Nov. 7.—The sudden drop in temperature and freezing over of the Red River is causing anxiety among the fish and lumber companies here. The entire fleet of steamers, tugs and fishing boats are still on Lake Winnipeg, unable to reach their winter quarters at Selkirk. The Government tugs Victoria and Hector will endeavor to open the river to-day to allow the fleet to enter.

The Globe TORONTO.

Canada has an East as well as a West. This is a country rich in natural resources, of surpassing natural beauty, full of historic interest. It is destined to play a great part in Canada's future. It contains seaboard towns which are becoming great shipping centres as Canada's trade with Europe develops. These are some of the points that readers of The Globe have an opportunity to learn about. The Globe has sent Mr. S. T. Wood to the Maritime Provinces to write a series of letters on Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. These letters will tell about the peculiarities of the East, their social customs, their industries, and the industrial possibilities of their country. They will prove interesting and instructive to the readers of The Globe. No one should miss them. Send for three months' trial subscription.

The Chocolates that are Different

There is no such thing as "Chocolates Made Fresh Every Hour". Any dealer, who claims to sell Chocolates an hour after they are made, either mis-states the facts or knows nothing about bon-bon or chocolate making.

All chocolate creams, when first made, are hard, and must be kept at least a fortnight before they become soft-again.

Neilson's Chocolates are always matured for at least a month. This maturing brings the centers of the chocolates back to their original creamy state—and allows the delicious fruit centers to blend perfectly with the cream.

"Cherries in Maraschino, Chocolate Dipped" are as different as they are delicious. A plump French cherry in Maraschino, surrounded by a melting cream, enclosed in a globe of indescribably rich chocolate.

Neilson's Chocolates come in 33 different packages —containing something different and delightful for every "sweet tooth".

If you are unable to obtain Neilson's Chocolates in your vicinity, send us $1.00, and we will send you a special package of the most delicious assorted Chocolates you ever ate.

Asthenopia from External Ocular Muscles.

Anomalies of the external ocular muscles are also a fruitful cause of eye-strain, and when accompanied by a refractive error are often relieved by the correction of the refractive error alone, or if larger amount must be treated by graduated exercise or by tenotomy of the offending muscle. Tenonomies have been much in vogue in the past, but have now been largely given up, even by those who were the strongest advocates in former days.

Laymen's Missionary Movement Discussed By General Secretary

Mr. Caskey Makes Strong Plea For Citizens and Churches Of Belleville To Live Up To Their Obligations--Addresses Three Meetings In This City On Sunday.

What was announced as a meeting for men in Bridge Street Methodist Church yesterday afternoon, to be addressed by Mr. H. K. Caskey, General Secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in Canada, resulted in getting into a gathering at which the ladies predominated, if anything. The gallery of the auditorium had been reserved for ladies, and it was fairly well filled, but the main floor, which had been allotted to the men, was only sparsely filled.

Mr. H. C. Sinclair, the excellent chairman of the meeting, referred to this fact in his preliminary remarks and expressed the hope that the men would soon come when the men would assert themselves, and take hold of the Laymen's Missionary Movement with vim and energy, as it was essentially a man's job. He felt, however, that the slim attendance was no indication of the interest taken in the movement in Belleville and that a good work had already been accomplished.

Rev. Dr. Bishop, pastor of the church, had to leave after making Mr. Sinclair introduced Mr. Caskey.

The General Secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement talked in his audience in a most interesting and inspiring manner. He made a strong plea for a more universal interest in the movement which he represented, appealing to his audience in a simple, quiet, though none the less effective manner, and those who heard him went away with a deep realization of the obligation which rested upon them.

Mr. Caskey referred to the great influx of young men and women to this country from foreign shores and the necessity of Canada's becoming leading lives which would be examples of good for these newcomers to follow. He felt, that some sections of the Dominion the day would soon come, if indeed it had not already come, when these young immigrants would hold the balance of power. Therefore Canadians should be their teachers—teachers of the best things that Canada stands for.

The speaker went on to say that we found fault with the Chinese of this country for their gambling proclivities, and recited a story told to him on a recent trip by a western commercial traveller of a crowd of knights of the grip who had constituted the Sabbath Day over a gaming table in a hotel room. They had also a disgraceful scene on a Canadian train, where a group of travellers gathered in the smoking compartment and squandered their time in gambling.

He believed, however, that times were changing for the better. Not long a commercial traveller had been overheard telling a friend that he used to make it a point of inviting a certain commercial traveller in a certain town out to have a drink before he went to sell him his line of goods. Now, this customer wouldn't buy from the traveller if he smelled liquor on his breath.

"Men and women are daily coming to Canada," said Mr. Caskey, "bright, intelligent people, but ignorant of everything, and that one thing the church is able to give them. There is a basis for a sturdy and Christian manhood scattered from ocean to ocean throughout this broad land, and it behooves us to foster and encourage its growth. Canada stands for the Dominion of God over the lives and purposes of men."

The speaker referred to the Toronto Missionary Congress a few years ago, at which a resolution was adopted not only to evangelize the whole Dominion, but to reorganize the whole world as our field. There were 40,000,000 people in the fields occupied by Canadian missionaries. These fields required the services of 1,600 workers in order to be evangelized. Each of the 1,000 fields costs, $2,000 annually, thus about $4,000,000 was required annually to carry on this work.

The speaker dwelt on the need of organization; not only did the women require to be organized, but the men as well. Undivided responsibility must be assumed. A committee of men was required in every church and a systematic canvass made of every congregation so that all might be kept in touch with the work. Offerings should be a feature of the work, and the offerings should not be just what a man happened to have in loose change in his pocket, but should be su amount which he conscientiously believed represented himself. The churches in Belleville had splendid men and women in them, who lived the gospel of Christ and preached it.

Mr. Caskey referred to the chairman's remarks concerning the aliments of the attendance, but he declared that sufficient were present to sweep Belleville with enthusiasm for the Laymen's Missionary Movement.

Mr. Caskey stated that not long ago he was unable to get his turnout to work properly, so he called in a man who succeeded in the task. The man told him that two per cent. intelligence and 98 per cent. of common was what was needed. What was true of his turnout was true of the work of the Laymen's Missionary Movement.

The speaker went on to say that a lot of men and women were missing the blessing of missionary work because they had not been asked to take a hand.

He declared, in conclusion, that the Laymen's Missionary Movement was not chiefly a financial one, but a spiritual one.

At the conclusion of Mr. Caskey's interesting remarks, Mr. Sinclair spoke of the work undertaken by the General Secretary and his programme in this neighborhood during the week. Also, said he, "We are here to live up to our obligations to this movement both as individuals and churches. Canada stands united on a missionary policy of widespread scope, however its other differences." Mr. Caskey is trying to induce us to undertake our obligations."

At the close of the meeting the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, rector of Christ Church, pronounced the benediction.

In John Street Presbyterian Church yesterday morning, and in Christ Church, Anglican, in the evening, Mr. Caskey addressed large and interested congregations on the Laymen's Missionary Movement. In the first named church he referred to the fact that many of the missionaries sent in the past by Canada to foreign fields had not been a desirable type of men.

Explosions Cost Twelve Lives.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 7.—Two explosions, occurring within a few minutes of each other yesterday morning, resulted in the death of twelve men in the Lawson mine at Black Diamond, thirty miles southeast of Seattle.

Seven men going down on a shift and five men coming up were caught between the first and sixth levels, and it is certain that all perished. Natural gas combustion is assigned as the cause. The men were foreigners.

Will Have Commision Government.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 7.—The voters of Port Huron on Saturday adopted the new charter provided for in the home rule bill, thereby putting their stamp of approval on the commission form of government. The new form of government will go into effect on Jan. 1. Port Huron is the first Michigan city of size to take this step.

AT GRIFFIN'S THIS WEEK.

The bill at Griffin's Family Theatre the first three days of this week is one that will appeal to all lovers of good clean amusement.

Dowling and Towle, styled as Those Casey College Kids, have a style all their own in the manner in which they bring their act before the public. It is not often that we are afforded such a treat as to see a man play the piano while standing on his head. This is the manPelton that performed by Joe Towle, while Ed. Dowling sings the latest songs in a most pleasing manner and voice. Harry Fen Dalton, in a refined musical act, will no doubt be a favorite with all lovers of good music. As a special attraction the management has secured, at a large expense, the famous World's series baseball pictures, Chicago vs. Philadelphia. These pictures come direct from Toronto, where they played to capacity houses wherever they exhibited. They are conceded to be of the finest photography. Each detail shows up clearly and all the feature plays of the game, which have interested the entire world, are seen so realistic that one imagines himself an actual spectator. The motion pictures are also above the average, being from Biographs and one Selig. The only small feature of this big show is the price, being 10c. for adults, 5c. for children.

They Settled

At 4.45 yesterday afternoon the police were notified from the toll house on the bay bridge that four men in a conveyance had driven rapidly up on the bridge and passed the toll house without paying their fares. An officer found the parties and they were quite willing to settle.

VICKERS WINS ROAD RACE

Vickers captured the annual road race on Saturday afternoon for the valued trophy presented by the Deseronto Shirt Company of this city. The race, which has been run annually for the past three years, is confined to local sportsmen and in order to become permanent possessor of the trophy it has to be won three times by the same party. Although there were but five contestants their prowess as runners was well known and it was anticipated that it would be a close and exciting race. This prediction proved true as there was but five seconds of an interval at the finish between the winner and the second runner. At 4.05 the contestants were lined up on Front street opposite the Y. M. C. A. and were given their instructions as to the course which was 2 1-2 miles down the Kingston road to a post and the finish to be at the point of starting. A large number of spectators gathered on the street to witness the contest. The starters were Russell McCreary, H. Vickers, J. Alexander, C. Wallace and E. Moore. They were lined up on their mark by Mr. F. S. Deacon. They proceeded down Front street to Dundas street and thence down the Kingston Road. They returned by way of Albert street and down Bridge street. From start to finish it was a race between H. Vickers and R. McCreary, the former leading by a few feet. From the post office to the place of finish both sprinted fast but McCreary could not overtake Vickers who won by a few feet. His time for the five miles was 30 m. 10 sec., and McCreary's 30 m. 15 sec. Alexander was third his time being 30 m. 40 sec. C. Wallace fourth in 33 m., 40 sec., and Moore dropped out. Details of neat design were presented to the competitors who finished. Considering the muddy conditions of the greater portion of the road the time made was exceptionally good.

The officials were as follows:

Referee—G. Sovereign.
Judge of Course—J. L. Hess.
Starter—F. S. Deacon.
Judges of Finish — Messrs. E. F. Dickens, D. V. Sinclair, W. Cornelius, Jesse Barlow, Rev. C. Smith, Timekeeper—Mr. A. Blackburn.
Scorer — Mr. Y. C. Meyers.
Mr. H. Greenleaf kindly ran his automobile over the course with the officials.

BASEBALL

When the American League club owners convene in December, it is said the engagement of Fielder A. Jones, as manager of the St. Louis Browns, will be officially announced, and that Harry Davis, the Athletics' first baseman, will accept a similar berth with the Cleveland club, in the place of Jim McGuire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Fifteen thousand dollars a year for a baseball player! That is the salary that is unofficially announced to-day that Christy Matthewson will receive from the New York club next year. It is the highest in the history of baseball outside of managers and presidents' salaries. Last year Matthewson received $10,000 and the $5000 bonus was given by President Brush. It is said, without any solicitation.

RUNNING

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The American team of Canadians: Hans Holmer and Wm. Quarrie won the Twenty miles international foot race last night at Madison Square Garden in the world's record time of one hour, 39 minutes, 57 seconds, four minutes 34 2-5 seconds better than the previous mark.

The Canadian team of Fred Meadows and Abbie Wood was second and the Swedish team of Gustav Ljungstrom and John Svanberg, third.

THE RING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Jack Johnson and Joe Jeannette in a finish fight for the heavyweight championship of the world at Paris on the night of the grand Prix is the opinion of Dan McKetrick, manager of Joe Jeannette, the negro, just up to Johnson. He is acting on behalf of a syndicate of rich French fight promoters.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—The matching of Bat Nelson for a 20 round fight on November 25th, with Ad Wolgast, the English champion, before Jim McCoffroths club is completed by Manager Billy Nolan of Nelson and Wolgast for the light-weight title, set for December 24, will never take place.

Moran is one of the best fighters in his division, and will, it is believed use up most of Nelson's remaining fighting strength that there won't be enough left to permit him to fight Wolgast."

HOCKEY

MONTREAL, Nov. 7.—Mr. Emmett Quinn, secretary of the National Hockey Association, has issued circulars to the different clubs, interested in the league, calling the annual meeting of the association for next Saturday.

Unless the meeting of the National Hockey Association agrees unanimously at next Saturday's annual meeting that the proposed salary limit of Four Thousand Dollars per team shall stand there will be at least three promoters in Montreal who will not go into the game. The Montreal Herald was informed by one of the promoters to question Saturday morning.

STRATFORD, Nov. 8—The Stratford Hockey Club has reorganized with the following officers:—Hon. President, J. C. Makins, Hon. Vice President, E. J. Chowen; President, D. W. Forbes; Vice President, R. Cookery Points

BOILED FROSTING.

To make boiled frosting put one cup full of sugar and one third of a cupful of boiling water in a saucepan. Bring to the boiling point, and let boil, with little or no stirring, until syrup will spin a thread when dropped from the tip of a spoon or tins of a silver fork. Pour syrup very gradually, while beating until mixture is of the right consistency to spread. Flavor with one teaspoonful of vanilla and pour over cake, spreading evenly with back of spoon. Crease as soon as firm. If not beaten long enough this frosting will run; if beaten too long it will not be smooth. Often in the hands of the inexperienced cook this frosting is more successfully than with the whites of two eggs. Boiled frosting may be flavored in a variety of ways—with one half tablespoonful of lemon juice, one half teaspoonful of almond extract or one tablespoonful vanilla and one teaspoonful of almond extract. Chopped filberts, walnuts, pecans, shredded cocoanut, figs, dates, or raisins (about two thirds of a cupful) may be added.

RICE WATER JELLY.

Wash two and a half tablespoonfuls of rice in several waters and cook in a quart of water with bonds of lemon until the rice is entirely dissolved Add a pinch of salt Sweeten to taste. Stir in the juice of one or two lemons. Strain into a mould and when cold, serve with sugar and cream. This is an excellent dish for children and invalids.

Miss Alice Sargent, the richest woman skipper in American waters, is not in the world, asked and expected no quarter from male competitors when she entered the ladies' class for the regattas off Marblehead, she entered the elimination trials this year for the right to race against the Scarab sloop Rachel, which came over to America, representing the Royal Spanish Yacht club, to race for the Taft cup.

Miss Sargent has won several prizes in yachting regattas and is no fair weather yachtswoman, but is as daring as a man, driving her boat out in rough wind and water and delighting in a stiff breeze. She is strong and a skilful monotony of an open harbor as long as her boat can stick outside in open water. Miss Sargent, with her parents, Professor and Mrs. Charles S. Sargent of Holm Lea, Brookline, Mass., is spending the summer at Manchester-by-the-Sea, where she is convenient to the yacht clubs.

In addition to being a skilled yachtswoman, Miss Sargent is an expert golfer, tennis player and horsewoman and has a considerable reputation as a pedestrian. Her favorite methods of exercise are walking and yachting. She are walking and horseback riding.

"The real secret of health, strength and beauty is to get out doors," she says, "lies in restriction of the diet to simple fare and in the consistent following of such recreative exercises as walking, running, playing tennis, golf or other forms of sport which bring into play long muscular and tiring activities of a person." Miss Sargent practices what she preaches and follows outdoor life as closely as she can, the entire exclusion of social engagements during the season.

The latest jabots are more or less flat in effect, ending in sharp points or square or rounded ends, according to the length. The serrated or scalloped outline is attractive in jabots of all lengths, as it assists in carrying out the long line now necessary to the fashionable figure.

The illustration shows an open slit bodice described by Isabel Fairchild in Good Housekeeping.

"It is built under some big red oaks about six feet back of a one story cottage near Washington, and it is reached by a little covered passageway from the dressing room. There is literally nothing to it but a floor and a roof, and the roof is made of glass, so that lying comfortably in bed one can look straight up into the trees and through them to the stars.

In constructing our little house we built first four "corners" of brick—cement could be used—and laid floor joists across to form what carpenters call the plate. It was necessary to make the corners more than two feet high above the ground, for if the bed is well drafted there is no danger of the bedrooms being damp.

On the joists—three feet—six feet square, and upon this is built the rough pine frame The upright 4 by 4 inch corner posts and 2 by 4 inch studs are braced at the bottom by putting in short 2 by 4's crosswise to form a rectangle three feet high.

The most novel feature of this sky open bedroom is, of course, the roof. There is a little cap of wood extending down about eighteen inches on either side of the ridge, and the roof itself, which is made of ordinary cheap greenhouse sash, starts underneath this and slides up and down on the rafters. In this position it can be opened, and when it rains one can lie and look up at the raindrops as they run together in the glass panes, and enjoy more magnificent than a thunderstorm at night I cannot imagine, with the great oak branches tossing and tossing above one's head. Sash cords and weights and inexpensive pulleys are all that are necessary to raise and lower these greenhouse sash, provided the rafters in which they run are well soaped and plenty of play is left between the sash frames and the strips of board which fit them in place.

The waiswetting is covered with architected cotton sheeting tacked on inside to a height of three feet from the floor, and this allows free circulation of air, but effectively excludes any privacy required and will last for three or four years. The height of this waiswetting is a matter of taste, and more or less privacy is desired it could be made higher

The Making of Bead Chains.

All the designs for bead chains seen in the cut are easily made if the following directions are carried out: The first design is a simple chain, and this should be practiced before attempting floral devices. First string four blue beads; tie the ends of silk together, bend to prevent them slipping off, and join the work between the first and fourth on the left hand, then string a blue bead and pass the needle through the first bead from the right to left. Take up another bead and pass the needle through the first bead through which the silk is now. It will be noticed that the beads do not follow in straight lines across, but one up and one down, so that each bead fits into a little gap in the previous row.

The work should now be turned over. String one white bead and pass the needle through the second bead from the edge. String a blue bead and pass the needle through the last bead of the left edge. The work must be turned at the end of each row so that the needle always passes from right to left. Now, for the fourth row string a blue bead and pass the needle through the second bead of the row, which is a blue, then string a white one and pass through the white in the previous row. For the fifth row string a blue and pass the needle through the white in the fourth row, then a blue and pass through the blue bead on the left edge, when it will be seen that four rows of blue beads are worked and the pattern begun again on the opposite side. Having mastered this design, the other patterns will be quite easy.

To Renovate Old Curtains.

If in settling your summer supplies ready for fall you find them in a very worn condition they can be made to look like new in the following manner: Cut the lower and side borders from a full length curtain, following the designs instead of a straight line, and lift up on the net a half yard or until the pattern is clear and even and pin or baste to position and sew with the machine, afterward cutting away the net or leaving it. Whether in the usual way and you will be pleased with the result, no seams be ne stable.

Largest Schooner in Agreuon.

London, Nov. 7.—The largest sailing vessel in the world, the steel, five-masted Preussen, is pounding on the rocks in Crab Bay, Dover. The waves forced along by strong southwest gales. The crew have not yet been taken off owing to the storm. The Preussen was in collision late Saturday night with the across-channel steamer Brighton, which had 90 passengers, and which, though injured, was able to put back to New Haven.

The schooner is of 4,700 tons, and carries 5,000 tons cargo.

Goderich Depot Burned.

Goderich, Nov. 7.—The G.T.R.'s beautiful depot was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon about five o'clock. The fire originated in the ticket office, where a small coal oil stove was being used for heating, as the office had not been going all this fall, being out of repair. The fire men succeeded in saving all the surrounding property. Freight cars, &c. This depot was an ornament to the town, costing about $30,000 to build.

Escaped Lunatic Perishes.

Brandon, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Charles H. Harding of Lethbridge, aged 46, was found disturbed mentally while temporarily insane, having just expired from exposure. Deceased was an escaped less lunatic, who had been five years in the asylum burned on Friday night. She escaped in the confusion and snowstorm, and perished within a mile of the town and asylum. No inquest was considered necessary.

Steamer Burned.

Fort William, Nov. 7.—The steamer Wasaga was burned in Copper Harbor, Mich., at 6 o'clock Sunday morning. All the crew were saved, and brought to Fort William by the steamer Westmount.

U. S. ELECTIONS TO-DAY.

LAURIER TO OPEN NORTH OXFORD

Report Says He Will Test Naval Bill In Grit County.

READY TO FIGHT.

Declares He Will Not Yield One Inch In His Naval Policy.

(Intelligencer Special.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 8.—The only news on the political situation here to-day is that Sir Wilfrid has given it out to his friends that he will not yield an inch and will continue to fight for his naval policy, even if it involves defeat in the two years that are yet to come.

There are reports that an Ontario county, presumably North Oxford, will be opened as a test of Ontario opinion, but there are also counsels that it would be better to wait a while.

Aside from the Liberal anxiety on the situation there are reports here from Montreal that Rodolphe Forget the big broker of Montreal, and Conservative M. P. for Charlevoix, has called upon R. L. Borden to resign and give the Conservative party a chance to organize under a proper leader.

SHELDON FOUND TO BE NABBED THIS AFTERNOON

(Intelligencer Special.)

MONTREAL, Nov. 8.—That Chas Sheldon, alias Washburn, absconding bind pool operator, is living retired in a little town just outside of Pittsburg, is the information conveyed to The Herald here to-day by a private detective of the city, and that newspaper has forwarded a warrant for his immediate apprehension, which is expected to be executed this afternoon.

MARGARET ANGLIN ILL, MAY NEVER APPEAR AGAIN.

(Intelligencer Special.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 8.—Miss Margaret Anglin, the talented Canadian actress, sister of Mr. Justice Anglin, is seriously ill at a Geneva retreat, and may never act again. Specialists say they never saw a patient improve in such a condition, and an operation will be performed later in the week. Miss Anglin has been acting in the South in "The Awakening of Helen Ritchie."

CONFERENCE IN CAMERA.

Trade Negotiators at Ottawa Have Matter to Sew.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—The Canadian and United States trade negotiators were again in conference yesterday afternoon, but, after a sitting of three hours, it was announced that there was nothing yet available for publication regarding the progress of the negotiations. The commissioners on both sides are observing the strictest confidence as to the nature of the respective Canadian and American proposals relative to free trade, and it is stated that no authoritative announcement as to the progress made or the tentative agreements reached may be expected for some days. Beyond the general statement as to the basis of the negotiations, and the probability of any tariff agreement being mainly confined to a larger measure of free trade in natural products, as already outlined, any authoritative information affecting the detailed aspects of the whole question is not available.

The two meetings of the American commissioners with Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson have not yet developed any tangible results calling for consideration by the Government as a whole, and it is understood that it will be several days at further careful consideration of the various complex aspects of reciprocal tariff reductions before even a tentative agreement as to some of the proposed changes can be reached.

A member of the Government told our correspondent last night that he anticipated no very radical tariff changes as a result of the present negotiations, and that in any event there would be no serious reduction, if any, in Canada's customs revenue.

ROOSEVELT PREDICTS 25,000 MAJORITY FOR REPUBLICAN

But Democrats Look to Dix To Carry New York State By One Hundred Thousand--Wall Street Slightly Favors Democratic Candidate.

(Intelligencer Special.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 8.— The whole of the United States in general, and the State of New York in particular, are in the throes of a fierce storm of ballots to-day. Congressional elections are being held all over the country, and gubernatorial voting is taking place in this State and several others. Because of Roosevelitian fingers in the Governorship pie of the Empire State, more interest is taken in the outcome of the election here than anywhere else. This morning Roosevelt rather disappointed his followers by predicting only twenty-five thousand majority for Stimson, Republican, whereas Democrats are exclusive of a hundred thousand for their man Dix.

Wall Street brokers, who are taking more interest in ballots than bonds, declare that three hundred thousand dollars is being gambled in New York alone on the result of the race for Governor. Odds generally at ten o'clock were two and a half to three in favor of Dix.

New York, Nov. 8.—The New York gubernatorial campaign of 1910 passed into history last night with Henry L. Stimson, the Republican candidate, and Theodore Roosevelt, his most prominent backer, voicing their last appeals for votes. The final word of the Democratic side was spoken Saturday night, when John A. Dix, the head of the ticket, sent to Mr. Stimson a telegram denying the statements telegraphed by Stimson to Dix's home in Thurman.

Mr. Dix spent the last day of the campaign at home. Mr. Stimson occupied the morning preparing an answer to his rival's reply of Sunday night, and the rest of the day and evening on the stump, or in an automobile hurrying between political rallies in New York City.

The Democratic leaders declared that the quiet that prevailed yesterday on their side of the campaign was itself evidence of confidence. "Our party machinery up state is in better shape than at any time for the past fifteen years," said Chairman Rolfe. "All the details of election are arranged, and we are not looking for trouble anywhere."

Chairman Prentice of the Republican state committee, said last night: "I am absolutely confident we'll carry the whole ticket, and I don't think the vote will be close."

He added that he believed campaigning up to the eleventh hour, such as Mr. Stimson and Col. Roosevelt indulged in last night, was useful in a big centre of population like New York.

The lid will be on and the great white way will be a vast vale of tears early Wednesday morning. Announcement was made yesterday that applications made by hotel and lobster palaces for permission to stay open all election night had been refused. No drink can be legally sold after 1 a.m. Meanwhile on the New York state election was lively in Wall street yesterday afternoon. Up to the close of the market it was estimated that about $60,000 had been wagered on the gubernatorial contest, by cash brokers and members of the exchange. The prevailing odds were 2 to 1 on Dix.

FIRST CASE UNDER NEW LAW GOES AGAINST AUTOMOBILIST

(Intelligencer Special.)

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 8.—The Assize jury this morning gave a verdict for two thousand dollars in favor of Mrs. Marshall and her children against Dr. Goaan. Marshall, who was motoring, ran over and killed Mrs. Marshall's husband. The case is the first under the new Act of the Ontario Legislature, which places the burden of proof on automobilists to show that there was no negligence on the part.

The jury in this case, on questions submitted by Mr. Justice Latchford, said the doctor didn't sound his horn soon enough to give adequate warning.

ORILLIA DOCTOR SHOT WHILE ON A HUNTING TRIP

(Intelligencer Special.)

ORILLIA, Ont., Nov. 7.—Dr. A. R. Harvie, one of Orillia's leading physicians, was shot through the left arm on Saturday morning by a guide, who mistook him for a deer. The accident occurred in the Township of Longford, about fifty miles from here. The doctor was one of the Red Lamp Hunt Club, composed of some of Orillia's leading citizens. He had the misfortune to be shot in the forearm, shattering the bone.

With Lake Strike Vote.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Negotiations between the officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the general managers of sixty-one railroads operating out of Chicago, on the demand for better working conditions for engineers, were broken off yesterday afternoon. The brotherhood officials announced that a strike vote will be taken.

A Danger to Navigation.

Sisconsett, Mass., Nov. 8.—The steamer Noordam, from Rotterdam for New York, reported by wireless yesterday that she passed a wreck very dangerous to navigation in latitude 41.1 north, longitude 68.3 west. The wrecked vessel was about one hundred feet long, and was nearly awash.

VESSELS HAVE A TOUGH TIME ON LAKE ERIE

Intelligencer Special.

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 8.— Vessels which happened to be out on Lake Erie got a bad buffeting in the gale which swept these waters. The steamer Carleton, of Montreal, ran aground in a snow storm just off Port Dalhousie. Her distress signals brought the tug Whalter, which, after much dangerous manoeuvring, released her. There were rumors of other vessels needing, but nothing definite is known.

RED STAINS ON MAN'S TROUSERS MAY FURNISH SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY

(Intelligencer Special.)

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 8.—A report on the analysis of red stains found on the trousers of Tom Fintonn, arraigned to-day before the Assizes jury on a charge of murdering his father, a wealthy Saltfleet farmer, is expected to be a sensational development of the trial, if it goes on. Lawyers for the defence are asking for an adjournment because Mrs. Sperz Finton's sister and an important defence witness, is ill. The Crown will fight for an immediate trial.

MAYOR NATHAN SENDS A REPLY

Declares He Did Not Blaspheme In Recent Controversary

COUNCIL GETS LETTER

Had No Intention of Assailing Spiritual Side Of Catholic Church.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Ernest Nathan, Mayor of Rome, has sent the following letter to the mayor and council of Montreal:

"Gentlemen.—His Eminence the Archbishop of Montreal, in accordance with other reverend and eminent men, has direct the political organization of the Roman Catholic Church, has called a meeting of the faithful to accuse me for blasphemy, for insulting God, the Saviour, and His Holiness the Pope.

"At a meeting of the common council, many of you gentlemen before approving a similar vote of censure, in the plenitude of your judgements, desired to have before you the general text of the alleged blasphemies. I have much pleasure in enclosing you a copy, also of my speech, and a later reply to the papal bull. I trust you will perceive the justice of your reserve, the injustice of a supposition, whereby I am accused of insulting religion, and its divine representative.

"A man who, like myself, has a profound belief in religious faith, whatever shape it assumes, cannot be guilty of what is truly blasphemy. As the words part of my speech quoted points out, my criticisms do not affect faith. They treat of a political organization, which may put faith's name against my country, striving to undo Italian unity, to destroy the sacred liberty of conscience, power of research, modern science, civil progress. Men holding public office have, the undeniable right to criticize the hostile attitude and to show as in a picture how different the past papal sway was in Italy to the present government.

"So much and no more is set forth in my words, whereby, if the charity of his reverence the archbishop, which segments at home, has been excessive, surely that excess has been accounted for by the lack of temperance and justice of his uncbristian strictures."

(Signed) "Ernesto Nathan,
"Mayor of Rome."

This letter will be presented to the City Council at a meeting to-morrow night.

There are twenty-nine Catholic families fewer in the parish of St. Louis de France than there were this time last year, and Cure Bellegarde deplores the fact that the French-Canadians are allowing the foreign population to crowd them out.

THIS MAGISTRATE DISMISSED CASE AGAINST HIMSELF.

ORILLIA, Nov. 8.—Orillia has had the unusual spectacle of a magistrate trying a case against himself. Moreover, after hearing the evidence, the Police Magistrate dismissed the charge.

When court opened the first case called was that against Geo. H. Clark for allowing his dog to be at liberty without a muzzle.

The charge was laid by Constable George Reeve, who was acting as constable in the absence of Chief Reid on his holidays.

The Police Magistrate, who evidently has a tender conscience, pleaded not guilty. Three witnesses, Messrs. J. D. Knox, A. Clark and C. E. Howell, were called by Constable Reeve in support of the charge, but all three disavowed any knowledge as to whether or not Mr. Clark's dog had been wearing a muzzle on the day mentioned in the charge. His Worship thereupon dismissed the case, remarking that he had done his best to comply with the request as to muzzling, and if his dog ever got abroad unmuzzled, it was through accident.

Messrs. Knox and Hewett jocularly asked, "What about witness fees?" But the Police Magistrate referred that he certainly was not going to pay them. And so ended a case unique in the annals of Orillia court records.

JOS. SNIDER'S CASE.

Joseph Snider was th's morning fined $5 and $2.50 costs by Mayor Marsh for being drunk and using abusive language. The case of assault preferred against Snider by Mr. Jonas Bargman was adjourned for ten days.

Who Was Touched?

The two players who know the secret remain in the room long enough for the trick to be made sure.

One stands in a corner, and the other in the middle of the room calls out, "Ebenezer, do you hear?" Ebenezer pays no heed, but listens attentively to hear who among the company speaks first. The other partner repeats the question, and still no answer. Some one will be likely to make a remark soon, and then Ebenezer will rouse up and answer, "Yes, I hear." Then leave the room," says the other player, and they goes out. The partner then makes a great show of choosing which one he shall touch, but of course only by touching the person who first spoke after the game began. This done, Ebenezer is called in to say who was touched, and every one is puzzled to know how he can tell.

My Lady's Toilet.

The players are all seated except one, for whom no chair must be provided.

Each player takes the name of some article of a lady's toilet—her necklace, chain, bracelets, rings, comb, gloves, hat, shoes, gown, etc. One stands in the center as the lady's maid and says, "My lady is going out and wants her hair." The hat must instantly jump up and spin around. If she forgets to do so she pays a forfeit. Each article must spin around when "wanted." Occasionally the lady's maid says, "My lady wants her toilet changed," when all the players must rise and change seats. In the scuffle the center player tries to get a seat. If she succeeds the one left behind becomes lady's maid for the next turn.

CURRENT EVENTS.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 4.— The storm which struck this section of the state last night developed into almost a blizzard. Fifteen inches of snow had fallen up to this evening and the storm continues.

The Admiralty and Board of Trade in London are interested in a plan to revive the prosperity of St. Helena by again fortifying it as a naval base. It might also become a stopping place for vessels en route to the Panama Canal.

What's the trouble in Toronto. The Board of that city has decided to ask the Boards of Trade in Canada to join in demanding against rotten eggs. A deputation is to wait on Hon. Sydney Fisher to ask for legislation along the line of a pure food law. The way to cure the evil is not to buy them.

The weekly journal, "Engineering" of London, asserts that Germany has long been making guns that beat the British 13.5 guns. These guns, the paper says, are likely to be placed on the warships now being built. Germany is also introducing a new explosive shell of unprecedented power. Tests with this shell have shown devastating results.

One strong newspaper champion of the Government on the morning of the Drummond and Arthabasca election described the last efforts of the campaign by Mr. Bourassa and his associates as the kick of a jackass. The kick evidently went right to the vulnerable part of the Government's anatomy. Yes, the kick was as powerful as that of a mule.

The result in Drummond-Arthabasca is described by some as an anti-British victory, by others as anti-Imperialistic victory. The distinction is pretty fine. It seems to us that it would have been anti-British and anti-Imperialistic, too, for that matter, whichever way it went. Neither side was pro-British. The issue was Laurier vs. Bourassa. Both these men are anti-Imperialists at heart, and Laurier the worst.

It is evident that Germany intends to be the strongest naval and military power in the world if ships and guns will make her so. The weekly London journal, Engineering, of Nov. 4th, asserts that Ghrmany has long been making guns that beat the British 13.5 guns. These guns, the paper says, are likely to be placed on the warships now being built. Germany is also introducing a new explosive shell of unprecedented power. Tests with this shell have shown devastating results.

British justice is just now coming in for a lot of praise because of the despatch with which the Crippen case was disposed of. But why, may we ask, should murder trials, especially those where the evidence against the accused is purely circumstantial, be hurried through with? It seems to us that the defendant should be given all the time possible in which to prepare and conduct his defence.

Speaking of the Drummond-Arthabasca election, the Montreal Herald (Reform) says Sir Wilfrid's vanity was greater than his judgment, and adds: "He overestimated his own strength; he threw down the gauntlet to the wrong man; he egregiously failed. Quebec never had much use for a defeated champion. A young man slight outline defeat—quite another thing; an old champion cannot outlive the downfall of yesterday." Prelty severe salting of fresh wounds to come from a Quebec paper that owes more to Laurier than possibly any other Grit paper in the whole Dominion. But such is Quebec gratitude.

TOWN TOPICS

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Attempt Made To Declare one or Two Seats Vacant on The Council on Account of Alleged Absence.

There has been an attempt made to declare one or two seats in the Council vacant on account of alleged absence. Suppose this were true, feelings of humanity would suggest to one of even ordinary feelings the impropriety of attacking a fellow Alderman whose health has prevented his attendance.

In the case of Alderman Green this attack is not only uncharitable, but little short of brutal. There has been no Alderman who for years has given more of his time and displayed more devotion to his duties and to the interests of the city than has Alderman Green. He was for this reason that his fellow citizens urged him, against his own inclinations, to accept a nomination last December. Severe illness, however, has prevented his attendance at Council meetings for some time past. Notwithstanding a knowledge of these facts; there are, unfortunately, men without any feeling of humanity who would vomit him by thrusting him out of the Council, knowing him to be unable, through illness, at present to attend the meetings. Such men we commend to the electors.

As to Ald. Thomson, upoll inquiring we learn that he has been a frequent attendant at committee meetings, but he has been independent in the expression of his opinion, hence he has proved a thorn in the side of some. He requires no defence from us. He is quite able to take care of himself and will do it.

FRONT STREET PAVEMENT

A by-law has been passed by the City Council, and published in The Intelligencer, providing for "the construction of an asphalt block pavement on Front Street from Bridge Street to the Upper Bridge," upon the basis of an additional assessment of FORTY per cent. for TWENTY YEARS of its cost, upon the property owners fronting upon said road.

The by-law contains a provision that this pavement is to be constructed upon the "petition" principle of a general tax of 60 per cent. upon the whole rateable property of the city, and an additional FORTY per cent. upon Front Street property holders. "UNLESS THE MAJORITY OF THE OWNERS OF SUCH REAL PROPERTY FRONTING, ABUTTING OR ADJOINING THE SAID PORTION OF THE SAID STREET, PETITION THE SAID COUNCIL AGAINST THE CONSTRUCTION OF SAID PAVEMENT WITHIN ONE MONTH AFTER THE 11TH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1910, BEING THE LAST DAY THIS NOTICE IS AUTHORIZED TO BE PUBLISHED."

It is now for the owners of property on Front Street to say whether the pavement should be constructed upon the principle of an ADDITIONAL FORTY per cent. of its cost being levied upon their property. If they think not, then let them petition against having this additional forty per cent. tax imposed upon them for the work that should not be considered local, but for the benefit of the whole city. Petition, and do it at once, or pay the tax.

DIES IN SINGAPORE.

Word has been received in the city conveying the intelligence that Mr. Joseph W. Warrington recently died at Singapore, India, where he went some time ago for his health. Mr. Warrington was for about 50 years of age, resided in this city for some time, being one of the largest dealers in coal in this section of the country. Mr. Warrington by birth was an Englishman, and was married to Miss Ingham of this city. A widow, but no family, survives.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CHANGES

At the regular meeting last evening of the Epworth League of Bridge Street Church there was a large attendance of members and others. Mr. Wm. Johnson presided over the gathering. Misses Hattie Pringle, Alma Sanders and Mr. J. A. Marsh, who were delegates at the Provincial Sunday School convention recently held at Oshawa, presented interesting reports of the session, enlarging upon ideas which, it is hoped, special features. They made in their reports some suggestions as to conducting Sunday School work, which may be adopted by Bridge Street school. The speakers were accorded hearty votes of thanks for their reports.

MINOR LOCALS

DR. SHAW LABORED HERE.

Dr. Shaw, who recently resigned from the presidency of Wesleyan College, Montreal, a position which he ably filled for the past fourteen years, was born in Kingston on April 6, 1841, and is thus in his seventieth year. Dr. Shaw was ordained in 1868 and came to Belleville to labor, this being his first charge.

Granby Rubbers wear like iron sold only at Gorman's.

GEROW SENT UP.

The case against Roy Gerow, the young man who was arrested at Oshawa and brought on a charge of stealing a fur coat, the property of Mr. Thomas Haslip, of this city, came up this morning again evidently Mayor Marsh presided, and Police Magistrate Masson also had a seat upon the bench, but allowed the Mayor to give judgment, as he had previously sat upon the case. The charge on the investigation was that Gerow was committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction. Mr. Anderson represented the Crown and Mr. Carnew appeared for the accused. Gerow's father, who was present, offered substantial bail, and it is probable it will be accepted by the County Judge, to whom the case was referred.

THE HOCKEY SITUATION

A number of local sports of a skeptical turn of mind are inclined to pooh pooh the idea of Belleville having a pro. hockey team this winter. It is said that a bet of $10 was offered last night that this city would not have such an organization this winter, but it met with no takers.

However we shall see what we shall see at the meeting to be held here in the Quinte Hotel on Thursday. The promoters claim that the matter is definitely settled and that Belleville will surely have a team and a good one at that.

QUIET REIGNS.

In police circles last night everything was of a quiet nature. The front and back doors of the business places were found insecure, and a weary traveller was provided with shelter.

Race And Independence—Laurier's Motto.

The appeals to the Drummond and Arthabasca electors at the election just ended were strictly in line with the utterances of Sir Wilfrid when he declared that his day dreams were of an independent Canada.

In defending the Laurier naval policy, Mr. Perrault, the defeated Government candidate, appealed to the electors on the SEPARATION PLATFORM. He declared in one of his speeches that "OUR FLEET IS NOT" "AND NEVER WILL BE, IMPERIALISTIC; IT IS A STEP TOWARDS THE INDEPENDENCE OF CANADA."

The Montreal Witness, Liberal, says: "Mr. Beland, M.P., and Mr. Gauthier, ex-M.P.P., two of the best orators of the Ministerial party, were the choice. It was a splendid chance, in which every good reason "for or against the navy was presented in the most able manner. The "Liberal speakers advocated the Navy "by all as the most glorious measure "ever passed by the Canadian Parliament. They declared that IT WAS "A STEP TOWARDS THE INDEPENDENCE OF CANADA. FOR "ONLY A NATION COULD HAVE "ITS NAVY."

In addition to the independence policy, the race cry was also introduced.

Edward Faignon, described by Le Canada as a prominent farmer of St. Albert, in the County of Arthabasca, was one of the Liberal campaigners. The campaign was presented to the electors took the form of an appeal against "the Orangistes." "I do not "see the necessity," he said, "of turning out the Laurier Government to "please gentlemen who are working "for the advantage of a party that is "against our race, the party of Mr. "Borden, who is controlled by the Orangistes." These are specimens of the Liberal eloquence that was expended during the hot campaign.

These utterances slow the character of the campaign. Race and separation from the Empire were the rallying cry of the Laurierites. Yet the Ontario Liberal organs express wonder that Conservatives did not rush to the rescue of the Separation par-

"Automobile Ruffianism"

Such is the heading of an editorial in the Montreal Star, commenting on the severe language of a Montreal judge in sentencing a couple of automobilists to six months imprisonment for running over a poor old woman, and then running away without stopping to see what injury they had done. The Star says:

Mr. Justice Saint Pierre was not to blame, either, either in the sentence he imposed on Dionne and Kiefer of six months hard labor, or in his denunciation of their "low and cowardly crime. How few hundred people, including many gentlemen occupying important public positions, could be induced to sign a petition to the court asking for clemency in such a case passes comprehension. To treat with leniency a party of men who run over a woman with an automobile and then run away from her, is to encourage the reckless automobiling about which everybody is complaining and which is making the streets of Montreal unsafe for all. We congratulate Judge Saint Pierre upon having done his duty regardless of the interference of five hundred people. The class of automobilists who go tearing through the streets in defiance of law and in contempt for the safety of men, women and children, need some severe lessons. Six months hard labor is a light enough punishment for reckless automobiling, even without the incidental accompaniment of manslaughter. The next man convicted of such a cowardly, brutal crime as that of Dionne and Kiefler should get ten years at least, if all the senators, members of parliament and politicians wire-pullers in the city beg for clemency. An entirely new class of black-guardism has come in with the cheapening of the automobiles. The Michaud murder is a case in point.

Fun in the Home.

Whatever your lot in life, keep joy with you, says Orison Sweet Marden, in Success Magazine. It is a great help. Sorrow, poverty, jealousy, envy, bad temper, create friction and grind away the delicate human machinery so that the brain loses its cunning.

Half the misery in the world would be avoided if the people would make a business of having plenty of fun at home instead of running everywhere else in search of it.

"Now for Rest and Fun." "No Business Troubles Allowed Here." These are good home building mottoes.

When you have had a perplexing day, when things have gone wrong with you, and you go home at night exhausted, discouraged, blue, instead of making your home miserable by going over your troubles and trials, just bury them; instead of dragging them home and muddling yourself and your family unhappy with them and spoiling the whole evening, just lock everything that is disagreeable in your office.

Just resolve that your home shall be a place for bright pictures and pleasant memories. Kindly feelings toward everybody and, as Mr. Roosevelt says, "a corking good time" generally. If you do this you will be surprised to see how your vocation or business wrinkles will be ironed out in the morning and how the crooked things will be straightened.

BOARD OF TRADE FOR WHOLE PROVINCE NOW

Large and Representative Meeting Held At Toronto At Which Colonel Ponton, Represents Belleville--To Work Out The Problems of The Province

(Toronto Globe, Friday.)

The Associated Boards of Trade, composed of representatives of all the Boards of Trade throughout the Province of Ontario, was formed yesterday afternoon at a meeting held at the offices of the Toronto Board of Trade. The new organization will help to work out the problems of the whole Province, just as the Toronto Board of Trade does for Toronto, and no section will be neglected.

For a long time it has been felt that some movements have suffered largely because the matter originated in Toronto. With the scheme of centralization that is proposed, this evil, it is claimed, be no further ground for complaint, as each of the whole Province will be considered and fairly dealt with.

One of the schemes to be undertaken by the new organization is a publicity campaign which will bring the attention of all Canada, as well as other countries the resources of Ontario. Other Provinces, it is pointed out, draw a large number of women away from Ontario by making known the possibilities of the west and elsewhere, and it is felt some inducement should be held out to keep residents of Ontario at home to develop the resources of this Province

At the meeting held yesterday Mr. A. W. Campbell, of the Toronto Board of Trade occupied the chair, and Mr. F. G. Morley acted as Secretary. Bylaws were submitted. At the next meeting every Board of Trade in the Province will be asked to send representatives.

The following were present at the meeting held yesterday.—Col. W. N. Ponton, Belleville; Geo. A. Scellen, Berlin; Christopher Cook, Bradford; William Shearer, Brockville; J. P. Jaffray, Galt; J. E. Wodell, Hamilton; W. R. Givens, Kingston; F. W. Hay, Listowel; H. T. Reason, London; J. Garfield Gibson, Ingersoll; G. A. Gillespie, Peterboro; R. G. W. Cassidy, St. Catharines; Geo. C. Carlisle, St. Catharines; J. M. McBridge, Mayor of St. Catharines; W. J. Gage, R. S. Gourlay, Toronto; J. F. Ellis, John Firstbrook, H. Home Smith, Harrie Brown, D. O. Wood, L. H. Clarke, G. W. Howland and W. F. Cockshutt, of Toronto.

RAILWAY LANDSCAPE GARDENING.

In recent years many of the American railways have given a great deal of attention to the beautifying of the grounds surrounding their stations, freight sheds, etc. The Grand Trunk Railway System has not been behind in this good work, as is observed by an editorial in the October number of the "Railway Master Mechanic," published in Chicago.

"Canada's summer months that landscape gardening has place on the railway repair shop question let him visit the gold plated shops are carried Grand Trunk at Battle Creek, Mich. While threading his way through the beds of geraniums, poppies, pansies and orchids which bedeck the grounds, the doubter, if he is a pessimist, will perhaps offer the opinion that probably gardening and not locomotive repairing is the specialty in the shops. Indeed, if the comparisons are carried far enough, one is inclined to wonder if there may not be some connection between this devotion to the aesthetic and results as evidenced in quality and quantity of the output of repair shop work."

GOOD COLD CREAMS.

Formulas For Making Your Own Compounds.

To make sure of getting a cold cream in which there are no animal oils many women like to compound their own massage creams.

They often fail to get results from a good recipe for lack of understanding the art of compounding. All cold creams are made in the same way. The fatty substances are put in a double boiler and melted, stirring constantly. When all are melted turn out in a bowl and stir, scraping down from sides.

The chief trouble comes in adding the extracts and astringents, which must be added gradually, after the fatty base is partially cold. Add first any perfumed waters, drop by drop, beating constantly with a silver fork, then all tinctures or extracts last of all. These go in drop by drop also.

A flat fork or beater can be used successfully when a large amount of the mixture is being made up, and one woman swears by a mayonnaise mixer for compounding her toilet creams.

Here's a recipe that can be used freely without fear of becoming bearded or fussy: Add tablespoonfuls each of almond oil and rosewater, two tablespoonfuls each of white wax and spermaceti in teaspoonful of tincture of benzoin.

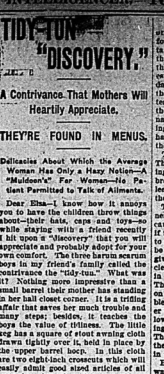
Melt the oil, then add the wax and spermaceti and when partially cold the benzoin, and the rosewater drop by drop, then the lanolin.

Discarded cheese jars of porcelain are nice to pack this cream in to stiffen. Keep in a cool place. Put in small jars, so that in use it does not get germ filled by constant opening.

Pear Salad.

Pare and remove the cores from large ripe pears. Fill the centers with a mixture of chopped celery, English walnut meats and mayonnaise dressing. Arrange around the edge of a round, flat salad dish and fill the center with cream cheese which has been mixed with cream and forced through a fine potato ricer.

TIDY-TUN "DISCOVERY."



A Contrivance That Mothers Will Heartily Appreciate.

THEY'RE FOUND IN MENUS.

Delicacies About Which the Average Woman Has Only a Hazy Notion—A "Maidenette," For Womanette Patient Permitted to Talk of Actions.

Dear Elsa—I know how it annoys you to have the children throw things about—their hats, caps and toys—and while staying with a friend recently I hit upon a "discovery" that you will appreciate and probably adopt for your own comfort. The three barnum scrum boys in my friend's family called the contrivance the "tidy-tun." What was it? Nothing more impressive than a small box which another has standing in her hall closet corner. It is a trifling affair that saves her much trouble and many a reap; besides, it teaches the boys the value of tidiness. The little keg has a square of stout sewing cloth drawn tightly over it, held in place by the upper barrel hoop. In this cloth are two eight-inch openings which will easily admit good sized articles of all sorts, but through which it would be well nigh impossible to fish them out again.

Into this barrel are slipped all the belongings left littering up the bedrooms or found scattered in dining room and living room after the youngsters have left for school or gone to bed. In the tidy-tun they remain in spite of the direst need and fervid pleadings until the monthly thorough sweeping days come around, when the tidy-tun is opened and the contents distributed to the delinquent owners on their promise to be less disorderly next month.

Many are the favorite pencils and ink erasers, the gay and sporty neckties, swallowed up by the tidy-tun and they cause the ingulfed of the lad who sees his property disappear therein. But the little barrel has worked wonders, so the boy's mother told me, in inculcating habits of tidiness in the household.

What They Are.

In answer to your appeal for the information regarding some of the delicacies which are often referred to in menus and recipes about which you have probably only a hazy notion, I would say that you are not alone in this gastronomic fog. Most women know in a general way about all of these things, but here is a little additional information for you concerning them:

Anchovy, for instance, is a small fish which comes from the Mediterranean. They are cured from bones, split and salted and put up in glass jars and in small tins of anchovy. It has a high flavor and is used as an appetizer or as a garnish for some salads.

Caviar is another highly flavored delicacy used as an appetizer. It is made from the roe of certain large fish, which are preserved by salting. It is served on small pieces of toast with finely chopped onions and minced hard boiled eggs and lemon.

Chervil is a garden herb like young parsley. It is a delicious flavor and may be used in salads and soups.

Chives are slim green onion tops with a mild flavor. They are excellent for flavoring soups, sauces and salads and many kinds of cheese.

Truffles are a species of fungus which are found only in France. They grow several inches underground and when fresh have a strongly aromatic flavor. They are usually sold in cans or glass bottles.

Chutney is an East Indian hot sweet pickle made from cocoanut, chillies and other articles.

Curry powder is a yellow powder, the principal ingredient of which is tumeric. It is a product of India and is a high seasoning for Indian dishes, such as curry of chicken, veal, lobster, and so forth. Here endeth the first lesson.

For Woman's Nerves.

Did you ever hear of so many women breaking down nervously as they do at the present time? Well, yesterday I went to see one of the latest of my oppressor: acquaintances and found that she had gone to a sanatorium where they receive some thing of the same kind of treatment that it gives the men at the Muldoon's establishment in New Jersey. Every day the women patients assemble in the gymnasium and cure their nerves by exercises which, in the case of the most profound insanity, consists in standing on their heads, vaulting the "horse" or walking on their hands, according to the strength of the patient.

The French military authorities in Africa are bending every effort to increase the number of a species of camel which travels more than twice as swiftly as the ordinary camel of commerce.

The patients are taught to breathe. The psychological currency is called "pumping," which is a sort of abdominal breathing. Those who have learned to leave their beds are taught to lie there and "pump."

The theory obtains that half the nervous troubles of womenhood are caused by inefficient breathing and that if the lungs are allowed an opportunity to purify the blood many ailments will be benefited. In the same way it gives particular attention to the muscles of the abdomen. With this end in view comes the "pump" exercise. The patient, it seems, lies at full length on the couch and makes her legs resemble a most active pair of scissors. After the gymnasium a period of rest follows, which the patients use in playing tennis, boating and swimming. The rest fun of the day begins when the patients assemble for dress parade in the ring.

Besides this, there are long country walks, for the "Muldoon's for women" is located on an estate of nearly 300 acres, and, in general, the treatment of the guests may feel, with all the outdoor life she soon ceases to look like a havaii and, better still, ceases to remember that she is one.

At mealtime there is no special regimen for any one to follow, I am told. It is suggested that the very sick should abstain from fluid pop, but otherwise there is no dieting. Conversationally there is one strong rule. No patient is permitted to discuss her ailments or miseries with any other patient at meal or any other time, possibly this is one of the reasons that these invalids recover so quickly.

I am sending a suggestion for the wedding gown of the business girl you know who has little to spend on her trousseau. It is developed in this crepe de chine, with an overdress of chiffon cromise in the waist and finishing in points with tassels of silk and pearl beads. Fine lace trims the waist and sleeves and loops and delicate underneath the silky chiffon. The gown fits closely with a narrow oren at the bottom of the skirt. The satin forms the girdle and is also inserted under the short sleeves. This gown may be made for $15.75 as counted up by MABEL.

Old Gowns Made Over.

Don't consign last year's gown to the scrap heap just because it fails to exert a little ingenuity and add a little touch of contrast and thereby evolve a new frock.

The princess gown can play the part of a transformer for this year's model. Drape the bodice or net or chiffon over the old form. Introduce a new yoke and sleeves of contrasting color and lace with the material and embroider it with silk and beads.

Slip a new and daylight tunic over the skirt and edge it with a band of net or satin. Repeat the embroidered motif at the bottom of the tunic and so, adding a touch here and taking away a piece there.

Never let a frock of other days go to waste. You can always build a new one on the old model.

Old blouses can be covered with a kimono slip of chiffon. Lace can be used for tunics for muslin dresses, and can be combined with tulle or net. You need only keep your eyes wide open, and the ingenuity will help you construct a new frock.

It is quite fine the promise made to Aladdin to enchanted old home

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor in the world knows what's the matter with me. I always be worse at certain periods, and have pains regular, and the writing of it is a pain as I write terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor to have the operation. I would have to have an operation, but I told him that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and after experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for all female troubles for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound also helped me while pass through Change of Life."—Mrs. LETITIA BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feelings, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women.

CATTLE MARKETS.

New York and Buffalo Markets Lower—All Round—Trading Slow.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Easton and Littlepost cables—quote American cattle steady, at 12½c to 13½c dressed weight; refrigerator beef at 10c to 10½c per lb.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 122 carloads, consisting of 2532 cattle, 1006 sheep and 26 calves.

Exporters.

Maybee and Wilson loaded an order 18 export cattle, at $5 to 36.

Butchers.

Butchers' cattle of good quality were in demand and sold steadily at 10c to 10c per cwt. higher, and more could have been sold. There were three picked cattle, and these, each, sold by Maybee and Wilson, at $5.40 per cwt. the highest price of the day. Selected loads sold at $5.30 to $5.75; loads of good, $5.25 to $5.30; medium, $5 to $5.25; common, $4.75 to $4.90; cows, $3 to $4.75; bulls, $2.50 to $4.50; canners, $2 to $2.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

Trade was not as brisk as it should be as usual for feeders. Short-keep are worth from $4.75 to $5.50; good steers, 900 to 1000 lbs., $4 to $4.25; steers, 800 to 900 lbs., $4.75 to $5; stockers, $3 to $3.75.

Milkers and Springers.

There seems to be no abatement in the demand for milkers and springers. Prices ranged at from $40 to $65 each.

Veal Calves.

Not many calves were on sale. Prices ranged at from $1 to $7.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Prices for sheep and lambs were 25c per cwt. higher than last week. Ewes sold at $4.50, and sheep at $3 per cwt. See sales reported below.

Hogs.

None on sale. W. J. Johnston, buyer for Canada Packers, Limited, and Swift Canadian Co., Limited, and Sale for Gunns, Limited, for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points. Quotations reported have been bought five carloads to arrive at these prices.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 7.—Special.—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending to-day were 1,000 cattle, 1,000 sheep and lambs, 2250 hogs and 210 calves. The quality was the same as last week's receipts, sale consisted of 1500 cattle, 1000 sheep and lambs, 2250 hogs and 210 calves.

Prices show an advance of 4c to 5c per lb. A feature of the week's trade was a sale for Sir John, N.B., account, and several loads for export to Great Britain at 5½c per lb. There was also an increased demand from country buyers for stockers and feeders, and these sold at 4c to 4½c per lb. Good at 3c to 3½c; fairly good at 2½c to 3c; and inferior at 2c to 2½c per lb. Calves sold at 3c per lb. The undertone to the market for hogs is stronger, and prices are firmer in sympathy with those paid a week ago, show a further advance of ½c per lb. Sales were at 6½c last Wednesday 10c. Prospects are for still lower prices in the near future. Prices of selected lots were made at $7.50 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

An easier feeling has developed in the sheep market, the entire offering of the week, with sales of Upper Canada stock at $4.50 per cwt., and lambs at $6.50 per cwt. There was no change in the condition of the calf market, the demand was light. There was a good enquiry for choice veals, but the offerings were small, and buyers found it difficult to fill their wants at $4 to $6 per cwt.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Nov. 7.—Cattle—Receipts, 2,000; active; 10c to 15c higher; prime steers, $6.75 to $7; shipping, $6.50 to $6.75; butchers, $6.25 to $6.50; heifers, $5.50 to $6.25; cows, $3 to $5.15; bulls, $3.50 to $5.15; stockers and feeders, $4 to $5.25; fresh cows and springers, $35 to $80; veal calves, $7.50 to $8.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 10,000; sheep, 25c higher; lambs, 10c to 15c higher; yearlings, 10c to 15c higher; wethers, 10c higher; prime lambs, $6.50 to $6.75; culls, $4 to $5.50.

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin—do not get clogged up, the blood becomes foul and impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them is as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found it, to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me, and I could not sleep for want of rest, many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. Then I was advised to use a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about for something for accomplishing that end.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box. 6

RELIC OF ARMADA.

Important Discoveries Have Been Made in Tobermory Bay.

Salvage Operations" on the spot where the Tuscany galleon Florencia is supposed to have been lost, in Tobermory Bay, Scotland, have led to such important finds that the vessel's treasure chest, those in charge of the operations have decided to charter a steamer, equipped, complete capable of clearing the mass where the majority of the undoubted relics of the Florencia are to be found.

Two days before diving ceased a ship was lowered, a fine ebony lamp, of Italian pattern, quite close to where a silver candlestick had been covered previously, and, where two stone-cutting balls were found a few days ago. The majority of such articles as silver lamps, silver plates and silver candlesticks bears out the story in the Spanish records, that there was on board the ship a fortune in the way of sacred vessels, silver crucifixes, lamps, and candelabra belonging to the seven priests who sailed in the vessel.

In the list of the treasures carried on the Florencia were included a crown of gold, with many jewels, and the admiral's sword. The diver one day came upon the richly inlaid basket-hilt of a sixteenth-century rapier. The quillons of the hilt displayed beautiful filigree work, and on the guard was a Maltese cross, with a ball at each point, under which was a monogram "G.R." The guard was still further decorated with the initiations of flowers and other fanciful work.

An authority on antiquities, at present on holiday at Tobermory, considers that the treasures of the Armada are of gold, and this opinion is strengthened by the fact that the hilt was entirely free from lime incrustation. In the records of the Clan MacLean district mention is made of the admiral's sword being on board the Florencia. The hilt found may or may not be that of the admiral's sword, but it is certainly that of some grandee, and on the Florencia there were a number of Spanish grandees —Don Garcia Chanes and Don Fernando Bernaldino.

Disappointed Brides.

"Everybody knows the story told by Charles Dickens of the lady who crept to her room and would not suffer her wedding finery to be removed from the table after the wedding was interrupted. There are now four other cases in which a lifelong seclusion followed a like disappointment. Two of these ladies died in the year 1778. One of them, Mary Lyon, was a maiden lady of what was then called a "genteel" fortune. I have reason to believe that the objection to matrimony could not exceeding $1,500 a year—lived for many years in lodgings in Oxford street, never going outside the rooms, and never seeing the light of the sun. The other, whose name is not given in the authority, lived in Charles street, also wholly in her own rooms, and always by the light of a candle, for the last ten years before life in the year 1768, one Esther Claridge died in her lodgings on Tower Hill, where she had lived for thirty-five years, and had never gone outside her room. It would appear as if, in matters of the heart, the feminine mind and the right thing to do. If these matters went wrong, to make retreat from the world. The melancholy woman went into a nunnery, and there turned a broken heart; in the last century she went upstairs, pulled down the blinds, lighted the shutters and the curtains, lit a candle, and sat down to brood over her woes. Her friend came to visit her; if she was possessed of a "genteel" fortune, like Mary Lyon, she provided them an oracle or something hot, with a glass of wine. If living had but little money, she had to stay at home and look after the old domestic affairs. In that case she speedily pieced together the fragments of the broken heart and got on perhaps none the worse for the fracture and the recovery, so sensible are we."

Doubles' Troubles.

The extraordinary Gorse Hall murder, in which the victim was killed by the likeness of two men to each other has been commented upon, brings to mind the experience of Sir Edward Clarke. On the second day of the hearing of the Seddon case against Crippen and Miss Leneve at Bow Street there was a crowd of reporters and journalists, who had had the unpleasant experience of being mistaken by the police for the male prisoner.

One Sunday, before it became known that Crippen was on board the Montrose, bound for Canada, a servant girl in the gentleman's house, arrived at this gentleman's house, and was accompanied, from his appearance, they suspected him of being the "doctor."

Fortunately, he was able to convince them here and then of his real identity. Dr. Kenelm Digby, then chief commissioner of police followed, and Sir Edward Clarke's opinion for the convenience he had been put to he was subpoenaed to the court for himself and his wife.

Oxford Hospitality.

Oxford has traveled very far from the hospitality of things observed by a German explorer toward the end of the eighteenth century. He first arrived at the city at midnight and was introduced by a good Samaritan to the "Star," the inn of interest astonishment, he saw several gentlemen sitting at chess seated round a table, each with a pot of beer in two hands—the Bible and "Comical Thro' the Rye."

The Workers.

Dusting Apron.

One of the most unconsidered conveniences is a dusting apron, or, rather, an apron to wear on the days when you are dusting and cleaning. It can be made of denim of a dark color, with a long pocket for the feather duster, another for the dusting cloth and still another for a small whisk broom. With these articles at hand you are saved many a step to find the duster needed for different articles.

WEALTHY PAUPERS.

Some Persons Live in Workhouses From Choice.

"We have often been told that the idea of the workhouse had a most repugnant to poor people that they would go to any length to avoid entrance into it," said a workhouse master, "but I am sorry to say that in many of our workhouses there are people who spend their days in a place where they are at least assured of a comfortable bed, enough to eat, and clean clothing.

"And yet there are folk possessing from £1,000 upwards, £2,000, £3,000 and £7,000, who have preferred to live in the workhouse than to live in the home of their own. For what reason, I cannot say, unless it be that they become entirely morbid, and because they like the comforts of workhouse life. It is true that they don't pay; but the fact remains, according to a recent report of the Bethnal Green Board of Guardians, that a number of people with money preferred the house to their own.

It was discovered, for instance, that the wife of a gentleman had a banking account of over $800, $500 of which was the gift of a friend awarded to the guardians and the balance to the husband.

Another case was that of a flat-sill builder of nine acres, who was admitted on account of destitution, and was found to be worth £1,000 in a penny bank.

That the "House" is looked upon by a number of elderly folk, who, did they desire, might live in comfort in the homes of their own, is borne out by several striking cases. An old lady of sixty-eight was admitted into the workhouse in 1907. She had £1,000 in the Postoffice bank and $800 invested in Government stock (three per cent. bonds). She could afford a house at Greenwich let at $2.75 per week.

"Mrs. G——," says the report, "has remained in the House during the admission, and declines to leave. She is allowed 50 cents per week pocket money, and is a member of a local circulating library. . . . She wears many jewelry, which is exceedingly good, and appears perfectly happy."

Apparently it is the astounding luxuries of his kind.—Tit-Bits.

Payn's Bad Guess.

Although an editor is expected to have copyright information, although his store of miscellaneous information is usually large, yet there are some things of which he—if he is an average editor—is ignorant. Such evidently, was the case with James Payn, the well-known novelist, when he was editor of Cornhill. Says he, in write in McClure's:

"A well-known gentleman-caller who had managed to evade the porter downstairs gained Payn's den. His hair was long and his clothes were shabby and dusty. He had a lot of papers in his hand. Payn, surmising a poet and his epic several thousand lines long, groaned inwardly.

"Well, sir?" he said.

"I have written something about sarcoma and carcinoma."

"Indeed!" I remarked with poetry—I couldn't accept another line, not if it were by Sir Walter.

"Poetry?" the caller flashed. "Do you know anything about sarcoma and carcinoma?"

"Italian lovers, aren't they?" said Payn, feeling his way.

The caller retreated, with a withering glance, and Payn heard him utter a sane roof as The Cornhill was the only one in Canada's literary journal, and it was this that the caller sought for the disposal of a treatise on the above-mentioned diseases. The euphonious names, which with a layman's ignorance Payn ascribed to poetry.

The Busiest Man in London.

It is said of Lord Kaber, who has been Postmaster-General since 1907, that he works harder than any man in London. Certainly the amount of work he is known to many devoted friends of the Canadian Corps, is enormous. Mr. W. T. Stead describes him as a man "who is not a statesman, he is not a soldier," he says, "but he has reformed the army; nor a sailor, but he has long made the navy his especial care; nor a journalist, and yet he has had the unpleasant experience of being overtaken by the police for the male prisoner.

THE IMPERIAL CORPS.

King Edward's Horse Made Up From All Over Greater Britain.

It is not perhaps sufficiently known that there is in King Edward's regiment which is a living symbol of the spirit of imperial unity — King Edward's Horse. Only a few years ago the regiment entertained at dinner the officers of Own Canadian Fliers.

Started shortly before the South African war to commemorate the services of the Imperial Yeomanry, the regiment was first known as the Duke of Cornwall's. It was considered that the finest memorial the overseas battalions could have was that the King was one to which they contributed their personal service. For that reason the proposal to change the name of the regiment to King Edward's Horse, by approval the name of King Edward's Own, "The King's Overseas Dominions Regiment (Imperial Service)," King George, now Prince of Wales was hon. colonel of the regiment. Its units consisted chiefly of commanding officer is the able and active Lieutenant-Colonel H. Forrester-Paton, late commanding officer of the 17th Lancers.

King Edward's Horse is the one really imperial regiment in existence. It is composed entirely of overseas men and for this reason has detachments in those centres of the empire where young men from the Dominions, as they term it in London and Liverpool—while there are about 1,000 Canadians in London alone—which include a number of officers, non-commissioned officers and troopers not only from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa, but also from Jamaica, Barbados, Trinidad, Bermuda, Bahamas, Mauritius, Burma, Ceylon, Hong Kong, Fiji, Canada, Jamaica, the Straits Settlements, and British Guiana.

The regiment is recruited entirely from men with the following qualifications: Must be already in Great Britain for a period of not less than three years—The parents must be or must have been born in the Overseas Dominions or Crown Colonies; a recruit must have been born in the over-seas Dominions or Crown Colonies, or have resided there for at least five years. The enlistment is for four years, but this can be curtailed at the discretion of the commanding officer in the event of the unit returning home for good.

All the members are under a liability to be called out with the regiment as a whole, anywhere in the world in case of national emergency. Uniforms, arms, horses, saddlery, and accoutrements are provided for officers, to non-commissioned officers and troopers.

The objects of this imperial regiment are numerous: To link together the Empire by the bonds of comradeship; to promote the principle of unity under the conception of a common duty to serve that Empire as a unit; to the above end to bring together in the ranks representatives from all the state, temporarily resident in Great Britain; under the above-mentioned liability, to keep constantly on the fence of the Empire may require them to serve; to maintain the flag for the defence of the British Isles; to give each man an equal examination, military education to young colonists temporarily resident in the mother land, to fit them at once on their return to their homes to serve effectively in their own land; to promote by this arrangement, representing all the local forces of the Empire, a healthy esprit de corps Empire's unity for purposes of mutual co-operation; to encourage and to all duly accredited members of colonial local forces visiting the Mother Country.

The regiment has still further aims "We are called since the Imperial Conference," says the commanding officer, "to a certain extent to meet requirements—to the first nine and to the Royal Indian Marine Reserve Battalion Horse, also the Cape Light Horse, the Canada Light Horse, and the Natal Louise New Brunswick Hussars. We hope eventually to organize a system by which Canada can meet her requirements whereby, for instance, if a man left Canada for a year on service to Australia he would be enabled, upon his return to Canada, to join the regiments there. This as yet is a pious hope and nothing more definite. We have hopes that the scheme may soon prove workable. Ample financial support is given to the regiment annually from all quarters of the world, and this is a great help in maintaining the strength of the regiment in the high state of efficiency.

To make a corps like King Edward's Horse possible in England, a continual flow of recruits must be maintained, since a very large proportion of the men leave England for three or four years only and then return to their overseas homes, to join the overseas Dominions. Every young colonist has the ambition to join the corps, an ambition to join King Edward's Horse.

Some More Nature Fakes Exposed.

An English naturalist who has been observing the habits of the otters in a river has declared that all stories as to the reptile's love of music are false. He admits that music will bring the otter to the top of the water, but also he says that any kind of high-pitched sounds, extended, or with the same manner in bringing it from the depths. He has tried almost all the rest. It pays no attention to the whistle of a train, but comes to the lower notes of the flute. As to the otter's sense of sight, he says that its eyes, Dr. Barnard brands the statement as imaginary.

Kept to the Point.

Lord Tennyson was constrained so inveterate a habit of keeping himself to the point that he was precise and terse in hand that once during a circuit dinner, having asked a county magistrate, "Will you have some beef and receiving what he deemed an evasive reply, "Well, I rather think I am going to take boiled chicken," his lordship, with a frown, said, "Then there is no answer to my question. I ask you will you have beef or chicken, and I will trouble you to say yes or no without further prevarication."—Sir James Gardiner.

GENESIS OF GULLIVER

How the Famous Satire and Fantasy Came to Be Written.

When the Deanery of St. Patrick's (1713) fell to Swift, regarded in as a consolation prize for the disappointed to the secretaryship of the Treasury, and as a provision unconventional enough for the disappointed lover. The refuge after the wreck of all his hopes. He came to Ireland with a heart filled with hatred for her and for the Irish race in spite of the accident of Irish birth, and with a Pharisaic English parentage; disappointed in Henry Colonel. He was considered a weapon of satire sharpened by the bitterness of political failure and hopeless of the future. The one element in Swift's character that overshadowed all others was its sarcastic force; and that sarcasm found abundant food in the Irish and Anglo-Irish things. The glaring wrongs of Ireland, the misgovernment, the indifference of English statesmen; the pettiness, of Irish politicians—all these were the material for the weapon of misery, the oppression—all these were the material for the weapon of satire. Swift's only two ready to lash itself into rage, and to direct its anger on the nearest victim. During the first three earlier years of his banishment, he was in constant correspondence with Miss Vanhomrigh, whose genius was the one redeeming feature of the time to him, but who, like himself, looked the world around them with profound disgust.

The first, subject that drew him to his pen was the evil of Wood's coinage of halfpence. His indignation found voice in a pamphlet on the "Use of Irish Manufactures," and it presently seized on a still more available topic, presented by the insidious job in connection with the Irish Parliament. Irish affairs gave rise to the famous "Drapier Letters." Swift did not measure his powers, he hesitated at no exaggeration; he left the Irish children afraid of the Irish colonists against their return to their homes.

But this fight, however brave and successful, could not satisfy the wrath of Swift's genius. In his contemplation of the loneliness, the insolence, the ignorance, the other objects engaged him. His chief attack must be on human nature, on the human race, against which he waged an undying war; and illness, the loneliness, the monotony, the absence from friends, all combined to embitter the hatred with which he regarded it.

It was in such surroundings, and amid such feelings that the first book of Gulliver were composed, and their publication, in 1726, followed immediately upon Swift's last visit to London, and preceded only by months the death of Stella.—Sir Henry Craik.

London's Novelist.

Mr. Pett Ridge is writing his new book "To My Wife." It will be remembered that about a year ago the author's brother, Dr. Pett Ridge, principal of the Central School, asier of Mr. Carl Hentschel, the redoubtable champion of the rights of playgoers, and the (in his spare moments) enthusiastic inventor of process blocks. It is interesting, by the way, that the Pett Ridge engravers plays a large part in the new Pett Ridge novel.

The Hentschels are a very remarkable family. Carl Hentschel began his career as a printer's devil in the City, his father in Holywell street, working hard and living hard. Afterwards he was one of the heroes of Jerome K. Jerome's "Three Men in a Boat," and the virtual founder of the Playgoers' Club. He has probably been the most successful artist who has ever come from Fleet street. But, like many other living man. He is a little, wiry, active man, who is very fond of and plays an excellent game of golf. Indeed, Carl Hentschel is an artist in many directions.

Pett Ridge, besides being the most distinguished transcriber of the life and humor of London since Charles Dickens, is a quiet and unostentatious philanthropist, keenly interested in the welfare of children, and he is, in his mean streets. He is a clean-shaven, middle-sized man, with a merry eye, and (like most humorists) a solemn face. He speaks low and slow as he writes, and is a devotee of the pipe.

Duralumin New Substitute for Steel.

With practically an unlimited field in which to work, the aluminum trade has begun the manufacture of duralumin, a new alloy of aluminum which may in time became a substitute for steel in those parts where lightness, strength, and flexibility is required. The new alloy was invented at Vickers' Sons & Maxim's works at Barrow, England, is the discoverer of duralumin. It is a little more than pure aluminium, but is as strong as ordinary mild steel and has the lightness of brass. It can be rolled, drawn, forged, extended, or pressed. It does not corrode, as easily as other aluminium alloys.

The one big drawback to the extensive use of aluminium, aside from its lack of strength, is the fact that under its tensile strength equals that of steel, it is, bulk for bulk, heavier.

He Took the Biscuit.

Concerning his early stage experiences, Mr. Gerald du Maurier, who is now the well-known actor and stage manager at Wyndham's Theatre in London, tells, with delight, a story which tells an amusing story. At short notice Mr. du Maurier had to take Mrs. Patrick Campbell's Melisande's part at a Birmingham theatre. "I remember," he says, "that I had to wear a pair of high crepey boots. They crossed over the instep, slightly. I took the part Birmingham audience yelled with laughter. I could not understand it, since the manager came to me and said, 'Look here, I congratulate you, I never saw any actor in my life draw such volleys of laughter in a tragic part. You take the biscuit.'"

THE WELSH EISTEDDFOD

THE ANNUAL FEAST OF SONG IS A VERY OLD INSTITUTION.

It's History Goes Back to 517 A.D., When the Bard Taliesin Presided Over the National Musical Gathering — Reason That Mere Widely Known Music Is Not Produced in Proportion to Its Popularity.

The National Eisteddfod, which is held annually in North or South Wales, was held recently at Colyn Bay. Considering the interest now aroused by the English press rather severely but as its quaint ceremonies have become better known, more sympathy is shown towards the venerable institution. There are, of course, many who think it a rather childish survival—the "Gorsedd," or Supreme Court of authority; but it is feared that these members of public opinion overlook the fact that the Eisteddfod (of which the Gorsedd is an adjunct) has, whatever its defects, helped to make the Welsh a music-loving moral people. It is a proud thing to be able to say that a nation's chief delight is music and poetry.

It is hardly necessary to say when music entered into the ceremonies of the Druids, but the origin of the Eisteddfod and of the Eisteddfod, or "Chair" as it is sometimes called, is lost in myth. The record of an Eisteddfod held in South Wales in the year 517 A.D., and presided over by Taliesin, is the first Eisteddfod. Another was held in the year 1176, and was presided over by Rhys, the president was Maelgwn Gwynedd. This latter one continued a week and the bards and minstrels as should swim from the River Aeron to the Welsh harpists who swam had their harps damaged in the water, whilst the harpists who kept their harps dry were affected, and, of course, they carried off the prize. The earliest records of early Eisteddfods are rare, but it will suffice to say that they were held in Carlton Castle in 1107, and began at Bleddyn, Prince of South Wales, and the princes and chieftains of all parts of Wales, including Ireland, were the bards and musicians, "and set chairs for them. And a national competition in music was the practice at the feasts of Bleddyn." The latter, who died in Ystrad Tywi, &c., was kept up for many days, "when all were allowed to feast and the bards, musicians, learned men, and performers of every sort, were honorably rewarded." In the same century Prince Gruffydd ap Cynan held an Eisteddfod at Aberffraw, North Wales, for the purpose of regulating the bardic order, which was established for the better regulation of music and poetry.

As music is now the principal attraction of the Eisteddfod, it is natural to ask whether it is the most advanced thereat on the right lines. Judging by results—the best possible method—the answer is "No." Neither have the Eisteddfodau of recent years been successful in producing composers of any standing. Nor has it been the case that the Eisteddfod has gifted world-wide singers. The Welsh are a musical people, in which the successful poets have a musical temperament, and nationality is a splendid medium for the expression of the poet and musician of their emotions. Music has not been banished from the Eisteddfod because of language; and although Macaulay was not right in stating that poetry will be lost to the world as the knowledge increases, it is patent to all that music is ever advancing, as are the new possibilities of which seem inexhaustible. The reason for the inactivity, so disliked by many forty years ago, is perhaps a safer to say, fashionable yesterday. The art is being developed on the lines of Wagner's mysterious effects outclass many of Handel's.

Take as a starting-point the rather long period of the Eisteddfod between the thirteenth or fourteenth century. The Englishman then produced a piece called "Summer is a-cumen in," and English musical production has culminated in the present century, in the monumental works of Elgar. On the other hand, there is the example extant of Welsh music which can be proved to have originated in the thirteenth or fourteenth century. Some say the key to a kind of notation in runic characters, and that with it the music of the Druids is preserved. But the key is still lacking to some such misfortune our stock of Welsh music would be considerable; but the sad fact remains, we have nothing brilliant to show the world in music.

The Eisteddfod has produced nothing of great importance, and nothing it has been satisfied with the awarding of prizes for pieces of music and for Welsh cantatas. Why? Possibly one reason is that the competitors at these Eisteddfod committees have judged the best music that could from the religious standpoint. Until recently the bulk of our good leaders believed that music and religion, music and the operas were the things of Satan. Handel's "Messiah" has always taken place in the education and artistic of the Welsh people, and it is through the fear of becoming too worldly that the Welsh so Art suffers; development is arrested.

The Eisteddfod is the meeting-place of the people, and the people must not be forgotten that the world-famous Welsh choirs owe their music by what is heard thereat. The standard of music is high, and the Welsh Knowledge, however, is spreading and the Welsh people are taking a wider interest upon Art, and we are hopeful it will ere long have its rightful place in the national life. It behooves our Eisteddfod leaders so to direct the affairs of the Eisteddfod as to ensure that it may always encourage and set the highest standard. We have for their object the placing of Wales upon a high pedestal in the world of Art, and, therefore, it will deserve the title by which we so delight in calling it, "The Land of Song."—Pedr Alaw.

Suspect Incendiarism.

Welland, Ont., Nov. 8.—The firemen, returning at four o'clock yesterday morning from a fire which destroyed the house of Harry Robbins, came to the conclusion that Cutler's planing mill was also destined to be the victim of fire. Upon investigation the cause of the contents and the building was found to be in a pile of shavings. Paper and kindling had been placed in the shavings, and a match applied to the property. The loss is $15,000, only partly covered by insurance.

Curious Coincidence.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 8.—W. O. Fitzgerald, a painter, hurrying home- ward with an oyster loaf early yesterday morning, stumbled against a post, fell into a shallow puddle of water and was drowned.

Thomas G. Fitzgerald, with another oyster loaf, rushed from a restaurant to board a car. He fell between the wheels, and may not recover from his injuries.

The two men were not related.

A "Vilifying Report."

Melbourne, Nov. 8.—Premier Murray in Victoria emphatically contradicts what he characterizes as "a certain vilifying press report" from Austra- lia, published in some Canadian papers, regarding the resignation of Thomas Bent, chairman of the Victorian Railway Commissioners. Pre- miner Murray says that his resignation was entirely voluntary, and greatly regretted by the Government.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Committees representing the G.T.R. and C.P.R. conductors and trainmen, are here to- day interviewing the managements of the respective roads, the former with re- spect to getting more of the strikers back, three still being many unem- ployed, and the C.P.R. with reference to modifications in the agreement drawn up last summer.

Over the 10,000 Mark.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 8.—The city's population is 10,000, according to the police census report, submit- ted to the council last night. Heretofore efforts will be made to secure free water, as the present supply is evi- dently turned down the registered the grounds that the city did not have 10,000 inhabitants.

Makes Charges Against Police.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Archbishop Bru- chesi Sunday denounced the lenience allowed to the road houses and hotels, and said the police knew they were being used for immoral purposes, and for that they did nothing, owing to influ- ence in high places. The answer of Chief Campeau was a general denial.

Fell Four Stories.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—An iron and steel worker on the new Rosenthal build- ing on Sparks street lost his life yes- terday. A. Norman of Montreal, employed at lamp and tarry, fell down four storeys, and fractured his skull.

The Quebec Bridge.

London, Nov. 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—It is learned here that the British tender for the Quebec bridge, based on the official designs, will be ac- cepted.

Believe He Suicided.

Brockville, Nov. 8.—The fatal seem to be gaining ground in the opinion that Barton S. Cruikshanks commit- ted suicide by drowning himself last Sunday afternoon between eight and nine o'clock in June. His widow, however, sticks to the theory that he was murdered by some of the clothing manufacturers of this village.

Prominent Cavan Man Dead.

Omemee, Nov. 8.—James McLean, one of the most prominent residents of Mt. Pleasant, Durham County, an agitation on foot for some time died Sunday night in his 86th year, for the enlargement of the postoffice. He was prominent in Cavan Town- ship, being a justice of the peace, the first reeve and chairman of the board of health, ting, which is all that the Govern- ment will allow for the present. These whom he had been married 62 years, will entail an expenditure of about and lily seven children. $7,000.

Says He Was Assaulted.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 8.—Blair Bruttell, who was made yard foreman during the G.T.R. Trunk strike, com- plained to the police that he was as- saulted on the street last night by four Italians. The strike originated in Chi- folmer car checkers. They will ap- peal before the magistrate today. Bruttell says he escaped injury by running away.

Didn't Get Permits.

Port Arthur, Nov. 8.—That the offi- cial building permit figures do not Dec. 1. show the total was evidenced when three local contractors were given nominal fines in the Police Court for neglecting to take permits on a total of twenty business blocks and resi- dences.

Died in California.

Kingston, Nov. 8.—Augustus Wilkin- son, aged 76, a former Kingstonian, died at Upland, California, Mrs. D. D. Calvin is a daughter.

Neighbors' Heartless Conduct.

Buchanan, Sask., Nov. 8.—The circumstances surrounding the deaths from suffocation of three children of A. Todd, farmer, living a few miles from here, place the neighbors in a heartless light. The father and the children was away with a threshing rang and the mother was milking the cows. She saw a fire started in the kit- en, and the mother rushed back to rescue the children. A baby of six months was dead, although it had been carried to the bedroom by the eldest child, aged four. A second child died later, and Sarah Jane, when the mother rushed to the neighbors as ask them to go to town for a doc- tor, they refused. Word was brought here next day, and the doctor went; but was unable to save the life of the eldest child.

National Guard Demoralized.

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 8.—With three officers and four company officers having tendered their resignations, and the remainder urgently requesting the Government to muster them out, the Texas National Guard is practical- ly demoralized as the result of the recent conviction of Sergt. Mundy of Company E, who bayonetted and kill- ed Private Reed during President- fait's visit to Dallas a year ago. Mu- ney was given a life sentence.

George Martsen Guilty.

Woodstock, Nov. 8.—George Mart- sen, who was arrested by the Toronto police after he was liberated from the Central Prison, was tried on three theft charges yesterday. He pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence on Jan.

Left Work Unfinished.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 8.—The Russell Engineering Co.'s dredge, that has been dredging Chippawa Creek for the past two months, left yester- day, work unfinished. Wm. Ger- German, M.P., declares that dredging would be completed early next year, but the dredge left because the mud hook has been done by the dredging so far.

Margaret Anglin Ill.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 8.—Owing to serious illness, Margaret Anglin, starring in "The Awakening of Helena Richie," was compelled to cut short Sunday night a perform- ance here to enable her to take a train for Chicago to undergo a surgi- cal operation. All further engage- ments have been cancelled.

Found Dead in Bed.

Woodstock, Nov. 8.—Horace A. Willis, proprietor of the Buckingham Hotel, was found dead in his bedroom day morning by his brother, who went to call him. Willis has been in apparently good health and his death was unexpected.

An Empire Flag.

London, Nov. 8.—The Canadian Associated Press learns that the question of an empire flag is being discussed in Government circles, but it is likely the idea will be deferred for discussion at the Imperial con- ference.

Aeroplanes for the U. S.

New York, Nov. 8.—Secretary of War Dickinson announced yesterday afternoon he had purchased fifty aeroplanes for the United States Gov- ernment.

The Thieving Magpie.

A few weeks ago a large tree in Eng- land in which several magpies had nests for years was blown down dur- ing a gale, and in a hollow which was unexpected was found over $300 worth of articles stolen from various houses. The principal thing was a dia- mond ring worth $200. The largest ar- ticle was a silver backed hairbrush.

All Together, Sing!

Sparrow, swinging on a branch, sang the following lay:

Low and long it was, full of lovely sentiment.

Robin, tugging at a worm, paused and tipped his head.

Peasel and pollard his head, stood his ground and listened.

To sing his song it really seemed he had forgotten quite.

A bee that flew from rose to lily flagged in her flight.

Hummed and buzzed and hummed again, but tried to give the keynote.

Wren, though busy with her nest, stopped to sing a wee note.

Thus reminded, robin chirped cheerily and sang.

Sparrow trilled his very loudest, sang his sweetest.

Wren, upon the arbor perched, looking sang.

Song with robin and with sparrow till the garden rang.

"There would be more good look- ing women if all would realize how their expression affects the lines of their face," declared a professional masseuse. "I've just come from work- ing over one who looks twenty years older than she should, and homely in the bargain, if because she would per- mit her mouth to droop it were not. Pouting is bad enough, but she who drops the corners of her lips when she is dissatisfied is the worst and unfortunate for herself, makes her seem unalterably cross.

"Lines from the corners of the mouth down to the chin always increase an effect of age and are frightfully un- becoming. You know, women really ought to cultivate a permanently pleas- ant content, even when they are cross, for the improvement in their faces would make the effort worth while.

"To eradicate lines which run from the corners of the nostrils across the cheeks to the chin, one should place the fingers shall be placed behind the cheek (in the mouth, understand) to the angle of the jaw. Then, with a com- pute a thumb into her mouth she will feel the fingers of the same hand brought on the outside so they can rub admirably. A massage cream is to be put on the chin, and then with her fingers stiffened she is to rub round and round on the lines, working and pressing, to make the surface smooth. Of course the line will fall into promi- nence again, as no rubbing can pre- vent, but if she gives this massage twice a day, for ten minutes at a time, and the rest of the time tries to look pleas- ant, which will set the muscles of the lips, an improvement in her appear- ance is assured.

Garment or Starving.

"Starvation is killing off the pretty women."

So said a prominent beauty specialist lately.

Women who diet to improve their figures often look haggard and drawn, faces where the fad is carried to ex- tremes.

An all fruit or bot water or butter- milk diet will not agree with more than one person in a thousand, and it is wise to ascertain before commence- ing it that we are that one.

Consider that the peasants and other people in foreign countries who sub- sist on rice or lentils or brown bread, or oatmeal and who are held up to us as an example in simple living have none so all their lives. If we do not take it up suddenly. Suppose they should start to eat to eat two cocoa din- ners. The effect on them would no doubt be as disastrous as is the effect of the opposite extreme on those "fad- dy" women who suddenly decide to live on a dried fig a day or a cup of hot water and a cracker. Of course we all do eat too much, but remem- ber—Home was not built in a day.

When Walking Upstairs.

In walking upstairs the feet should be placed squarely down on each step, heel and all, and then the work should be performed by the hip and deltoid mus- cle. In this way there is no strain on any particular muscle, but each one is do- ing its duty in a natural manner. Climbing stairs in this manner is an excellent form of exercise for the lower limbs and, provided the chest is thrown well back and the climber does not get into the habit of bending half doubled when ascending stairs, is excellent for the lungs and heart. The latter is excited to a more rapid action and the lungs get full play.

Your Eyes.

Consider their value.

Above all, don't abuse them.

Do not read or sew by a dim light. Never use them when you are lying down.

Reading in bed sounds good, but it's dangerous.

It is absolutely absurd to "read one- self asleep."

Look that would keep one awake would not put one asleep.

To keep the eyes strong open them every morning in clear, cool water.

To Get Rid of Pimples.

Small pimples which seem on the verge of bursting should be opened with a sterilized needle and the skin covered with a bit of cotton soaked in diuride of hydrogen after pressure has removed all of the contents which will come out without drawing blood.

Leave the cotton soaked in diuride on the opened pimple for at least ten minutes. If you are about to retire you could write and let the cotton be held it overnight. Certainly no blood poison could come after such a sterili- zing.

Interesting Gathering In The Armouries Yesterday

"Daughters of The Empire" Hear Miss Merritt The Organizing Secretary--Another Chapter To Be Organized in Belleville.

A meeting of the "Daughters of the Empire" was held in the Armories yesterday afternoon to meet Miss Merritt, of St. Catharines, the Hon. Organizing Secretary of the Order. Colonel Stewart presided and introduced Miss Merritt to the meeting. Besides a very large number of the members of the "Argyll" Chapter, the meeting was attended by many others interested in the work.

Miss Merritt, in an interesting manner, spoke of the objects for which the organization stands, the object of these being patriotism to the Empire and loyalty to the Sovereign. Miss Merritt received a most enthusiastic reception and at the close was awarded a generous vote of thanks.

The membership of the Argyll Chapter was largely increased at the close, and under the genial leadership of Mrs. W. N. Ponton, the Regent, will no doubt do good work for the regiment, to which it is affiliated, and will be interesting and beneficial to the members.

Miss Merritt will shortly return to Belleville to organize another Chapter of the Order.

HEADACHE AND EYESTRAIN.
Continued.

I do not need to say to you that there are a large number of people who have a small amount of refractive power, who never suffer from any of the symptoms of eye-strain, and who are in good health, but should they become reduced in health, they will then feel the eye-strain.

Asthenopia from External Ocular Muscles.

Anomalies of the external ocular muscles are also a fruitful cause of eye-strain, and when accompanied by a refractive error, are often relieved by the correction of the refractive error alone, or if of larger amount must be treated by, graduated exercise or by tenotomy of the offending muscle. Tenonomies have been much in vogue in the past, but have now been largely given up, even by those who were the strongest advocates in former days.

OBITUARY

THE LATE MR. GEORGE MOORE.

The funeral of the late Mr. George L. Moore took place this afternoon from the family residence, Hereford Street, and was well attended. It was under the auspices of the Canadian Order of Foresters, of which deceased was a member. Services were conducted at the house at 2 o'clock by the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, Rector of Christ Church, and was of an impressive nature. That the deceased had many friends was evidenced by the numerous and beautiful floral tributes placed upon the casket. Interment took place in the family plot at the Belleville cemetery. The bearers were members of the Forester's Society.

MISS ANNA JUDSON.

The Brockville Times of Monday had the following notice of the death of a lady known to many in this city: The death occured at the General Hospital yesterday of Miss Anna Eleanor Judson, where she had been a patient for three weeks. Miss Judson suffered from an incurable malady for two years, and while her death has been expected for some time, the end nevertheless opened a shock to many friends when it did come.

Deceased was a daughter of the late Fairman Judson, of Lyn, where she was born and spent the greater part of her life. Of late years she made her home in Belleville. Miss Judson was 68 years of age.

MRS. W. P. HUDSON.

At 6.30 last night Mrs. W. P. Hudson, who had been ill for some time, passed peacefully away at the family residence, West Bridge Street. An attack of pneumonia was ultimately the cause of death. Deceased, who was in her 68th year, was a daughter of the late Mr. James Fargey, who was a prominent yeoman of the Township of Thurlow, where she was born. All her life had been spent in this county, the last 19 years in this city. Mrs. Hudson was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and was in every sense of the word a christian lady, always taking an active part in church work. She was not only a true christian lady, but was possessed of many amiable qualities which made her a host of friends, who will sincerely regret her demise. Her life cannot but be a benediction to those who were her friends. On the 9th of January, 1865, the deceased was married to her now bereaved husband, who, with a family of one son and three daughters, survive. The son is William H., of this city, and the daughters, Misses Anna and Harriet, at home. To the sorrowing one will be extended the sympathy of a large circle of relatives and friends in which The Intelligencer joins.

LIFE NOT WORTH LIVING.

is the way Miss Alta Abel, of Wellington, Ind., summed up her existence after her health sought in vain for health. She writes, "I was a complete wreck—always tired, worn out and nervous. I often spent about one-third of my time in bed, and my life was not worth living.

Vinol, your delicious cod liver and iron tonic, was recommended, and I can truly say it has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took in my life. That nervous and tired feeling is all gone. I have gained 15 pounds in strength, and I feel like another person." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

What Vinol did for Miss Abel, we know it will do for every nervous, run-down, overworked, weak, thin and discouraged woman in this vicinity.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. J. S. McKeown, druggist.

AT GRIFFIN'S.

An exceptionally good bill was offered at Griffin's Opera House this night. Harry Fen Dalton made a decided hit with his musical act. He has a number of different musical instruments which range from a small piece of celluloid to a bugle which he is perfect imitation of a bugle call, to a one-string violin. Dowling and Towle present an act of more above average. Mr. Dowling has a most pleasing voice and his imitations of both Irish and Dutch characters were very clever while Mr. Towle's manipulation and imitations on the violin are indeed a big surprise. The world's series baseball pictures, Chicago vs. Philadelphia, is an exceptionally fine film, each important play of the game showing up clear and distinctly.

$8,000,000 to the Good.

Montreal, Nov. 8—Campbell Sweeny, president of the Bank of Montreal in Vancouver, who is here to-day, says that the Government of British Columbia has no less than $8,000,000 to its good, as a result of the sale of the Prince Rupert properties, and the ones coming in from a very great development of the lumber industry.

The banker thinks that Premier McBride will spend a good deal of this surplus money in providing good wagon roads in all parts of the country which are almost inaccessible on account of their impassibility.

Guilty of Forgery.

Guelph, Nov. 8—Jas. Watson, alias Thomas Burns, was brought before Judge Chadwick yesterday afternoon on three charges of forgery, pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence. Watson had forged several cheques using the name of E. B. Clancy of the Wellington Hotel, Norman King, on a charge of indecent assault, also pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence. King was out on suspended sentence at the time of the assault.

A Lack of Power.

Port Arthur, Nov. 8.—Port Arthur is suffering considerable inconvenience, owing to scarcity of electric power, due to the Current River running day. The hydro-electric and substation, to take power from Kakabeka Falls will be ready about Jan. 1, when the supply will meet all possible demands, but in the meantime it has been necessary to resurrect the old steam plant at the Current River power house.

LOCAL LEGAL.

Divisional Court—Before Mulock, C.J.; Clute, J., and Sutherland, J.

Lucas v. Brunes—J. B. McColl (Cobourg), for defendant. E. G. Porter, K.C., for plaintiff. An appeal by defendants from the judgment of the County Court of Hastings of June 25, 1910. This was an action by a chattel mortgagee for $120 damages for the alleged wrongful conversion by defendant to his own use of the mortgaged property. At the trial judgment was awarded plaintiff for $97 and costs of action. Argument of appeal resumed from Oct. 14 and concluded. Appeal allowed with costs. Judgment below set aside and judgment to be entered for defendant dismissing action with costs.

In the case of Finn vs. St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Mr. E. G. Porter, K.C., appeared for the plaintiff. The case was to recover $500, part of an insurance on the life of the said Paschal Finn, which, plaintiff alleges, was paid to defendant Botsford, and by him paid to the hospital through a power of attorney obtained from the plaintiff by undue influence of defendants and others. At the trial a judgment was given defendants, with costs. Plaintiff's appeal partially argued and not concluded.

FOOTBALL

And now every football fan will get busy and try to size up Varsity and Queen's, Toronto, Ottawa, Tabgram. The latter have not yet week-ended in our midst, but they will be here Saturday, and Argos will try their best out sufficiently to show all their strength and weakness. And while admitting that Hamilton has a mighty fair team, it is hard to see where they have it on the students.

INTERPROVINCIAL RECORD.

Hamilton's win makes their second victory for the championship of the Interprovincial Union. The union was organized on Sept. 15, 1907, and Montreal were returned the winners. Montreal were also successful in winning the Canadian championship the same year. Hamilton won the championship, in 1908, after defeating Ottawa in Kingston, owing to a tie in the inning. They were also successful in winning the Canadian championship that year, the final game being that memorable one on Rosedale when they defeated the University of Toronto by 21—17. Ottawa won the Interprovincial in 1909, but was badly beaten by the University of Toronto for the Canadian championship. And now this Tiger will in 1910 endeavor the Tigers to play the final game on their own grounds for the Canadian championship.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 7.—Defeating Yale for the first time in the history of their football relations Brown made the victory at Yale Field this afternoon decisive by rolling up a total of 21 points, and shutting Yale out. Yale was outplayed from the start. After the game the Brown men did the snake dance about the Yale field, the first time any team except those of Princeton and Harvard has so far performed.

HOCKEY

The hockey club promoters, although the leagues have not yet met and decided on the propaganda for the season 1911, are already in the field for players, says the Montreal Herald. Some well-known amateur who figured on the Montreal team last year and made a good impression, Percy Fyan, has already been approached by a professional team and offered a contract for the season. The promoters are also after "Bummer" Glass, brother of the redoubtable "Pud," who played a good game for Montreal last season. Glass has in his possession, and has shown The Herald a letter from Shawinigan Falls asking him to name his terms to take a team there or go to the Laurentian town to manage a hockey team. What was will do in the matter has not yet been decided.

THE RING

Tommy Burns, the former heavyweight champion, is surely going to fight Sam Langford, the colored colossus of Boston, a 20-round battle at a show to be held by Hugh McIntosh, in Australia, September 30, or England the last week of December, or the early part of January. Burns is at present at Seattle the other day in which he said that all arrangements had been completed for the contest, but before taking on Langford he would meet "an unknown" for one or two rounds at Seattle the middle of this month. Burns will sail for England immediately after this fight.

RUNNIN

Bobby Kerr, who has been out of training for some time, has decided to get into shape again, and will compete at some of the big indoor meets to be held across the border this winter. He has not yet decided what he will do him the world of good, and there is no reason why he should not show his best form this season. The knee which he injured while playing football last Saturday is still bothering him, but the injury is not serious and will in no way interfere with his training. Kerr says he will not let up in his training at any stage but as soon as the outdoor season closed he began to prepare for the indoor season, with the result that he was overtrained before the winter season. He had a very hard time running since he showed 'em how to lower records at Winnipeg.

R. E. Walker, the South African sprinter, who is turning professional, tells why he is taking the step, and says he wants to come to America to meet Cartmell, and says he will also visit Canada. He says:—"I do not think there is any discredit in being a professional runner. I have found those who I have met quite as good sportsmen as the amateurs. Take Arthur Hale, I had two journeys across the ocean in his company and found him a good fellow. Jack Donaldson, too, is one of the best you could meet. Then there is R. B. Day, who has started out turning professional. I shall, of course, go into proper professional training for the match, and I feel sure I shall be able to show considerable improvement as other amateurs have been credited with doing after turning professional. I might say Donaldson a great race.

ATHLETICS.

(Toronto World.)

The officers in charge of the Highlanders' athletic tournament in the 22nd regiment armories last night have picked on a list of events that will make a great night's sport. Besides the all-round international walking match between the two walking champions, Ed. Gaudaur, the champion, and Fred Smith, the seven-mile world's championship, and the appearance of Frank Lukeman, the all-round Canadian champion, the rest of the programme will bring together nearly all of Toronto's crack athletes. Jack Tait, the proven litle setter to be one of the world's greatest indoor performers, and will be amongst the competitors.

MISCELLANEOUS

BELLEVILLE BOY AT BILLIARDS

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 7.—One of the most progressive moves which has been made in late years toward the popularising of billiards will be inaugurated to-night in Boston, when the National Amateur Billiard League starts its schedule of 1910-11 there with a series of three nights' play against the New York representatives.

This league includes the following cities: New York; Brooklyn, Boston, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Chicago and Kansas City. A regular schedule has been adopted, and for the past three weeks all of the cities have held elimination tournaments to decide which of their best amateur players would represent them as the fighting team.

There have been so many big events going on that Doyle's of has that the progress of this tournament has been somewhat retarded, and the result is that a new record for hours between John Manahan and W. Blumenthal, each having won six and lost one, with the exception of two players, together with Jimmy Blair, are undoubtedly the best three amateur cushion players in this city, and Jack Doyle has decided to have all three of them on the travelling team.

Blumenthal will play in Boston for the first three nights' play on Monday, to-night, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, and then in Brooklyn. On Nov. 7, 8 and 9 Jimmie Blair will represent this city in Philadelphia.

All the games will be of fifty points each.

John Manahan belong to Belleville and has many friends here. He has been away from here for several years.

Good Form

TOO MANY CLOTHES.

A woman who desires to dress well on a small income, and it can be done, must learn first of all never to have too many clothes on hand at once. Better by far have few things and well wear them out, and then buy others. It is better to have one well-fitting tailor-made suit, kept in rigorously pressed and in order, wear it until it shows signs of wear, and then replace it than it is to have many ill-fitting suits. As to large stocks of underwear, they are only an evidence of not looked after frequently they grow yellow or a vagrant mouse makes a home in them. Style, also, affects frequently in underwear as in outer garments, those human figures alter and grow fat sometimes, and the treasured articles won't fit when they are brought out. As to shoes, it is better for the feet and better for the shoes to have several changes and wear them in rotation, but if shoes are kept too long the leather is apt to rot.

MARKETING MEMOS.

When you do marketing be careful to select—

Beef, of open grain, smooth and shiny, of a deep carnation color, with fat of a fine cream color. Mutton, close in the grain, bright red and juicy, with fat of whitish cast. When you dent the meat with your finger, it should rise again. Ham (uncooked) that is firm and bright-colored, with white fat. The meat, though firm, should be soft. Veal that is white, smooth and juicy, with fat white, firm and abundant.

Game, which displays white noncolored flesh when a few feathers are plucked from the under-leg.

Fish with the flesh thick and firm, and the gills red. If an impression made with the finger remains, the fish is stale.

Vegetables which are crisp, firm and bright green.

In The Wide World Of Woman.

Oranges and lemons, with thin skins, because they are usually the more juicy.

THE QUESTION OF MARRIAGE.

Few questions perplex the conscientious parent more than this; in some instances, of course, there is no room for perplexity, because the choice suits itself and the only thing to consider is whether parents have much to think about. Probably the mother is more concerned than the father, but all parties will have the welfare of their children at heart must feel some anxiety when they arrive at a marriageable age. The first anxious feelings arise over the choice which the son or daughter may make; then comes the selection, and the parents wonder whether the future partner is, or will be, suitable in the best sense of the word.

Suppose that the child is a daughter. The future husband is subjected to the mental process often called "taking stock of him," and certain questions arise. The parents, not blinded by love, as they are inclined to think the daughter is, are not altogether satisfied. Loving their daughter, they set up ideals and this young man is not quite what they expected; they are not able to explain their doubts, but somehow he falls short. His income is smaller than they think it should be, or he is very fond of society, and they fear he will neglect his wife in favor of athletic pastimes; he is, perhaps, clever, but (like so many Australians) gather eccentricity, and that means coming home to-day and at any time, and making his wife unhappy by a constant series of little vexations. They may object to his profession or avocation, and they may also fancy that he is not really in love with the girl, or that she herself is simply infatuated and will regret it quickly. So they endeavor to exercise their right as they say. The girl disputes to the west on Oct. 22. He reached Saskatchewan on Nov. 2—and at the soon hour was back in Winnipeg having two miles to the station. Later he completed his business arrangement, and becoming alarmingly ill and unconscious, was taken on the train at 4.30, despite the medical skill of two doctors, who were on the train.

Choosing a Leader.

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 7.—The Conservatives of the province will hold a convention in Edmonton on Wednesday, at which it is expected that a leader for the party will be elected. It is said that R. H. Bennett has announced that he will retire from politics after this session.

Cookery Points

A Woman's Plan.

Mrs. Ellen H. Richards' proposition for working people to live in boxcar and buildings fifteen stories high and literally surrounded by sunlight and air is not aesthetic, but it is rather startling from an aesthetic point of view. But that needn't matter if these "towers" will but solve the congestion of cities and aid in the improvement of sanitary conditions.

New's the Time to Buy Lingerie Gowns

This is the season of the year to buy lingerie gowns cheap. The shops are all marking down their lines of these and one sometimes can purchase for less than half the original price a gown that in the beginning of the season was prohibitive.

Then if one does not care for ready made clothes there is at present the [illegible] perfect leather insuring the narration—And that is the story of Canada and the west in a nutshell. A stranger they knew what a potash was that long ago!

strous of securing either M. J. McCarthy or H. J. McGrath, but neither of these men will accept the nomination positions. E. Michener of Red Deer is also mentioned, but he is not considered sufficiently strong in faith for the position.

Yacht Wrecked.

Tobermory, Ont., Nov. —Saturday night the yacht Villa of Alpena, Michigan, on the shoals off Yeo Island, six miles from here. The crew succeeded in landing safely on the island, and were unable to reach the mainland on account of the heavy seas of Sunday. The Villa was completely wrecked. The cabin and upper works are washed off by the storm.

Foolish Questions

"Golden's place in the sailboat is a problem now agitating amateur sailors The mariners who take their summer vacation as their only opportunity to sail the tricky catboats have found that most of their accidents have been due to the restlessness of their two men passengers. It seems to be an unconscious longing to know more about the decks after the manner of girls on magazine covers. The woman who sits on the cabin top is the hardest to deal with. Whenever the boom jibes the swing of it is likely to knock her into the water. Few it has been discovered that the place for women on catboats is in the cockpit. This will probably kill sailing as a pastime for women, because it keeps them all most completely hidden.

COOK IS ACCUSED NOW OF CHEATING HIS ESKIMOS GUIDES.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook was further discredited in a special cable despatch to The Chicago Daily News yesterday from its correspondent in Copenhagen, Denmark. The story was the first publication of the views of Knud Rasmussen, the Danish explorer, as sent by him to his wife in Copenhagen, and now given out by her.

Contained in the story is what purports to be the statements of Cook's two Eskimo companions in the polar quest, Inukusuk and Ajalak, in which they confirm Commander Peary's charge that Cook traveled in circles and never even approached the pole. Rasmussen is quoted as saying he himself did not interview the men, but their statements were taken by the Rev. Gustave Olsen and Kataeia Kohmann Ross-Bach, missionaries born in Greenland, and at the time of securing the statements working in the country from which Cook claimed to have started for the Pole.

This is part of the story told by the Eskimos:

"One day I, Ajalak, came upon Dr. Cook sitting down and drawing a map. I looked at it and asked him, 'Whose route are you drawing?' 'My own,' replied Dr. Cook, but that was a lie, because he drew the map a long way out at sea, where we never had been. The small rivers had only begun to break when we reached Heil's Gate.

"We caught walrus, musk ox and bears all that winter. With the bow we killed only two bears. We had a gun to kill musk ox and bear, as to kill a musk ox with the bow is impossible. It was a fine autumn and had good provision for the winter.

"During the dark time we were inside most of the time making clothes. Dr. Cook wrote all the time. At first sight of the sun we started home.

DIX'S PLURALITY.

(Intelligencer Special.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Not till this morning, when the returns from outlying districts came in, did the full effect of the Democratic sweep yesterday become known. The plurality of Governor Dix in New York State is sixty-two thousand, just about the same as that of Hughes' last election. Other States in which gubernatorial results gave a severe s'am to Roosevelt Republicanism were Massachussets, Foss, 22,000; Ohio, Harmon, 40,000; Connecticut, Baldwin, 2,000; New Jersey, Wilson, 50,000; Texas, Col. Quilt, 125,000, and many others. As the returns from the Pacific States come in, it seems to be assured that the new Congress will also be Democratic, with a good working majority. The will troupe Taft continue, Mr. William R. Hearst, head of the Independence League, says this morning: "I am not disposed to mourn

JUDSON HARMON.

Children's Aid Society Accomplishing A Great Work In The Community

Splendid Results Attained Revealed At An ua Meeting Held In City Hall Last Evening - Large and Representative Audience Hears Interesting Addresses on Work.

That Belleville possesses in the Children's Aid Society an institution of which it may well feel proud was clearly demonstrated at the annual meeting of that Society, which was held in the City Hall last evening. The auditorium was well filled with ladies and gentlemen thoroughly representative of the business and social life of the community, and the interesting and illuminating remarks of the various speakers were listened to with the utmost attention, and all went away deeply impressed with the great good which the Society is accomplishing.

Stories, pathetic in the extreme, were related of the rescue of little children from sordid and poverty-stricken homes, and their removal to bright and comfortable surroundings, where they might have the advantages of a good bringing up. Other stories also dealing with the labors of this splendid society, were related and one could not help but feel that a work of the greatest good and of the highest importance was being quietly but effectively carried on in the community.

Mr. Thomas Ritchie, President of the Society, occupied the chair, and with him on the platform were Mr. J. J. Ke'so, of Toronto; Rev. Messrs. R. C. Blagrave, A. H. Drumm, A. M. Hubly, R. Wallace, Messrs. S. A. Gardiner and J. Collins.

The President, in a few remarks, opened the meeting. He referred to the work of the Society, which was doing much good. It was an important undertaking to reform a neglected child, but an immense revolution had taken place in regard to these children. The result can scarcely be calculated. He was pleased to state that the Government had realized the good that was being done for child culture and was materially aiding in th's worthy object.

Mr. H. Wrightmyer rendered an excellent solo.

Letters of regret at inability to be present at the meeting were read from Hon. Father Spratt and Mr. J. W. Johnston, M.P.P., both of whom expressed their hearty approval of the work of the Society.

Mr. C. B. Scadding, Treasurer and Secretary, presented the following report, showing the receipts and expenditures for the year:—

(Concluded from Page 1.)

FALLON REFERS INDIRECTLY TO SCHOOL QUESTION

(Intelligencer Special.)

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 9.—Speaking at a meeting of the Alumni of Assumption College last night, Bishop Fallon referred indirectly to the widely discussed bi-lingual school question, saying:

"I am determined that all boys and young men in my diocese shall be enabled to receive an education which will fit them for success in life."

CHARGE AGAINST THOMAS JARDINE WITHDRAWN TODAY

(Intelligencer Special.)

GUDERICH, Nov. 9.—The little court room was crowded past the door this morning when Magistrate Butler proceeded to investigate the charge against Edward Jardine of murdering Lizzie Anderson. There was something of surprise felt when Crown Attorney Seager announced that the charge of being an accessory against Thomas Jardine would be withdrawn. Lawyer Daney consented to committal for trial of Edward, who appeared much worried.

MYSTERIOUS NOTES

Report Gains Currency That Story Is Frame up For Theatrical Purposes.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Search for Belle Elmore, for whose murder Dr. Harvey Hawley Crippen is sentenced to be hanged November 23, and who was reported to be alive and in hiding near Chicago, centred to-day near Hammond, Ind.

A mysterious note left in the Virginia Hotel here, mysterious telephone calls and the appearance recently in Hammond of a pretty woman who closely resembled Belle Elmore, have spurred the police to extraordinary efforts to locate the singer.

Meantime, however, a report gained currency among sporting men that the story of Belle Elmore's being alive and in Chicago, was a frame-up for theatrical purposes. The names of Robert E. Cantwell and Jack Curly, the wrestling promoter, were mentioned in connection with the alleged scheme, which is said to be nothing more than an impersonation by an English actress.

Both these men admitted being interested with F. T. Tobin, an attorney in Philadelphia, in the production of Belle Elmore.

Cantwell said he believed Tobin would actually produce Belle Elmore and save the life of Dr. Crippen.

GRAND TRUNK MEN ARE IN ANGRY MOOD

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—The statement of Vice-President Murdock, which comes from Montreal, that there will be no trouble on the G.T.R., even though the strikers are not reinstated, does not harmonize with the feeling among the men in Toronto terminals, who are by no means satisfied and will not be until all the men are back at work.

"We have three conductors here in Toronto," said one of the men, "who are most capable and who have not been reinstated, and we will defy the company to produce evidence that any of them have committed any single act that could be used against them. The fact that the men have been in the service of the company for over thirty years should be sufficient proof of this.

"They are John Lavell, Alex. Ross and R. Cumpsta.

"It is all very well for some to say the trouble is all over, but the unfortunate affair at Niagara Falls last night will indicate just about the temper of those who are not working."

GUN EXPLODES, SHELL STRIKES 9 YEAR OLD GIRL

(Intelligencer Special.)

HAVELOCK, Ont., Nov. 9.—Norris Whitney, of Oak Lake, in an attempt to remove a cartridge from a gun, exploded it, burning himself about the face, while the rim of the shell struck his nine-year-old daughter, who was standing near, on the breast, inflicting a nasty wound.

Fred Howard, a C.P.R. brakeman of this town, was killed shunting at the Central Ontario Junction, fell between the cars, striking the coupling in his fall and severely injuring his hip and back. He was brought to the Havelock hospital.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Nov. 9.—Two years in the penitentiary was the sentence imposed on Marsden, alias Woods, released from Central Prison last Saturday and confessing several thefts.

Dix the Democrat!

Can Roosevelt come back? Hunh!

Eugene Foss, of reciprocity fame, is the Governor-elect of Massachusetts. They're hankering after reciprocity sure enough down Cape Cod way. Well, maybe they'll get it, and maybe they won't.

As was generally expected, Roosevelt's candidate, Mr. Henry L. Stimson, was defeated for the Governorship of New York by the Tammany candidate, Mr. Dix. Now for Boss rule with a vengeance.

Here are the pluralities of the successful candidates for Governor of New York State for the last twelve years:

1898, Roosevelt	17,786
1900, Odell	111,120
1902, Odell	8,803
1904, Higgins	80,569
1906, Hughes	57,897
1908, Hughes	69,462

The World is working itself up into a frenzy again. The "interests" do not seem to have returned any satisfactory answer to The World's recent begging letter.—Globe.

The Globe should not be throwing stones; it once lived in a glass house itself. Let us all alive those days remember when it did not flourish as it does to-day. Then outside aid was not thrown into the waste basket. At that time Liberal Governments did not rent their organs as liberally as they do to-day.

Major Stephens may make up his mind that Toronto will not remain satisfied with fourteen-foot waterways either on the Welland or the St. Lawrence Canals. There must be a depth of over twenty feet and a length of six hundred for all locks from the ocean to the head of the great lakes.—Globe.

In this The Globe is correct, but would it not have been more correct to say "Ontario"? "Toronto" is a city to be proud of, but it is not all "Ontario," and the whole province is interested in the deepening of the canals.

The Toronto Globe of the 5th inst. says:

"Hon. George E. Foster has abandoned his appeal against the verdict of the jury who found for Dr. J. A. Macdonald in the libel action instituted by the member for North Toronto against the editor of The Globe. Mr. I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., counsel for Mr. Foster at the trial, when interviewed, confirmed the report that the appeal had been dropped. 'Mr. Foster has instructed his solicitors to discontinue the appeal in the action,' said he, 'and steps are being taken to comply with his instructions.'"

What about the other libel actions that were threatened and entered? Are they abandoned also?

No surer evidence that the work of the Children's Aid Society in Belleville is regarded of the highest importance could be obtained than the presence of such a representative gathering of citizens as that which filled the City Hall last evening for the annual meeting. It must have been gratifying indeed to Mr. Thomas Ritchie and others of the Society to note the apparent interest with which the better class of citizens viewed their work. That the Society is worthy of all the interest taken in it and the support extended it was amply shown by the reports read last evening. It is doubtful if the county is blessed with an institution accomplishing more real good than the Children's Aid Society.

GRAND PATRIARCH MEEK PAYS AN OFFICIAL VISIT

Moira and Quinte Encampments Receive Distinguished Oddfellow—Splendid Banquet Follows At Which Vigorous Plea is Made For The Merger of The Two Encampments.

Last evening the members of Moira and Quinte Encampments in this city were favored with a visit of Grand Patriarch R. Meek, of Kingston. There was a good turnout of the brethren. At the lodge room the distinguished Patriarch gave a useful and instructive address. At the conclusion of the Encampment business the members repaired to the Albion Hotel, where a banquet was partaken of. The spread provided by Patriarch Hastip was all that could have been desired, and was most efficiently served. The I.O.O.F. orchestra was present and rendered a number of suitable selections. Patriarch R. H. Ketcheson, Junior Warden of the Grand Encampment, fittingly occupied the chair.

After supper had been partaken of, the following toast list was carried out:

"The King"—The National Anthem by the company, led by the orchestra.

"Our Grand Encampment"—Patriarch Bartley, District Deputy Grand Patriarch, spoke to this toast. He regretted the fact that while there were 45,000 members of the subordinate lodges of Oddfellows there were but 6,000 members of the Encampment. It was up to the individual members of the Encampment to endeavor to secure more members for that branch of the Oddfellows' society.

Bro. Walter Asselstine rendered a humorous solo in splendid style.

Grand Patriarch R. Meek was next toasted. He was late of those parts and was cordially received. In his opening remarks he paid a glowing tribute to Bro. Hall, M.P., Bro. Bleecker, who was doing work for the Patriarch. He was pleased to be present at the banquet, and more especially so because there was no liquor present. This fact he was proud of. He was also proud of the fact that liquor was not allowed in an Oddfellows lodge room. The speaker referred to the beneficial work of Oddfellowship in general. He advised the Patriarch in this city to get busy and enroll a good membership into the Patriarchal Branch of Oddfellowship from the subordinate lodges. He appreciated being in the city of Belleville, where, when a young man, he resided, being then a member of the fourth estate. He wished the city every prosperity.

"Sovereign Grand Lodge"—Past Grand Patriarch L. B. Cooper responded appropriately. He said the Grand Encampment made no mistake when it selected Patriarch Meek as Grand Patriarch. In speaking of the toast he said that to attend the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Oddfellowship was an education. The Order is extending its banner the wide world over. In all the branches of the Order throughout the world last year was expended over five million dollars in benefits. It is one of the greatest fraternal institutions in the world and therefore it is not to be wondered that the order is growing. There are to-day nearly two million members. In concluding he hoped the Patriarchal branch of Oddfellowship would increase in membership in Belleville.

"Patriarch Militant"—Lieutenant Kelley and Ensign Hardin were called upon to speak to this toast and did justice to it.

"Quinte and Moira Encampments"—Patriarch W. H. Bowen and James Mills did honor to this toast, the former stating that the two branches ments join hands and make one good Encampment in the city.

"The Ladies"—Patriarch Scriver and C. Symons responded.

"The Press"—Responded to by Messrs. J. O. Herity and P. Hanrahan.

"The Chairman"—Patriarch Ketcheson spoke briefly, thanking those present for the opportunity of speaking.

"The Orchestra"—Responded to by Prof. Denmark, leader.

"Host and Hostess"—Patriarch Hastip responded.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the pleasant proceedings to a close.

LAW VIOLATORS PUNISHED

Game and Fish Inspector Capt Hunter has for the past few days been busy, and in consequence some parties in the city and vicinity of Belleville have been punished. Yesterday Gordon Ross, of Glengarry County, was fined $100 and costs for hunting ducks with a motor boat and acting as a guide without a license. John Pinkerton and Lewis Brown were fined $10 each for illegal fishing in Devil Lake, and Clarence Randolph, Marsh Bigley and Henry Lashley were fined $25 each and costs for illegal fishing in the same lake.

THE AMANS CASE

Judge Deroche Hears Charge Of Theft of Clothing and Money Against Former Clerk.

Before Judge Deroche this morning Thomas Amans was arraigned on a charge of stealing certain articles of clothing and some money from Mr. Bruce Hargrave, clothier of this city. It is alleged that Amans, while employed by the plaintiff, took the articles and also a sum of money. The defendant denied the allegations by pleading not guilty. After some evidence had been taken the case was adjourned until 2 o'clock, and was in progress when we went to press. Mr. Anderson represented the Crown and Mr. Carnew appeared for the accused.

A HIGH HONOR

Mr. Fred Millard only Canadian Window Dresser To Receive Honorable Mention.

Mr. Fred Millard, of this city who is an employee of the Ricker Company, has received honorable mention in regard to window dressing by the Merchant Record and Retail Window Journal. This speaks volumes for Mr. Millard's ability as a window dresser, especially so when it is considered that there were some 2,000 competitors, and he was the only Canadian mentioned.

PLANS OF C. P. R.

A Line From Peterboro May Pass Through Kingston.

A Toronto despatch to the press, discussing the present construction activity of the C.P.R., along its line from Smith's Falls to Toronto, concludes as follows: "So far the company has not made any statement regarding its plans, but, in view of this activity, it is considered probable in railroad circles that the C.P.R. will abandon temporarily its avowed intention of constructing a branch line between Kingston and Toronto, via Belleville. If this is resolved on, the line from Victoria Harbor to Peterboro, now under construction, will be extended through to Kingston, and there on to Brockville."

NOTHING IN REPORT

A rumor has been circulated at Lindsay and other places to the effect that Rev. Father Michael Spratt, of Belleville, has been appointed Archbishop of Kingston to succeed His Grace, Archbishop Gauthier. The Lindsay Post says there is no foundation for the rumor that Father Spratt has received the appointment.—King-ston Standard.

Rev. Father Spratt, when seen by a reporter last Saturday morning, concerning the matter, stated that there was absolutely nothing in the report.

"Ee-Loyalty" Once More

Such is the blank dented by the Toronto Globe, organ of the Laurier party, at those who dare to utter a word against his shd his friends' declarations in favor of Canada's independence and separation from the Empire.

There is something deeper in the minds of those who oppose such a policy than "lip loyalty."

Was it "lip loyalty" that led the U. E. Loyalists to abandon home and property, and rush to Canada, at the time of the Revolution, and seek a home in, at that time, the wilderness of Canada?

Was it "lip loyalty" that animated the men of Canada in 1812 to join Brock and fight the battle of Queenston Heights, when, as Brock stated in his despatches, his danger was more from the traitor within the country than from the enemies from without?

Just such men existed then as now, whose delight was to sneer at those who, in time of need, proved their loyalty to Crown and country.

Was the battle of Chateauguay, under the generalship of Desalberry, won by "lip loyalty"? Certainly not by those who sneer at a profession of loyalty.

Was it lip loyalty that actuated the volunteers who turned out and took their lives in their hands in 1838-7-8 to put down rebellion?

Was it "lip loyalty" that sent thousands to the front in 1866 to meet a horde of Fenian ruffians, who invaded our land both in Ontario and Quebec? The monument in Queen's Park, Toronto, erected in memory of those who fell in the battle at Ridgeway answers the question.

Was it lip loyalty that induced thousands of the flower of our country to go to Manitoba and the North West upon two occasions to quell the Reil insurrection? Look at the monument on Major Hill, Ottawa, erected in memory of the Ottawa boys who fell at Batoche.

Was it "lip loyalty" for Sir Charles Tupper, when leading the Conservative party to pledge the support of that party to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in any and all steps he might take to organize and send troops to South Africa to assist Great Britain in her struggle with the Boers, who were in rebellion seeking independence from the mother country?

Was it "lip loyalty" that suggested to Lord Strathcona the raising of a mounted corps of 600 Northwesterners, at his own expense, and sending them to South Africa to fight in defence of the unity of the Empire?

Was it lip loyalty that led Sir Henry Pellatt, at his own expense, to equip a contingent to England from his regiment in honor of the late King Edward when crowned?

Was it "lip loyalty" that led to the sending to England this summer of the regiment of which he is Colonel, at his own personal expense, to prove to the mother country Canada's devotion to the Empire?

If not please and gratify those of the Laurier contingent, who are advocating independence and bellowing about Dominion autonomy in times of trouble and danger, to sneer at those who voluntarily offer their lives in defence of the Empire as "lip loyalists," but the heart of the country, when appealed to, will, as in the past, respond to the call of duty.

HERE'S STORY OF NEW ONE BY ELINOR GLYN

"His Hour" Deals With Russian Prince And A Ravishing Beauty--Perfectly Gentlemanly Hero In Silk Pajamas and Bare Feet.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Elinor Glyn's time is shortening. Not so long ago it was "Three Weeks." Now it is "His Hour," which is all only one way of saying Mrs. Glyn has just perpetrated another novel. The title is "His Hour." It is a very subtle title. The most astute reader could not fathom its connection with the story. However, why split hairs with a lady who is such an expert at the more difficult pastime of splitting infinitives?

It was this way:

"The Sphinx was smiling its eternal smile. It was 2 o'clock in the morning. She was alone—alone with her thought and the Sphinx.

"The strange, mystical face looked straight at her from the elevation where she sat. Its sensual, mocking calm penetrated her brain."

Here we have precious words, for in them is the sole intimation of the volume that Tamara, the heroine, did, indeed, have brains.

"But the Sphinx was talking to Tamara in the voice of a young man, who without a word of warning had risen from a bank of sand where he had been stretched motionless and unperceived.

"'I often come back at night,' he said, 'when those devils of tourists have gone back in their devil of a tramway. Then you get her alone, and she says things to you. You think so, too, eh?'"

From these opening words one might too hastily conclude that it was a manufacturer of cloaks and suits. Such purity he is none other than the Prince Nicholas Miliakoff. Mrs. Glyn assures us his name "fell pleasantly on Tamara's ears." Each to his own taste. Mrs. Glyn, however, would object to things like that falling on their ears.

PRINCE IN BARE FEET.

But he was a trifle rough, not to say raw, was this Prince Gritzko. He was dressed in white pajamas, blue and white striped silk pajamas, with his feet "actually bare," and read "Omar Khayyam" and "Pelleas" nightly with his champagne, which sounds heady. Once he rode his horse into the dining-room and up the stairs. For this Tamara "ventured a gentle rebuke. But—

"He drew himself up again, as if she had hit him, and the pain in his eyes turned to fear.

"'I allow no one to criticize my conduct,' he said. 'If it amused me to ride a horse through a hotel and it eat you up, I would not hesitate.'"

From this you can see he was quite a fine fellow. He had "black hair" and "velvet eyelids" and "chiselled lips." This sounds like the description of the purple sea, until you learn "he also had things Gritzko was a gentleman."

DEMOCRATS VICTORIOUS

Dix Captures The State of New York By Good Sized Plurality--Foss Elected In Massachusetts

New York, Nov. 9.—Elections held throughout the United States yesterday resulted in a political overturn of far-reaching in extent, similar at many points to the famous tidal wave of 1892, and apparently more widespread in its effect.

The indications are that the nationalities of governors-elect had been carried by the Democrats, reversing the political complexion of 31 states.

The United States Senate will probably be so reduced Republican majority as a result of legislative elections held in many states.

In New York State John A. Dix, Democratic candidate for governor, is elected over Henry L. Stimson, Republican, by a plurality of about 55,000, reversing the Republican plurality of 70,000 in 1908 for Gov. Hughes.

In New Jersey Woodrow Wilson, Democratic candidate for governor, is elected over Vivian M. Lewis, Republican, by about 15,000, plurality reversing the previous Republican plurality of 8,000 for Gov. Fort.

In Massachusetts Eugene M. Foss Democratic candidate, has defeated Gov. Eben S. Draper, Republican candidate for re-election, by about 20,000 plurality.

In Connecticut, Judge S. E. Baldwin, Democratic candidate, is elected governor over Charles A. Goodwin, Republican, by a plurality of about 40,000.

In Ohio, Gov. Judson Harmon, Democratic candidate for re-election, appears to have carried the state.

Returns 13,000 with Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate.

In New Hampshire, Robert P. Bass, Republican candidate for governor, is leading Charles E. Carr, Democratic candidate, by about 6,000 plurality.

In Pennsylvania, the election of John K. Tener, Republican candidate for governor, is claimed by a large plurality.

In Rhode Island Gov. Pothier, Republican candidate for re-election, is slightly in the lead over Lieut. Waterman, Democrat, with a plurality much reduced from that of 1908.

In Tennessee, the fusion candidate, M. W. Hooper, is apparently elected by 10,000 majority.

Democratic governors have been elected in Alabama and South Carolina.

In Iowa, the Democrats claim the election of Claude S. Porter for governor, but this is not yet conceded.

In Wisconsin, the election of the Republican candidate for governor, Frances C. McGovern, is claimed by a reduced majority, and the return of Senator Lenroot to the House is assured.

In Michigan, Chase S. Osborne, the Republican candidate for governor, appears to have a safe lead over L. T. Hemans, Democrat.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—It is now well assured that the Democrats has gained control of the House of Representatives.

The known gains by Democrats are in Connecticut, one in Kentucky, two in Maryland, one in Massachusetts, three in New York, and one in North Carolina, or a total of nine.

This is however, by a gain by the Republicans of one congressional district in Pennsylvania and one in New York.

Returns indicated that the Democrats would probably gain three or four seats in Missouri, three in Iowa, one in North Carolina and five or six in Illinois, or enough to assure them a net gain of 32, now necessary for Democratic control of the House.

Might Have Been Arrested.

New York, Nov. 9.—United States Attorney-General J. G. Wickersham narrowly escaped arrest and arraignment in a police court yesterday.

Through either the ignorance or oversight of someone connected with the registry verification system, the law granting federal employes the right to vote from their last place of residence, no matter how long they have been absent, was ignored, and because Mr. Wickersham was not found at the number, 36 East Fifty-First street, where he lived before he went to Washington, he was informally placed on the challenge list, and a policeman looked for him.

Remedies are Needed

When we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have grown on from the early age, through generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and indigestion, the only sensible, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is purely compounded, extracted from native roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Side, other symptoms of Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the signature

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition; not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

Ship Was Afire.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Wireless messages were picked up at various points along the coast Monday night from the steamer Falcon of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Co., stating that the boat was afire, and asking for aid.

The Mare Island station received a message early yesterday morning that the Falcon had left the distress signals at 9.30 o'clock, while off the Columbia River bar. The fire was put out, it was reported shortly after midnight, after the tug Snohomish had gone to her assistance, and the steamer proceeded on her way to Astoria, Oregon.

Will Arrest Indians.

Vancouver, Nov. 9.—As a result of the inquest on the body of William Bernard, a half-breed, which was pulled out of the Fraser River at Ewing's Cannery, the arrest of several Indians is expected. The jury brought in a verdict that deceased met death by foul play. Bernard was last seen alive on the night of Sept. 20. He was in a fight with some Indians. The police found blood on the wharf and saw the Indians sailing away in a boat.

Favors Arbitration.

Paris, Nov. 9.—Arbitration as the preventative of strikes is the position of the new French Government, as outlined yesterday to the Chamber of Deputies, by Premier Briand.

Briand's declaration that the Government questioned the right of public service employes to tie up the business of the nation do win their points was greeted with hisses by some of the Socialists and strike sympathizers.

Fatal Collision.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 9.—In a collision between a Rock Island passenger and a Santa Fe work train, three miles south of here yesterday, A. Wilson of Kingfisher, the Rock Island engineer, was killed, and eight passengers were injured, none fatally. R. Williamson, the Rock Island fireman, was probably fatally hurt. Several other trainmen were injured.

Illegal Trapping.

Lindsay, Nov. 9.—Game Warden Toole of Omemee caught two residents of Emily Township, a farmer and an Indian, trapping muskrat. The traps were confiscated and the law-breakers fined $25.

HINTS TO THE WISE

Colored Nottingham Curtains Are Now This Season.

THE KNACK OF LOOKING NEAT

Effie Tower Turbans Hobnob With Dames in Shepherdess Shawls—Smart Millinery—Brims Faced With Brilliant Coloring a Becoming Conceit.

Dear Elsa—Woe is me! All my lace window curtains have taken unto themselves in the last laundering the most prodigious rents and tears—those unmendable ones that no amount of skill can save from the passerby's observation. In the face of this affliction I recently mustered courage to see the new window draperies which a certain big shop here in New York makes a specialty of carrying. Now you are going to get the benefit of that morning's inspection. And that you will profit thereby is a foregone conclusion, as you have a decided penchant for a yearly change of window draperies.

The new thing in inexpensive lace curtains I found to be colored Nottingham. This drapery comes in one or two tones, such as golden tan on black and brown on pale tan. When one desires the effect of warmth without weight or to shut out daylight these colored Nottinghams are excellent. I immediately thought of your brown and tan dining room and how well one of the draperys would look at the casement windows.

What say you, my dear?

Bobbinet curtains will be used a great deal for dining rooms, libraries, bedrooms and parlors, different styles being chosen to suit the rooms. For bedroom I saw very fine examples of bobbinet trimmed with renaissance as the wider of the net and the cluny lace is newer than the renaissance. A group of four different designs struck me as being wonderfully good value for the money. The first was of net bemmed and edged with narrow cluny lace and trimmed within the hem with a broad band of cluny insertion. The second was of fine bobbinet adorned like the cluny design, and a pair of Marie Antoinettes, really very artistic, displayed a lovely pattern in applique.

The last was a renaissance lace curtain with a beautiful inset within the hem of the lace on net of an excellent quality. A narrow lace edging on the hem gave a very dainty finish. All these curtains were only $3 a pair. Colored curtains such as the bobbinet madras will not be much used. This fabric is always more in demand as a summer window drapery, and people prefer buying it by the yard rather than by the pair.

But stenciled effects are awfully good curtain form. And the designs for a curtain for a reception room were of the finest ivory scrim, reaching only to the sash. Down one side and across the bottom was a foot band of inset fillet net, on which was appliqued a cut-out design of pink roses in crewels. Along the fine fillet border to the curtain proper was an old world looking cream colored cluny, and outlining the entire curtain was an edging of the same pattern. The curtains were cheap at $12.75 a pair, but one could have them for a deep less if one didn't mind the stenciling, which wouldn't be so very great, after all.

The Knack of Looking Neat.

"A woman can at least look neat and tidy." This remark is about as easy to carry out offhimes as that of the chatty visitor who insisted that her slum tenants could at least use plenty of soap and water. How can the poor creature keep herself neat who is running water on only one floor of a seven story flathouse and about a hundred tenants to draw from the same supply? The model tenements? Yes, dear, but I am not speaking about them, for they are too few and too minority to serve as an example. Well, to get back to neatness, how can the average woman without a maid or a bookworm of a husband or relative make the best of her sex look tidy? In other words, how can she always

When boiling milk for a custard powder, sprinkle the bottom of the saucepan with sugar; this dissolves the first layer, and prevents the rest of the milk from burning, no matter how long it boils. It applies to any sweetened dish that requires boiling.

Be sure that the stock is making continuously.

Some women, however, have the knack of always looking tidy about the neck. You have, my dear, but oh well, I took a few lessons from Dora. My recent efforts have been delightful and that one of the most unfailing ways of managing the delectable collar of lace or muslin is to wear a ribbon at the back of the neckband which matches the button that fastens the collar and the ribbon bobbles at the lower corner of the collar. The collar by this means is held firmly without pinning. There should be a stay at the collar back and those supporters that by tiny bent prongs are always ready and require no sewing. The prongs, being only the size of a fine pin, do not tear the material, and the collar rides much better if it has no bone casing or a stitched in device.

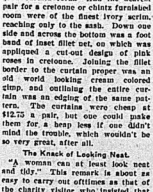
In connection with neck linings, here is a good idea for a stunning collar and cuff set. They give the smart touch to a costume that's well groomed woman always has. I've sketched them for you, and they are of black silk set with detachable rimmings of finely plaited white lawn. Such a set is just the thing to freshen up a passé frock, and I hope the picture will give you some idea of the picturesque possibilities of these effective accessories.

The New Millinery.

Of course you want to know about the new hats I've bought—two perfect stunners, one for here and the other for knockabout. The creation that almost designed my pocketbook is a shepherdess shaped affair with a broad, slightly drooping brim and a huge though moderate crown. The puffed crown is of black velvet—in fact, the whole outside of the shape is of black velvet—and the trimming consists of two full fiued ostrich feathers in shaded tones of burgundy arranged in tower style effect directly in front. Under the standing brim is an underbrim of of changeable taffeta silk in tones of wine red and champagne, and this rosy silk casts a very becoming glow on the face of young fruity. These effects are the smart note of the season's millinery and are put in either cerise or wine colored.

My all round hat is a turban almost as high as the celebrated Eiffel tower or the Singer building here in New York, which is more than forty stories high, so you can be sure that the turban is a skyscraper. It is covered with snuff brown serge. Piece left over from your suit? No, handsome serge, cashmere and wool materials this winter go into the fashioning of hats. The deep brim faced with black velvet turns sharply back on the high crown. Strips of braid in tones of deep cream, clet blue and black pass across the top of the crown and are caught down over the velvet facing with an ornament of braid.

Now, farewell, a long farewell, to you and the fashions. Sincerely yours, MABEL.



New York.

Too Useful to Throw Away.

Almost everything has its uses, even frayed silk petticoats and stockings that are past wearing. The latter make good floor mops. For the purpose three or four of them should be rolled into a compact bolster and sewed securely. Odd silk handkerchiefs and squares from discarded silk petticoats make the best kind of dusters. Tray cloths and doilies which have become too shabby for the table should be kept for polishing glass. The unworn portions of old tablecloths, cut into squares and bemmed, can be used for wrapping up bread and cake. For wash cloths nothing is better than the worsted parts of worsted knitted underwear cut in symmetrical pieces and hemmed. And in sickness pieces of old sheets and of flannel garments are invaluable.

A Re-enforced Stocking.

A stocking that fills a long felt want among small boys, scrubwomen and other persons who spend a great deal of time on their knees is that designed by a woman. This stocking is made with a transversely ribbed gore on the knee that will stand many times the amount of wear and tear that the knee of an ordinary stocking will.

THE RIBBED KNEECAP.

above the cuff the stocking is ribbed longitudinally, while the gore portion is ribbed crosswise and is made of heavier material, more closely knit. The small boy who will go through an ordinary stocking the first time he puts it on can travel around and climb trees in this kind for many a day before the knee gives way. Even then a new piece can be set in and the sock look and feel much better than patches. For wrestling women who have to go on their knees, as in scrubbing floors and the like, stockings of this design will be found not only economical, but comfortable.

The Curse of Red Hair.

Even Titian did not succeed in removing the curse from red hair, for it is variously accused of causing anything from a temper to freckles. And now comes an English scientist who is trying to blame it for shortness of memory. By a system of statistics he has shown he has figured that among boys and girls at the age of fourteen the shortest invariably have red hair. Among girls those with black and blond hair take first place in height, and among boys the light-browns are easy winners. The figures look conclusive, but those who do not like them may resort to the same trick that all children use when watered stock.

THE UNREST IN EGYPT

THE PEOPLE WOULD BE SORRY TO SEE BRITISH LEAVE

Writer In Daily Mail Says That Despite the Cries of the Nationalists Justice and Order Would Be Involved in Chaos If the Guiding Hand Were Removed From the Khedive and His Ministers.

"Egypt," said Napoleon, "is the most important country in the world." Without exaggeration we can declare that for Britain it is still so to-day. Lord Palmerston once remarked, in private, that if ever the Suez Canal be made, England will be compelled to annex Egypt."

In course of time the Suez Canal was made. Yet England did not annex Egypt. She have done it then would have meant war with Turkey and France. To do so now might mean war with Turkey and Germany. British diplomacy, however, stumbled upon a means to safeguard her interests without making any apparent change.

Actually we altered everything, but we kept the old names, a peculiarly British method which left on the whole unnerved well. Nominally the Khedive and his Ministers govern. In effect their British advisers do so. There used to be some difference of opinion as to whether this had benefited the country. There is none now. Foreign observers agree that there is better order, better justice, greater prosperity, a far more efficient army, an immeasurably more competent system of finance. Even the Nationalists who would send us packing admit that we have set things straight for them. No one dependent on agriculture wants to see the British irrigation engineers leave. The peasantry would never put the same trust in native officials as they do in those of British blood. "Send an English inspector," is always the request to the Ministry of the Interior when there is any trouble in the provinces. No one engaged in business would go to law with confidence after the departure of British judges. Yet the Independence Party becomes more and more active. Their newspapers are allowed to attack us violently and without the smallest regard to truth. Egyptian officials are encouraged to think that they can get along without British help. The impression that "the English are going," gains ground every day.

Now, let us suppose that Egypt were handed over to the Nationalists next year. What would happen? In the first place there would be a tremendous outcry from the great majority of substantiality all over the country. For although most Egyptians, especially all Egyptians, look forward to a time when they will be left to themselves, they would be very sorry to see us go at once. The Constitutional Party, for example, which has been started by Idris Bey Ragheb, will be quite content for many years to draw up paper Constitutions on the best models, and nobody would alarm them more than to hear that one of their amiable exercises was going to be tried. In fact, most Egyptians are but platonically in love with independence.

How would the Coptic Christians feel confidence in a Government dominated by one whose organ, Al Liwa, addressed them thus less than two years ago:

"You should be kicked to death. You have faces and bodies similar to those of swine or monkeys which is a proof that they hide poisonous spirits which lead to Hell."

How could men of business have confidence in those who set themselves against the Suez Canal agreement upon commercial grounds? How could Europe trust a Parliament which acted as the present General Assembly does? The picturesqueness this body (which has merely consultative powers) already easily ahead of all other Parliaments. Its eighty members are chosen with the same sweep in with that air of worldmasters which the Arabs have never lost since they left Europe—and which alone among peoples they share with the British race. Their black outer robes reveal beneath garments of rich silk known as blue striped silk. Their turbans are white, when over skull caps with blue tassels. Some of the older ones keep to the traditional red or yellow boots and shoes. They are tall and dignified, yet merry among themselves.

When I attended one of their sittings I was asked into an anteroom before the proceedings began and introduced to several over cups of coffee and glasses of water and cigarettes, the invariable accompaniments to visits, official or otherwise, in Egypt. Their manners were magnificent and their greetings friendly. Arabic, our conversation was limited. Then left a definite impression upon me than the members wear European clothes with turbashes on their heads, though among the latter, too, there are a few strong, clever faces, such as that of Abaza Pasha, with whom I had an interesting little talk in French.

The president seemed timid and altogether of too weak a personality to guide such a turbulent team. There was a curious little scene, illustrating the Assembly's state of mind, when the president proposed to have the report of the Commission on the Suez Canal proposals printed for distribution among members. Instantly there was an uproar. He was accused of trying to deprive them of their rights, which included deciding what documents shall be printed and when. He explained that his object was merely to give everyone the opportunity to study it as soon as possible. But his zeal aroused suspicion. The deputies believed that the report to be printed until it was too late. Harry Hamilton Fyfe in The London Daily Mail.

GOLD MINES OF IRELAND.

County Wicklow Had a Rush in 1795 But Government Took It.

Ireland is certainly not the "poor distressful country" some people would like one to believe. The fact that it possesses gold mines (although they are not worked to-day) is proof to the contrary. These mines are situated in Wicklow. According to tradition, the Wicklow gold mines were first discovered by a poor schoolmaster. One day, while fishing in one of the streams which flow through the glen, or than Mountaine, he picked up a piece of shining metal. Ascertaining that it was gold, he gradually enriched himself by washing gold from various streams in the neighborhood and disposing of what he found to a Dublin goldsmith. He kept his secret to himself for twenty years, but having married, he told his wife, and she, believing that he was mad, told her relatives, who soon made it public. O'Keefe has founded an amusing romance upon the incident.

When the story of the gold mine became public, about the close of 1795, a "gold rush" occurred. People from all over age and sex hurried to the glen. Even the bishop of Wicklow could yield a spade to the child who scraped up the surface of the soil. Such was the excitement that the government had placed a guard upon the mines, and on a Sunday morning, after it had rained, and that they brought back gold to the value of twenty guineas.

During the interval between the publication of the circumstance and the Government taking possession of the mines, Lieutenant Lefroy, who collected the sands of 2,500 ounces of gold was collected from the streams. Subsequently the mud and sand of Ballinvalley were washed, and the gold obtained was $50,000. This sum greatly exceeded the produce of the mine under Government control. The gold produced amounted to little more than $17,500. The gold was found in pieces of all sizes, from the smallest particle to a piece of twenty-two ounces, which was sold for about eighty guineas. A cast of a gift, in commemoration of the museum of Trinity College, Dublin. So pure was the gold generally found that the assay masters of the Dublin goldsmiths to pattern coin into the operation, that, add to five weight for weight.

Sports in England.

A diversion little followed in America now, but which still holds its own in England, is the walking or bicycling race. England is not a country given to sudden crazes in the matter of sports. There are reasons, of course, in which some game like ping-pong or the bicycle comes to the front for the moment and is then as suddenly dropped. But, on the whole, it may be conceded that the average people in England remains so. Bicycling is one to the point.

More cycles are being sold in England than ever before, and bicycling is as fashionable as they once were, and the days when the Duke of Portland Park competed with riding in Rotten Row have long gone by. But as a vehicle of locomotion the cycle still predominates, and the whole country is a network of cycling clubs whose members organize successive tours of fortnight or three weeks throughout the summer months.

The English sports have always been great pedestrians, and many thousands of these have also distinguished in tramping the Welsh hills or the lake district or Devonshire or some other of their favorite counties—and that in England offer one a combination of beauty, historical interest, scenery, and historic associations. Touring by carriage is the height of expensive, but is still not uncommon, while the number who go on foot—and that it knocks all other forms of holiday making on the head. And besides all this there are the long lines waiting for those who can afford them, as well as the cricket matches, the contests of golf links, its tennis courts, and the cricket clubs.

A Great Player.

Sir Walter Parratt had an extraordinary memory. Some eight or ten years ago I remember his telling me one of the lodges attached to St. Michael's College, Tenbury, where Sir Walter Parratt and Herr von Holst played in turn upon the piano and organ, as was asked for. This went on for some time until at last the chessboard was brought out. Sir Walter then proposed to play two men at chess in combination with the playing on the piano and playing from memory what his opponents played. Herr von Holst, Beethoven, Mozart, Chopin or Mendelssohn. Without even a glance at the chessboard he won the game in an hour.—London Globe.

Royal Diana's Book of Adventure.

The Duchess of Bedford, among the lively and adventurous Duchess of Argyle, has in the press an English volume describing her recent African hunting expedition in the Congo forests.

The duchess spent nearly a year in the wilds, accompanied only by a husband and a nigger servant. She reaped a rich harvest of big game, and twenty big cases of trophies of the chase, and numerous photographic pictures of wild beasts in their native haunts. Her book will be a revelation to many interested in wild life. It certainly creates an enormous amount of curiosity in advance.

GROWTH OF JOHANNESBURG.

South African Town Has Grown a Hundredfold.

Twenty-two years ago Johannesburg was an isolated town, but not more than 5,000 inhabitants. To-day it is a city with an estimated population of more than 100,000, and a colored population of upward of 200,000, while the immediate surrounding district within a radius of 20 miles of the city has fully as many more people within its boundaries.

Here we have gathered within a few miles a total of 400,000 persons, where a quarter of a century ago, there was not one per cent. of that number.

Here we have established, within that brief period, well in the interior of Africa, a community that sends to the outside world each year, $150,000,000 in new gold, to vivify, stimulate and sustain the financial and commercial operations of every continent.

One third of the entire sum of gold produced annually from the earth comes from the 60 miles of gold reef formation which encircles Johannesburg.

This suddenly created city supplies London every Monday with an average of $3,000,000 value in new gold, and the lowest money charges of Paris, Berlin, New York and London itself note with intense interest the movements and distribution of this contribution from what was but a few years ago a wilderness.

Fifty years, it is predicted, will have carried this city to a position of great stream of gold from Johannesburg, and within that city is doing as much for the business of itself and every other portion, rural and urban, of the land, as gold, the source of production, it is doing very much towards the development of the region in which it is situated.

Theatres, hotels, stores, public and private buildings of the latest designs and the finest workmanship are constructed at Johannesburg, and no place on earth has so much ready cash to pay for what it desires as it needed.

Europe and America have been called upon to furnish them more than 1,000 automobiles, and to traverse the city streets and run through the mining district.

Gas companies and electric light companies are doing their full share in lighting up the dark continent, and the orders for mining machinery for the Great Rand, as Germany and the United States have amounted to millions of dollars in the past twelve months, and its construction has given work to thousands of mechanics in each of the nations named.

Here is a community, a metropolitan city, which is largely dependent upon Europe and America for all it uses in the way of merchandise, and which consumes millions of dollars' worth every year of the manufactured products of the civilized world.

Twenty years from now Africa will have as many millionaires as Europe as great as Johannesburg in their distribution of the outputs of its mills and shops and factories, for Johannesburg, in Africa, is but one frontier city of the civilization that is sure to reach the very heart of that continent.

The Oldest Lieutenant.

The Earl of Ducie, now that Lord Spencer is no more, becomes the oldest living lieutenant-colonel. A King is on that capacity for Gloucester Militia, and he is also the doyen of the Privy Councillors, joining their number the day before the Queen's other three sovereigns. It is curious to encounter the fact that Lord Ducie was appointed lord-lieutenant by Palmerston and to run over the list of premiers who have come and gone since that remote time.

The Ducie family traces their descent to Robert Dulcie, one time Sheriff of London, who was a baronet in 1628, and who, two years after, was Lord Mayor of London. He was the favorite banker of King Charles I., to whom he had the honor of lending £60,000, which, he said to record, he had to wipe out as a bad debt, for he never got a penny of it.

Nevertheless, he succeeded in leaving £300,000 to his son who followed him in the baronetcy. This son became Viscount Downe at the coronation of Charles II., but, as he died without issue, his wealth went to the family married a Moreton of Moreton, and whose son was the first Earl Ducie.

Lord Ducie spends most of his time at his beautiful Gloucestershire place, Tortworth Court. It is a modern house, built by his father, but stands in a great park, which contains an imposing Spanish chestnut tree, which is said to revive feet in diameter. It was considered a venerable tree in the days of Cromwell, the usurper, was King of England.

The Doctor's Bad Memory.

This story is told of Dr. Pirrie, the great Scottish surgeon, in "Recollections of Fifty Years":

"My dear madam, I have done nothing but think over your case. I could not get a wink of sleep the last night for thinking of you."

Everybody accepted it as a "gospel truth," and after some professional questions and examinations Dr. Pirrie remarked:

"Was it not a dreadful thunderstorm last night, Dr. Pirrie?"

"Eh? I am told," he naively answered, "but I'm such a sound sleeper that I didna hear a clap o't!"

Governed by Ancestors.

The Chamber of South Africa believes that their ancestors, whose wishes are interpreted by the sorcerers, direct the course of their every act. People. They find surprises, too, in the flight of birds, the croaking of frogs, the hawk and the eagle, the writhing of the serpent, the lizard, the ant, and the changing colors of the chameleon. The barking or actions of dogs are omens and even the circumstance of a pest of flies. If a native shudders inexplicably the act is regarded as an ominous misfortune is about to befall him.

KIPLING AS A SCHOOLBOY.

Interesting Recollections of a Queer Little Undersized Lad."

Schoolboy memories of a queer little lad who afterwards was Rudyard Kipling were told in Chicago the other day by Capt. Arthur St. John, retired officer of the English army and world traveler, and leader in the movement for reforming English prisons. Capt. St. John is in the United States as a delegate to the National Prison Association and Prison Congress in Washington.

It was in 1878 or 1879 that I first met Kipling," said Capt. St. John, "and was then in the upper forms of the United Services College, Westward Ho! which is on the north Devon coast. A queer little, undersized boy he was then, perhaps 13 years old. I remember him distinctly because of his cleverness as a writer of verse, and also because he was always getting into scrapes. Kipling was always handy with the pen, but unfortunately for him, his words were also as the 'little fallow' knew the meaning of long words. He would write little information if you asked him what the words meant; he was afraid of being jollied. For all that, he was not a chap who could care for his own rights very well.

"I remember particularly that the older boys would order the lad to eat worms or dirt or something as delicate. He would pretend to obey and would go through the motions of eating the worm assigned to him. I don't know whether he did it or not. The older boys know him also as 'the little fallow' who could be sent to bed without any supper. For all that, he was not a chap who could care for his own rights very well.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

OLD LADY ASPHYXIATED.

Toronto Woman Is Dead and Her Husband Unconscious.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—When Dr. Herbert Chatterbuck, Clinton street, was called to Joseph Nailer's home at 55 Jersey avenue, last night, he found Mrs. Nailer lying dead across the kitchen doorway at the back of a long hall-way. The old man was sitting unconscious in a chair in the dining-room of the cottage, gasping for breath. The physician had been summoned by a grandson, who said that he had gone into the house to see the old couple, and found them helpless. Dr. Chatterbuck ordered the man to be removed to the Western Hospital, and notified Chief Coroner Johnson of the death of the woman.

Coroner J. M. Gelton was appointed, and after an investigation last night, decided that death was due partly to poisoning by coal gas, but that an inquest should be held.

When Dr. Chatterbuck arrived, the lights in the house were lit and the stove in the front room was burning cheerily. Neighbors had seen the old couple at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when they appeared in perfect health. The dead woman was 74 years and her husband 57 years of age.

The man is in a serious condition in the Western Hospital. He is a retired carpenter and builder, and is comfortably off.

Double Drowning in Nova Scotia.

Halifax, Nov. 9.—A double drowning accident occurred last night at Seville Monday night. Geo. Dorsay and Everett Allen left Francaville for Port Greville Monday afternoon with a boat and raft of pilings. Yesterday morning the body of Dorsay was found at the mouth of Rainbow River, near his boat, overturned and broken boat, but Allen's body has not been recovered.

Friday, the body was scattered along the shore above Fraserville, and it is supposed that when the raft broke up the men tried to reach Port Greville, and that their boat struck a sandbar, and they were thrown overboard. Dorsay, who was a strong swimmer, reached shore, but was swept away by the strong current.

Dorsay was married, and Dorsay leaves a family.

A Great Country.

Edmonton, Nov. 9.—That 260 miles of railway into the northern country is open to civilization more than 2,000 miles of river and lake navigable for navigation by large steamers, is the statement of A. He'd Learned the Trick.

A group of young women connected with a certain popular church in a Georgetown has recently been installed as assistant deaconesses attending a meeting at which he officiated. He had great success with the heiress, whom he handled so' gently and effectively that the girls stopped in at the old pastor's office to the church afterward and chatted away about it.

"Oh, he had to practice a lot with a dummy baby before he got to doing the trick of holding the kid comfortably," they were told. "In the divinity school where he studied the students had to practice with a rag baby to long clothes, and he was by far our new assistant got to be so perfect."

Pineapple Marmalade.

Fresh pineapple marmalade is delicious with crisp toast. Have you ever tried making this for tempting use from the portions of pineapple not used when served as a fruit course?

Stew it, having carefully removed eyes and grated it until tender. Then add a pound of sugar to every pint of fruit and boil until it jellies slightly. Test in a saucer. To set quickly keep boiling is needed, and the flavor is more delicious.

More Chauffeurs Out.

New York, Nov. 9.—Shortly yesterday was extended to many more in the strike of express company drivers and helpers, owing to the general disposition of the labor leaders to make sympathetic cause with the strike question until after election. Unexpected interest was injected into the sympathetic movement in aid of the striking teamsters by the announcement that 1,000 additional taxicab chauffeurs had joined the strike. The men, according to General Secretary Forster of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, a total of 4,000 chauffeurs on strike, despite the fact that 900 taxicabs, the property of the most part by smaller companies, which had made separate settlements with their men, went back to work yesterday.

Turning the Tables.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—Allegations have been made by the Dilcra gang against Hull, on account of accusations of allowing gambling. Chief Marcen of Hull, an old Ottawa policeman, comes back by saying: "The authorities consider that in closing down everything possible to elevate the morals of the city, and do away with many existing evils. There is plenty of scope for gambling in Ottawa, where poolrooms in pool rooms and in regular gambling houses is a frequent occurrence. Further, a Hull man is prepared to take the bets five of these gambling machines, which are placed for quarters, routed to different parties in the capital."

Procedure at Coronation.

London, Nov. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At a meeting of ministers on Jan. 22, the Canadian Associated Press understands that as to the procedure at the coronation of King will adhere to precedent. There will be no dispensation with the exact letter of the historic characteristics by adding courtesy or military displays. The only possible alteration to the program will arise should any especially expressed desire from the overseas dominions to be more comprehensively represented.

No Car Strike.

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—At three o'clock yesterday afternoon it was announced that the "arbitrators had reached an agreement on the reinstatement of "loyal men," which has caused friction between the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. and its union men. It is stated that the agreement will satisfy both sides, and will talk of a strike.

Hotel Changes Hands.

Massey, Nov. 9.—The Clifton House here, of which Mr. Neil Brown has been proprietor for many years, is about to change hands. Mr. Brown now has the Gladstone House in Gladstone. Mr. Charles Brown, at present manager of the King Edward Hotel at Sudbury, takes control of the Clifton House on the 15th of this month.

A.D.C. to the King.

Quebec, Nov. 9.—A former Quebecker, Lieut.-Col. Charles M. Dobell, son of the late Hon. R. M. Dobell, has been appointed an A.D.C. to His Majesty the King, and promoted to the rank of colonel.

Halifax, Nov. 9.—Rev. Dr. Maginnis, pastor of the Castor Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, has accepted a call to Park street church, this city.

Died In India.

Belleville, Nov. 9.—Word has been received here of the death of Gen. H. Warrington, which occurred at Singapore, India. Deceased was at one time a resident of this city, and a member of the firm of Warrington & Son, prominent cheese exporters of this country.

Shot White Moose.

St. Thomas, Nov. 9.—Charles McCorkell, who, with a party of St. Thomas sportsmen, returned from northern Ontario Monday, brought back a white moose, shot by him. It is believed it was the second or third ever shot in Ontario.

PLANK FELL ON HIM

HAMILTON MAN BADLY INJURED.

Reuben Atherton, of 367 Ferguson Ave., Hamilton, an employee of the Otis Elevator Co., sustained serious injury while at work. A plank fell from a height on his right foot, crushing it badly. He was taken home, where Zam-Buk was applied with good result.

Telling his experience of the balm, he said: "After the doctor had dressed the damaged foot with some preparation of his own I was in great pain, and as day after day I seemed to get no relief I left off medical treatment and tried Zam-Buk. From the first application I noticed an improvement. Zam-Buk really seemed to set like magic, clearing all the unhealthy matter from the wound, drawing out all discoloration, inflammation and soreness, and started healing the parts. In two weeks the foot and foot were well again. Zam-Buk has indeed proved a wonderful healer, and I would not care to be without a box in the house. You can use the balm for ailments in any paper books or publications, as it may benefit some other sufferer to use Zam-Buk, as I have done, as I did."

All sickness should keep Zam-Buk handy. Applied to a cut or wound, it stops the pain, commences healing at once, and—what is usually fine—it prevents any possibility of blood-poisoning. Zam-Buk is equally good for skin diseases, and cures eczema, itch, ulcers, abscesses, varicose ulcers, scalp sores, cracks, chapped hands, frost bites, cures piles and all inflamed conditions of the skin and tissues. Fifty cents a box from all druggists and stores, but avoid imitations and substitutes, many of which are highly dangerous, and none are beneficial.

Charge of Illegal Operation Against Prominent Medical Man Fails Utterly—Judge Sums Up in His Favor and Points Out That Evidence of the Girl Was Unsupported—Doctor Had No Need to Testify.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—Dr. R. E. Hawke was honorably acquitted last evening of a charge of performing an illegal operation on 19-year-old Florence Watson of Orillia. The case was heard by a body of friends when the court adjourned at 8.40 p.m., and several of them rushed different ways for telephones to inform other friends of the verdict. The jury were out 20 minutes, and on their return thanked them for having stayed so late on account of their support. "But," he added, "I think it was better that you should have stayed.

The judge's charge was distinctly in favor of the accused, he laying stress on the fact that Dr. Hawke had very candidly come forward to give evidence when he might have sat back in the dock and refused to say anything against me.

"Dr. Hawke," said his lordship, "frankly admitted having examined the girl, they believed with the story as that told by Florence Watson, and were at liberty of course to convict. "But, do you think that is enough?" asked. Do you think that an eminent medical practitioner would do a thing of this kind for $26, and that without any previous friendship—and would run the risk of imprisonment for life?" You should remember, too, that he had never seen the girl before she ought he examined her."

HEADACHE AND EYESTRAIN.
Continued

I do not need to say to you that there are a large number of people who have a small amount of refractive power, who never suffer from any of the symptoms of eye-strain, and who are in good health, but should they become reduced in health, they will often feel the eye-strain.

Asthenopia from External Ocular Muscles.

Anomalies of the external ocular muscles are also a fruitful cause of eye-strain, and when accompanied by a refractive error are often relieved by the correction of the refractive error alone, or if of larger amount must be treated by graduated exercise or by tenotomy of the offending muscle. Tenotomies have been much in vogue in the past, but have now been largely given up, even by those who were the strongest advocates in former days.

To be continued.

MR. WRIGHTMYER'S REPORT.

Mr. H. D. Wrightmyer, agent of the Society, presented his annual report, which, although voluminous, was full of valuable information. The following is a synopsis of the report:—

No. of calls and visits in interest of children	1518
Personal interviews	353
Letters received	145
Letters sent out	616
No. of complaints received	134
No. of children dealt with	37
No. of court cases	37
No. of children made wards	33
No. of children under Foster Mothers	43
Children allowed to return to their parents, but still under supervision	18
Sent to Mr. Kelso	9
Sent to Victoria Industrial School	1
Sent to Alexandra Industrial School for Girls	3
Sent to Sick Children's Hospital	1
Sent to Home of Incurable Children	1
Children now in Shelter	10

During the year there occurred two deaths in the Shelter, both males of tender years. The agent then read a number of extracts of letters received from parents, children, which, in every case referred to the pleasure it was to receive and take care of neglected children. The most gratifying phase of this work is the visiting of wards in their foster homes. To see their happy faces in wholesome and beneficial surroundings, and contrast their appearance with that on which they had been rescued is truly a reward for the many unpleasant incidents which are encountered in the work.

Our honored President, Mr. Ritchie, has evidenced great practical sympathy with the work, and is in fact indeed to the helpless and dependent little ones of our Shelter. I feel also that I cannot sufficiently thank our genial and kind Secretary, Mr. Scantlebury, for his many kind and invaluable assistance to the agent, his never failing interest and ready advice acting as a stimulant.

The police force to a man has ably seconded our efforts, and the truant officer, Mr. Arnold, has proved a true friend to the Society, ever ready at the agent's need to accompany him on distant and difficult cases.

Rev. A. H. Dymond, in moving the adoption of the report, spoke of the good influence of the Children's Aid Society, which meant the training up of children in the right way to make them good citizens, morally and spiritually.

Rev. R. Wallace seconded the adoption of the report and also referred to the excellent work which the Society was engaged in. Mr. Wrightmyer was a painstaking and efficient agent of the Society. There was every child there is no difficulty in placing them in homes.

REV. R. C. BLAGRAVE.

Rev. R. C. Blagrave said he was delighted to see the interest citizens generally were taking in the Children's Aid Society. It had taken on a new and active aspect. It was a work which was philanthropic and one he was in hearty sympathy with. He was much pleased with the report.

Mr. J. Colling, Principal of the High School, said his heart was in full sympathy with the work of the Society.

The report was unanimously adopted.

Messrs. J. S. Dyer and H. Wrightmyer rendered in a most acceptable manner a duet entitled "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say."

Mr. J. J. Kelso said he was pleased with the success which had attended the efforts of the Belleville Children's Aid Society. The aim of the Society was to awaken the interest of the citizens in child culture. There were seventy Children's Aid Societies in this Province, and he knew that they were accomplishing much good. The great aim of the Society is not to break up a home. This is the last resort. The object of the Society is to improve children whose environments are of a degrading character. It is not always the fault of the parents that children are neglected, but through poverty. The Society endeavors to bring about an uplift in such homes. If the boys and girls are brought up right, we will have a fine country. He hoped all would take an interest in this Society. The importance of the work among neglected children of the country could scarcely be estimated.

At the conclusion of Mr. Kelso's address a number of stereopticon views were presented, showing some of the homes where neglected children are taken from orphanage homes, shelters, etc., and these were explained by C. Kelso.

Some 60 members of the Board of Management were elected and the Board will meet monthly to appoint officers.

After Rev. A. M. Hulbly had said a few words urging support to the Shelter, the meeting was brought to a close.

Can You Ask More?

We are so confident that we can furnish relief for indigestion and dyspepsia that we promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who uses it according to directions who is not perfectly satisfied with the results. We exact no promises and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely nothing could be fairer. Quiet But Exceedingly Pretty Wedding Takes Place At Foxboro.

A quiet but exceedingly pretty wedding took place on Tuesday, Nov. 1st, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Harford Ashley, Foxboro, when his second daughter, Lottie Lee, was united in marriage to Geo. W. Baynor, civil and mining engineer, of Toronto.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Cragg, B.D., pastor of the Methodist church. The bride, who was unattended, wore a very handsome gown of apricot satin trimmed with real lace and pearls.

After a dainty luncheon the bridal party took their automobile to Belleville, thence by train to Toronto, the bride travelling in a suit of mustard shade of broadcloth, with black satin trimmings and furs of Isabella fox. The presents were beautiful, including a cabinet of solid silver from her brothers-in-law and a Persian lamb coat from the groom.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7. — The entries to-day for the New Caliifor Jockey Club, the last of which the California racing season opens at Emeryville track next Saturday, were announced yesterday. There are 201 nominations, making an approximate average of eight to each of the twelve events. Many of the leading jockeys of America have made nominations.

FOOTBALL

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—J. Garland Stahl, better known in baseball circles as "Jake," the Boston-American first baseman, has quit baseball and gone into the banking business.

He has accepted a responsible position with a south side National Bank and to-day will take up his new duties.

His father-in-law has been connected with the institution for several years.

OTTAWA, Nov. 8.—Mr. T. D. Finn, secretary-treasurer of the Inter-provincial Amateur Football Union, was notified on Saturday of the acceptance by the Canadian Rugby Football Union of the challenge of the Big Four champions for the Dominion football championship and the Grey Cup. This challenge must be put in before Oct. 1 next season.

The Canadian Union, now that both championships have been decided, will meet within a few days to arrange the dates. It is expected that the Varsity team will play the winners of the Ontario Union at Rosedale's week from Saturday next, Nov. 19, the winners clashing with the Tigers at Hamilton on Nov. 26, the football season by Dec. 1 will thus be a matter of history. Should Argos obtain a protest against Rosedale it would cause a delay of a week at least.

HOCKEY

OTTAWA, Nov. —Mr. L. N. Bate, vice-president of the Ottawas, gave a denial to-day to the yarn emanating from Montreal, to the effect that the Ottawas had made an offer of $2,500 to Eddie Gerard, the Wanderer centre-spoint.

"There is no truth in it whatever," said Mr. Bate. "No one had any authority from the Ottawa Hockey Club to make such an offer to Johnson. If anyone did so, Johnston will find himself the victim of a practical joke."

The Ottawa club has never thought of paying that amount for any one man. Tom Phillips got $1,800 for holding down left wing for the red, white and black three seasons ago, but the highest salary paid last year was divided equally by Bruce Stewart, who succeeded in extracting $1,000 from the Ottawa treasurer.

Ottawa would like Johnston at Night Hawk Harris, and would like at the greatest centre-rover in the game. No offer has yet been made, however, by Ottawa, but Johnston is not thinking any figure $2,000. Neither would Renfrew, after last year's experience.

—George Wiglins, Detroit Tigers will play with the baseball exhibition tour of Cuba next after the Detroit team.

—Memphis gets a trade; Jack pitcher, Finkerson, who pitched for the Lawrence, Mass., team last season.

—Fire of the Cincinnati team; Beecher, Lobert, Paskert, Egan and Mitchell, stole 240 bases during the National League season.

On his return home, Pitcher Walter Johnson, of the Washington club, was tendered a banquet by the fans of Coffeyville, Kansas.

The Athletics' quartette, consisting of Coombs, Bender, Morgan and Hartsel, has been offered an engagement by one of the vaudeville managers.

The South Atlantic league has been increased to eight clubs, Charleston, S.C., and Albany, Ga., having been admitted to membership recently.

Nineteen tie games were played during the season just ended by the clubs in the American League. Cleveland figured in nine, Washington in six, and Boston in four.

—Rene Dale, the name of Messrs. George Bryant, D. R. Whitney and Martin Rieschel being unanimous.

BASEBALL

Renfrew is out after a team already, but will likely operate one or a more economical basis.

The hockey magnates are at it once more, says the Ottawa Citizen. On Saturday Joe Power, the well known captain and coreporint of the Quebec team, arrived in the capital for a conference with officers of the Ottawas. Joe seeks the support of the local club in the application of the Quebec club for admission to the National association. He interviewed Capt. Bruce Stuart, who referred him to Messrs. N. Bate, Martin Rinchal, George Brown, Dave Mulligan and other members of the Ottawa executive. Power has been secured the support of the Ottawas. He intends to see Messrs. James Barnett and Ambrose O'Brien, of Renfrew, with the same object in view. Joe says Quebec will have a rattling good team and expects to have little difficulty in getting into the big show.

The Ottawa club will likely meet this week, and although Vice-President L. Bate threatened to retire a strong effort will be made to have him continue. Speculation has been rife as to who would succeed Mr. Bate, the names of Messrs. George Bryant, D. R. Whitney and Martin Rieschel being unanimous.

NOVEL NECKWEAR.

Some of the perky little bows to be worn with either a turn down collar or an ordinary high collar of dress goods or lace can easily made at home, although they sell in the shops for as high as fifty cents each. Odds and ends of velvet or a piece of the much worn Paisley silk can be utilized.

NECK STYLES.

One style is made of inch or inch and a half ribbon velvet made into a bow of two straight horizontal bows, from three to three and a half inches long. On top of each of these is a much smaller bow of Paisley or Dresden silk, either of a yellowish tone to go with black velvet or of cherry-colored ground to go with cherry velvet or blue to go with blue velvet. The cross piece of the bow is of a narrow bit of the Paisley, edged with the velvet.

Another dainty neck finish, though perhaps not so smart a one, is of narrow half inch velvet made into two short bows at each side, with four long loops pendent made of the same number of tails of different lengths. The necessary touch is given by the use of beads of a harmonizing tint or else of small pearls, two on each horizontal bow, and two on each of the opulent loops.

CULTIVATE TACT.

If a woman is blessed with tact she has the supreme gift. It will stand her all the things she needs. To her it is a much more valuable asset than beauty or even genius. Tact is certainly the greatest of all gifts to a woman.

The girl's school in some far-distant Utopia is going to include a course in tact to correlate with its curriculum from the primary grades on through the post-graduate work. For when the day of enlightenment does come the scarlike mother and the astute father will realize that a working knowledge of how to get along with people is more to be desired than much wisdom in so-called higher branches. Tact is more important than trigonometry. It spends a girl in place of beauty; it takes her further than talent; it brings the world to her feet to do her homage.

Tact! Speed the day when we shall appreciate the importance of this unconsidered trifle! Help us to realize that with it you can wheedle the world out of anything it has to give; but with her feeble strength she can't wrestle with it and get anything.

CHIPPED PEARS.

Soak a quarter of a pound of green ginger root for an hour and then grate it. Slice eighpounds of pears and cut the rind from one lemon in chips. Mix the grated ginger, the pears, lemon rind and juice, eight pounds of sugar, and a cupful of water, and boil slowly for two hours.

BESSIE ADOTT.

Prima donnas are not constructed by rule and measurement. They develop. And development means the vocal lunch similar to the finish given diamonds by the Amsterdam cutters. Genius in grand opera is substituted hard work. There is no royal road to learning over vocal ties. The ladder of classical music has yet to be first climbed by a tyro. The rewards, though, of a successful singer are royal in their excitement. But Jordan was never such a hard road to travel as the path that must be traversed by the prima donna who has finally arrived. No better illustration could be given of the struggles and final triumph of an artist than that afforded by Bessie Abbott, who is to have the honor of creating the title role in Mascagni's new grand opera, "Yanbelt," upon the occasion of its debut at the New Theatre, in New York, in November. She loved music as a child and it is related of her that when she heard Patti sing and when she was still in her mother's womb greatly told her mother some day she would sing a similar role before a like vast audience which heard the famous diva at the Academy of Music, New York, when she last appeared there under Maurice Grau's management.

Bessie Abott is American in every sense of the word. Her ancestors played no small part in the early politics of the country. On her mother's side they traced Daniel Webster as their forefather, and on her father's side, now in private life, toured the country in concert while still young and developed a voice of remarkable distinction. Then Bessie, fired with ambition, took vocal instruction from the famous Jean de Reszke in Paris, and was by them recommended to go to Paris. There she entered the studio of Jean de Reszke, the great Polish tenor. She studied under him for two years, and made her debut as Juliet in his Roneo. Her success was electrical. She later created one of the leading roles in Wagner's "Siegfried" and returned to th's country under Conried's management at the Metropolitan Opera House some three years ago. Small opportunity, though was afforded her there, and at the conclusion of the season she again went to Europe to study. Here she was enthusiastically received all over the country.

When George C. Tyler, of Liebler & Co. conceived the idea of Mascagni writing a grand opera for American production he chose Miss Abbott. He also was thoroughly discussed and the theme and story decided upon, Miss Abbott appearing in the title role of Yeebel. All the world knows the story of the pound earl's daughter who rode unsquereled through the streets of the old English shire town to save her tenants from unjust taxation. Tyler took Miss Adott to Mascagni and to Illica, the librettist. If the American manager was enthusiastic they were more so. Illica saw in her the ideal lady of the story, and Mascagni decided that none other than she could so render the strains of his score. All in all, it is a most wonderful affair in which New York and musical America are looking forward at the New theatre in November.

Tyler, through his firm of Liebler & Co., has surrounded Miss Abbott with one of the most carefully selected musical organizations that has ever come from Europe to New York. The atmosphere is complete. The opera will be sung in Italian. The scenery has been made by Joseph Urban, of the Metropolitan, and the littlest detail comes distant and complete from Milan the middle of next month, though the entire production is itself to be made in this city. Miss Abbott is rejoicing that she is bring here, while singing in the Latin vernacular, an even dozen of fair young American girls who have been studying grand opera abroad.

(Intelligencer Special.)

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 10.—Lightning struck the McDollan barns near Lawrence station to-day. The season's crop and the buildings were totally destroyed.

THROWN INTO DITCH.

(Intelligencer Special.)

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 10.—Byron Mann, 50, while driving home last night behind a blind horse, was thrown into a ditch. He completed the journey, but died later of internal injuries.

AGAINST RECIPROCITY.

(Intelligencer Special.)

WELLAND, Ont., Nov. 10.—Calling upon the Boards of Trade all over Ontario to follow their example, the Board here last night passed a forcible resolution against reciprocity and forwarded the same to Ottawa authorities.

VICTIM OF FOOTBALL.

(Intelligencer Special.)

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 10.—Robert Wm. McLellan, 24, a promising young lawyer, son of Post Office Inspector McLellan, died this morning following an accident which occurred last week while playing in a rugby match under Canadian rules.

ITALIAN DESPERADO.

(Intelligencer Special.)

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 10.—After having stabbed a Jew following a quarrel in the Grand Trunk freight sheds, an Italian crashed under a building, where he held off the police for hours, but was finally captured when the flooring was torn up.

BURIED ALIVE.

(Intelligencer Special.)

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Nov. 10.—While digging out a hole after a fox which they were hunting, a party of men undermined a gravel hill. Arthur Burgess, 24, son of a well-to-do here, was buried alive. He was dead when reached.

LOST ON LAKE WITH OVER 50 SOULS ON HER

(Intelligencer Special.)

SEEKIRK, Man., Nov. 10.—The fishing steamer Wolverine, with fifty passengers and crew aboard, has been missing two weeks, and it is feared has foundered in Lake Winnipeg, which has been very stormy lately, and, being very shallow, extremely dangerous. Owing to ice, it is impossible to send out search boats, but land parties skirting the shores fail to find a trace of the steamer.

TEN MILLION DOLLAR WIDOW IS TO RETURN

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The $10,000,000 widow is coming back to New York once more. Whether Mrs. Philip Van Valkenburg, formerly Mrs. Chapman, limits her fortune by $10,000,000 is not known. People who know say it is twice this sum, but she has gained fame by the title of the $10,000,000 widow.

This title was given her at Monte Carlo by a number of Russian and French noblemen who wanted to marry the fair and dashing young woman. But she decided she wanted to marry an American. So she returned to New York and was married to Philip Van Valkenburg, a native New Yorker. The marriage did not prove a happy one, and now it is said that Mrs. Van Valkenburg is willing to try again.

MEMBER OF CAPITAL'S SMART SET IN LIMBO

Claude Hurdman, Son of Colonel Hardman Faces Police Magistrate On a Charge of Forgery.

(Intelligencer Special.)

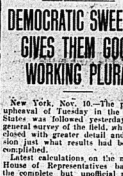
OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 10.—T. C. Robinette, K.C., is making strong representations to the Minister of Justice in behalf of Thomas McNulty and Mary Nolan, sentenced to hang Dec. 3rd for the murder of their illegitimate child at Barrie.

Claude Hurdman, a member of Ottawa's smart set, and a son of Col. Hurdman, a respected officer of the Militia Department and a prominent citizen, was charged with forgery before a Magistrate here to-day and remanded till Tuesday.

It is expected that the Railway Commission will at the next sitting here make telegraph companies liable for damages through non-delivery of messages.

SOUDAN REVOLT IMMINENT, BRITAIN IS GETTING READY

LONDON, Oct. 10.—There is some apprehension in official circles of a revolt in the Soudan. The movement is promoted by the Egyptian Nationalists, who promise a simultaneous rising in Egypt. Field Marshal Lord Kitchener's present trip to Egypt is reported to be in anticipation of trouble, and arrangements have been made to augment the military forces in that country by troops from England and India.



DEMOCRATIC SWEEP GIVES THEM GOOD WORKING PLURALITY

New York, Nov. 10.—The political upheaval of Tuesday in the United States was followed yesterday by a general survey of the field, which disclosed with greater detail and precision just what results had been accomplished.

Latest calculations on the national House of Representatives based on the complete but unofficial returns, show that the Democrats will have a working majority of thirty.

The complexion of the United States Senate is now definitely settled. The Republicans are assured of sixteen new Senators, which with thirty-four hold-over Senators, gives them a total of forty. Two Senatorships are still in doubt, namely, the successorship of the late Mr. Dolliver in Iowa, and of Mr. Carter in Montana, where there is prospect of a tie.

These determined totals, however, leave a Republican majority in the

CHAMP CLARK,
Who May Succeed Speaker "Joe" Cannon.

Senate as follows: Total membership, 92; necessary to majority, 47; Republicans, 50; Democrats, 40; doubtful, 2. The sixteen Republican Senators considered assured are from California, Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Michigan, Nevada, North Dakota (2), Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Internal Dissension Blamed.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Blaming the rout of the Republican party in bitterness in its own organization, but predicting success for 1912, Wm. B. McKinley, chairman of the Republican National Congressional Committee, yesterday gave out the following statement:

"What it is possible that the nearly two-thirds of the Republican vote in the middle west states failed to the polls, and the further fact that factional differences had aroused an unusual degree of bitterness among the Republicans, the result is not surprising."

Gave the Hoax Away.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 10.—Convicted of masquerading as a deaf mute and begging on the streets, James Clark was yesterday sentenced to six months imprisonment in the Central. He gave the hoax away when he swore at a policeman for awakening him in the cell.

AT LAST REALIZES THAT RECIPROCITY IS NOT WANTED

(Intelligencer Special.)

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 10.—While nothing definite has been given out regarding the reciprocity conference, it is felt here that the Canadian Government is less keen about it than it was. Hundreds of manufacturers and others whose bread and butter depends upon protection from importations from the other side have interviewed the authorities here lately and continuous protests from Boards of Trade seem to be having an effect.

BOURASSA SAYS AUTONOMY IS ALL HE ASKS

Montreal, Nov. 10.—At a meeting of ten thousand Nationalists, held in the Monument National evening, beneath the folds of the United Jack, Mr. Bourassa proposed the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

"This meeting acclaims the result of the election in Drummond and Arthabasca as the triumph of the principle of Canadian autonomy.

"That the victory justifies emphatically the attitude adopted on the navy bill by Mr. Monk, member for Jacques Cartier, and by the Federal representatives who supported him. It shows that the people want to be considered first before being dragged into a new policy of imperial militarism.

"That this meeting approves and ratifies the verdict rendered by the electoral division of Drummond and Arthabasca, reaffirms the will of the Canadian people to uphold the rights of the British Crown in Canada, declares itself ready to approve all necessary and effective measures to make sure the defence of Canadian territory, but considers as contrary to the principle of Canadian autonomy and to the real unity of the Empire any policy tending to impose upon Canada, that has no voice in the government of the Empire, any share in its external responsibilities and its military defence outside of the Canadian territory, the only portion of the Empire upon which the Canadian people may exercise any political or constitutional action."

DISORDER MARKS THE OPENING OF BELGIAN HOUSE

BRUSSELS, Nov. 10.—The opening of the Chamber by King Albert yesterday was attended by disorderly scenes, and there were demonstrations along the line of march from the palace to the Chamber. During the passage of the procession through the streets the loyal acclamations were frequently mixed with shouts for universal suffrage, and at one spot the royal carriage was bombarded with pamphlets demanding the dissolution of Parliament.

The entry of Queen Elizabeth into the Chamber was greeted with cheers and shouts of "Vive la Reine," whereas the Socialists, who had risen to their feet, sat down and remained seated. When the King entered the Socialists replied to the cheers of the Catholics and Liberals with a further shower of pamphlets.

In response to cries of "Silence for the King!" M. Van der Velde, the Socialist leader, addressing the Ministers shouted: "We have nothing against the King, but you are only here by fraud."

Silence was finally secured, and King Albert delivered his address from the throne.

ONE KILLED IN DRUNKEN BRAWL

Sixty-Year Old Man Orders Younger One Out of House

ROW FOLLOWS

Who Dared To Fire He Puts Bullet Through Visitor's Heart.

North Bay, Nov. 10.—The little village of Monetteville, the centre for a thriving community of French-Canadian farmers, is in the throes of excitement over a terrible tragedy, which took place Monday night, resulting in the death of Joseph Larreque. Monetteville is situated 35 miles from Sturgeon Falls, at the extreme west end of Lake Nipissing, and is served by a tri-weekly steamer service from Sturgeon Falls. In the absence of telegraph and telephone service, news of the tragedy did not reach the front until yesterday.

The facts, as gathered from the crew of the steamer, which made a trip to Monetteville yesterday, are that Joseph Larreque, a farmer living near Monetteville, was drinking with a companion Monday evening, and about 11 o'clock went to the residence of Isaac Larreque with a jug of whisky. The latter, who is an old man, a sixty-a widower, living with his grown-up family, was in bed when the visitor came, and, having been drinking during the evening was not in a good humor. He got up and drank with his visitors, a quarrel started and the old man ordered Joe Larreque out.

The latter refused to go, though his companion tried to talk him down. Isaac Larreque told him to go out, or he would shoot him, taking down his rifle. The visitor was standing in the doorway at this time, and, laughing, said, "Shoot me, then." The old man pressed the trigger and shot Joe Larreque through the heart. He fell across the door step outside the house, and at latest accounts yesterday the body was still lying where he fell, as no coroner was available and no one seemed disposed to make a move in the matter.

Isaac Larreque had not been arrested up to noon yesterday, as there are no officers in the village.

Joseph Larreque was a married man, aged 35, with six children, and is variously reported as being the nephew of his slayer and of being no relation. He occupies the adjoining farm to Isaac Larreque and it is said that the men had been on friendly terms.

Mrs. Eli Bourassa of Sturgeon Falls was visiting the family of Isaac Larreque, her uncle, at the time of the tragedy, and came home yesterday. Intelligencer is told that she had retired early Monday evening, when she heard loud talking downstairs and fancied that some of the men know anyone was killed until the next day, when she left the house and went to the hotel to wait for the boat. In the morning the bone was found a few feet of the dead man lying near the door, but was too nervous to go near the corpse. As she was to tell Monday night, she had not been told at the tragedy, as they feared it might frighten her, so that she was afraid to say anything.

Isaac Larreque states that he never intended to shoot Joe Larreque, and seems to be greatly exercised over the tragedy. The coroner will likely go in from Sturgeon Falls to-day with Provincial Constable McRae.

DEFENDER OF SHOW GIRL IS SHOT DOWN

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Rice A. Pierce, jr., son of former Congressman R. A. Pierce, was arrested late last night charged with the murder of Jack Chanler, a New York showman. Chanler, or "Sanders," as he sometimes showmen called him, died this morning.

Chanler was stage manager of the company in which a performance here, and Pierce is alleged to have annoyed the members of the chorus by forcing his attentions upon them. At the hotel where the company was stopping Chanler remonstrated with him. Pierce left, but renewed the quarrel at the station when the company was leaving. Shortly after an argument it is charged, he fired two shots, one having fatal effect. Pierce then turned his revolver over to a policeman and surrendered. He was not locked up.

Chanler is a stepsister at Nyack, N.Y., and an uncle at Tioga, Mo.

All Silly Talk.

London, Nov. 10.—Sir Gilbert Parker, speaking at Manchester, said: "There is some silly talk of Canada going back to free trade, because a handful of farmers in the west are demanding not free trade as we understand it, but a revised tariff, which would give them as good an advantage as the present tariff gives the manufacturers of the country. That is a matter of adjustment, but no candidate dares to go to a constituency in Canada offering a system of free imports as England has it. No Government would last a week that proposed it."

Rink Burned at Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 10.—In a serious fire here early yesterday morning the Soo skating rink was totally destroyed and several buildings in the vicinity lost. Total loss will be $30,000, partly insured. The curling rink, adjoining the skating rink, was also burned, the curlers losing their stones and paraphernalia. Among the buildings lost were two implement sheds, owned by the city, at the rear of the municipal buildings, which narrowly escaped destruction, and the entrance of the Y.M.C.A. The rink will not be reconstructed this year, while it is an assurance that there will be no indoor hockey. Among the buildings lost was the varnish, upholstering shop, which loses $3,500.

Struck by Falling Beam.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 10.—Struck by a falling beam at the Ontario Power Company's plant Tuesday night, Richard Clement, a rigger, sustained a fracture of the right leg. This is the third time Clement has escaped death at the power plant since August. In the first of the series of accidents he lost a finger; in the second, last Sunday, he escaped unscratched. He had just gone up the ladder that fell, killing William Dashney and injuring two others.

CURRENT EVENTS.

A petition, we are told, is being circulated among the property owners of Front Street opposing the present plan of building the asphalt brick pavement. Why do not those interested meet and discuss this question and determine by resolution what is wanted. That some suitable pavement is need on the street is beyond doubt. Cannot the City Engineer give a statement showing what work is proposed to be done? Also the cost per foot frontage? This should be forthcoming at once, so that all could act intelligently and with a proper knowledge. If this information is not immediately given, it is feared the petition will be too largely signed to permit of any work being done.

Large sums of money have been spent on public works this year already. It is drawing on election time. Why should a detailed statement of the expenditure be not now given to the public, showing who were the recipients of the moneys for the work completed and also in progress? Let us have a clear statement about our sidewalks, the amount paid for them, and WHO HAD THE CONTRACTS FOR SUPPLYING THE MATERIALS, AND THE PRICES.

How about the Dundas Street sewer? What are the extras going to amount to? How much hap been already allowed for extras?

Let the Public Works' Committee prepare this statement and submit same at the Council meeting on Monday night.

Criminal statistics for the year ended Sept. 30, 1910, show that both charges and convictions have increased during the year in Prince Edward Island, Saskatchewan and Alberta, while they have decreased in New Brunswick, Quebec, Manitoba and British Columbia. In Ontario and Yukon, the figures show a decrease in charges and increase in convictions. The convictions during the last two years were as follows:—

	1908-9.	1909-10.
Prince Edward Island .	15	25
Nova Scotia	582	578
New Brunswick.	230	188
Quebec	2171	2304
Ontario	5932	5213
Manitoba	832	844
Alberta	600	697
Saskatchewan	663	745
British Columbia	892	933
Yukon	26	38
Totals	11331	11449

Housebreaking and theft were the principal offences. The number of female convictions in 1909-10 was 556, an increase of 53. The number of female offenders decreased in every province except Ontario and Manitoba. The chief offence was assault. There was no female conviction in Prince Edward Island. The increase in crime for the year is no doubt the result of the large foreign immigration.

The people of the United States seem to think because the Democrats have won a victory that free trade or reciprocity is more certain. Simply because our southern neighbors want Canada as a dumping ground is no good reason why any act of Canadian politicians should grant the request.

There, is grumbling galore from residents and others who have to use Dundas Street these days. One resident says: "The condition of Dundas Street is deplorable since the sewer was started. Not satisfied with blowing up the street, now the cement sidewalk is dug into, and yesterday, when going home, I had to go ankle deep through the mud," and further, "won't you, through your paper, call attention to this disagreeable state of affairs?" This complaint is worthy of immediate attention. Residents, however, must not forget that in all cases of improvement inconvenience must be suffered, but they, should be removed as soon as possible.

A new tabloid has been devised for the use of the army composed of chocolate liquor, cocoa butter, sugar, desiccated egg, malted milk and nucleonein. They call it an "emergency ration." Just the name for it. No one would want to tackle such a ration except in an appalling emergency.

Dr. H. H. Crippen has made a will in which everything that he owns is to pass to Miss Ethel Claire Leneve, the young woman who is on trial for slight for liberty. It is believed that the estate will total about 3,000 pounds, or $15,000. The expenses of the defence will be paid out of a fund raised by unknown parties, and which is said to have been ample for the purpose. Miss Leneve will become owner of stocks in medicinal enterprises amounting, according to a recent estimate of an English paper, to about $14,000. The stocks were made up of personal effects and articles of jewelry.

BUGLERS EXPERT BALLISTS

Trumpeters Trounce A Picked Team at The Armouries Last Night By A Score of 20 To 11—Not Many Fans out.

At the Armories last night an indoor baseball match took place between teams representing the Bugle Band of the regiment and a picked team. The buglers demonstrated that in addition to being able to blow a bugle they can play some classy ball. By a score of 20 to 11 they defeated the picked team. They played a much superior class of ball than their opponents. Owing to inclement weather spectators were rather scarce. Mr. W. J. Cook acted as umpire and fulfilled that duty in a manner that was satisfatory to both teams. The line-up was as follows:—

Picked Team—	Buglers—
Clarke, p.	Dorrie, p.
Hyland, c.	Barrett, c.
Bateson, 1b.	Sharpe, 1b.
A. Ketcheson, 2b.	Mills, 2b.
Keating, b.	Moore, 3b.
Lynch, e.f.	McGie, s.s.
E. Ketcheson, r.f.	Rogers, r.f.
Westover, s.s.	Andrews, l.f.
Adams, l.f.	Rutherford, c.f.

The score by innings was as follows:—

Bugle Band . .3 2 2 1 2 0 2 7 1—20
Picked team. .0 1 0 0 1 3 0 5 1—11

ARGUMENT ON SATURDAY

The trial of Thomas Amann was concluded at a late hour yesterday afternoon before Judge Deroche and argument will be heard on Saturday morning. The accused was charged with stealing some articles of clothing and an overcoat while in the employ of Mr. James Bargman, merchant, of this city. The contention of the accused is that the articles found in his house by the police, acting on a search warrant, were not stolen, but that the same were on an order sheet and were charged up against him, and that the money alleged to have been taken was given him by his mother. Mr. and Mrs. Bargman aware that they had been unable to find an order in favor of Amann for the goods. During the progress of the trial considerable evidence was submitted, the case lasting all day. Mr. Anderson, County Attorney, for the Crown. Mr. E. G. Porter, K.C., private prosecutor, and Mr. W. B. Northrup, K.C., for the accused. At the conclusion of the trial, Amann was furnished and the accused allowed his liberty.

ARDEN SPORTSMAN SHOT

News reached the city to-day of a sad accident to William Wormwith, son of Frank Wormwith, Arden, whereby he had his right arm shattered by a charge of shot from his own gun.

He was out alone in a boat duck hunting, near Arden when the gun accidentally exploded, entering his right arm at the shoulder. He had to paddle a mile with one hand and then walk a mile home. Dr. Maher, of Tweed, gave the young man temporary treatment, while he was going through Tweed on the train en route to Peterboro. He was taken to the Nicholls Hospital at the latter city, where the arm was amputated. Owing to the shock and exposure it is doubtful whether Mr. Wormwith will recover or not.

The young man is a blacksmith by trade but was fond of hunting. All his spare time was spent in the woods with a gun. He is very popular in the village and his friends greatly deplore his hard luck.

FRONT ST. PAVEMENT

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:—Sir,—I submitted to mention an argument in favor of the view that the paving on Front Street should be paid for by a general tax, which I think will appeal to the tax payers. It is the immense traffic upon Front Street which breaks up and destroys the road bed, causing mire.

Why is this traffic? Is it caused principally by farmers bringing into the city, down Front Street to the Wharf, the food supplies for the citizens, and their domestic animals, horses, cows, etc. By the city teams, hauling coal for domestic use, walks and other purposes. Citizens owning private conveyances or employing hacks and cauliages use Front Street, and these vehicles assist in destroying the street. Who benefits by this traffic? The answer is, every citizen. Why, then should not all pay for these benefits? Picton is putting down a block or asphalt pavement on the principal street for a section of the street. The Picton people intend it a public benefit, and will pay for it by a general tax. Why should property owners have to pay differently from the Picton property owners along the street to be improved? I am

SLOW DELIVERY

Letter Mailed Over 12 Years Ago Has Just Reached Its Destination

On the 20th of May, 1898, Mr. J. B. Harker, of this city, sent a letter to an uncle who resides at Whitby, England. Mr. Harker has just received an answer to his communication and the uncle informs him that on the 24th of October of this year the letter written and sent 12 years, 5 months and 4 days ago had just been received. The question naturally arises, where has the letter been all these years?

Auto Jammed Between Cars.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Miss Rosslyn Campbell, daughter of Dr. Colin Campbell, 23 West Bloor street, and Mrs. Ada Gibson of Buffalo, her aunt, had a narrow escape at 7.30 yesterday morning, when an auto in which they were being driven along Bloor street was jammed between two street cars at St. Thomas street.

A car driven by Motorman H. Roberts was eastbound on Bloor street, and a Bell Line was standing at Balmuto street, when Robert Morrison, chauffeur of the auto, turned his machine to cross to the north between the cars. The eastbound trolley struck the rear of the auto, and threw it on to the other car. The auto was wrecked, and only for the steel frame, which held, the ladies must have suffered serious injury. They were carried into a near-by residence suffering from a severe shaking up and shock.

The vestibules of both street cars were wrecked.

Hounds Brutally Treated.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Veterinary Inspector Cook, at Surry Sound Tuesday, happened to kick a box lying on the platform of the station and was surprised to hear the faint moan of a dog. He ordered that the box be opened, and discovered two half-starved hounds, which had apparently been shipped up there for hunting purposes. The box had been shipped from Blair, Ont., in the infected district, and the dogs had been in it, without food or water, and only what air came from a small crack in the side, for three days. The owner, a Toronto man, will be prosecuted for the cruelty, and violating the Government quarantine and of cruelty to animals.

Bridge Across The Moira.

What are the property owners and Front Street merchants going to do in this matter? Are they going to stand by and quietly see a dam of fire piers placed across the Moira by the C.N.R., or are they going to take the matter up with the Railway Commission with a view to having fewer piers? Now is the time to act. Would it not be best to have a meeting of those interested in this subject in the Council Chamber or City Hall at an early date? We have been stifled by arguments as to damages against the city. The City Council should step in and protect these interests. Many of these arguments are fallacious and the sufferers from the floods will look in vain for compensation. It is stated that if such a bridge AS A SINGLE SPAN OR TWO SPANS, WHICH THE C. N. R. ARE SAID TO BE WILLING TO BUILD, were built that it would change the grades on Front and Pinnacle streets. We are also told that these grades have been fixed by the Board of Railway Commissioners. Have they? Then get together and unfix them. PROPERTY OWNERS and MERCHANTS, get together at once and organize for your own protection. It does not require argument. All know the consequences of the mouth of the river being dammed in the springtime. Is it quite feasible to build a bridge with one or two spans at the most. Why seven spans? Is it because it is a little cheaper for the C.N.R.? The Council have evidently spent time in the matter, but the large majority of them are not personally and financially interested and would not feel the pinch when the damage arises.

Property owners and all other right thinking citizens are not opposed to the C.N.R., but desire to facilitate as much as possible the entrance of the railway into the city, but why should this extra danger of floods be placed DIRECTLY ON the shoulders of those persons owning and occupying property on Front Street and along the river bank. It is time to organize for protection by petitioning the Council to take the matter up for revision before the Railway Commission, or draw up your own complaint and lay it before the Commissioners. It is not too late, if taken up now.

The St. Peter's Reserve

It transpires that the Registrar General of Manitoba has refused to accept the survey of the St. Peter's Indian Reserve effected by the Dominion Government since the surrender of the reserve. Thus everywhere in connection with the enterprise of throwing these Indians lands on the real estate market is held up. One reason for the taking of this action is that the survey made since the Indians were cajoled into surrendering their lands does not correspond with earlier surveys. Another one is that the Indians have a protest against the surrender, claiming that they were unjustly dealt with and the surrender was obtained by misrepresentation and fraud. The remarkable proceedings which led up to the alleged surrender thus will have a searching being reviewed by the courts. It will redound to the credit of Mr. Bradley, member for Selkirk, for having, in the House of Commons, drawn attention to and exposed this matter, through Laurier's officials, to rob the Indians. Had he not done so, the fraud would have been consummated.

When Laurier Steps Down

The sun still will shine, Canada will retain her climate, and the harvests still will be gathered even if Laurier step down. No one anticipates that the world will cease to revolve on its axis, or that night will fail to succeed day, and day night—as it did before Laurier was head of the Government of Canada. There will, therefore, it is presumed, still be climate left in the country, and rain and fruitful seasons and crops to feed man and beast. The minerals will not disappear from the rocks nor the fish from the sea, though some not very wholesome public men may drop into an obscurity that no one will grieve over. When, voluntarily or by force, Laurier steps down and the will be a politician's party, not to Canada or to the universe.

SIXTY LADIES OFFERED BUT NONE WERE WANTED

Practical Joker Breaks up Bridge Party By Advertisement In A Montreal Newspaper--A Police Official Duped.

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—Dozens of lady stenographers, with rosy visions of increased salaries, called last evening at 79 Union avenue, mounted the stair of a boarding house, and thoroughly annoyed Mr. Morton Wright, who did not want any lady stenographers, and who had to break up a bridge party owing to the continuous stream of lady applicants, many of whom were accompanied by gentlemen escorts.

The following advertisement was inserted in yesterday's Star:—

STENOGRAPHER—Lady stenographer wanted for gentleman's private office. Salary about $55. Apply this evening between 8 p. m. and 9 p.m., in person, to G. P. O'Connell, care of Morton Wright, room 29, top floor, 79 Union avenue.

Who put that advertisement in the paper? Mr. Morton Wright does not exactly know, but anyway the ladies started calling at 79 Union avenue, shortly after the bridge party had been started. At first Mr. Wright was inclined to be exasperated at the persistence of the visitors, and the ladies themselves did not conceal their annoyance when they were told that nobody in the house certainly not Messrs. G. P. O'Connell or Morton Wright—had advertised for a lady stenographer.

Then a bright idea occurred to the gentlemen holding the fort against the constant invasion. They took the male escorts of the applicants aside and whispering that evidently some joke had been performed, they invited them to have some refreshment.

This went fairly well until a high police official of the city called with his young niece. He was told that it was a joke, and was asked if he would have something.

Then the police official became very angry and indignantly demanded why such a trick should be played upon an officer of the force.

Even this afternoon, the fair applicants continued to call at 79 Union avenue. When Mr. Wright left for his office he saw them coming up the stairs, and more on the street, but he walked swiftly by.

Then he called at the Star office, saying that the gentlemen who were unwittingly the victims of the absurd joke would so offer their sincerest regrets to those who were misled by the same.

"We might add," he says, "that we had no knowledge of the advertisement. We take it as the work of some facetious individual who evidently saw some resemblance of a joke in it, but unfortunately we did not."

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF O. H. A. SATURDAY NOV 19

Plenty of Subjects For Discussion At Gathering of Hockeyists Judging By The Notices of Amendments Just Issued.

The O. H. A. annual convention, which will be held in the Temple building, at 9 a.m., Saturday, Nov. 19, will have plenty of subjects for discussion judging by the notices of amendments issued to-day by Secretary W. A. Hewitt.

JUNIOR AGES.

Jas. T. Sutherland, of Kingston, suggests that the 20-year maximum age limit be increased in the juvenile series.

At the last annual meeting the age limit was reduced to 19 years, the same to go into effect this year. Mr. Sutherland wants the old order of things to continue, and will find many supporters.

BIRTH CERTIFICATES.

J. Ross Robertson has put in a useful amendment, compelling all junior players to furnish official birth certificates instead of statutory declarations by parents. Last year's experience of the above system proved the necessity for a change.

CRACK AT TORONTO.

Norman White, of Port Rowan, formerly of Grimsby, has three amendments, which are to allow only one representative on the executive from any one town or city. This is evidently aimed at Toronto players, whose work of the association could not be done without the sub-committee in the city.

Mr. White also desires to prevent players who have received transfer certificates from playing any junior games, another impractical suggestion. He also advocates the use of two referees in semi-final games.

REFEREE FEES.

A. T. Kinder, of Preston, wants the fees for referees fixed as follows: $5 and actual expenses for intermediate and $7 and actual expenses for senior games, except where a local man acts, when it shall be $5 in all three series.

NOTICE TO CLUBS.

Howard Sloan, of Guelph, suggested that conveners of districts give each club 24 hours' notice in calling schedule meetings. Mr. Sloan also puts in an amendment to the effect that a penalty imposed on any player shall not commence until the player has reached the timekeeper's box.

LONG PENALTY.

Rev. F. W. Armstrong, of Trenton, has two amendments in regard to penalties for rough play. One reads as follows: "In the event of a player causing an injury or hurt in any way through wilful breach of the rules or while acting under a temporary fit of lifelessness, the referee shall rule such offending player off the ice for the rest of the game and for all such subsequent games as the said player is incapacitated from playing, the duration of said incapacity to be determined by certificates of two independent licensed medical practitioners."

DROP A PLAYER.

Mr. Armstrong's other amendment aims to compel the opposing team to drop the player who occupies the corresponding position in the box. The player is compelled to retire for any cause, instead of leaving it optional with the opposing team as to whom shall be dropped.

PLAYING RULE.

W. A. Hewitt has an amendment to the playing rule as follows: "When the puck hits the referee play shall cease and the puck faced where the accident occurs."

Notices of motion are also given to provide funds for new trophies for the O. H. A. series, and empowering the secretary to $500 from the present amount, $400.

BASEBALL

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Orvie Overall the Cubs pitcher, declares next season will be the best of his career as a slab artist, may fill the position of coach and captain of the team if the offered Johnny Evers, and which was practically turned down by the crack second baseman. Offers for Johnny's services are coming fast from the various eastern colleges, but the crippled condition of the Trojan makes him hesitate. For the next two months, however, Overall will continue his efforts at gold-digging and mountain climbing in the wild wood surrounding Visalia, now and then taking his three-fingered pal out into the open for a bit of pitching air.

LAURIER AND FREE TRADE

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Sir Gilbert Parker, speaking at Manchester, said: "There is silly talk of Canada going back to free trade because a handful of farmers in the west are demanding, not free trade as we understand it, but a revised tariff which will give them a better chance of violating the present tariff gives the manufacturers of the country. That is a matter of adjustment.

"No candidate dares go to a constituency in Canada to-morrow offering the system of free imports as England has it. No Government would last a week that proposed it, and right well Sir Wilfrid Laurier knows it. His pious reflections about the necessity of violating the law meaning or force behind them as the sentimental reminiscences of an octogenarian over the days of his youth."

WINDOW SHADE HINT.

How They May Be Renovated With a Gasoline Bath.

"Is there nothing I can do for my window shades? They are so dirty I am ashamed to have people see them, and yet I don't know of a single place in the city that will clean them."

Thus spoke the anxious housewife to the window shade expert. The window shade expert smiled quietly and went to look at the shades.

They were light brown—that indescribable greenish color like body made mustard—and quite prominent on their broad surface were spots of grease and stains left by rain that had carelessly been allowed to enter and the accumulated dust of many months.

SPONGE THE COLORED SHADE WITH GASOLINE.

"In the first place," began the window shade expert, "you should never have let your shades get like this. They should have been brushed with a feather duster every day and with a fine nap cloth the floor soon was swept. The children's fingers should have been kept off them here, where these little streaks of grease are, near the hem. And the windows should have been watched during storms and shut as soon as the rain came in their direction."

"But now the mischief is done, and we must set about remedying it. First," and she suited the action to the word, "take down your shade, carefully remove the tacks with a tack drawer and lay it flat and unrolled on the kitchen table. Now get a basin of plain gasoline and a sponge and sponge the shade well, rubbing it hard and vigorously. Pay particular attention to the dirt spots, but sponge the shade all over.

"When the shade is thoroughly saturated wring it out by rolling tightly and then unrolling and removing any further surplus moisture with a dry, soft cloth. Then let the gasoline evaporate. It will not take very long, and you can occupy the time in washing off the wooden shade roll with soap and water and letting that dry also.

"As soon as the shade is quite dry take another cloth that has not been near the gasoline and go over it with a dry rub with long, smooth strokes. And behold, it looks rejuvenated!

"One thing still remains. It is probably frayed at the bottom or at least badly worn. In that case turn it upside down, cut away the worn edge and make a new hem, sewing over the stick. Apply fresh cord and ring, and there you are—a new shade."

Thoughts For Housewife.

Love covereth a multitude of sins, and indifference in little things may cover up much love.

If clubs club more nerve force out of you than brain force into you you may some time want to club yourself for belonging to clubs.

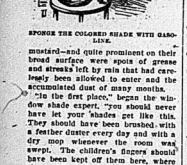
Where trifles lie iron out domestic wrinkles! Take a care that you do not scorch out of some one's good nature.

Hold up the mirror to admiration! Is the nature of your husband—and you cannot always hold down his tendency to hold off from holding you in his confidence.

Domestic equilibrium generally depends on the correct balance of the whole matrimonial sketch. When the atmosphere of love is rarefied by the superheating of tempers a cold current of resentment may flow in to fill the vacuum, and sometimes the result is a cyclone of indignation.

Don't neglect your self-improvement. Don't be a victim of indigestion due to the affections.

Short tempers and long faces are the rule when you would rule your household with rules.



The good deed in my head availeth little unless I will put it on foot.

Baking Powder Biscuit.

Sift two cupfuls of flour into a basin. Add half a teaspoonful of salt and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder; then sift it again; then rub one tablespoonful of butter and one tablespoonful of lard finely into it with the tips of the fingers. Add gradually enough sweet milk to make a soft dough. Knead a little on a floured board. Do not handle it much. Roll out half an inch in thickness and cut into rounds with some cutter. Lay on a greased baking tin and bake till ready in a hot oven, usually about twenty minutes.

Maple Chocolate Nougatines.

Put one pound two cupsful of maple sugar, one cupful of brown or granulated sugar, one cupful of glucose and one cupful of water in the back of the range, cover and let stand, stirring now and then until sugar is dissolved. Then stir occasionally until cooked to the soft ball degree, or about 238 degrees F. Have ready the whites of two eggs, beaten dry. Pour half of the syrup in a fine stream upon the eggs, beating constantly meanwhile. Return the rest of the syrup to the fire and cook to the crack degree, or between 280 and 290 degrees F. During the last of the cooking the mixture must be stirred constantly. Pour into the syrup about a pound in the same manner as the first. Add one pound of blanched almonds, chopped and browned in the oven, and two teaspoonfuls of vanilla extract. Butter a shallow tin turn into a few bread pans, buttered or lined with paper. When cold set in strips about 1½ inches wide, and three-eighths of an inch thick and wide. Dip there in "Dots" chocolate and finish as the French cream.

"STIR IN A LITTLE LOVE."

Cooking a Metaphysical Art, Says Mrs. Chapin of Boston.

"Stir in a little love."

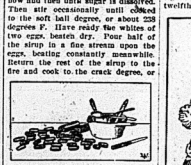
Whether you are making biscuits, turning batter cakes or manufacturing a welsh rabbit, let love be the inevitable ingredient. Sift it with your flour, dip it with your flannel cakes, melt it deftly with your Worcestershire and cheese and beer.

That is, you must do these things if you wish to be a successful cook, according to the recipe of Mrs. Mary E. T. Chapin, who expounded the metaphysics of the culinary art to the assembled Clubs of Domestic Science at the pure food show held recently in New York city.

"Somebody never mentioned in any recipe ought to go into every bit of cooking ever done," said Mrs. Chapin. "Food doesn't taste right without this ingredient. No really nourishing meat was ever prepared without it. Do you know what this mysterious ingredient is?"

"It is love," she said. "Love for your work, love for those you work for. The wife who does not care for her husband cannot possibly prepare as good a meal for him as the woman who makes every little detail of cooking—the washing and measuring, the stirring, the regulating of heat, the constant exercise of judgment—an act of devotion.

"Love for the people for whom it is done is the basis of the masculine suppersition of the superiority of 'the things mother used to make.' It explains the superiority of home cooking over that found in restaurants and hotels. A chef can't possibly love an absolute public as a woman loves her husband or her children. You taste the love in home cooking. Seriously, you can't cook unless you love."



The Baby's Delight.

If you can imagine the dearest little jointed doll, all dressed to go walking in woolen dress, coat and bonnet in the daintiest colors, you can get a faint idea of the Dorothy Perkins doll. She is only four inches high, one of the so called "indestructible" dolls with arms and legs that move into the most lifelike attitudes, says the Woman's Home Companion.

Her clothes are made by a combination of knitting and crocheting and are held in place with tiny ribbons—no pins nor buttons nor hooks and eyes for Dorothy Perkins.

Bonnet.—Cast on five stitches.

Second Row.—Increase at beginning of needle and at beginning of each needle until you have nine stitches. Knit two rows in the two rows, then decrease at beginning of needle until you have only five stitches. Take up seven stitches at side, knit the two stitches, take up seven at other side, knit four rules, knitting together the eighth and ninth and the seventh and twelfth stitches of fourth rib. Bind off on fifth rib. For the border make with the crochet of contrasting colored wool. Run ribbon through for ties.

Coat.—Cast on thirteen stitches. Knit in ribs, and five stitches at each end, knit five ribs, cast off eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth stitches, knit to end of row, knit back ten stitches the other ten stitches are left on needle or worked off on a thread, cast on three stitches for each sleeve, this making ten ribs for the sleeve. Cast off five stitches, knit one rib, on second, fourth and seventh ribs increase at beginning of needle, under arm seam, being careful to keep the front edge of the coat straight. On the ninth rib cast off and repeat with ten stitches left on needle for other sleeve. Cast on and make border of single crochet in contrasting wool.

Dress.—Crochet chain of twenty-three stitches. Join, crochet three chain, make double crochet, chain one, double crochet one, and so on around, being careful to have ten spaces.

Second Row.—Two single crochet in each space.

Third Row.—Single crochet in each loop of last row and repeat for six rows.

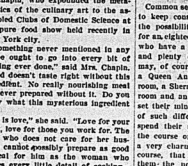
Seventh Row.—Three chain, one double crochet in first loop, three double crochet in second loop and two double in third loop. Skip one loop, three double in next, skip one, and two double in next and so on until the last three loops, when there are no spaces left between, making the skirt fuller in back.

Eighth Row.—Three chain, one double crochet, three double crochet, passover crochet three, under-middle double crochet of seventh row, and so on.

Ninth Row.—Same as eighth row. Bind off and finish with picot edging of contrasting color.

Germany's increased tax upon matches has led to the invention of several types of electric cigar lighters for public places.

THE PERIOD ROOM.



"Unities" Associated With Each Style Should Be Preserved.

CHIPPENDALE A SAFE CHOICE

Small Amount of Furniture in a Large Room Characteristic of Eighteenth Century Style—Balance to Point of Stiffness at Times.

Common sense collectors will be wise to keep constantly before their eyes the possibility of gathering material for an eighteenth century room. Those who have a house with many rooms and plenty of funds for furnishing may, of course, set their minds upon a Queen Anne room, a Chippendale room, a Sheraton room, a Hepplewhite room and an Adam room and if they set their minds upon the working out of such differentiations in style and spend their money discreetly will in the course of a year or two possess a very charming house, providing, of course, that they keep ever before them the necessity for maintaining the "unities" of each room in each style, the details of wall and ceiling decoration.

The truth is that while one must draw a hard and fast line in regard to rich, rigidly excluding from the old room any piece of furniture that is not made of that wood—or of some wood having the same characteristics and treated in the same spirit, one need not do so in respect of the great contemporary workers of the eighteenth century. There is no lack of harmony between any of them.

"Ye are welcome," my masters all! should be the motto of the collector in regard to the productions of Chippendale, Sheraton and the rest. This is because of the unanimity of aim pervading all their designs. Grace and nothing but grace was what they sought to encompass, and this is the link that unites them all and gives a singleness of character and unity of expression in their productions, allowing of their being placed side by side without the possibility of conveying any but the most exquisite impression to the most fastidious of connoisseurs. The effect is not necessarily the same opposite existent even if a couple of Queen Anne chairs or a Georgian corner cupboard are brought into the same room. The chairs must not, however, be linked—certainly not in the Dutch style.

There is no scheme of furnishing that can be recommended to a beginner so unreservedly as that of the Chippendale period of the eighteenth century, the fact being that a few pieces only are sufficient to go on with. A small amount of furniture in a large room seems to have been a prominently characteristic of the middle of the eighteenth century, and assuredly it one is desirous of reproducing the effect of a room of the period one should aim at bringing almost to a point of stiffness of arrangement and avoid the least appearance of crowding.

For Baby's Comfort.

The baby's basket and the bassinet are things a young mother is sure to have of the daintiest. The new bassinet, with movable parts on the order of drawers, is one of the most convenient styles. A plete warmer with metal bottom and porcelain top is useful for keeping the baby's dinner hot.

Other convenient accessories of a baby's outfit are jiffy clothes pins and trees, ribbon covered coat hangers, miniature washstand sets and swinging hammocks for outdoor naps.

The Two Periods.

board are brought into the same room. The chairs must not, however, be linked—certainly not in the Dutch style.

DESIGNS FROM OLD CHINA.

Latest Wrinkle to Match Table Linen With Decorations.

There is always such a demand for variety in fancy work patterns that, provided they are fresh and original, it is not easy for the enthusiastic needlewoman to become overstocked with ideas and suggestions. The "old china" work will therefore be welcomed as something rather unusual. The finished appearance, will be found effective for all kinds of decorating, and the practical carrying out of the work is not difficult. A careful copy of the designs of deft fingers will readily secure the best results.

Many of the designs found on even the everyday household ware of long ago are really beautiful both in line and color and worth consideration to those interested in pattern making. The centerpiece here illustrated is copied on articles to be needleworked may well commend itself, and in this way many charming schemes of decoration can be arranged.

The actual needlework of the pattern requires some skill, and it is important to choose soft, clear colors. It is worth while taking pains to secure the exact Indian shade. Fine silks, as a rule, are better than coarse, but a good deal depends on the size and general appearance of the pattern.

It is rather a quaint idea, which may take the fancy of the embroiderer, to fine old tea service, to have the tablecloths embroidered to match it. Some of the blue and red and gold patterns look very handsome carried out in this way. The cloth may be cream or white, but a buff linen is rather better than either. The china pattern seems to be the best advantage on this, as it gives the artist a free hand to plain machine stitched hems; otherwise the effect embroidered brings to lose its distinctive appearance. However if the pieces which is being copied has a pretty border it is recommended worth while to copy and adapt it.

A Dreaded Visitor.

"The visitor I most dread," remarked a bashful soul to her friend in the audience, "is a sister-in-law I have, who from the moment she enters this house begins to find fault with me and for wear. Her excuse is always that she hates to carry any unnecessary articles, because she is coming out here, where she feels so at home, and to add insult to injury, she always brings her oldest clothes, which she wears with a supercilious air. There are, when one thinks it over, very few people who go to see their relatives fully equipped or with only their best frocks and hats, so they are new in the family and trying to make an impression, and, besides, the relatives intimate friends, and they are free to take it for granted that anything they lack will be lent to them. Dressing jackets and slippers are among the most frequently borrowed, and next to these handkerchiefs. One man when visiting his sister's house left behind his brushes and every time carries off those she provides for his use. On occasion of his last stay he found a knife on his dressing table attached to it by a piece of tape that led it was meant to be a souvenir. Of course each well regulated guest room has all possible kinds of articles for personal layed. But, just the same, the well regulated guest brings a complete line of belongings, and the "missing things" are given to the maid to be put away during the present occupancy, for who would use a brush or comb other than one's very own or revel in another's fine linen for dreams?"

The Wisdom of Others.

A woman who considers as one of the home magazines tells her sisters how she saved the price of a new stair carpet.

These economical schemes, to be sure, almost always take a well stocked attic for granted. They are a little like the recipes that begin with "take two pounds of fresh chicken" when there are never any remains to be taken. But to return to the stair carpet. The former carpet was a dark red, old brussels carpet—was badly worn, but was in fair condition as even neutral color. She stipped the carpet, put the wrong side of the carpet made a stencilled border in brown. The carpet looks well on the stairs and wears like iron, she says.

For the Children

Luncheon Time in a Berlin School.

American boys and girls who carry their luncheons to school or who live near enough to go to their homes for the midday meal may perhaps envy the poor scholars of Berlin. Recently in the German capital a plan of providing a substantial luncheon for the children of the public schools was instituted. This luncheon is served free of cost to those scholars whose parents are unable to pay. It has been proved that the youngsters learn much more rapidly when provided with wholesome food. Fortunately the school children of this country, as a rule, have no need of such assistance, but in the large cities like New York and Chicago poverty lees heavily on many youthful students, and they frequently go hungry.

A Scottish Halloween Custom.

Take three dishes, put clean water in one, foul water in another and leave the third empty. Blindfold a person and lead him to the hearth where the dishes are ranged. He or she dips the left hand—if by chance to the clean water, the future husband or wife will come to the lar of matrimony without having previously been married: if in the foul, a widow; if in the empty dish, it foretells with equal certainty no marriage at all. It is repeated three times, and every time the arrangement of the dishes is altered. Robert Burns, the Scottish poet, humorously tells of such a test in verse:

In order on the clean hearthstone
The dishes are ranged,
And every time great care is shown
To have each duly changed.
And Uncle John, who wedded life
For decades did desire,
Because he got the empty thrice,
Was all the time in ire
In wrath that night.

With merry songs these frolicsome folks
I wot did not grow weary,
And golden tales and funny jokes
Their sports were cheap and cheery,
Till buttered oat cakes, smoked and spiced
Set all their jaws a-moving;
Then, when there was no more to eat,
To part it seemed behooving.
Full blythe that night.

For a Halloween Party.

It is doubtful if any festival of the year offers better opportunity for original frolicsome parties than Hallowe'en. Appropriate decorations are easily made with Jack-o'-lanterns, autumn leaves, strings of ears of corn or such ghostly things as black cats and silhouette witches mounted on broomsticks.

The refreshment problem is solved with equal ease. Sweet, sirupy cider, plenty of apples, nuts to roast and nuts to crack, not to mention a pawful of crisp doughnuts, and, to top all off, a batch of spicy pumpkin pies—there are only some of the edibles which at once suggest themselves.

As for games to play, they, too, have been set by custom to a certain extent. You may "bob" for apples in a tub of water, you may pop corn, you may do any one of a dozen things which your parents will be sure to remember about if they have ever partaken in Halloween celebrations.

Winter Home of Deer.

The winter home of the American red deer is very interesting. When the snow begins to fly the leader of the herd guides them to some sheltered spot where food is plentiful. Here, as the snow falls, they pack it down, trampling out a considerable space, while about them the snow mounts higher and higher until they cannot get out if they would. From the main opening, or "yard," as it is called, tramped out paths lead to the nearest trees and shrubbery which supply them with food.

THE HALLOWEEN PIE.

A Jack Horner Centerpiece For Table Decoration.

JACK HORNER PIE IN HALLOWEEN DRESS.

A Halloween party without a Jack Horner surprise pie would be Hamlet with the Dane and Ophelia and even the ghost left out, so barren would the good old day be without this standby. Made of crape paper and holding little prizes and favors, this novelty is sure to be a success with children and grownups alike. As the pie illustrated each little witch, with her bright white spotted dress and apron, red cardboard hat and tiny broom, is attached to a string at the end of which is a suitable favor. Weird red "devils" and ugly black cats are perched on the handle of the basket.

College Training For Women.

Rev. Marion Leroy Burton, the new president of Smith college, who has recently returned from a year's travel abroad, during which he studied European educational institutions at close range, is enthusiastic over the more universal demand for college training for women.

"No one can say how much greater Abraham Lincoln would have been had he had the advantages of a college education," said President Burton.

"I believe that in this modern age every boy and girl should be prepared for college. It is a fallacy to assert that in many instances valuable time is lost in college. That is not and never can be true.

"The women of foreign lands are realizing more and more the value of a college training and in common with college women everywhere are progressing in the desire for better physical training, realizing that with good health comes the power to work mentally. The women on this side have their college sports just as the boys and girls are trained for college from early youth, while abroad a college course is more in the nature of an event."

Little Misses' School Clothes.

The small girl nowadays never wears the confines of her older sister as she used to some seasons ago. Probably the changed conditions of things has been brought about by the cheap and smartly cut children's garments that the shops are carrying and the many stylish designs for simple and suitable clothes that the pattern people are getting out—such easy fit ble dresses to make that any mother who sews ordinary dressmaking skill can successfully turn them out.

The coat illustrated is one of the season's best models for everyday wear. It is of checked—black and white—serge, with collar and cuffs of bright red velvet. Inlaid in black.

The frock pictured is of red serge, a somewhat dressy affair, trimmed with buttons of Persian colored silk edged with red velvet ribbon. The silk is of black satin and the belt of black patent leather.

THEY WON'T BREAK.

The New Corsets Proof Against Bending and Stooping.

THE FLEXIBLE CORSET.

Every woman who does her own housework and every woman who suffers from low, too solid flesh knows to her regret how easily corset steels break when she bends over. Here is a corset which is warranted to withstand the most strenuous exercising and hold its own unbroken.

The steels are made of some sort of spiral steel which rebounds with every motion of the wearer. They are something new and will be a comfort to womankind, as they are shapely and there is no outward appearance of "common sense," which mars so many of the hygienic garments.

A Typewriter and a Princess. Times do change.

Even a dozen years ago the thought of sending a typewriter and a princess all in one breath would have seemed shockingly incongruous.

But not so now. Princesses are very much up to date.

They would every bit as soon bang away on a typewriter as to laboriously dip a gold tipped quill into a bottle of ink and indite their thoughts with laborious dignity.

No less a personage than Princess Mary, the only daughter of the king and queen of Great Britain, has recently learned to use a typewriter and can now write some of her father's more private correspondence. The princess intends to learn stenography also and is keenly looking forward to helping her mother.

Bridge Prizes.

Silver sets for running ribbons of various widths through lingerie make an excellent simple prizes for bridge or euchre. There are usually four "leading" lines in bookings are called in each set, and in little brocaded covers, as they are, become attractive as well as useful. Another pretty trifle that every girl likes to have is a small housewife for her sewing bag. A tiny lace and emery cushion, a small pair of scissors, a needlecase and sometimes a ery bit of silver mounted and joined together—are desirable and not expensive.

So great is the fad for bridge scores of various kinds that they are always excellent gifts for men as well as women. Most elaborate are some of the newest pads and books, being quite the go for the latest fashion and having small reminders of the trump so arranged as to change it after each hand. Pencils accompany them, and the cases may be used again when the original scores have been exhausted.

Smart School Blouse.

For school wear a plaid blouse is always good style worn with a dark skirt. The material may be either silk or one of the new worsted plaids that are as soft and silky as the latter fabric. These woven plaids come with the name on them of the clan to which they belong, so if one is of Scottish descent they may sport their own particular "plaidie."

The blouse illustrated has a narrow vest of navy blue taffeta with simulated buttonholes and small buttons covered with the silk which also edges the wide standing pique collar. There is the change in the new shirt waists except that most of them when not of white have the long shoulder effect and are often made in one with the bodice portion.

A Mind's All Right, But—

It is all right for a woman to have a mind of her own if she keeps it to herself and lets the man think his is the only mentality in the neighborhood.

To prevent explosions of coal dust in mines, experiments are under way in Germany in which water is pumped into the coal seams under pressure. It is forced into fissures and, after it is pumped out, the coal can be broken down with picks without blasting.

A Washington Industry.

New Zealand Expert Finds It Dying in British Guiana and West Indies.

"Any fear of competition with the sugar growers of British Guiana and the West Indies may be dismissed by the planters of Louisiana," So said Ernest W. Ludwig, an expert sugar chemist, of Washington, D. C., who has but more recently of Demerara.

Mr. Ludwig has just arrived after a tour of the West Indies, where he looked over the situation thoroughly, investigating sugar conditions, methods and prospects with an eye to settling down on some of the islands. After deliberation he decided to come to Louisiana, where he believes the greatest opportunities are to be found.

Mr. Ludwig is charmed with New Orleans and commented on the activity apparent in the streets.

"Is all America like this?" he asked. "It is different from what one finds in England.

"Much of it I know comes from your sugar traffic, and of course that interests me directly. You people are so progressive. Even the little that I have been able to see of the means you employ to get results show wonderful advances over those methods one finds in any other sugar growing countries. In Guiana, for instance, they are behind the times woefully. I am told that there is more there that you have not here. I mean the Hindu labor. It is amazing what the planters of Demerara have been able to accomplish by the aid of the coolie. The negro was tried, but he would not do the work. He will not stand the long hours, the steady and continuous labor that the coolie will. Also he demands more pay for what he does. But with the Hindu, who comes from the most frugal country there, that is not the case. The Hindu, of the lowest caste or all the caste, third, generation is an almost different man from his heathen forefathers.

"But even with the introduction of the Hindu and the advantage he has been to the sugar planter there British Guiana is passing as a producer of sugar.

"The West Indies also from what I saw of them are in a bad way. In the Barbadoes, for instance, for a couple of months, I found pretty much the same condition of things that exist in Guiana. The negro, with his indolence and his numerical superiority there, is living out chances the islands might have of ultimately becoming a factor in the sugar production of the world. Of course I barbadoes. She is in a class by herself.

"Certainly, unless Cuba is caught "wilfully different means, copying the advanced methods of you Americans, there is no hope for Cuba. Japan, however, is coming to the fore. In the Formosa sugar district Japan is raise sugar and meeting with some success. Only once I believe that she will accomplish much."

Praise for Britain.

The German explorer, Dr. Carl Peters, has left his previous pronouncement about his latest discoveries in East Africa. Germany has to thank this resolute man for most of her East African possessions. He also claims to be the discoverer of the mineral ore of the Rand, and was the first to interest the interest of the German banker and financier of the Anglo-German agreement of 1890. For some time Dr. Peters lived in England with his uncle, Carl Engel, the well-known composer, and he declares that the foundation of German East Africa was practically the consequence of impressions I received in England."

At one time the doctor had strong misgivings about whether he is a staunch admirer of England and its people. He declares that we are a nation of statesmen — the greatest colonizers in the world.

Foreign critics have complained of the British Empire, but Dr. Peters has justified in any people known to history," he says, "it is justified in the British Empire. For more than a century Britain has done her humanity, a man brought to civilization the Indians of British Columbia and the gold fields of Alaska, the Kaffirs of the banks of the Ganges and the caterpillars of Africa. Nowhere has Britain all the Romans did compared with the work done by the Anglo-Saxons on this earth."

The Coronation Saltcellars.

Visitors to the Tower of London may possibly recall the beautiful gold saltcellars which constitute a feature of the regalia of the crown in the Jewel House. They have been used at the coronation banquets ever since the reign of King John.

During the late king's reign an interesting addition was observed at Windsor Castle, showing the design of these coronation saltcellars, and from this it was inferred that for the last 300 years the saltcellars had been used in the form pictured. It seems that the authorities were deceived by the fact that some of the cellars in question had what were taken to be salt spoons, but which were nothing more than ears attached to the upper rim. Believing them to be salt, the officials had not only copied the saltcellars upside down, but they had inserted glass silver spoons to each of the hollow ends.

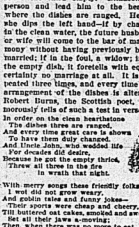
King Edward took personal interest in all matters of detail was well known, and he was delighted at the discovery, and at once sent directions to the Tower commanding that the mistake of centuries should be rectified.

A House in the Air.

In 1861 a balloon of 90,000 cubic feet capacity was constructed at Paris. It was named the Giant and was intended for long aerial possibilities of the air. The car attached consisted of a house, being furnished with every modern comfort, luxurious dining-room, bedroom, kitchen, parlor, etc. Thirteen passengers made the first journey. The journey was of only four hours' duration, but the ascent was for seventeen hours and it was advocated that it was the wind, which when the balloon descended, dragged the car heavily along over the ground. The engines of this car were of 300 h. p. The car, being exhibited in the Crystal Palace in London.

When boiling milk for a custard sweet, sprinkle the bottom of the saucepan with sugar; this dissolves and forms a layer, and so prevents the milk from burning to the bottom. Stir long it boils. It applies to any sweet-meat milk.

HALLOWEEN FUN.



Chanticleer Has His Place In This Year's Revels.

WEIRD ROOM DECORATIONS.

Jack-o'-lantern Centerpiece For Supper Table Surrounded by a Ring of Dancing Witches Made With Paper. A Trick For the Night of Spooks.

Favors and decorations for the night when witches are supposed to hold hideous revel and goblins to walk abroad can be effectively fashioned at home from the simplest materials. A weird effect may be imparted to the room in which the Fates are to be consulted by fastening natural branches to the picture molding all the way round, massing them above doors and windows and draping them with trailing wisps of grey crape paper cut in long quarter inch strips in resemble Florida moss. Fasten small pumpkin lanterns amid the branches and suspend black cardboard bats here and there.

Pumpkins of various sizes, cut from heavy cardboard, covered with crape paper and finished with grinning fastening features made from black tissue, may be scattered over the walls. Cardboard owls and lean specimens of cats with high arched backs and bristling tails may be perched here and there, and vicious looking jack-o'-lanterns—all of crape paper—will supply a startling note of color on mantels and table. As a centerpiece for the latter use a huge jack-o'-lantern lighted from within and surrounded by a ring of dancing witches fashioned from paper and wire.

A cleverly disguised black almond cup is in the form of a witch's hat. The brim is represented by a disk of cardboard covered with black crape paper. The disk is four inches in diameter, and in its center a wire fitted cup and cup is pasted. The tall pointed crown is fashioned like a cornucopia and lightly covered with crape like the muff. The front of the crown is cut away to show the cup. The brim is made of straw colored tissue with a wire bandle.

Another cup gives a child more pleasure than any other kind of fun. And the clever paper merchant has come to the aid of the mother who wishes to help son and daughter transform Hallowe'en into a field day on the backyard roosters. The magnificent animal illustrated here is made of noth-

A Trick For Halloween.

Here is a candle trick for Halloween: Cut out of a large apple two or three inches deep, leaving a hole about the end of a candle. In the center of one end of each one stick a small, round piece of peeled almond. This is the wick. Light it and blow it out when the flame has blackened it. Tell your friends that you once had a friend who was a colonel of a Russian regiment. One winter night he had to eat candles, at the same time blowing out the candles. Then blow them out, pop them into your mouth one after the other and eat them.

For each person in the United States one-third of a pound of tea and a dozen paper napkins are imported from Japan each year.

Paquin has exceeded even his exquisite skill in the charming costume of his which is illustrated today. The gown is of blue chiffon, a bright dark tone draped over the same shade of satin. The striking bat is of blue satin, with a high pointed crown, around which is draped a black band of feathers terminating in a wing-set at an acute and modish angle.

Actress in an Airship.

Mr. Stanley Cooke, an English theatrical manager, was considerably perturbed recently by the contents of a letter received from Miss Ola Humphrey, his leading lady.

The letter stated that she proposed going from Munich to Oberammergau in order to witness the Passion play and that the first twenty-five miles would be accomplished in an airship, the remainder in a motor car. The letter also contained instructions in case of an accident.

Mr. Cooke immediately telegraphed, begging Miss Humphrey not to attempt the flight, but it was too late. Miss Humphrey, young lady, accompanied by five gentlemen, had already left Munich in their airship on the journey. Mr. Cooke's fears were allayed by the receipt of an enthusiastic telegram announcing the safe arrival of the party.

Miss Humphrey, when interviewed after her trip, admitted she felt very nervous as the time approached for the start, and as the airship rose out of the earth apparently receded the whole of her past life flashed through her mind. Once on a par with the air a feeling of great exhilaration as the flight was made majestically over an ever changing panorama.

Miss Ola Humphrey, who is a Californian actress now in London, is enchanted with her experience that she has decided to take up aeroplaning directly after the run of "The Man From Mexico" and has already written to Mr. Grahame-White with a view to being instructed in the art of flying.

Woman's World

The Strenuous Life—Old and Young Women in the Race.

© 1910, by American Press Association.

MRS. BOLENS—MISS ELEANOR SEARS.

Old and young, for pleasure and for profit, women are keeping shoulder to shoulder with men in their strenuous race for the successes that come from mighty effort. Whether in the field of business, philanthropy or athletic sports the race is to the swift.

For several years Miss Eleanor Sears has been accounted the most strenuous and successful of women in the all round athletic class. This favored Boston society girl handles the ribbons over thoroughbred horses with the best of the crack whips and drives her motor cars like a professional chauffeur. She sails a boat with the best of them, plays tennis and makes wonderful drives on the golf links. Probably at this moment she is having an impromptu cousins game for a "daping" trip.

Miss Sears has all the energy that should belong to youth and health, but more remarkable still is the career of Mrs. Sarah Bolens, who, at eighty years of age, is a successful editor of a paper at Port Washington. Wm. Bolens society girl bandit in the editorial rooms of her paper, the Star, and those in the office say that she knows more than any one else about its makeup.

Mrs. Bolens is intellectually bright and entertaining. Her memories of the early editors of Wisconsin are unimpaired, and she can tell interesting anecdotes of many of them.

Stirring times are Mrs. Bolens' for of her childhood days, when the women were men's clothes and carried rifles. During the Civil war, while her husband, father and brothers were enlisted in the Union army, Sarah Bolens was publishing a newspaper, and she became the official bend of the Star upon the death of her husband, a position she is now filling, although in her eightieth year.

Buy Christmas Gifts Now.

This is a good time, with the Christmas presents if a wise selection is made. Silk stockings are a favorite gift to girls and can be had for less now than in December. If, however, you find lovely ones in lace effects for almost nothing, remember that lace stockings are almost unrecognized now by fashionable women, and the fewer lie in a sheer, thin silk with clocks or solid embroidery in self tones.

You may be tempted again to get that feather boa which is so much cheaper than any you ever saw. Perhaps you think it will be just the gift for the friend to whom you are under social obligations. A sensible answer to the "Why?" would reveal that feather boas are conspicuous by their absence this year. If it be the purchase for some girl who does not keep to the top notch of fashion, the embarrassment to the friend who does.

In purchasing bargains for gifts go in less for personal things than for dainty pieces of china, glass, silver or antiques that are much reduced. It is an excellent time to buy wedding presents if there is an appalling array of brides for the autumn.

Bits of jewelry, novel baptips or belt buckles that are in good style for Christmas gifts are not expensive. The same cannot be said of neckwear and blouses. A pretty camisole over or combination and a few odds and ends will invariably make an acceptable gift.

Wise Brevities.

Abandon the impulse of the moment; attitude, dress and style you will feel different in the morning.

Truth is fragile, short lived, unobtrusive and never calls for a second time.

Artists teach outsiders where to look for beauty and to discover it in places where they have not seen it before.

Education does not mean putting into a child's mind knowledge of facts or even cramming him with our own religious opinions.

It is no isolated phenomenon of the twentieth century to find together the highest ideals and the most contemptible meanness.

Tungsten lamps, made with short and strong filaments to withstand shocks are coming into use for automobile headlights, their small voltage being an advantage over carbon filament lamps.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

Jos Downey Gets a Present.

Gosiph, Nov. 10.—By presenting him with $1,000 in gold and his wife with a huge bouquet of American beauty roses, the citizens of Guelph, showing a fine disregard for all political partisanship, yesterday honored J. P. Downey, ex-M.P.P., superintendent of the Orillia asylum, at a public meeting, which was held in the council chamber of the City Hall, with Mayor G. D. Hastings presiding. People of both political parties contributed to-wards the generous gift to the former member for South Wellington, and people of both parties took part in centering the honor upon him, as a token of recognition for the service he had done the province in general, and the south riding of Wellington in particular.

Baptist Women's Convention.

Woodstock, Nov. 10.—Woodstock was invaded yesterday by 400 women delegates to the annual convention of the Baptist Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of Western Ontario. Mayor Scarff officially welcomed the delegates at the First Baptist Church, and the reports showed that $16,622.97 was raised for all missionary purposes during the year.

These officers were elected: President, Mrs. Hutchcock of Toronto; first vice-president, Mrs. J. McLaughlin; second vice-president, Mrs. J. J. Ross.

Dead Under Suspicious Circumstances

Selkirk, Man., Nov. 10.—Rachel St. Clair, a young woman living here, was found dead near her father's home Tuesday night, and a young man, who had been in her company several times recently, is being detained, while the police investigate the circumstances. The girl is supposed to have collapsed from violent hemorrhage, causing a fatal accident.

Dandruff Causes Falling Hair and Baldness

BALDNESS AND ITCHING SCALP ARE CAUSED BY MICROBES.

There is no doubt about it. Dan-derine Sabourand'ot when he inferred a guiness pig with dandruff germs and all its hair disappeared in a short time. The entire medical world has confirmed its. Sabourand's discovery as final. Ask any worthy physician.

Parisis heads the world in know-ledge of diseases of the hair and remedies for the same.

And Parisian Sage which can now be obtained at leading drug-gists all over Canada is the one great remedy that kills the dandruff germs.

And that is why I. C. Weir says to every reader of the Intelligencer if Parisian Sage does not banish dandruff, stop falling hair or itching scalp in two weeks, he will refund the purchase price.

Dandruff is the forerunner of baldness. Take care of your hair while you have hair to take care of. Kill the dandruff germs now before the dandruff germs kill the hair.

Use Parisian Sage, the guaranteed dandruff cure and delightful hair dressing.

It is used extensively by ladies of refinement, because it keeps the scalp absolutely clean and gives a twitching fascination to the hair. Price 50 cents at J. V. Doyle's and leading druggists everywhere. Girl with Auburn hair on every package. Made in Canada by Parisian Mfg. Co., Far. Erie, Ont. Mail orders filled, all charges prepaid.

"I was told of your great remedy, Parisian Sage, that it would grow hair on bald heads, so I got a bottle and tried it, and it is fine. I am a young man and was bald. Now I have a splendid nail on the top of my head, and now I have hair one inch long with the use of only one bottle. I shall certainly keep on using it until I have a good head of hair, which I have no doubt you will bring."—Oscar Armstrong, engineer, Belleville, Horseshoe and Rolling Mill Co., Belleville, Ont., Aug. 21, 1909.

Will Have No Effect.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—There was no meeting of the Tariff Commissioners yesterday. Referring to the negotiations which have been in progress, Hon. W. S. Fielding said yesterday that they were generally speaking of a confidential character, but that when the right moment comes, that fact is available will be given to the press.

"What do you think of the results of the elections in the States yesterday?" was asked of Messrs. Fielding and Hoyt, the two representatives of the United States Government now in the city, discussing reciprocity with the Dominion Government.

"When an avalanche starts, it usually carries everything before it, and that is what happened in this case," was the laconic answer.

"Do you think the results will in any way affect the reciprocity situation?"

"We don't see how it can," they said.

"Were you surprised at the results?"

"Not in the slightest; we expected just what happened."

Shot By a Workman.

Deloraine, Man., Nov.10.—George Wright, contractor, on the Canadian Northern construction, was shot and seriously wounded by a McIntyre, one of his workmen, Tuesday night. The men had had some words after McIntyre had been paid off, and he pulled a revolver, firing instantly. The bullet struck Wright in the nose and lodged in the back of his head. The affair took place at a camp a few miles from Winnipeg, and the wounded man was hurried there, where he now lies in a serious state. McIntyre decided at first to come to town and give himself up, but changed his mind and escaped on a freight train.

Equimault Naval Yard Handed Over.

Victoria, Nov. 10.—The Esquimault naval yard was handed over to the Dominion of Canada by the Imperial authorities at noon yesterday. The transfer was made by Capt. Vivian of H.M.S. Shearwater, and was accepted by C. J. Desbarats, Canadian Deputy Minister of Naval Affairs, in the presence of Rear Admiral Kingsmill, Commander Roper and Capt. Stewart of the Rainbow. The naval yard will, therefore, in future be under the command of Capt. Stewart. The chief difference made by the change is that the expense of maintaining the yard and dry dock will henceforth be borne by Canada instead of Great Britain.

Town Marshal Arrested.

Stettler, Alta., Nov. 10.—On Sunday morning last about 2.30 Sergt. Ensor and Corporal Davis of the mounted police raided a gambling house at Castor, and arrested ten poker players. The proprietors of the joint were fined $50 and costs and the frequenters of the place $20 and costs each.

Later in the night the town marshal was arrested on two charges of having bribed by the gamblers, and he was committed for trial and removed in custody.

Gambling His Downfall.

Brandon, Man., Nov. 10.—Several people here are looking for Charles Seeley, formerly bookkeeper for a local furniture store. He disappeared about a week ago, and examination of his books indicate a shortage of about $600. He also handled funds of a fraternal society, and the books of that affairs is found in its books. He has fled to the United States, and is supposed to be still there. His troubles are attributed to gambling.

Steamer in Distress.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—The Italian steamer Mira, from London, arrived here yesterday and reported that on Nov. 1, about 5.30 p.m. in latitude 34.35, longitude 50.18 west, she spoke a steamer with shaft broken and proceeding under sail. The disabled steamer wanted to be towed, but the Mira did not have sufficient coal to take it to Bermuda.

A Year for Indecent Assault.

Guelph, Nov. 10.—A year in the Central Prison was the sentence meted out to Norman King of this city by Judge Chadwick yesterday, on a charge of indecent assault.

A Narrow Escape.

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—Arch. Hoxsey, in his Wright biplane, attempted to break the altitude record. He succeeded, but only just. From a spectator's view it seemed that when about 2,000 feet high the intrepid airman would be dashed to the earth. Suddenly he got a partial control of the machine, and zig-zagged to earth, lighting with a jump from his machine. His escape was considered miraculous. The machine is badly damaged.

Originated Garden School.

St. Catharines, Nov. 10.—Lincoln County lost one of its pioneer public teachers late Tuesday night, when James Painter died at Jordan after a short illness. It is stated that the deceased was the originator of the school garden system in Ontario, and was the best and most successful in Ontario. He was organist in Jordan Methodist Church, and had been for some time secretary-treasurer of Lincoln County Teachers' Association.

Death for Conspirators.

Tokio, Nov. 10.—Twenty-seven persons have been found guilty of conspiring to assassinate the Emperor of Japan, and the special court, which tried them, recommended that all be put to death.

The ringleader in the plot was found to be a Japanese named Kotoku. His wife was also one of the conspirators. She is the only woman involved.

Johns Hopkins' Professor Dead.

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—Dr. Marshall Elliot, professor of Roman language at Johns Hopkins University, and one of the foremost scholars of the world in that field of literature, died here yesterday after a lingering illness.

Three Hangings.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Moses Cook, white; Love Bond and Johnson Cosson, colored, were hanged here yesterday. Cook and Bond died for wife murder, and Cosson for robbing and killing a boy.

A Concrete Sow.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 10.—The first sow to be thrown over the locks built entirely of re-inforced concrete, was launched at Port Dalhousie yesterday.

Rioting Continues.

New York, Nov. 10.—Mayor Gaynor issued two characteristic letters to-day in connection with the strike of the strike of express company employees in Jersey City. He forbids the formation of wagons by unlicensed drivers, and threatening the strikebreakers of which the companies have depended. More than 10,000 strikers and those augmented by most of the taxicab chauffeurs in New York, are still on the streets and picketing.

A gang of armed strikers overturned a loaded Adams express wagon yesterday, and after driving off three of the wagon men attacked John Smith, a guard, whom they beat nearly into unconsciousness, and sent the horses galloping down the street.

One of the worst riots occurred in Jersey City yesterday. Drivers of four machines were attacked by strikers.

Charles Fredericks, a meat inspector, was arrested on the charge of a disturbance on First avenue, with a fractured skull.

A loaded truck belonging to a big furniture house, whose employees have struck, was set on fire, and the furniture destroyed.

To Be Tried for Murder.

Goderich, Nov. 10.—Edward Jardine was committed for trial on a charge for the murder of Lizzie Anderson on Sept. 20, by Magistrate John Kerr yesterday.

Thomas Jardine, brother of Edward, was let go at the same time, when the magistrate dropped the charge that he was an accessory after the fact, for want of sufficient evidence.

Considerable interest was produced when within the same hour that Edward Jardine was released on bail against Thomas Jardine, charging him with perjury, in connection with his evidence before the coroner's investigation. Curiously enough, Jardine was allowed to leave the court without being placed under arrest, though County Constable Seager was present. The information laid against him.

The attorney declined to cite any specific instances of alleged perjury.

Caught Between the Cars.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 10.—Charles Edwards, London, a Michigan Central brakeman, died in the general hospital early yesterday from injuries sustained at Montrose yards near here Tuesday midnight. Edwards was pinned between two cars he was attempting to couple.

A Pair of Liars.

Kingston, Nov. 10.—Frank Bennett and Cora Bangs, charged with bigamy, told a lie when they stated that they were married six months ago in Syracuse, N.Y. They will be deported. The woman said she was compelled to take up streets as her husband was out of work.

Burglar Gets Two Years.

Woodstock, Nov. 10.—Joseph Martens, who was arrested in Toronto after escaping from the Ontario Reformatory, was yesterday sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary on three charges of burglary, committed in this city.

Second Victim of Gas.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Joseph Naylor, 55 Jersey Avenue, died in the Western Hospital early yesterday morning of coal gas poisoning, from which his son had died in their home the previous night.

Coroner Cotton decided that as death was plainly accidental no inquest was necessary.

A Polychromatic Squirrel.

South Magnetawan, Nov. 10.—A white squirrel with red head and bushy brown tail, fell to the gun of James Wilson of Toronto, who recently returned to the city from a hunting trip to the north.

HEADACHE AND EYESTRAIN.*
Continued

I do not need to say to you that there are a large number of people who have a small amount of refractive power, who never suffer from any of the symptoms of eye-strain, and who are in good health, but should they become reduced in health, they will then feel the eye-strain.

Asthenopia from External Ocular Muscles.

Anomalies of the external ocular muscles are also a fruitful cause of eye-strain, and when accompanied by a refractive error are often relieved by the correction of the refractive error alone, or if of larger amount must be treated by graduated exercise or by tenotomy of the offending muscle. Phenomenes have been much in vogue in the past, but have now been largely given up, even by those who were the strongest advocates in former days.

To be continued.

ALLOWED TO GO

Sheldon Under The Influence of Liquor When He Took Gloves.

Before Magistrate Masson this morning Frank Sheldon was brought up on a charge of stealing a pair of gloves from Mr. Bargman's store. It was clearly shown that Sheldon at the time was under the influence of liquor and did not realize what he was doing. As Mr. Bargman had no desire to prosecute and the gloves were returned to him, the Magistrate, after giving the accused some timely advice, allowed him to go. Sheldon had already spent a week in jail. He made a solemn promise to refrain from the use of intoxicants. Mr. Northrup, K.C., appeared in Sheldon's behalf.

THE LATE MRS. HUDSON.

Despite the inclement weather this afternoon, a large number were present at the obsequies of the late Mrs. W. P. Hudson. At the family residence, Bridge Street West, an impressive service was conducted by the Rev. A. S. Kerr, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, of which deceased was an active member. That Mrs. Hudson had many friends was evidenced by the numerous and beautiful floral tributes which were sent. Interment took place at Belleville cemetery. The bearers were Col. Lazier, Col. Thompson, Col. Stewart, Messrs. W. McGee, H. Walker, W. J. Campbell, B. Mallory and J. Leslie.

GOVERNMENT WILL EXTEND AID TO INDIAN SCHOOLS

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—A conference took place in the office of Hon. Frank Oliver, minister of interior, of all Indian affairs, on the subject of Indian boarding school work, Government aid. Those who have the more immediate control and direction of Indian boarding schools throughout Canada, were represented.

While in Mr. Oliver's opinion the boarding schools situated on or near reserves were the more valued factor in educating the Indian, the relations of these schools to the Government had always been indeterminate. While in some cases the buildings had been erected by the Department, in others largely, and the schools been erected by the churches as missionary enterprises in the early days of the country's settlement, and the Government had been called upon from time to time to improve these properties to render the schools efficient. His present policy was to enter into an arrangement whereby the whole management would be covered by a contract between the Government and the churches, whereby the responsibilities of each to the other would be definitely fixed, and that the financial efforts in which the churches found themselves, owing to the general increased cost of living and the extraordinary demands made upon their finances, on account of the expansion of evangelical work in the young country, owing to its rapid settlement, would in a measure be relieved by the Government.

After some slight amendment it was unanimously decided to adopt Mr. Oli ver's suggestions, as meeting all reasonable demands for several years to come.

The school authorities are required to sign a contract with the Government to limit the number of pupils in residence, so as to prevent overcrowding, to provide for medical examination of the children to be admitted, give the Government control over the staff and other conditions which provide for general improvement, also providing for improvements in existing buildings which will bring them up to a particular standard.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN BRENNAN.

Mrs. John Brennan passed away last evening at her home on Strachan Street. Deceased, who was 80 years of age, was born in Limerick County, Ireland, but had lived in this city the greater portion of her life. Mrs. Brennan was a member of St. Michael's Church. An aged husband survives, but no family.

RESTORED TO HEALTH BY VINOL

Rev. D. Schneider, who is a well-known minister in Rice Lake, Wis., writes,

"I had a very severe stomach trouble last year from which I was kept in bed three months. I had engaged the services of a doctor, but no avail. I then read of Vinol and determined to try a bottle. Before it was used up I was out of bed, and four bottles made me a well man. Vinol is a splendid medicine and I can gladly recommend it."

Prominent men from all over the country do not hesitate to endorse this wonderful tonic.

For twelve years Vinol has been sold on the "money back" plan and every year strengthens its popularity and proves by continued tests that it will do what we claim for it. J. S. McKeown.

JUMPED FROM TRAIN

Mr. Lasher Dies From Injuries In Hospital Here.

On Saturday evening, Oct. 29th, Wm. Lasher, a man about 35 years age, jumped from a swiftly moving express train on the line of the G.T.R. between this city and Trenton. It is alleged that Lasher boarded the wrong train, intending to proceed westward, whereas the train he boarded was coming eastward. Discovering his mistake, he jumped from the train, sustaining injuries of such a nature as to cause death, which occurred at the hospital here this morning. Concussion of the brain is given as the cause of death. The remains were taken to Tickell & Son's undertaking establishment, where, after being prepared for burial, they were shipped to relatives at Campbellford for interment. Deceased was unmarried and had been travelling upon the road for some time.

THE CHEESE BOARD

At the local cheese market this afternoon it was apparent that many factories have closed down for the season, as the number of cheese boarded only 734 boxes. All were purchased by W.S. Cook & Son at 10 7-8c.

A discussion took place with reference to joining with the other parts of Ontario in sending a deputation to Ottawa on Dec. 15th, and was adjourned for one week. The object of the deputation going is to urge upon the Government the necessity of forming better trade relations with the United States.

In The Wide World Of Woman.

sen of many nations have pronounced the Princess Henry of Pless the most beautiful woman they have ever seen. She inherited her charms from her mother, Mrs. Cornwallis-West, who was regarded a famous English beauty when in her prime, less than a generation ago. The Princess Henry is a pronounced blond of medium height, slender and graceful, with gray eyes and a perfect complexion. In 1901, at the age of seventeen, she married Prince Hans Heinrich of Pless. The wedding caused a great deal of talk because she was simply titles from commoner. Busybodies immediately started to look up Miss West's family tree, and it was found that she was a direct descendant of King Henry III. of England. She is nicknamed the princess with the golden locks," is very fond of yachting, hunting and sport in general, and the German newspapers hold up their hands to horror when she rides to hounds and shoots pheasants in the royal parks at Berchtesgaden. Prince Henry is of the Silesian nobility and his father's death inherited a fortune of $20,000,000. The latest craze of smart English society is tattooing, and Princess Henry of Pless is said to be skillful with the needle.

PRINCESS HENRY OF PLESS AND HER SONS.

Where Matrimony Scores.

Dr. Jacques Bertillon, the eminent French physician and an acknowledged authority, announces the conclusion that matrimony is the greatest aid to longevity. He says if men and women would reach a good old age they must marry. This, he says, is established by statistics gleaned from all over the world. A married man or woman has, he says, twice the chance of a good long run as a bachelor or a spinster. In further illustration of his contention that the wedded life is best for men he shows that the mortality among widowers is greater than the average among married men. So he recommends them to look out for a new partner—that is, if they can, if they are under sixty. This is his advice to young men:

"Marry. You will do well, even from a selfish standpoint. But watch carefully over your wife's health, as even from this egotistical point of view her loss will be a terrible misfortune, for your life depends in a great measure on her own."

Dr. Bertillon finds that the mortality among widows is much greater than among married women of the same age. The death rate of widows from twenty to twenty-five years of age, he says, is twice that of married women of the same age.

But the doctor very gallantly finds that women have less need for men than men have for women. Men are less careful of their habits and are unable to live so near the ideal life when deprived, either by design or circumstance, of the watchful care of a wife. When we live under the rule of matrimony we die "when people leave this influence they suffer, he concludes.

New Pack Bag.

A new pack bag plan that is being tried this year with great acclaim on the part of youthful patrons of tenants is called the "old lady with 100 pockets."

The old lady is a huge figure (which may be constructed over a large barrel by way of sorting time), dressed in a hoopskirt of wide-corrugated gown and bonnet and carrying a big cotton umbrella.

In her dress are hidden away 100 pockets, in each of which a little fee or ten cent gift is tucked away. On the outside of each pocket is pinned a number, or this may be chalked there. The lucky carrying his dime or nickel specifies what pocket he wishes the contents of, and this is immediately given him. Some one must be at hand, of course, to receive the money and to look and help and to deliver up the contents of her numerous pockets.

The Asparagus Cure.

The latest is the asparagus cure taken in Switzerland. The natives find it palatable, as is the case with most cures. But they anything for an excuse to go to Switzerland.

Dowager Queen Losing Interest.

Alexandra, the dowager queen of England, is said to have changed greatly since the death of King Edward. The illness of her husband, the failing away of the social interest that formerly centered around her and the loss of prestige have hurt her greatly. She shuns the sorrow and care in her face that for years preserved its wonderful freshness and appearance of youth. Her daughters have become married, and it has caused her to retire more and more within herself than formerly. She is said to be wonderfully wise in clubs and fight, bearted. She was interested in outdoor sports, being a skilful skater, an intrepid horsewoman and an enthusiastic follower of the hounds. Despite the fact that after the birth of the princess royal she was left with an affection of the right knee joint, she did quite up horseback riding. Instead she learned to ride on low motor cars. But all these things no longer appeal to her. She is content to take her airing in a carriage or take a gentle stroll about the grounds.

New Bed Covers.

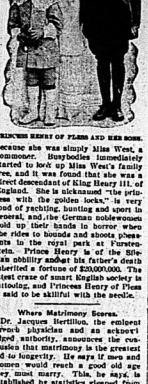
Among the smartest of the new bed covers are those of printed dimity or French stamped damask. These are made with a border to pay colors to match the wall decoration and on top of the bed have a large wreath or oval of flowers.

The corners are made long enough to hang over the bed, almost to the floor all around, and are drawn up over the bolster roll.

Another good looking cover is in cream colored embroidered net over a figured damask in all over pattern. The coloring is a soft ecru. This, too, is brought over the roll that is used by day.

Many women who have cotton sheets patched by their grandmothers will be delighting them not in this day of printed covers. This is only possible when the coloring is harmonious, as when the old quilts show wonderful stitchery and little taste. Those quilts of to-day while in intricate designs are artistic even to modern notions.

Inexpensive Table Pads.



A woman who feels she cannot afford a heavy silence cloth to place between the linen and her dining table can make the same most inexpensively.

Let her take two layers of cheese cloth over which to stitch a small, flat layer of cotton batting. Then with fine thread here and there, just as the quilter does her comforter, run a small, the paper gives the necessary body and protection, and there is no woody fiber to mar the shiny surface of the table when a hot dish is put upon it.

Milady's Mirror

If you would keep your looks beyond their natural limit practice self control. Nothing so quickly wrecks the nerves, hence the looks, as letting oneself go.

It may be easier to fly into a rage at trivialities, to pucker the face with worry or to shake with fear, but the habit of so doing is keeping young learns to quell these emotions in the interest of nerve-force.

Have you ever stopped to consider what unchecked anger takes out of you? Leaving aside the question for your victim or a regard for comfortable conditions around, "getting mad" makes one physically and mentally, and nerves suffer.

Have you never said "I feel as weak as a rag" after indulging in a temper? The next time you make that remark set the blame in the right place. Learn that rage is weakening and aging and you will have taken a long step toward self control.

Cowardice as an emotion is debasing to the spirit. It is also writing to the flesh and destructive of nervous force. The woman who lives in a terror of fear, getting "info" an equal panic whether she sees wrinkles or a mouse, or who is afraid of her own shadow, or yacht, is the woman who will soon be her years—and more.

If nervous peace is to be yours keep a grip on your emotions. Love not nor hate not, fret not nor fear one, and not nor rage not—in excess. Better a calculating character than a nervous body—if the choice must be made. The mistake lies in thinking emotions controlled are emotional beings. One makes for strength—so surely as the other is a sign of weakness.

A White Threat.

At this season the girl or wife who has gone colorless the summer through is beginning to be anxious about the state of her complexion. The days of drastic treatment is at hand if her pact is to look well in winter. The skin is browned from exposure to the sun.

To whiten it rub it each night with lemon juice, letting it stay on all night. If there are rough places in the skin it can be gone over with a fine pumice stone before using the lemon.

In the morning rinse off with warm water, which a little almond meal has been dissolved. This will leave the skin smooth as silk.

A home-made bleach is made from eight ounces of alcohol, four ounces of rosewater and a teaspoonful of tincture of benzoin. Sometimes this piece of linen in the liquid and pin the cloth through and let it stay on for an hour. Then massage with a good cucumber cream.

Take It For What It's Worth.

Pork is not commonly reported to be a hygienic food, and assuredly it has no aesthetic associations. It is therefore some what surprising to hear a diet of pork recommended by a beauty seeker. Such is the latest dictum, however, and by all odds the wisest we are asked to note the clear, velvety skin of the country girls with whom pork is a staple article of diet. Pork is supposed to produce this velvety effect by supplying oily matter to the skin. It is not a short of natural cosmetic and is much less expensive than the cosmetic by modern employ to counteract the harmfulness of pork in the case of their complexions. In the absence of pork, bacon is recommended.

Use a Medicine Ball.

A medicine ball is a good possession for any one shut up in an office all day. A few minutes spent in throwing it will send the blood coursing through the veins, dancing and bowling are both admirable exercises for those who need exercise, and every office worker should have the same opportunity of practicing them. And in any case she ought to do all the outdoor walking she can, both to the day without overwearing herself.

To Restore Hair Hair.

When fair hair begins to lose luster it is a good plan to apply olive oil liberally, comb the hair thoroughly and then expose it for some hours to the direct rays of the sun. This exposure may be repeated on the following day, and on the third day the hair may be washed. It deemed necessary with warm soap lather and be rinsed.

The Touch of a Target.

Brown—Jones, do you feel Jones, when the burglar has gone and you are left to revolver—pretty small, eh? Doesn't small? Great Scott, that I'm as big as the side of a house.—Boston Transcript.

Try Mrs. Wiggs' Way.

It was "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," years ago as exchange, who used compliments instead of spankings in bringing up her children, and there is not up to date mother who has two very well behaved children who says that the keynote of her success with them is that she says "don't" instead of "don't" when her youngsters are in need of correction or direction. The consistent following of this simple principle requires thought and quick wit. The first impulse when there is mischief or disorder being made or some other reprehensible business going on is to cry "don't" but this as illustrated by drawing attention to the opposite of a child's actions awakens interest and is far more effective in correction. "I am sure the idea of saying 'do' instead of 'don't' is the right one," says this mother. "Of course it is not always possible to observe this rule, but whenever one can I believe in the substitution of the positive for the negative. In other words, the child's mind is given something definite to work upon. No child likes to be nagged, and constantly saying 'don't' amounts to nagging."

When Selfishness is Justice.

Selfishness to a certain point is not only allowable, but commendable. The mother who, meaning to be unselfish, allows her husband and children to ride over her recognized in not only impressing trouble for herself, but still worse, trouble for those whom she is spoiling day by day. She would be doing her duty more truly by her family if she remembered that she, as well as they, had certain rights which must be respected and preferences which must be heeded.

A family is a little kingdom in which the mother and father are sovereigns, who must rule justly, rendering justice to all, themselves among the number, if the kingdom is to remain happy and prosperous. Mother as queen, must fit herself to stand comparison with other queens, so that her growing sons and daughters may not justly proudly and loudly that "no other king—or girl—reigns like" to hold a candle to ours."

Our duty to ourselves begins when we first realize that the world contains an interesting person called "I" and continues as long as that person remains in this troublesome world.

THE TWO STORY HAT.
Paris Says Well
Wear It This Season.

CAP AND HAT COMBINED.

The freakishness of one hat does not seem to be sufficient for the purposes of the milliners this season, for they have launched a two storied, double decker arrangement with which to lure their customers and to raise the price of their wares.

This latest confection is, as you can see from the picture, a cap of dainty lace or tulle, sometimes of both, worn under a big hat. When the large headpiece is removed nilnoy still is fascinatingly pretty in her neat cap. It is said that this two story hat will be very popular for matinee wear, but when one does not care to wear the big head with a second covering the same may be arrived at by means of a deep lace ruffle sewed inside the crown of the hat.

TUMOR OF YEARS GROWTH
Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"Eleven years ago I went to the Victoria Hospital, Montreal, suffering with a growth in the uterus. The doctors said I was a bad case, and could not be moved, as it would mean instant death. They found that other organs were affected and said could only find more than six months to live. In addition I was in such pain that I saw your advertisement in the paper, and decided taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it constantly for two years, and still take it at times, and both my husband and myself claim that it was the means of saving my life. I highly recommend it to suffering women."—Mrs. Orilla A. Hastings, 466 Johnson Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy—tumor. If you have symptoms of such a dangerous condition, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills.

TROUBLE IN MEXICO.

GOES TO THE PEN FOR THREE YEARS

Glazier, Professional Burglar Sentenced Here To-day

EVIDENCE CONCLUSIVE

Man Was Convicted Of Stealing Jewelry From Bargman's Store.

Before Judge Deroche this morning Thomas Glazier was arraigned on a charge that he did on the night of Oct. 31st, 1910, burglarize the store of Jonas Bargman in this city and steal therefrom a quantity of jewelry. To the indictment Glazier pleaded not guilty. Mr. W. N. Ponton, K.C., appeared for the accused and Mr. Anderson, County Attorney, prosecuted.

In the evidence it was shown that about midnight on the date mentioned Bargman's store was entered and watches, rings, chains, lockets, etc., to the value of between $500 and $600 were taken. Glazier was arrested by Police Officer Thompson, who saw him throw away a bag in a gangway near the upper bridge, which bag was subsequently found to contain the jewelry stolen from the store.

The evidence was conclusive against Glazier and after argument Judge Deroche found him guilty and sentenced him to three years in the Kingston penitentiary.

HUGHES, FORMER GOVERNOR, TO BE CHIEF JUSTICE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Charles E. Hughes, former Governor of New York, is President Taft's selection for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. The President has been inclined toward Associate Justice Hughes from the first, and the longer he has considered the available material the stronger has become his belief that Mr. Hughes is the man for the place. The President is still holding the appointment open, but there is no longer any doubt that Mr. Hughes will be named.

FRENCH SLAIN BY WHOLESALE

(Intelligencer Special.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 11. Reactionaries in Tripoli have made a concentrated attack on the French garrison and nearly three hundred French soldiers were slain, it is said. The agitation was caused by a branch of the same international organization of Nationalists working in the Soudan and India.

LE CANADA HINTS AT NEW ALLIANCE

(Intelligencer Special.)

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—In a vigorous editorial this morning Le Canada condemns Bourassa and shows how he changed front to win the confidence of the English speaking people. The paper hints at an alliance between Monk and Bourassa to make the Nationalist party sweep all Canada.

LE NEVE COMING

(Intelligencer Special.)

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—Following a cable received here that Nobel Cdre Lenevs, Crippen's typist, is on her way to Canada, every steamer arriving here is being watched by a curious crowd. Steamer officials here know nothing about it.

PARIS FLOODS

(Intelligencer Special.)

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Floods are again sweeping several districts of Europe and causing great uneasiness among the people.

MEXICO HAS IMPOSED VIGOROUS CENSORSHIP

Situation Regarded More Seriously Than At First Reported—Attempt Made to Kill United States Ambassador.

(Intelligencer Special.)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 11.—From the fact that the Mexican Government has imposed a rigorous censorship on all despatches out of Mexico City and the district thereabout, corroborates the belief that the situation there following the uprising against United States citizens is more serious than previously reported. That Uncle Sam has demanded an explanation through the ambassador there is believed now.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 10.—Advices received here from Laredo state that rioters in Mexico City today had attempted the life of United State Ambassador Wilson.

Early reports reaching here this morning from Mexico City declare two United States citizens were killed in the mob outbreak last night, besides two Mexicans, who were killed by the police. An American child in a street car is said to have been fatally injured when the car was stoned by a mob.

Other fatalities are said to have occurred on the outskirts of the city, when the mob came upon a young man, also a citizen of the United States, and strung him up, but took his body down before the arrival of the police.

MILLIONAIRE PORK MAN DEAD, ARSENIC PLACED IN HIS FOOD

His Society-Loving Wife And Chauffeur Suspected —Outcome of Schenck Presenting Wife With Cosily Touring Car—Chauffeur Is Being Closely Watched

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 10.—While John Schenck, a millionaire pork packer, died in the hospital from arsenic poisoning to-day, alleged to have been administered by his wife, she was held without bail in jail. A report early in the morning said that Schenck was dead, but this was later denied at the hospital where it was stated that the dying man was in a comatose condition and very low.

The Schenck chauffeur is under surveillance of detectives and he may be accused of being an accessory with Mrs. Schenck.

Mrs. Schenck, a beautiful woman, and well known in society, was arrested at her home by Chief of Police Hinkle. The specific charge which will be made against her if Schenck dies will be murder, although the police claim to have evidence that the chauffeur placed arsenic in Schenck's food at times.

When she arrived the jail created a tremendous sensation to-day. It became known that the Schenck family had retained private detectives some time ago to watch Mrs. Schenck.

The pork packer began complaining of a strange illness. Dr. F. L. Hupp made an examination and pronounced it arsenic poisoning. The detectives who secured positions in the Schenck home as servants learned that Mrs. Schenck and the chauffeur were very friendly. A closer watch revealed a plot, it was charged, to end Schenck's life.

While he was being treated for illness arising from the administering of poison, it is charged that both Mrs. Schenck and the chauffeur placed more arsenic in his food and medicine.

Mrs. Schenck was put through the "third degree" this morning and she stoutly denied her guilt. She said she was surprised to learn that poison had been administered to her husband and asked to be allowed to call upon him at the North Wheeling Hospital. After his return from Europe lately, where he spent the spring and summer, Mr. Schenck purchased the costliest touring car he could find and presented it to his wife. It is the chauffeur of this car who is being watched.

NEWTON MAKES NEW FIGHT FOR CRIPPEN

London, Nov. 11.—A new fight to save Dr. H. H. Crippen from the gallows for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, is being waged to-day by his attorney, Arthur Newton.

A petition which is to be presented on November 15th to Home Secretary Churchill, is being circulated all over the country. It pays for a commutation of the sentence imposed on the convicted dentist. Newton has been working quietly on his petition and already seven thousand signatures have been obtained.

There are many persons who believe Crippen is incapable of intentional murder. They have rallied to his support, and Newton has had little difficulty in obtaining signatures to his petition.

LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—A Lord's Day Alliance meeting here this morning decided to see if Sunday traffic on the London & Lake Erie Railway could not be stopped. Bishop Sweeny, of Toronto, was unanimously re-elected president. This afternoon the following addresses were given: "Sunday Work on Canals," Rev. Dr. Crothers, St. Catharines; "Sunday Trading," C. S. TOO ARDENT KISSES LEAD TO DIVORCE

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 11.—Because her husband in kissing her used either too much ardor or too much strength, and because she objects to osculation as a general proposition, Mrs. Amelia Schmidt is suing for divorce on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment.

The alleged osculation which is the basis of the suit for divorce is said to have occurred on Aug. 6 last at the home of her mother, from which she refused to remove at the suggestion of her husband. He endeavored to kiss her when taking leave of her and she fled into an inner room. He followed. Relatives and friends say he succeeded in implanting a big one on his wife's lips.

SEVERAL CASUALTIES IN APARTMENT HOUSE FIRE IN NEW YORK

(Intelligencer Special.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—One man killed jumping and impaled on a picket fence, one woman burned to death, and several others badly hurt were the casualties resulting from a fire which destroyed the fifth and sixth floors of an apartment house on Manhattan Island this morning. The heroic work of the firemen and efficient appliances prevented a regular holocaust.

Liberals Want Vote On Proposal To Abolish Veto of Lords

SESSION FAILS

Attempt Between Parties To Settle Power Of Lords Ends In Failure

(Intelligence Special.)

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 11.—Leading Liberal papers are this morning editorially calling upon Premier Asquith to place the resignation of the Cabinet in the hands of the King, so that the country can be appealed upon immediately on the proposals to abolish the veto of the House of Lords, upon which a conference of party leaders failed to agree.

London, Nov. 11.—The conference which was organized shortly after the death of King Edward, in an endeavor to secure a settlement of the acute controversy over the question of the veto power of the House of Lords with reference to measures passed by the House of Commons — a controversy aggravated by the refusal of the Upper House to pass the budget—has dissolved without reaching an agreement.

Announcement of the failure of the leaders of the two great political parties to find a solution of the dispute, which has kept British politics in a turmoil for more than a year, was made by Premier Asquith last night, after a meeting of the Cabinet, which followed the earlier gathering of the conference. The official statement does not disclose the cause of the disagreement. It simply says:

"The conference which has been sitting to consider a constitutional question has come to an end, without arriving at an agreement."

The statement adds that the members of the conference had decided not to disclose the course of the negotiations or the causes which led to its termination.

It is understood, however, that the rock on which the conference split was the question of the composition of the joint caucus of both Houses that should adjust the differences arising in the future. The Liberals insisted that the proportion of peers on this committee should be such that the will of the House of Commons would have a fair chance of prevailing. The Conservative members would not agree to the Government's proposals, and their attitude proved unacceptable to the Liberals.

Walter Hume-Long announced last night, on the authority of Mr. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, that neither home rule, imperial federation, nor devolution formed any part of the dissolution speeches. Unofficial previous reports that the conference had confined itself to the constitutional question.

The political situation now reverts to the position it was in before the truce. The conference secured a respite in the controversy over the most acute issue of the day during the period of national mourning, which gives hope that some means will be found to avoid political complications until after the coronation.

ARCHBISHOP BRUCHESI'S WHOLESALE ANNULMENT OF MARRIAGES RAPPED

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 11.—Vigorous condemnation of Archbishop Bruchesi's wholesale annulment of marriages between Protestants and Catholics, solemnized by Protestant clergymen, will be a feature of the discussions at a meeting of the Anglican clergymen here this afternoon. It is expected they will make representations to the Government about it.

TURISH WOMEN HAVE TROUBLE

Get Solemn Warning Against Too Much Familiarity With Store Keepers.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The difficulties in the path or progress of the modern Turkish women are many and varied, for not every Turk is a Young Turk." The majority of the Turks are really Old Turks who do not care to oppose the new form of political government so long as it does not endanger the old faith of the true believers. They have taken advantage of political liberties by forming a society named Jemmiyet Islamiye, the aims of which are, as its title indicates, for the protection of Islam.

The society published on the eve of the great Mohammedan religious festival an appeal to the women of Turkey exhorting them to hold fast to the precepts of the Prophet: "If you wish to be true to Islam," says the appeal, "you must not show your naked face of the true faith!"

CURRENT EVENTS.

The success of the hobble skirt suggests the hobble skirt race for picnic events next summer.

Mr. Bourassa is not a man to be encouraged. Just now he is being taken too seriously by newspapers printed in English. He is getting an exaggerated idea of his own importance and that of his "party." He is being advertised too extensively. Let us hope him!

An elopement in Minnesota was accomplished upon a tottering motorcycle, a parent pursuing in an automobile. Things were about equal until the automobile broke down. The young people were married and on their way home stopped to help pump up the tires. Who would suspect this helpful trait in the rider of a motorcycle toward an automobile?

TOWN TOPICS

Belleville Decides To Enter Irving's League

At Meeting Held Here Last Night Pro. Hockey Gets a Boost--Officers Elected For Eastern Ontario Hockey Association.

A meeting of those interested in professional hockey was held last evening at the Hotel Quinte. The meeting was fairly well attended by those who take an active interest in this exciting winter sport.

Mr. W. E. Irving, all round sport promoter, who is at present located at Trenton, presided over the gathering. He stated that he had visited several places in Eastern Ontario in the interest of professional hockey, and the towns that had already decided to enter an Eastern League with a professional team were Trenton, Port Hope, Cobourg and Peterboro.

After some discussion it was decided to have a professional team here, Mr. Irving intimating that he would be able to procure some good players for it, who, with the players available in the city, would make a first-class professional team.

It was then decided to proceed with the election of officers, to form the Eastern Ontario Professional League, and the result was as follows:

Hon. members—Messrs. W. Carnew, Belleville; R. Weddell, Trenton; Hy. White, Port Hope; W. Crossen, Cobourg, and Hon. J. R. Stratton, Peterboro.

President—Dr. Yeomans, Belleville.

First Vice-President—J. Murray, Peterboro.

Second Vice-President—Geo. Nolan, Trenton.

Secretary—W. E. Irving, Trenton.

Treasurer—Capt. Collwell, Port Hope.

Executive Committee—M. Brown, Port Hope; Sandy Burrows, Belleville; C. E. Hawley, Trenton; A. Morgan, Peterboro, and Mr. Purvser, Cobourg.

Referees—Mr. Marer, Kingston; S. Burrows and James Connolly, Belleville; Lou E. Marsh, Toronto; Jas. Fraser, Galt; Chas. Bungey, Port Hope, and R. Glover, Peterboro.

The meeting adjourned after deciding to meet at Port Hope on Friday evening next to arrange a schedule and transact some other business.

Among the Belleville men present were: Mayor Marsh, J. V. Doyle, Levine Hyman, Percy Allen, Wm. Connolly, C. R. Burrows, Wm. Carnew, C. N. Sulman, Mark Sprague, Jas. Connolly, Will Cook and Richard Arnott. Outsiders present were: George Nolan, Trenton; Messrs. Brown and Colwell, Port Hope; Mr. Merrard and Harry Morgan, Peterboro. Mr. Irving represented Cobourg.

Among the local players suggested for the team are James Connolly and Vince Brennan. It is thought, however, that most of the players will be oldtimers.

Irving is back of the Belleville team and will see to it that this city has an A1 team.

Some of the other towns in the league already have their teams.

PERMANENT STREETS

City Engineer's office,
Nov. 11th.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir.—Except when specially requested, the Engineer is not desirous of exhibiting himself in print; however, you ask the Engineer to give the figures in this important work.

It was known to every owner on Front Street that a detailed statement was on file in the City Engineer's office, giving all details as to costs, etc. However, I would here state for information of everybody that, the cost of this pavement complete, including concrete curbs and gutters, will only be assessed to owners on Front Street at about 25 cents per running foot, that is for a store 20 feet wide, $5 per year over 20 years, and this, mark you, includes both interest and sinking fund. Trusting this information may place a different complexion on this matter.

Yours truly,

J. G. LINDSAY.

HUNTERS RETURN

Fine Specimen of Deer Brought Back By Belleville Sportsmen

Messrs. H. Corby, J. V. Jenkins, F. R. Lingham and Dr. Clinton returned home last evening from a hunting trip at West Macoon Lake. They brought with them four fine specimen of deer and a number of partridges.

Mr. H. F. Ketchenon has returned home from a successful hunt in the northern part of the county. He secured a deer and some partridges.

ARRESTED FOR THEFT

Young Man Rounded Up Here On Advice From Napanee Police.

The police last evening received a communication from the Chief of Police of Napanee to arrest a young man named Ross Palen, who was believed to be in this city. Sergt. Nafziger and Officer Corrigan got ahold midnight found Palen and placed him under arrest. He is accused of stealing an overcoat, the property of Mr. Wm. Hunter, the proprietor of the Royal Hotel, at Napanee. Palen, at the time of his arrest, was wearing the coat which it is alleged he stole. An officer arrived from Napanee this morning and took Palen to Napanee for trial.

R T OF T NIGHT.

The R. T. of T. last evening held an open Council in their hall on Front Street, a number of visitors being present.

The Rev. R. C. Blagrave gave an exceedingly interesting address on "Temperance," which was appreciated by all present. In addition to the above, a varied programme of music, recitations, etc., was given. Refreshments were served. It is the intention of the R. T. of T. Society to hold a number of such social gatherings during the winter, to which all interested in this work are invited.

NEW KING'S COUNSEL

The Attorney General of Ontario announces the appointment of a number of K. C.'s. Among them are Stewart Masson, William Saunderson, Meredeu and John Franklin Wills, all of the Belleville bar. Congratulations of New K. C.'s accept congratulations from The Intelligencer.

THE C. N. R. BRIDGE

Petitions are being circulated and signed by the ratepayers on Front Street and others in the city requesting that the C. N. R. company be requested not to have five piers in the contemplated bridge over the river, but that the number be narrowed to such a width as to permit of one pier being sufficient.

CEMENT WALKS.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir.—Regarding your query re cement walks as to amounts paid for materials, etc., the details of which is always on file on the Treasurer's book, and the Engineer also prepared a detailed statement at end of season and will be pleased to give any information desired. Yours, etc.,

TRUNK SEWER SCHEME

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir.—Might state in reply to query in yours of yesterday re Dundas St. sewer as to extras and the amount of extras to date on this work.

This trunk sewer contract, complete, over a mile long, including all connections and the 24-inch steel pipe in the bay, was awarded in May last to Messrs. Thompson and Donohue at the low figure of $15,507.

This work is now nearing completion, and it may interest you to know that we have been fortunate in avoiding any extras, but, on the contrary, may have a slight saving.

Yours, etc.,

J. G. LINDSAY.

NOTICE.

NOTICE given under Section 669 of the Consolidated Municipal Act, 1903, that the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville intend to undertake the construction of an Asphalt Block pavement on Front Street from Bridge Street to the Upper Bridge, in the City of Belleville, and to assess forty per cent. of the final costs thereof by means of a special rate upon the property fronting, abutting or adjoining the same, payable within twenty years from completion of the said section by twenty annual special assessments and pay the other sixty per cent. of the cost thereof, together with the cost of the pavement at street intersections and in front of exempted properties, out of the general funds of the said Corporation, or by money raised upon debentures of the Corporation for the portion charged against the property and the portion payable by the Corporation, repayable in twenty years, UNLESS the majority of the owners of such real property fronting, abutting or adjoining the said portion of the said street, petition the said Council against the construction of said pavement within one month from the 11th day of November, 1910, being the last day this notice is authorized to be published, and unless the petition to petition the said Council against undertaking the construction of the said pavement must do so on or before the 11th day of December next.

And before the construction of the said pavement the Council intend to construct and put in all branch drains or private drains connections from the sewer, and water connections from the main to the street line and assess and levy the cost thereof against the properties benefitted thereby as part of the cost of said local improvement.

Dated at the City Hall, Belleville this 4th day of November, 1910.

W. C. MIKEL,
Solicitor and Clerk.

N.B.—A statement is now on file in the office of the City Solicitor and Clerk, Belleville, showing the particulars of the proposed pavement to be so constructed, together with an estimate of the total cost thereof, and of the cost per lineal foot to the property owners, payable in cash or by special rate.

Central Ontario Railway.—A Visit to The North.

Taking advantage of the inspection by Government officials of the newly constructed extension northward of the Central Ontario Railway, the general manager of the road, Mr. George Collins, invited Messrs. J. W. Johnson, J. W. Pearce, representatives in the Ontario Legislature of West and North Hastings, and Sir Mackenzie Bowell, to accompany these gentlemen on their tour of inspection in order that they might see and learn what had been done and what was being done in extending and improving the line running through that portion of the County of Hastings which these gentlemen at present represent in Parliament, two of them in the Ontario Legislature and one in Ottawa. The invitation was accepted and the result of the trip proved highly interesting and satisfactory.

On Wednesday morning, at 7.30, the party left Trenton, consisting of Mr. Collins, manager of the road, and Messrs. G. A. Hoag, superintendent; J. D. Kean, chief engineer; A. B. Ingram, a member of the Railway and Municipal Board of Ontario; E. V. Johnson, Inspector of Railways of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa; J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., and Sir Mackenzie Bowell, left for the northern end of the road, which now has a first class roadbed, extending from Picton via Trenton to Maynooth, of 132 and a half miles, and is now being extended from Maynooth northward to Whitney, a point on the Canada Atlantic Railway, which extension will be completed next year, and when so completed will form a connection with the Canada Atlantic Railway, enabling passengers to reach the Pacific coast westward and eastward to the Atlantic.

The manager of the road and his chief engineer are pursuing a commendable course in all repairs they are making and in this construction of the extension of the road, in the constructing of all culverts and bridges of steel and cement, thus giving them a permanent character. In addition to this policy, many of the platforms at different stations are constructed of cement, as are also some of the newly erected station houses, an example which might be followed with advantage by some of the older railway engineers and managers. There is a solidity about these improvements that at once strikes the eye of the passenger, though he may not be an expert in railway building.

The extension north for a number of miles runs through a dense forest of magnificent pulp and other woods of great value, and construction is being pushed with vigor, with a view to completion early next season. A number of gangs of men are upon the work.

The inspectors did not hesitate in expressing their high appreciation of what has been done and of what was being done in the construction of new culverts and in improving the old portions of the road. Of their views of the character of the work on the extension they could only judge by their silence, their duty being to express an opinion until they reported to their respective governments. The character of their reports the officials of the road have little to fear.

The manager and his officials are to be commended for the business ability which they have displayed in pushing the Central Ontario Railway a first class property, which, in addition to the opening up for settlement, mining and lumber purposes, will, there can be little doubt, prove a paying investment to those who have invested their money in it.

It must not be forgotten that the country which this road is opening in the north is a game paradise, inviting the hunter to follow the deer and moose and seek for the moose haunts. That they exist in that locality the party had evidence in the exhibition of three deer and what the hunter termed one "bull moose" lying upon a flat car at the station ready for shipment, being the result of one or two days' hunting.

In view of what is being done all around us, what do we learn? Simply that through the energy and enterprise of others, and the dishonest treatment of the Grand Trunk Railway Company in receiving government aid with which to put in running order that portion of the Belleville and North Hastings line lying between the village of Madoc and El Dorado, and then misapplying the money by using it for other purposes that "side-tracked" Belleville. This is not the only "side-tracking" Belleville has received. The building of the C. P. R. through the centre of the county "side-tracked" us, giving to the people north of us an outlet to the east and west. Then followed the construction of the Rathbun system, to unite Deseronto with Toronto, and burn in Madoc, and gave us another black eye. Yes, Belleville has been badly side-tracked. Efforts have been over and over again made to secure the construction of the Eldorado extension, even to the taking over of that six miles of road with the subsidy with a guarantee of running the road, but the Grand Trunk officials refused to accede to that request. If there is law or equity in this county steps should be taken to compel the Grand Trunk to fulfil its engagement or pay back the money received for a purpose for which it was never used. It may be asked who should institute such proceedings? Why the municipalities interested or the Government whose money had been misappropriated. Let us have less talk and more action.

GAMBLING, PREACHER SAYS MAKES FAIR WOMAN STEAL

Attack on Bridge Whist Players Made By Rev. Frederick Lynch of New York--Recent Raid At Naragansett Pier.

A New York despatch says: An attack on women who gamble was made by the Rev. Frederick Lynch in a sermon in the Pilgrim Congregational church, Madison ave., and 121st street. He referred to a raid in Narragansett Pier, when, he said, women prominent in society were found at the gaming tables. He asserted many parlors in this country are filled with women gambling at bridge whist. The preacher asserted the habit has a very decided degenerative effect on the minds of women and makes women steal from their husbands. He told of one mother who permitted her baby to go unfed every afternoon when she played bridge. The preacher referred to a remark once made by a Duke of Portland:

"I have been connected with the turf for more than thirty years. In that time I have known no one who consistently gambled who was not a loser in the end. If you will take the advice of a man of the world, don't gamble—don't bet!"

The recent raid on a club in Narragansett in the early hours of a Sunday and the discovery of gambling going on there among prominent women and men made a decided stir throughout the country," said the preacher. "These women were among the most prominent in that summer colony, some of them members of the church. These women begged the officers not to expose their names, when showing their names on their deeds. This incident called to the attention of the country the deplorable growth of the gambling habit. In Hot Springs, Ark., another group of society leaders was found passing the time in a gambling house, and these persons showed no shame at the discovery.

"Our streets are filled with boys gambling for pennies. Our parlors are filled with women gambling at bridge whist. Our athletic games are now accompanied by betting. Racing most assuredly has a gambling were forbidden, racing would stop. The passion extends into Wall Street. A striking instance of the evil recently came to light when former Senator Frazier and other men testified that men from New York, members of churches and moving in respectable society, attempted to bribe legislators to vote against bills prohibiting gambling. Thus racing must be had even if it costs men's souls."

The preacher said he found posters on churches throughout Italy advertising lotteries to raise money to pay for repairing the buildings and he contended that when Cuba sought to reintroduce lotteries there the island government went back further in one year than it had advanced in five.

"Gambling," said the Rev. Mr. Lynch, "is one of the worst enemies the nation has. The habit fills the community where it is practiced with ferocishness, immorality, drunkenness and poverty. It contradicts and overthrows the one thing that makes society possible, namely, the law. Civilization is based on orderly sequence, on equivalents. Gambling, all chance and luck, upsets every law and breeds chaos and confusion."

The preacher said gambling causes more stealing than all other vices put together.

"Wives steal from husbands, husbands speculate and steal from banks, the cashier forges to pay his gambling bills, and the office boy steals postage stamps and change to bet, while life should be at hazard," continued the clergyman. "The vice leads to divorces, estrangements, enmities; is a most prolific cause for murder and suicide. It has a very decided degenerative effect upon the minds of women. Where once they read books, they are now crazy about bridge. Many intelligent persons refuse invitations to certain homes for dinner now, preferring to go where there is no bridge, and to avoid gambling minds. Gambling is next door to stealing, for the winner takes something, for which he gives no return. Honest men and gentlemen never do that.

"It is pitiable to see the state into which some women are thrown by this fever. One mother permitted her baby to go without one or two nursings every afternoon when she played bridge. Not even the soft arms of one's own child around one's neck can satisfy the woman infected with the gambling fever. It is doubtful if any gambler, even the woman at bridge, does not suspect an opponent of capacity to cheat. The vice breeds suspicion and makes men victims and immoral. It also makes them fools. Every gambling house is run on a basis of fraud. Gambling is becoming a menace to the nations, and it is time to rebuke it in plain terms."

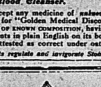
Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles



Most sickness starts with weak stomach, and consequent poor, impoverished blood. Nervous and pale-people look good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating by after all, it can be no stronger than the stomach.

A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and overcomes and drives out diseases-producing bacteria and cures a whole host of diseases.

Get rid of your Stomach Weakness and Liver Laziness by taking a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery — the Great Stomach Restorative, Liver Invigorator and Blood Cleanser.

You can get a cheap substitute, but you can't get a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having its complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

CLOTHES THAT FIT, WEAR WELL

Speaking of clothes, have you noticed the difference in wear between those that fit well and those that don't?

It is the uneven strain caused by cloth ill-cut and ill-fitted that causes a garment to rip or wear through before its time.

One of the chief reasons why "PROGRESS BRAND" CLOTHING gives such excellent service, is the careful calculation of fit down to the fraction of an inch.

You are sure of perfect fitting clothes that wear well, when you see the above trademark in a Suit or Overcoat.

Look for it. It's worth finding.

THE TRUTH OF IT.

A Peak into the Real Way Some Married Folks Live.

He appeared at the office promptly at 9 each morning, and, taking but an hour off for lunch, he worked almost unremittingly till 4 in the afternoon.

But these are not short hours, however they may appear. He was obliged to awaken his wife at 6 that she might have his breakfast at 7 and so let him start at 8. And between 4 and 6 in the evening there were many things to be discussed at many bars. So he arrived at home at 6:30, tired out and naturally peevish if dinner were not on the table. Twelve and one-half hours of hard labor.

But he acknowledges that it's worth it to get back to his dear little butterfly wife. She knows nothing of a business man's grind—she refreshes him. Dear little soul! She fits like a butterfly from flower to flower, while he is earning the daily bread—and then sits at the window and waits longingly for him.

Does she? Well, here's what she does: He routs her out of bed at 6. She gets his breakfast and gets rid of him. She sweeps, she dusts, she washes dishes and cleans the silver because there will be guests tomorrow. She starts to launder some stuff she can't trust to the laundry—finds she is hungry and eats three olives, a piece of celery and an éclaire. Then she mends socks and things. Look! It is nearly time for her husband master to come home!

She gets up a four course dinner. He comes in and slumps in the Morris chair, tired to death. She apologizes for being late.

And he kicks because she is still wearing the morning costume she had on when he left. What has she done all day while he has worked? Nothing!

After she's done the dinner dishes she wakes him up and tells him it's after bedtime. Just when a man wants to begin to enjoy the comforts of home! It's only 10 p. m.

Treatment For Valubility.

Abernethy was supposed to indifference people by a brusqueness amounting to absolute rudeness. It is related that one day a very voluble lady took her daughter, who was ill, to see him.

"Which of you wants to consult me?" said Abernethy.

"My daughter," replied the elder woman.

Abernethy then put a question to the girl. Before she had a chance to reply her mother began a long story. Abernethy told her to be quiet and repeated his question to the girl. A second time the woman began a story, and a second time he told her to be quiet. Then she interrupted him a third time.

"Put your tongue out," he said to the mother.

"But there's nothing the matter with me," she exclaimed.

"Never mind. Put your tongue out," he commanded.

Thoroughly overawed, the woman obeyed.

"Now keep it out," said Abernethy. And he proceeded to examine the girl. —Ladies' Home Journal.

Quiet Grace.

Mr. Blobbs dined the other evening with some friends. When the guests were seated the host bent his head and began speaking in a subdued tone.

"Eh, what's that?" demanded Blobbs, who sat beside him and who is rather deaf.

The host smiled patiently and began again in a louder voice.

"Speak a little louder; I don't catch what you say," Blobbs persisted.

A low ripple of laughter went round the table. The host, his face crimson with embarrassment, raised his voice still higher. The poor old man did his best to be distilled.

"What did you say?" he demanded irascibly.

The host cast him an angry glance. "Dang it, I'm saying grace!" he yelled. —Tit-Bits.

On a Charge of Procuring.

Winnipeg, Nov. 11—John Bratton of Crookston, Minn., who has been lying in jail here awaiting trial on a charge of forcing a young girl to lead a life of shame, was discharged by Judge Myers from the police court, but was immediately rearrested on a charge of procuring. Action in the case has been taken at the instance of the commissioner of immigration. It is intended to deport Bratton as soon as the criminal courts here are through with him.

Soudan May Revolt.

London, Nov. 11.—There is some apprehension in official circles of a revolt in the Soudan. The movement is prompted by the Egyptian Nationalists, who promise a simultaneous rising in Egypt. Field Marshal Lord Kitchener's present trip to Egypt is reported to be in anticipation of trouble, and arrangements have been made to augment the military forces in that country by troops from England and India.

Refused Papal Request.

Berlin, Nov. 11.—The Tageliche Rundschau says the Prussian Government will refuse the Vatican's request that Catholic professors be compelled to take the oath against modernism. Prussia will also refuse to subject her Catholic clergy generally to such an oath.

The Bavarian Government has already declined the same papal request.

They sat in the shadows of the old porch. Suddenly from the distance came a series of mysterious squeaks.

"What on earth is that," gasped the mystified young man—"some one tuning a fiddle?"

The beautiful girl smiled.

"No," she responded softly; "that noise is made by pa's shoes as he walks around the hallway."

"Do you mean to say his shoes make all that noise?"

"Certainly. I sprinkled rosin on the soles of his rubber shoes and we would know how far he was away. Don't you think I'm a little genius?"—Chicago News.

The Irishman's Resource.

In his volume of essays, "Dreams Dead Earnest and Half Jest," Mr. Coulson Kernahan compares his countrymen, the natives of the Green Isle, with the English:

"That your Englishman never knows when he is beaten is the veriest platitude. In all the world there is no mentality which can play a losing game with such desperate cogolroes. To venture to think, however, that the Irishman—and therein is perhaps a reason why he excels in the art of war—is more resourceful, is quicker to think and quicker to act.

"An Englishman, finding himself in a corner on right that any one else would decide at once that there was nothing for it but surrender or retreat, says, 'Here I am, and here I'll stick to be shot at till I'm killed or till relief comes.' An Irishman in the same place would say: 'It's the mischief's own hole I'm in! But wait now! What way 'll I be getting out?' And get out the Irishman generally does, for he is so resourceful that his resourcefulness might sometimes be better described as slipperiness."

The Making of a Business Man.

So many panes of glass in old Mr. Viner's greenhouse had been broken that he had at last offered a reward of 10 shillings to any one who should give information as to the identity of the latest offender. The halt soon drew. A youngster called on Mr. Viner and informed him that a lad named Archie Thompson was a guilty party. He received his reward, went away rejoicing, and the old gentleman forthwith wrote to the local schoolmaster demanding the production of the said Archie Thompson to make good the damage he had done to his windows.

Next day the informer called again.

"The schoolmaster sent me," he said briskly, "I've seen a glazier, and he'll put your glass right for 3 shillings. Here it is, sad"—

"Not so fast, my lad," said Mr. Viner. "Have you come on behalf of Archie Thompson?"

"Well, yes, sir, in a way," said the boy. "Fact is," he continued confidentially, "I'm him!"—London Answers.

Wesley and Tea.

In his younger days John Wesley found it difficult to stop drinking tea. He wrote in 1742: "We agreed it would prevent great expense, as well as health as of time and of money, if the poorer people of our society could be persuaded to leave off drinking of tea. We resolved ourselves to begin and set the example. I expect some difficulty in breaking off a custom of six and twenty years' standing, and accordingly the first three days my head ached and I was half asleep from morning to night. The third day my memory failed almost entirely. On Thursday my headache was gone, my memory as strong as ever, and I have found no inconvenience, but a sensible benefit in several respects from that day to this."

Later in life Wesley returned to the use of tea, as his log teapot preserved in his house in London shows.—Chicago News.

Once a Sailor Always a Sailor.

Charitable institutions often find it hard to learn the occupations of those submitted. A man who has followed several trades when asked his occupation names the one he regards as most glamorous, even if he has not followed it for years. The Surrey tells of a man that happened in the Cook County infirmary. The man "of the age of nineteen was a sailor for one year." His career as a sailor ended with an accident on the ship by which he lost a leg. For the next thirty-six years he took various jobs as caretaker and the like, such as a crippled person can obtain. Yet when after thirty-six years of independence he was finally forced to take refuge in a poorhouse he puts himself down on the entrance card as a sailor, and one feels in that word the pride of a Norse son of the sea."

A Nickname For Barrett.

Lawrence Barrett, the tragedian, was subject to dyspepsia, and when he was suffering from that disorder he was cold and distant toward his company. One reformer fellow always refused, however, to be suppressed. He said one day: "Now look at Cassius. He looks as solemn and righteous as if he'd swallowed the sword of justice. Let's call him the Scabbard." And the Scabbard he was—out of his hearing—for the rest of that season.

Costly Dressing.

FRASER O' GUYSBORO.

How the Big Man Befriended a Canadian Boy in Boston.

The late Hon. Duncan Cameron Fraser, Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, and formerly member for Guysboro in the House of Commons, who died recently, was the hero of many stories which had gathered around his name and his picturesque personality in the course of his lengthy and varied career as lawyer, judge and politician. A giant in stature, standing well over six feet in height and broad in proportion, he had a heart and soul which matched his herculean frame. He was a Son of the Soil, and filled alike with the pride of race and the gift of the gab, and his oratory was in equally great demand at Liberal campaign meetings and banquets of the St. Andrew's Society and the Sons of Scotland.

One of the best tales concerning him had its locale at a political meeting in his native province. The future Lieutenant-Governor was striking the sentimental chord, and was dilating on his boyhood days to an audience largely composed of his fellow-Scots.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I do not know whether you will believe me or not, but it is nevertheless a fact that at school I was only punished once by the teacher—and that was for telling the truth."

"Weel, Duncan," came the quick retort in the high-pitched tones of an aged and shrewd Heelan' man, "it cured ye a' richt."

Another anecdote which showed the innate kindliness and generosity of Mr. Fraser concealed under a bluff exterior was contributed several years ago by a Toronto newspaperman to the annual program issued by the Toronto Press Club. Under the caption: "A Nova Scotia Angel in Disguise," the story runs:

"In the days before telephones were in use in the United States to the extent that they are now, a Canadian newspaperman was stranded in the good old city of Boston. After several days of the strenuous life without the wherewithal to support his strenuosity, he managed to get some space work on the old Journal. He "made good" in a fashion, and was congratulating himself that the days of park benches for sleeping places and a tightening of his waist band for meals were over. But the first night, or rather early in the morning, the city editor called him across to his desk and said:

"Take a herdic and go out to Brookline, call on Mr. Blank at such and such an address, and ask him whether it is true that his wife has left his house and entered action for divorce. Don't come back without the story and bring the photos of the principals with you."

The Canadian, who had not lost all sense of decency, and who still retained his belief that a newspaperman might be a gentleman and that being a reporter was not synonymous with being a cad, felt his breath come in gasps at the very idea. He was about to protest, when the city editor was called to the chief's sanctum, and the matter was lost. He had to go at the assignment, or quit.

It was a difficult choice. A man with an empty pocket has sometimes to pocket his pride in lieu of something else wherewith to fill it, and hunger won the day. Accordingly the Canadian started out. He went over to the Vermont House in search of a herdic, and was feeling just about as miserable as any self-respecting man could, when he was hailed by a cheery voice of Gaelic accent: "Hullo, what are you doing here?" The Good Samaritan (for such he proved to be) was a burly Nova Scotian politician, well known all over the Dominion for the strength of his views, and now occupying the highest place in the gift of the crown in his native province.

The reporter told his story—how he had outrun the constable, how he had been stranded, and finally the disagreeable assignment which he had been given.

"Come here, youngster," said the Nova Scotian, and he took the lad by the arm. "You are not going to Brookline to-night or any other night on such a mission. You are going to sleep right in this hotel, and you are going to have a good supper. Leave it to me to attend to that city editor."

And they went in together. The reporter went down to the restaurant and filled himself with Boston chicken pie, the politician went away to return half an hour later with the remark, "Here's the price of your day's work. That Jack-in-office won't ask a Canadian boy to prostitute himself again in a hurry."

Then they had a drink and went to bed, the boy to dream of an angel with flowing wings and feet more high. He awoke in the morning to find his Good Samaritan gone and a ticket for Montreal awaiting him in an envelope.

Working Knowledge.

Although the joke is on himself, a prominent Brantford, Ont., manufacturer considered the laugh worth to keep. He and a man who is head of another Brantford industry spent the summer on the continent, and while in Italy they decided to take in Grand Opera.

They were feeling at peace with the world and happy in it, so while they should have been helping everybody else in the audience to preserve absolute silence, they carried on quite a conversation. Their feeling of good fellowship taking in more than themselves, the man who tells this incident turned to the Italian in the next seat, and, with a view to starting a conversation, asked, "Do you speak English?"

The Italian's answer promptly closed the conversation. He said, "Yes, I know very good English. Shut up!"

Cow Butted In.

On Monday morning about 2 o'clock Buttweather were awakened by a crash of glass. Anderick Wigle, who occupies the house from which the sound came, made a quick get-out-of-bed, and on going outside found that a cow in the street had got her head fastened in a large creeping vine and is trying to free herself had smashed in the whole front of the window.—Windsor Record.

What Might Happen if an Ugly Cashier Were Sought.

A St. Louis florist conveys this advertised for an "ugly cashier." The excuse is made, of course, that the ones who get married so fast that they can't keep the position filled. On the face of it it might seem an easy matter to hire an ugly cashier, but we will be willing to bet a sixteen dime sunset against a six line quatrain that this firm will have all kinds of difficulty in getting what it wants. Cashiers, as a rule, are pretty particular people, and do they suppose any female member of that profession is going to allow herself to go on record as being ugly? We wot not. Imagine a situation like this:

Applicant—I wish to apply for the position of cashier.

Proprietor—You won't do. You are not ugly enough.

Applicant—But that is not my fault.

Proprietor—Well, it certainly isn't mine.

Next in line.

Applicant—I came to answer your advertisement.

Proprietor—But you are not ugly.

Applicant—Thank you, but my former employer told me I was the ugliest thing that ever happened.

Proprietor—What we want is an ugly faced cashier. Sorry, but you won't do.

Next in line.

Applicant—I saw your advertisement this morning, and—

Proprietor—You are not extremely ugly, but you certainly are the ugliest one that has come in yet.

Applicant—Is that so? You old moon face, you're no beauty yourself! (And, bringing her parasol down on top of his shiny skating rink for floss, she haughtily left the store.)—Boston Herald.

How History Is Made.

Hannibal and his staff were pacing merrily over the Alps on their faithful war elephants.

Suddenly a man with a tin badge and chin whiskers rushed into the roadway and held up his hand.

"You stop right where you be!" he cried.

"Why should I stop?" thundered the great Carthaginian as his mahout hooked the elephant's ear.

"You've exceedin' th' speed limit," replied the man with the star. "An' I'm a duly appointed constable, by Heck!"

Hannibal was so overcome by this amusing bulldog that he tossed a bag of gazoolinas to the officer and, laughing hysterically, rode away.

Later on, however, his indignation supercut his sense of humor, and he proceeded to slam the life out of the doman consuls and their pretty mamzerans, forcing the fighting to the very gates of slumbering Rome.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

Happenings of Interest to Intelligencer Readers, In all Parts of the World.

Mexicans Foul Old Glory

Stars and Stripes Insulted By Anti-American Mob in City of Mexico--Mob Aroused By Burning At Stake Of Mexican In Texas.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 10.—Through insults to the American flag and assaults made openly on American citizens in the streets, a demonstration against Americans, beginning last evening with the stoning of the Mexican Herald offices, to-day developed into an affair of international importance. A rigorous protest was registered by the American ambassador with the Mexican Department of Foreign Relations and the facts were telegraphed to Washington.

Town got the attacks were renewed. Windows in a dozen American business places were smashed. At about two shutters were hurriedly drawn and establishments closed. Forces of police appeared in the streets and kept the crowds moving.

While the police looked on and seemingly made no effort to prevent it, an American flag in front of a candy store in the business quarter was torn down this afternoon by several hundred medical students and others, who trampled and spat upon the Stars and Stripes. The mob then tore the flag to tatters. Photographs were taken of the flag desecrators before the office of the Diario del Hogar, a Mexican newspaper, showing many individuals waving bits of the torn American flag.

The demonstration to-day was a continuation of the affair of last night, caused by anger aroused among the people by the burning at the stake of Antonio Rodriguez at Rock Springs, Tex., on the night of Nov. 3rd.

Publication to-day by several Mexican papers of violent attacks on Americans last night tended to increase the medical students, who were the promoters of last night's demonstration. El Diario del Hogar was particularly violent in the expressions of animosity toward the people of the United States, characterizing them as "giants of the dollar, pigmies of culture and barbarous whites of the north," and asking "Where is the boasted Yankee civilization?"

TO REVISE DOWNWARD

Champ Clark Makes Pledges Regarding U. S. Tariff.

Prospective Speaker of the House of Representatives Says It Should Be Cut to a Revenue Basis—Favor Woman Legislature—Majority Is Very Safe—Socialists Poll a Big Vote—Taft on a Trip.

Bowling Green, Mo., Nov. 11—Downward revision of the tariff at once is the pledge made for the new Democratic House of Representatives by Champ Clark, Congressman from the ninth district, who is a candidate for the Speakership.

"This landslide is in line with my prediction of months ago," said Congressman Clark at his home here. "The people are tired of the present Administration and are prepared to just the extent that the returns indicate, with the tariff deception.

"The first and greatest proposition the Democrats should stand for is a reduction in the tariff to a revenue basis. I would reduce it scientifically and gradually and put into it a sliding scale much like there was in the tariff bill of 1833.

"There is no question but that the Democrats will be on their good behavior in the next Congress and the future will depend largely on our conduct. Democrats now have a golden opportunity for constructive statesmanship and should seize it and demonstrate once more their fitness for legislating wisely and patriotically."

Four Women Members.

Denver, Nov. 11.—Four women will sit in the eighteenth general assembly of Colorado as a result of the election. They are Mrs. Lafferty, Louise U. Jones, and Louise M. Kerwin, all elected to the House of Representatives from Denver districts, and the Democratic ticket, and Agnes Riddell, Republican representative for Adams, Arapahoe and Elbert Counties. In the last general assembly Mrs. Lafferty, who was re-elected, was the only woman representative. There are no women Senators.

Taft Off For Panama.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 11.—President Taft sailed yesterday for the Isthmus of Panama to get in personal touch with conditions along the big canal. Taft sailed on the armored cruiser Tennessee, while the cruiser Montana as convoy.

Socialist Gains.

New York, Nov. 11.—Marked gains in the Socialist vote throughout the state are shown in the election returns. Figures indicate a total vote for Charles Edward Russell, nominee for governor, of 45,000, which is nearly double the vote of 1908. In New York, Russell received 27,220.

Upstate, sixty-five cities that gave a vote of 7,500 in 1908 gave 20,000 this year. Districts which formerly showed less than ten votes, this year report from 100 to 500. Among the large cities that show substantial Socialist gains are—Buffalo, Schenectady, Syracuse and Rochester, while some instances the increases are as high as 500 per cent.

Standing of the Parties.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Revised figures indicate that the Democratic majority in the next House will be sixty. The latest are 225 Democrats and 165 Republicans, with one Socialist.

Fall Fifty Feet.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 11.—Leo French, fell fifty feet on to the rocks at the Ontario Power Co.'s power house on the Niagara river this yesterday. He sustained severe injuries about the head and legs. He was working in the high wall of an addition to the plant, when he lost his balance and fell to the rocks below.

Two Tunnels for Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Traffic congestion here has become a live question, and two plans are suggested. One is first, a four-track railway under St. James street, from Gosford to Victoria Square; and the second, which will cost a million, to be built under Côte-des-Neiges Hill.

Clever Accident Faker.

New York, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Anna A. Strula confessed in court yesterday that she had obtained her livelihood by her ability to fake accidents on railroad property and then compromise her suits for damages.

Mrs. Strula faked her accident by taking a banana peel, which she had selected from a grip she carried, and then led physicians to believe that she was terminally hurt.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Telephone "trouble" men, looking for wire trouble near Montezuma, Ga., on Wednesday came upon the cause unexpectedly, when they found the body of a negro dangling from a pole tangled up in the wires. This was the negro lynched by a mob the morning before.

Pullman Rates Reduced.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—The Pullman Co. officials, at their annual meeting, agreed to the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission to reduce rates between St. Paul, Minn., and other cities, and ordered a temporary injunction against the order of the Federal court. It pleaded that it was not a common carrier and that it could not be subjected to the regulation of the interstate commerce law.

Now that the Pullman Co. has acknowledged the authority of the commission to fix its rates, reductions applying to all parts of the country are expected to follow.

Double Murder in Boston.

Boston, Nov. 11.—Two men were shot and killed yesterday in the district attorneys office here. The victims were Police Sergeant Frederick Sohlberg and Frank A. Reed, Dorchester. The assassin is Walter G. Pall, a young man of 25 years, who was employed in the office of the sealer of weights and measures in the Court House.

Pall was arrested on a charge of assaulting Esther Pugg, a step-daughter of Reed. The case was to come up soon and Pall, accompanied by his attorney, Benj. F. Haines, went to the court house and asked to see Reed. At the district attorney's office were Reed and the police sergeant, who was to witness against Pall. Shortly after Pall entered he pulled a revolver and began shooting.

Will Fall into Line.

Mitchell, Nov. 11.—Mitchell votes next Tuesday on the electric power by-law. Last evening a mass meeting was held in the opera hall to discuss the pros and cons of the question. Mayor Campbell spoke strongly in favor of the scheme, and was followed by the Hon. Adam Beck, who went minutely into details. He was evidently from the applause, convinced nearly all present that the money to be raised by a revolutionize things in the Province of Ontario, and that it would be to the interests of Mitchell to fall into line with other progressive towns and cities in the province.

Mayor McCallum of Seaforth spoke along the same lines.

Returned to Toronto.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Several clothing cutters, who were in Chicago from Toronto, were interviewed yesterday by E. L. Landers, Canadian Garment Workers' organizer, and they decided to quit work and return to Toronto. The strikers are still firm in their demands for a closed shop. Meetings were held in parts of that city. Fifty-five thousand is now the approximate number out on strike. Thought last week, in their excitement, strikers denounced the leaders of the Garment Workers' executive board, advising staying the strike, this week they are passing votes of confidence and regret at their previous action. Sympathy strikes are being called in Cleveland, Rochester, Indianapolis, Milwaukee and St. Louis.

Case Collapsed.

Whitby, Nov. 11.—The Corbett will case, which has been before the courts for the past year, was disposed of in the Assizes before Justice Riddell. The late Mrs. Corbett was a very rich bachelor, who lived to be over 80 years old. His property was valued at about $90,000. He left the entires estate to two maiden ladies who lived with him, one his niece, the other his housekeeper. A large number of nieces, nephews and nieces, who were not mentioned in the will, sought the aid of the courts to upset his will.

On being put on oath none of the plaintiffs could substantiate the allegations made, and the case collapsed before the trial.

The National Debt.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—According to the Public Accounts volume, published yesterday, the funded debt of Canada payable in London was £2,000,902 at the end of the last fiscal year, and the debt of the Dominion was $396,265,546, an increase of $12,338,301. The amounts were consolidated fund receipts of $101,503,710, and expenditure $79,611,474, leaving a surplus on this account of $22,092,236. In addition to this, however, there was a total capital or special account distributive of $35,971,911, of which $18,-000,064 was on the national transcontinental railway and $2,424,171 on bounties.

Would Cancel Exemption.

Winnipeg, Nov. 11.—Complications with the Midland Railway may result in representations to have the exemption from taxation cancelled. Aside from the company's charter, until such time as work is started in accordance of good faith. The Midland Railway, which is Manitoba's name for James J. Hill's Great Northern, is reported to be tied up by monetary conditions in the United States, and not one cent had been passed for the proposed terminus at Winnipeg.

The Opposition Vindicated.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—Discussing the report of the investigation into the Government printing bureau contracts, R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition, said yesterday:

"The result of this enquiry is a striking vindication of the position which the Opposition took up two different sessions, in moving for a thorough, searching and unrestricted investigation into the operation of all the great spending departments of the Government."

Wolverine Sale.

Selkirk, Man., Nov. 11.—All anxiety regarding the steamship Wolverine, which went out to assist the steamer Mekado on shore on Smoky Island, and not heard of for two weeks, has been removed by information to the effect that she is low bound without short distance of the wreck, but in no danger.

Unless the ice breaks up before Christmas, she must harbor in the ice pack all winter.

Not Guilty of Attempt to Kill.

Campbellford, Nov. 11.—Nicolo Berrill, who was arrested two weeks ago on a charge of attempted murder of Joseph Corvino, appeared before Magistrate Payne here yesterday and was discharged. W. F. Kerr of Colborne appeared the crown and A. B. Calvin, Campbellford, defended the prisoner.

Lima, Peru, Nov. 11.—The rebels, who, it is said, do not number more than one hundred, have concentrated in the northwestern section, where the rising occurred. The Government is pushing its military campaign against the disturbers.

GET SIX MONTHS.

Charles Hardy Goes to Central For Assault on Late Thomas Herder.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—A sentence of six months in the Central Prison was imposed by Magistrate Britton in the Jarvisites yesterday on Charles Hardy, charged with assault on the late Thomas Horder in the Saranac Hotel, of which Horder was proprietor. Horder died a short time after the assault. Hardy was originally charged with murder. Medical evidence showed that erysipelas had developed in the wound Hardy had inflicted.

Hardy had been singing in the bar, and Horder asked him to take more of ice at him, and later someone squirted an ammonia seltzer from a syphon on him. At 11 o'clock Hardy was ejected, and struck Horder. He was conveyed at Fort Frances, Ont.

T. C. Robinette, K.C., counsel for Hardy, called Inspector Duncan for having questioned Hardy in his office, while a stenographer present. I said anything improper the notes will show it. There is no great loss about it," said Mr. Duncan.

Dr. Ball said that Horder had been predisposed to the disease of erysipelas and he might have died of erysipelas if Hardy had not struck him.

"Whether you intended to hurt Horder or not, you holds you responsible for the result of your act," said Mr. Justice Britton. "I personally acquit you of all intent to do him injury, but the jury must do otherwise, and find you guilty."

Thomas Mack, aged 23, was sentenced to three years for having entered the home of Mrs. Ida Berman, 61 Bellevue avenue, presented and looking at a room and attempting an assault.

Walter Bell and John Jones, convicted of burglary, were sentenced to six months. They will be taken to Brampton to face trial as the alleged murderers of a Chinaman at Streetsville.

Alberta Legislature Opens.

Edmonton, Nov. 11.—The second session of the second Legislature of Alberta was opened yesterday afternoon by Lieut.-Governor Bulyea. A good deal of routine matter was attached to the work of the assembly this year on account of the stirring events which marked last session, and also on account of the election of a Premiership.

In the speech from the throne the Lieutenant-Governor dealt with the crop situation in the province, pointing out that wherever proper farming methods had been employed, good returns had been obtained. Mixed farming, he added, had attended the efforts of the years as did dairying and immigrants.

Changes in administration were enumerated and reference was made to report of the royal commission on the Alberta and Great Waterways investigation. After the address from the throne, the house rose until 3 p.m. tuesday. The House then adjourned until Monday.

Mexicans Foul Old Glory

Stars and Stripes Insulted By Anti-American Mob in City of Mexico--Mob Aroused By Burning At Stake Of Mexican In Texas.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 10.—Through insults to the American flag and assaults made openly on American citizens in the streets, a demonstration against Americans, beginning last evening with the stoning of the Mexican Herald offices, to-day developed into an affair of international importance. A vigorous protest was registered by the American ambassador with the Mexican Department of Foreign Relations and the facts were telegraphed to Washington.

To-night the attacks were renewed. Windows in a dozen American business places were smashed. All about town shutters were hurriedly drawn and establishments closed. Forces of police appeared in the streets and dispersed the crowds moving.

While the police looked on and seemingly made no effort to prevent it, an American flag in front of a candy store in the business quarter was torn down this afternoon by several hundred medical students and others, who trampled and spat upon the Stars and Stripes. The mob then tore the flag to tatters. Photographs were taken of the flag desecration before the office of the Diario del Hogar, a Mexican newspaper, showing many individuals waving bits of the torn American flag.

The demonstration to-day was a continuation of the affair of last night, caused by anger aroused among the people by the burning at the stake of Antonio Rodriguez at Rock Springs, Tex., on the night of Nov. 3rd.

Publication to-day by several Mexican papers of violent attacks on Americans last night tended to increase the medical students, who were the promoters of last night's demonstration. El Diario del Hogar was particularly violent in the expressions of animosity toward the people of the United States, characterizing them as "agents of the dollar, pigmies of culture and barbarous whites of the north," and declaring there is the boasted Yankee civilization?"

TO REVISE DOWNWARD

Champ Clark Makes Pledges Regarding U. S. Tariff.

Prospective Speaker of the House of Representatives Says It Should Be Cut to a Revenue Basis—Four Women in Colorado Legislature—Majority in New Assembly Falls a Big Vote—Taft on a Trip.

Bowling Green, Mo., Nov. 11—Downward revision of the tariff at once is the pledge made for the new Democratic House of Representatives by Champ Clark, Congressman from the ninth district, who is a candidate for the Speakership.

"This landslide is in line with my prediction of months ago," said Congressman Clark at his home. "The people are tired of the present Administration and are going to join to the extent that the returns indicate, with the tariff deception.

"The first and greatest proposition the Democrats should stand for is a reduction in the tariff to a revenue basis. I would reduce it scientifically and gradually and put into it a sliding scale much like there was in the tariff bill of 1833.

"There is no question but that the Democrats will be on their good behavior in the next Congress and the future will depend largely on our conduct. Democrats are now have a golden opportunity for constructive statesmanship and should seize it and demonstrate once more their fitness for legislating wisely and practically."

Four Women Members.

Denver, Nov. 11.—Four women will sit in the eighth general assembly of Colorado as a result of the elections. They are Alma Lafferty, Lucy U. Jonge, and Louise M. Kerwin, all elected to the House of Representatives from Denver district on the Democratic ticket, and Agnes Riddell, Republican representative for Adams, Arapahoe and Elbert Counties. In the first general assembly 13 years ago, who was re-elected, was the only women representative. There are no women Senators.

Taft Off For Panama.

Washington, Nov. 11.—President Taft sailed yesterday for the Isthmus of Panama to get in personal touch with conditions along the big canal. Taft sailed on the armored cruiser Tennessee, with the cruiser Montana as convoy.

Socialist Gains.

New York, Nov. 11.—Marked gains in the Socialist vote throughout the state are shown in the election returns. Figures indicate a total vote for Charles Edward Russell, candidate for governor, of 43,000, which is nearly double the vote of 1908. In New York, Russell received 27,230.

Upstate, returns indicate that gave a vote of 7,350 two years ago, show 21,000 this year. Districts which formerly were less than 100 votes, this year report from 100 to 500. Among the large cities that show substantial Socialist gains are: Buffalo, Schenectady, Syracuse and Rochester. In some instances the increase are as high as 400 per cent.

Standing of the Parties.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Revised figures indicate that the Democratic majority in the next House will be sixty-five. The latest totals are 223 Democrats and 165 Republicans, with one Socialist.

Two Tunnels for Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Traffic congestion here has become a live question, and two tunnels are suggested. The first, a four-track railway under St. James street from Gosford to Victoria Square, and the second, which will cost a million, to be built under Côte de Neiges Hill.

Clever Accident Faker.

New York, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Anna A. Strula confessed in court yesterday that she had obtained her livelihood by her ability to fake accidents on railroad property, and then compromise her suits for damages.

Mrs. Strula faked her accident by taking a tumble on a banana peel selected from a grip she carried, and then led physicians to believe that she was internally hurt.

Pullman Rates Reduced.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—The Pullman Co. officials, at their annual meeting, bowed to the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The directors decided that further opposition to the rate proposition of the commission's power to fix rates for sleeping cars would be futile.

The result will be that in a short time cheaper rates for berths and lower charges for upper than for lower berths will be put into effect.

The Pullman Co. owns the Interstate Commerce Commission last month ordered a uniform reduction in rates between St. Paul, Minn., and other cities, and a temporary injunction against the order of the federal court. It, pleaded that it was not a common carrier and that it could not be subjected to the regulations of the interstate commerce law.

Now that the Pullman Co. has acknowledged the authority of the commission to fix its rates, reductions applying to all parts of the country are expected to follow.

Double Murder In Boston.

Boston, Nov. 11.—Two men were shot and killed yesterday in the district attorney's office here. The victims were Police Sergeant Frederick Schlueber and Frank A. Race, Dorchester.

The assassin is Walter G. Fall, a young man of 25 years, who was employed in the office of the sealer of weights and measures in the State House.

Fall was arrested on a charge of assaulting Esther Fogg, a step-daughter of his. He came was to come up soon and Fall, accompanied by his attorney, Benj. F. Haimes, went to the court house to ask about the case. At the district attorney's office were Race and the police sergeant, who were witnesses against Fall. Shortly after Fall entered he pulled a revolver and began shooting.

Will Fall Into Line.

Mitchell, Nov. 11.—Mitchell votes next Tuesday on the electric power bylaw. Last evening a mass meeting was held in the opera hall to discuss the pros and cons of the question. Mayor Campbell spoke strongly in favor of the scheme, and was followed by the Hon. Adam Beck, who went minutely into details, as was evident from the applause, convinced nearly all present that the scheme was practical to revolutionize things in the Province of Ontario, and that it would be to the interests of Mitchell to fall into line with other progressive towns and cities in the province.

Mayor Mitchell of Seaforth spoke along the same lines.

Returned to Toronto.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Several clothing cutters, who arrived in Chicago from Toronto, were interviewed yesterday by S. L. Landers, Canadian Garment Workers' organizer, and they decided to quit work and return to Toronto. The strikers are still firm in their demands for a closed shop. Meetings were held in all parts of the city. Fifty-five thousand is now the approximate number on the strike. Though last week, in their excitement, they denounced the members of the Garment Workers' executive board for having sold the strike, this week they are passing votes of confidence and eager at their previous action. Sympathy strikers are being called in Cleveland, Rochester, Indianapolis, Milwaukee and St. Louis.

Case Collapsed.

Whitby, Nov. 11.—The Corbett will case, which has been before the courts for the past year, was disposed of by the Assizes before Justice Riddell this morning. Mrs. Corbett was a very rich bachelor, who lived to be over 90 years old. His property was valued at about $90,000. He left the entire estate to two maiden ladies who lived with him, one his niece, the other his housekeeper. A large number of sisters, nephews and nieces, who were not mentioned in the will, sought the aid of the courts to upset his will.

On being put on oath some of the plaintiffs could substantiate the allegations made, and the case collapsed before the trial.

The National Debt.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—According to the Public Accounts volume, published yesterday, the funded debt of Canada payable in London was $260,000,992 at the end of the last fiscal year. The net debt of the Dominion was $336,226,464, an increase of $12,338,267. The accounts show consolidated fund receipts of $101,262,210, and expenditure $79,411,674, leaving a surplus on this account of $22,850,536. In addition to this, however, there was a total capital or special expenditure of $35,393,781, of which $19,969,664 was on the national transcontinental railway and $2,484,171 on bounties.

Would Cancel Exemption.

Winnipeg, Nov. 11.—Complications with the Midland Railway may result in representations to have the exemption from taxation clause struck from the company's charter, unless in the time as work is started in evidence of good faith. The Midland Company, which is Manitoba's name for James J. Hill's Great Northern, is reported to be tied up by monetary conditions in the United States, and not one cent had been passed for the proposed terminus at Winnipeg.

T. C. Robinette, K.C., counsel for Hardy, criticized Inspector Duncan for having mentioned Hardy's name in connection with the murder. "It was said a soldier had struck Horder, but he would have you responsible for the result of your act," said Mr. Justice Britton. "I personally would give you all thanks to be a juryman, but the jury could not do otherwise, that finding guilty."

Thomas Mack, aged 23, was sentenced to three years for having entered the house of Mrs. Jane Hamilton, 1 Duchess Street, in pretence of looking at a room and attempting an assault.

Walter Bell and John Jones, convicted of burglary, were sentenced to 18 months. They will be taken to Brampton to face trial as the alleged murderers of a Chinaman at Streetsville.

EYE STRAIN AND HEALTH.
Continued

All modern medical practitioners are aware of the fact that refractive errors have an influence on the general health. They have had frequent opportunities to observe the results which follow the wearing of an accurate correction. They note a relief from persistent headaches, migraine, and other nervous disturbances and gastric disorders commonly spoken of as "bilious attacks." Witness the statement of Musser, of Philadelphia: "Who has not seen correction of errors of refraction relieve so-called 'bilious attacks', periodical vomiting, abarexia, indigestion, and other gastric symptoms? The cure of grave organic defects relieves similar gastric conditions."

"It is apparent, however, to those of us who do eye and ear work exclusively that very few men in the practice of medicine realize the extent to which errors of refraction enter into the causation of extra-ocular disease."

OTTAWA DEPUTATION

At the Cheese Board yesterday afternoon a letter was read from Ottawa what interesting debate took place, in which a number present took part.

Mr. Sharpe, who has visited Ottawa in the Farmer's Sun, stated that on the 15th of December a large deputation would wait upon the Dominion Government for the purpose of endeavoring to obtain better trade relations with the United States, and especially so for the farmers. It was a fact that cheese and butter were selling for the United States for a higher price than is obtained for these commodities in this country. This should not, he declared, be the case.

Mr. James Anderson spoke in favor of the deputation, and said that the Belleville Board join in sending a deputation to the capital.

Mr. J. A. Kerr, after speaking in support of the proposition, moved that the President and Secretary should be appointed to represent the Board.

Mr. Thos. Watkin said he was in favor of reciprocity with the United States and he thought the Government would do something in the matter.

Mr. W. S. Cook was of the opinion that it was no use sending such a deputation to Ottawa.

Mr. M. Sprague seconded the resolution proposed by Mr. Kerr.

Mr. Jas. Balcanquel said that as a farmer he was in favor of securing, if possible, freer trade relations with the United States and especially on dairy products.

After some further discussion it was decided to lay the matter of appointing a deputation over until the meeting of the Board next week.

Cold: And Catarrh

YIELD TO ZAM-BUK.

If you suffer from catarrh or cold in the head, just insert a little Zam-Buk at the back of the nostril, and as the balm becomes warm inhale the healing essences which vaporise. You will be surprised how quickly this will give you ease.

For bad colds on the chest, rub the chest and between the shoulders well with Zam-Buk at night.

Sores in the nostril, which are sometimes set up by catarrh, will yield to Zam-Buk treatment.

Mrs. N. S. Blakely, of Matawatchan, Ont., says: "For a long time I had a very disagreeable sore on the inside of the nostril, which gave me great pain and caused much annoyance. I feared it would turn to cancer, and all I tried proved unavailing. I was ordered to try Zam-Buk and I am glad to say that the sure that defeat all other remedies was overcome by one box of Zam-Buk and is now quite healed."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, fruit hicks, ulcers, eczema, blood-poisoning, piles, cuts and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores 50c. box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Charbino Bros., who are at Griffin's the latter half of this week, are without doubt the greatest of all acrobatic acts ever seen here. It is not often that the public of Belleville are treated to such a wonderful exhibition of high class acrobatic work. There hand to hand and head to head balancing, coupled with their marvellous equilibrium feats, won the hearty appl'ause of last night's large audience. The daring slide down a 40-foot incline as performed by Mr. Geo. Charbino, while standing on his head, must be seen to be fully appreciated.

TARIFF SESSION AT OTTAWA IS BROUGHT TO END

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—The conference between the representatives of the United States and Canada on the subject of improved trade relations concluded yesterday afternoon. It has not been regarded here seriously, and indeed the commissioners during four sittings have not spent more than five hours in discussion of the trade situation. It is understood that the proceedings terminated abruptly, as the result of the elections in the United States. The conference began on Saturday and was continued on Monday, Tuesday and yesterday, but it has never been considered here that anything of moment would result.

The official report says: "The whole discussion was of the most frank and friendly nature. While no conclusion was reached, the ground was cleared for a further conference, which will be held in Washington, probably early in January. The members of the conference, Messrs. Hoyt, Pepper and Foster, representing the United States, and Messrs. Fielding and Paterson, representing Canada, separated with the strong hope that on the resumption of the conference at Washington an arrangement can be reached that will prove acceptable to people on both sides of the boundary line."

The Doctor's Question

MUCH SICKNESS DUE TO BOWEL DISORDERS.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 per cent. of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Rexall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. Act act quickly, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children weak persons or old folks. Two sizes 25c. and 10c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. J. S. McKeown.

HOCKEY

(Montreal Star.)

The drafts of the revised constitution and by-laws of the Canadian Hockey Association are out, and embody the changes which were announced by The Star some ten days ago, with the exception that the salary limit, instead of being fixed at four thousand dollars, has been fixed at five thousand. The words "of Canada," are dropped after the name of the association. The change to the simple National Hockey Association is designed to permit of taking into affiliation hockey bodies that may be formed in the United States as well as in Canada, with a view to making it eventually the central organization in the game. The two important changes in the playing rules are that the hour's play be divided into three periods of twenty minutes each, with a five-minute rest the first time and a ten-minute rest the second. The home club will have the option of choosing which goal it will defend in the first period, and will thus have the same goal in the second. The other is that players may be charged at any time during the first half of a match only, but once a player is removed from the ice (except for injury) he is not at liberty to return again during the game.

Peterboro Examiner—The West End Athletic Society has decided to place a junior team in the O.H.A., and has notified the Intermediate Hockey Club of their intention. There may be two teams in the junior O. H. A. from Peterboro, as the Intermediate Club will probably put a team in the running. They will discuss the matter at the annual meeting to be held Wednesday night.

The nominations for Ontario Hockey Association offices close with Secretary W. A. Hewitt, Toronto Daily Star, next Saturday for the annual meeting at the Temple Building at 8 p.m., Saturday week.

The present officers are:—

Past Pres., D. J. Turner, Toronto; Pres., L. B. Duff, Welland; Life Member, J. Ross Robertson, Toronto; C. A. U. Governor, F. Nelson, Toronto; 1st Vice-Pres., H. E. Wallaker, Berlin; 2nd Vice-Pres., C. Farquharson, Stratford; Secretary, W. A. Hewitt, Toronto; Treasurer, Dr. W. C. Wood, Toronto; Executive, J. Dyment, Barrie; K. Sanderson, London; Rev. A. F. Dare, Whitby; Dr. A. W. McPherson, Peterboro; N. Rule, Collingwood, and E. La Roche, Belleville.

There are no changes in prospect except in the Executive. A two-year presidential term is the custom, and Louis Blake Duff will go in again unopposed, as will the other leaders.

THE TURF

M. W. Savage, of Minneapolis, at present conspicuous as the man who is running a corner in two minute pacers, and a name in the history of the harness horse racing game. He engineers the distinction of paying more "long prices" for famous horses than any other two men, and he has not yet bought a "cold brick."

When the Minneapolis man bought Dan Patch for $60,000 his friends shook their heads, and it was whispered that "another good church member had gone crazy over fast horses." In fact, it is thought the men who sold Dan were not entirely sure but that they had "unloaded" something.

At the time of the purchase Dan Patch had a record of 1.59 1-2. He showed improvement the first year of the new ownership, and his successive reductions of world's records until he placed the harness horse mark for the year at 1.55 are well known in turf history. Besides, the "Black Whirlwind" paid for himself the first two years and since that time has earned many times that amount. An offer of $100,000 has been refused for the horse, and Mr. Savage will not sell at any price.

Minor Heir came next. His meteoric career of 1908 made him the most talked of harness horse in the world, next to Dan Patch. Mr. Savage bought him for $40,000. He then had a record of 1.59 1-2, and many thought he had reached the limit of his speed. But a careful wintering the great son of Heir at Law showed improvement. In 1909 he reduced his record to 1.59 1-4, covering the quarters are follows: 0.29, 0.30, 0.30 and 0.30 1-4. He was the only horse in pace a mile under two minutes last year.

This year his performances have put him in a class by himself. He has not only reduced the world's unpaced mile record to 1.58 1-2, thus going a faster mile in the open than any other horse ever went, but he has lowered the world's record four times and has won three races the time of which averages better than two minutes.

Grand Circuit Cane was next star added to the Savage stable. He was the champion money winner of 1909. He had a mark of 2.03 3-4 when Mr. Savage paid $30,000 for him last winter. Although he has been performing under the Savage banner but two months he has already lowered his record one-second and a-half and was separately timed in a race in 2.00.

THE RING.

Jack Johnson, world's champion pugilist, with a $30,000 diamond belt, is likely to look over the footlights at Paris before the winter ends, and incidentally, will try to show some of the French and English fighters that there are a few kinks in the fight game with which they are not yet familiar. Johnson has received a wire from Paris making the big offer with round-trip transportation for four. Johnson will go west again before crossing the water. He will be in England in April, anyway," said Johnson, "so I might as well skip over, collect the coin and give the Parisians a glimpse of the real stuff. Just when I meet in it little concern, I hope they uncover something classy. It would liven things up, for I see no chance of a good bout in this country."

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Ike Attell and Owen Moran fought six fast rounds to a draw last night. Attell kept the fight on the defensive from the sound of the bell, but Moran was just as anxious to mix it up as was Attell and either had the fight if there was little to choose between the two.

MISCELLANEOUS

The Hon. Adam Beck is leaving for New York to-night, to join the business bosses in the horse show in Madison Square Garden. Mr. Beck is sending the business himself to compete in the show. Sir Edward, Sir James, Grandee, Blackbird and Sir Frederick. The last two belong to Mrs. Beck. A number of Clydesdales are being sent by the same firm by Robert Graham of Claremont.

BASEBALL

It is said that some of the American League men favor two new rules that have recently been suggested. One is the reduction of called balls from four to three, and the other is the retrial of the same batter. By the adoption of the three ball rule, it is argued, the effectiveness of the pitcher would be decreased and more batting would result. It seems to be a growing impression that something must be done to curtail the pitchers before another season begins, and several baseball sharps are in favor of a reduction in the number of balls entitling a batsman to his base say the raised box sheriff is eliminated, thereby compelling the pitcher to work on the same level with the infielders. Believers in the elevated mound is an immense advantage for the twirler over the batsman.

The official batting and fielding records of the Southern League, which have just been published, prove to indicate that Manager McGraw, of the Giants, has secured a promising third baseman in Frank Manush of the New Orleans club. Manush in 145 games played 581 time, made 222 safe hits and 28 sacrifices, stole 26 bases and had a batting average of .396. In fielding he accepted 250 putouts and 282 assists, making 25 errors and having an average of .946. He is a right-hand swinging player of batting ability, and comes to the Giants with a fine reputation. But he'll have to prove a phenomenon to supplant Arthur Devlin next year.

FOOTBALL

While the soccer game is undoubtedly forging its way into public favor, there is not surely, on this continent, it is interesting to note that the game has taken an extraordinary hold on the youth of Russia. A series of matches played in St. Petersburg by local clubs against the celebrated Czech team from Prague attracted over 20,000 spectators at each game. It is said sound curious to hear a Russian crowd shouting "Offside," "corner," or "free kick," as they watch the play. But most wonderful of all is the resolution of the reporters who describe the matches. Apparently they can't muster a reasonable idea of some pretensions, for their published reports abound in mention of the crescendo passages and brave strains accomplished by the football players.

Argos to beat, Tiger-Saturday is the popular belief, and it must be admitted that the dope reads that way. With Binkley on the back division the narmen would have downed Tigers a year ago, and they are now stronger in nearly every department now than they were then. Of course, if Sammy D'aette is unable to play he will be missed and he'll be sorely handy to run back Simpson's long punts.

PICTURES BETRAY CHARACTER.

The pictures that hang on the walls of our rooms speak eloquently of us. They are also subtle factors in the moulding of that part of our characters that is intangible, but necessary to happiness the outside side.

When selecting pictures a very important thing to be considered is the framing.

A poorly chosen picture, or a good one unwisely framed and hung, will cause more discord than an inharmonious color. Fortunate indeed is she who starts with nothing worse than bare walls, or a troublesome pressed or two from some friends who recognize the claims of art, but whose sense of appreciation is limited to color, likeness and a handsome frame.

"HOBBLE" HAIR DRESSING.

With the pencil-like lines of the narrow-skirted gowns the old style of wearing the hair with a multitude of curls and puffs back of the pompadour gives a slightly appearance. The hair is draped back from the face in some loose fashion and bound at the back of the neck in a big mass around which a coil of hair or band of ribbon may be twisted. A strand of pearls or other jewels may be substituted for the evening.

The Paris hair artists declare that all women are good looking when they dress their hair flat on top, and it really does sound like an improvement on the rotted pompadour.

It would seem, however, that care will have to be taken not to transform the soft bunch of hair at the nape of the neck into the handle-like appearance one sees sticking out six or seven inches behind.

The woman who wears her hair hobbly would at least make sure that she has her hair washed at least every ten days. She must keep each hair fluffy and just as soon as one lays the strands alive, so they will look bright and free living, and youthful, but not disheveled.

THE SERVANT PROBLEM.
LRM.

No servants need apply" at any one of thirty homes living in Carthage, Missouri. These families, unable to get satisfactory cooks, have banded together and organized a co-operative kitchen. The kitchen supplies each family with three good meals a day at a cost much below what such meals would cost if prepared in each individual kitchen, and the worry over the servant problem and the work of preparing meals is eliminated.

NO MORE SKIRTS FOR HER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Miss mens skirts for Mrs. Alma Webber Powell, of Brooklyn, who has fitted herself out with a trousered costume that she says "would be the envy of every bloomer." She expects society will stare at first, but next will fit itself out likewise.

"Women cannot help but adopt this costume," she declares. "You can hop across the street in it and don't have to get the bottom of your skirt all mudstrained and rump'ed. You walk in comfort.

"I'd been thinking of a trousered outfit for a long time, but didn't quite see my way clear to action until they tried to force a hobble upon me in Vienna. There I hailed from the land of fat women with huge curves mincing along in hobbles, and I said, 'No more skirts for me.'"

Mrs. Powell wore her new costume for the first time at a Clinton avenue suffragette gathering. It consists of a pair of black serge bloomers, fastened to a piece of goods that falls smoothly over the hips, a long, easy-fitting black serge coat, with black satin buttons down the front and shining black bows that extend half way to the knee. The bloomers are full, and are pleated upon the smooth hip covering. They and the boots form a combination such as Russian dancers wear.

"What women need is comfort," she says. "If they won'd wear an easily fitting thing like this they could give their minds to something above dress. They would be better, freer and better brains. And there would be more desirable posterity.

"Wait until Nov. 14," she went on. "I am the president of a club that exists for the betterment of social conditions, and we are to have a meeting that night at the Astor. I shall wear a $75 evening gown with the trouser foundation when I lecture on 'The Evils of the Long Skirt.' I am afraid to wear it before all those people, and it will not scare me to see ministers in the audience."

"Wasting a child up to feed him is the most foolish thing I ever heard of. He has been undernourished and needs the nourishment? Nonsense. I had my children fed every two hours, and sleep as long as they would."

These were the sage remarks they are continually saying, and as some of them have more influence than we do how could it take action on our most important instructions are neutralized.

Never Prohibited Whistling.

Winnipeg Free Press: The trial of Engineer Nicholls at the Assizes on the charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Lawrence at the Pembina subway crossing in July last, it was announced that the city bylaw contributed indirectly to the accident. It seems that it prohibited whistling by locomotives until the gong-bell was rung, i.e. the whistle had been sounded, the collision with the street car would not have occurred.

Points For Mothers

"A baby's grandmother is often its worst enemy."

So a splendid trained nurse who makes her specialty the hygienic side to health of sick babies told me the other day, says Ruth Cameron.

It was a pretty harsh indictment of that class of personages whose very name evokes a thought of comfort—but so naturally I demanded an explanation. She says it:

"Grandmothers are the worst enemies of our modern methods—not all of them, of course, but some. Because their babies lived and grew up in spite of what mistakes they made they try to have their daughters make the same mistakes.

"There is no doubt about it that modern methods have reduced infant mortality immensely, and, though of course it is true that plenty of babies grew up into healthy children with the old, careless methods, a baby brought up in the modern way has twice the chance to grow up that they did.

"But the grandmothers don't see it that way. They say all that babies

A Phone Incident.

A housekeeper in New York phoned to the meat market. "Have you any liver this morning?"

"I hope so," came the response, with a cheery laugh which was heard by the butcher's.

"Are you not the butcher?" she further inquired.

"Well, some people call me that, but I am really Dr. Sound-so," came the laughing reply.

As the woman recognized the name of one of the most famous surgeons in town, she gasped an apology and nervously rang up "Central" again.

Judge Britton Renders Decision In Famous Will Case

TORONTO BUDGET

Grand Trunk Men Not Reinstated May Have Cases Arbitrated.

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 12.—Following complaint of Messrs. Murdock and Berry that many employees have not been taken back by the Grand Trunk since the strike settlement, Hon. Mr. King, Minister of Labor, has suggested that each individual case be arbitrated and that Judge Britton, of Stratford, be arbitrator.

Mr. Justice Britton to-day gave judgment that aged well-to-do Michael Fraser, of Midland, is quite sane and capable to manage his own affairs and therefore His Lordship see no reason to interfere with his marriage to Miss Robertson, nurse, of Dundas, which caused the sensational trial recently.

A Bloom, wife and children, some of them without a stitch of clothing, had a narrow escape at midnight when their home on Victoria Street was gutted by flames.

Because he broke faith with Dominion Immigration Department, and worked here as a teamster, instead of a farm laborer, Alexander Harper, a Scotch immigrant, is in jail here and may be deported. His lawyers are trying to get him released on habeas corpus.

R AND O STEAMER BELLEVILLE RUNS AGROUND IN STORM

(Intelligencer Special.)

American Gold May Abolish The Lords

Humiliating Situation Revealed By London Daily Mail—Liberals Look For Another Campaign In The Spring.

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 12.—In a powerful editorial to-day the Daily Mail hints that if the Liberals are strong enough to control the situation in Great Britain they do it with the assistance of American gold, namely the financial backing collected recently by John Redmond in the United States and Canada. "England should realize," says the Mail, "the humiliating truth that America bids her change her constitution. If the House of Lords is abolished, the abolition will be bought by foreign gold."

This indicates that the Conservatives anticipate the Liberals to precipitate another campaign by resigning as soon as Parliament reassembles and appealing to the people on the direct issue of the abolition of the Lords or curtailing veto powers.

Many Viaducts Delay Building of Railway

Toronto-Ottawa Branch of Canadian Northern Held Up By Bridges—Steel Delivery Very Slow—Road Not Likely Ready Until Next Summer.

Although the construction work on the Toronto-Ottawa branch of the Canadian Northern Railway has been pushed during the spring and summer with all the vigor at the command of the contractors, it is not altogether unlikely that the road will be ready for operation as a connecting link system until next summer. Some of the men at headquarters are even pessimistic enough to think that it will be early autumn before the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada finally declares the line open for traffic.

When the contract for the section between this city and Trenton was let it was stipulated in the papers that the road was to be ready for operation at the end of this year. The grading accordingly was pressed forward at a rapid rate, and as far as th's part of the work is concerned the contract time will not have to be greatly extended. The delay has been in connection with the many viaducts to be constructed along the line. Some of these are of considerable length and the steel for their construction has not been forthcoming as rapidly as expected. There are, however, some heavy cuts to be ploughed out, but this work is not regarded as likely to hamper the early completion of the line.

The grading from Cobourg to Trenton is practically all finished, and the steel laid, except a small piece near Brighton, where there is still some work to be completed. The engineers hope the grading will be finished by the new year, and that by the end of January all the steel viaducts to Trenton will be in place. Ballasting has been done on a good portion of the line, and it is expected this work can be proceeded with in the winter, and be finished in the early spring. But these calculations are based upon an open winter, which all the old expert local forecasters do not promise.

Should the engineers not be able to continue bridge building during the winter, then all this necessary work will have to await the coming of spring, making for a delay of several months, and that is why some of the officials say that the road to Trenton will not be open for traffic until the early autumn of next year.

50 FISHERMEN REPORTED DEAD

Tempest Rages In English Channel And Straits Of Dover

FLOODS IN PARIS

Water Is Believed To Have Gone Up 5.70 Metres—Tunnels Closed.

Calais, France, Nov. 12.—The storm which raged in the English Channel and the Straits of Dover yesterday caught the Calais fishing fleet unawares. Several vessels were sunk and 50 fishermen were drowned.

Paris, Nov. 12.—All parts of France were suffering from the effects of floods yesterday. The water in the southeastern part of this city were being inundated and workmen made a desperate effort to save the merchandise that had accumulated there. The openings of the tunnels of the Orleans Railroad were closed to avoid the flooding of the underground passages.

It is estimated that the gauge at Port Royal will show that the water to have reached a height of 5.70 metres by Sunday. This will be 2.22 metres above the normal. As the gauge stood at 9.50 metres during the height of the flood last January, the danger to the city at the present time is not considered serious. The Seine, the Government is adopting measures to avoid a repetition of the disaster of last winter.

Stormy in Germany.

Berlin, Nov. 12.—A heavy snowstorm prevailed to-day, which is winter through northern Germany. Telephone and telegraph wires are still down in the north and no news is yet forthcoming with Bremen. Direct telegraphic connection with England is interrupted, and the Bourse yesterday was able to communicate with London only by means of telephone by way of France.

Rhine is Rising.

Cologne, Germany, Nov. 12.—The River Rhine here is 27 feet above its mean low level, and is still rising. Mannheim reported a river at 18 feet and at Moselle it has reached 22 3-4 feet. At Metz the river is the highest that it has been for years. The lower parts of that city are flooded, as also are those of a number of towns below Metz.

Up-stream the Rhine is reported to

REST BENEFITTING MARGARET ANGLIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Miss Margaret Anglin is said to have benefited somewhat by her rest since she came to Chicago, but her condition is still serious. Her mental prize in a lottery which she requests one of the local newspapers or some society to conduct. She says the law does not prevent lottery prizes offering themselves.

Miss Livingston proposes to sell 10,000 tickets at $1 each. The man getting the lucky number will be entitled to her and half the money. If the winner be unwilling to marry her, he forfeits his half; if she be unwilling to marry him, she forfeits her half. If both are unwilling, they divide the money. She wants foreigners barred. Should a married man win, she will be released from marrying the winner. The girl she says she is in earnest, her motive being "I need the money."

Her letters are dead. Since leaving high school she has been employed as a bookkeeper. The girl has black hair, blue eyes, rosy cheeks and a trim figure.

TOLSTOI VANISHES TO BE A RECLUSE

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 12.—Count Tolstoi left his home at Yasnaya Poliana early on the morning of Oct. 10, telling no one of his departure, but leaving a letter for his wife saying he had decided to spend his remaining days in solitary seclusion.

The Novoeremia makes the announcement on the authority of Prince Dmitry Obolensky, who says that Count Tolstoi was accompanied by Mr. Makovetsky, and that Countess Tolstoi is in despair. The news is confirmed from other sources. All attempts to trace the Count have failed.

PRETTY GIRL OFFERS HERSELF AS A PRIZE

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 12.—Miss Lavona Livingstone, twenty years old, lately from Petosky, Mich., (she was born in Virginia) to-day offered herself as a matrimonial prize in a lottery which she requests one of the local newspapers or some society to conduct. She says the law does not prevent lottery prizes offering themselves.

Miss Livingston proposes to sell 10,000 tickets at $1 each. The man getting the lucky number will be entitled to her and half the money. If the winner be unwilling to marry her, he forfeits his half; if she be unwilling to marry him, she forfeits her half. If both are unwilling, they divide the money. She wants foreigners barred. SOLDIER RUNS WILD, KILLS OFFICER, THEN ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 12.—Corporal John Bowlan was shot dead at Macaulay Point Fort yesterday morning by Gunner Charles Ratcliffe, who then committed suicide.

The affair is supposed to have arisen out of an incident at the cruiser "Rainbow" banquet on Thursday night, when Bowlan reprimanded Ratcliffe for being boisterous.

Ratcliffe, after killing Bowlan, terrorized other men in the fort with his rifle, and fired upon soldiers and police who attempted to advance over the exposed ground around the fort. When he saw that capture was certain, he put a bullet into his right eye and died immediately.

Other soldiers who were in the fort are now under guard, and a military enquiry will be held. It is a second shooting at the barracks in a few months.

POTATOES THE ONLY POOR CROP THIS YEAR IN CANADA

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The census office issued yesterday a bulletin on crops of Canada, and a preliminary report made up to the end of October. Potatoes alone indicate partial failure, and in all the provinces there are complaints of rot. The area of 693,962 acres and the estimated yield of 74,268,268 bushels, an average of about 147 bushels per acre, for all of the provinces. The quality is 84.42 per cent. Turnips and other field roots show a quality of 88.57, a yield per acre of 402 bushels, and a total yield of 30,267,000 bushels. Hay and clover are computed for 4,315,400 acres and a yield per acre of 1.62 tons. The quality is 86.61 per cent, and the total field 15,497,000 tons. Fodder corn has an estimated yield per acre of 9.38 tons, which upon an area of 221,000 acres, gives a products of 2,551,000 tons. Sugar beet are grown quite extensively in Ontario and Alberta. The area in crop this year is 16,000 acres, a substantial increase. The yield per acre is 9.69 tons, the total yield 155,000 tons, and the quality 92.15 per cent. The route supplied to the Berlin factory is testing 17 per cent. of sugar, and at the Wallaceburg factory 16 per cent., but a product of 5,000 acres in Ontario is being shipped to Michigan. The product of 82,000 acres is marketed at Wallaceburg and Berlin, where the average price is about $5.26 per ton or better than $57.80 per acre.

The report on fall wheat sown this year shows an area of 790,300 acres, where in 1909 662,500 acres are in Ontario and 107,800 acres in Alberta. The condition of the crop is reported at 98.48 per cent, as compared with 93.60 last year.

PROSPECTORS MAKE HORRIBLE DISCOVERY

COBOURG, Nov. 12.—Prospectors arriving back over the Porcupine trail report finding the body of P. Cohen, a Toronto traveller, half eaten by weasels, in a deserted shack. Cohen was drowned some time ago, and his body was placed there to await the arrival of the coroner or police, who never came.

CURRENT EVENTS.

A farmer near Wilkes-Barre has been poisoned by eating pancakes. Yet some farmers have pork gravy regularly and live. Marvellous!

Four women will sit in the Eighteenth General Assembly of Colorado as a result of the last elections. In the last General Assembly Mrs. Lafferty, who was re-elected, was the only woman representative. There are no women Senators. The Senate has our sympathy.

The redoubtable James J. Jeffries emerges from his galling obscurity and announces to a patient and long-suffering public that he was duped on that fatal day at Reno. Our genial friend, Colonel Roosevelt, who also failed so dismally to "come back," and who is now racking his brain at Oyster Bay for a reasonable excuse might do a considerable sight worse than say "ditto, brother." Teddy doped!

Floods are again devastating the eastern portions of France. The River Meurthe and its tributaries are over their banks. Many villages have been inundated. At Nancy alone there are 1,500 homeless. Immense damage has been done. The valley traversed by the River Moselle is under water. Many factories have stopped work. The River Saone threatens to invade the famous Creusot Steel Works.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT

At the meeting of the Board of Education last evening Inspector Clarke presented his monthly report, which showed that for the month of October the registration of scholars in the various city public schools was 1,178, and the average attendance 1,041. This showed an increase of 21 scholars from the September report.

ERNEST THOMPSON SETON ADDRESSES BOY SCOUTS

Distinguished Visitor Attends Annual Banquet of The Boy's Department of The Y. M. C. A. Held Last Evening and Explains The Scout Movement

Nine years ago Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton invited twelve boys to his country place for a spell of camping out. To the great surprise of both himself and his cabin forty-two boys accepted that invitation. Mr. Seton proved to be a natural born leader of boys, and his knowledge of woodcraft and all forms of out-door lore, coupled with his great powers of teaching, story-telling and sketching, so appealed to those forty-two boys that they also became enthused over new, yet old, learning—the learning of the wild. Their enthusiasm was contagious. Then, with the instinct of a general, Mr. Seton seized the opportunity and started the Boy Scouts. For the first few years they were called the Seton Scouts, but the movement spread from place to place it combined the life of General Sir R. S.S. Baden-Powell, who took it up and, improving it to suit English needs, started his Boy-Scout Movement in England. These two organizations have since become united under the name of The Boy Scouts, the two leaders working in harmony, Mr. Seton as chairman of the American National Committee, and Sir R. Baden-Powell as head of the British Section. This, in brief, is the story of the Boy Scouts. Those who were privileged to see and hear the author and founder of this movement, Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton, yesterday will have a clearer conception of the purposes of the organization and a broader vision of its possibilities.

The Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A., many of whom are members of the Boy Scouts, held its annual banquet at Wallace's restaurant last evening, from 6.30 to 7.30, the time and hour being arranged so our local Scouts might have the opportunity of hearing Mr. Seton talk about the Scouts.

Although it was not a part of his contract, Mr. Seton attended the supper and gave the boys a delightful half hour talk. He impressed on them first that Scouts must live up to the code of honor laid down in the "Scout Manual." This code, while simple, is high in character, as shown by the oath every boy must take before becoming a Scout, in which he promises on his honor to do his best: 1st, to do his duty to God and his country; 2nd, to help other people at all time, and, lastly, to obey the Scout law. In addition to this, Mr. Seton urged the boys to protect all wild birds and animal life, and to study wild creatures and their habits without killing them.

He then explained the patrol system, by which each group of eight or ten boys adopts the name and call of some wild creature, and showed the purpose of the calls. He also gave vivid descriptions of certain public exhibitions the Scouts of other places were giving, together with some of the characteristic Scout games that had developed since the movement was started.

It certainly did one good to sit at that banquet table and watch the rapt faces of those forty odd boys as they listened to the Master Scout. It was inspiring to the boys, and there can be no doubt the number of Boy Scouts in this city will soon be doubled.

The chairman of the Boys' Work Committee, Mr. J. Arthur Marsh, occupied the chair, and briefly announced to the boys that next week has been set apart as "Membership Week," and requested all the boys present for new members for the whole of the week.

THE MARKET TODAY

Closing of Cheese Factories Floods The Market With Butter--Eggs Are Soaring

The market today was an exceptionally good one, as the large quantity of farm produce was offered for sale. Prices as usual were good for all products offered for sale.

Butter was a rather plentiful article and, in consequence, a drop in price occurred. This was owing to the fact that a number of cheese factories in that section have closed down for the season. The ruling price for this article was 25 cts. per pound.

Eggs were scarce and were readily picked up at 30 cts. per dozen, a rather high price for this season of the year.

Dressed poultry, while quite plentiful, brought fairly good prices. Chickens sold at from 17c. to $1.25 per pair, ducks $1.25 to $1.50 per pair, geese $1.25 to $1.50 each and turkeys averaged about 25c. per pound.

Potatoes sold at 75c. per bag and the offering was in no means large.

Apples sold at 20c. and 25c. per peck, according to quality.

Recently there has been a decided drop in the hog market, live hogs at present realizing but $6.50 to $6.75 per hundredweight. Dressed hogs sell at 9c. per pound.

Our quotations of prices are as follows:—

Oats, new—38c. to 40c.
Live Hogs—$6.50 to $6.75.
Hay—$12 to $13.
Eggs—25c.
Fresh Eggs—30c.
Fall Wheat—85c. to 90c.
Spring wheat—85c. to 90c.
Barley—55c. to 60c.
Rye—65c. bushel.
Peas—65c. to 70c.
Buckwheat—50c. to 55c.
Timothy—$2.75 to $3.00.
Clover, red—$9 to $10.
Alsike—$8 to $10.
Dressed Hogs—$9.
Dressed beef, fore—$6.50 to $6.75.
Dressed beef, hind—$7.50 to $8.00.
Spring lambs—15c. to 16c.
Mutton—8c. to 10c.
Veal hides—11c. per lb.
Lamb skins—60c.
Ducks—$1.25 to $1.50 per pair.
Chickens—70c. to $1.50 per pair.
Geese—$1.25 to $1.50.
Turkeys—$2 to $3.50.
City hides, trimmed—8c.
Country hides, trimmed—7c.
Horse hides—$2.50 to $2.75.
Kips—7c.
Deakin skins—60c.
Tallow, rough—2c.
Tallow, rendered—3 1-2c.
Wool, washed—18c.

AMANS ACQUITTED

Judge Deroche Acquits Young Man Of Charge of Theft

Before Judge Deroche this morning argument was heard and judgment given in the case of Thomas Amans, who was accused of the theft of some articles and money from Mr. Jonas Bargman with whom the accused was employed. Mr. W. B. Northrup, K.C., who defended the accused, argued for his acquittal, and Mr. Anderson, for the Crown, contended the accused was guilty. His Honor, in giving judgment, gave it as his opinion the fit of the doubt in the matter and acquitted him at the same time intimating that Mr. Bargman was justified, under the circumstances, in laying the information.

PRESBYTERY CALLED

A special meeting of the Presbytery of Kingston will be held in John St. Church, Belleville, on Friday, the 25th inst., at 2 o'clock, to deal with the call transmitted, through the Presbytery of Ottawa, from Vernon, to Rev. J. A. McConnell, of Roslin, and also to deal with other calls that might be issued in the meantime. The Vernon charge was left vacant by the removal of Rev. W. Prittie, to Copper Cliff.

Protectionist Turns Out To Be A Much Wanted Man.

Last evening a one-armed man walked into the police station and requested a night's lodging. Officer Deshane, who was on duty, thought he recognized the man, who gave his name as Charles Mann, as a party who is wanted at Smith's Falls on a charge of theft. When questioned, Mann admitted that he was in Smiths Falls a few days ago. He was locked up charged with theft, and the police of Smiths Falls were advised of his arrest. An officer from that place came to the city to-day and took Mann away with him. It is alleged that the accused was recently arrested at Kingston on a charge of theft and allowed to go.

Daily Intelligencer.

City Engineer's Letters.

The letters of the City Engineer which appeared in last evening's Intelligencer were timely, having set tax payers thinking and asking questions. One writes, saying: "It is all very well to say the details of the different expenditures are on file on the Treasurer's book. It is very inconvenient for citizens to go to the Treasurer's book and examine same, if permissable, and much more inconvenient for the Treasurer. Come, Mr. Engineer, let us have a statement now of the new walks built this year, the names of the streets upon which they were built, the wards, who did we get the sand and gravel from, and how much and at what price? Who did we get cement from and what did we pay for same? And who did we get the stone from, how many loads or cords, and how much did we pay? These things were done under your supervision and you should know."

"Can the City Engineer tell us where the steel pipe for the trunk sewer was purchased and through whom?

"What about the state of Dundas Street? Has it been replaced according to contract? Where will there be a slight saving in a low contract price? Who is going to save?"

These are pertinent questions in which all are interested, and should be answered, not, however, in our opinion, by the City Engineer, who is but the servant of the city, unless authorized to do so by the City Council. The Chairman of Finance or Chairman of Public Works should give this information, and no doubt would have given it long ago had not illness prevented the Chairman of Finance for some time past from attending to his duties at his office. There cannot be too much publicity given in such matters. Let the public know, and that, too, without delay.

Anti-British Campaign.

The Laurier organs, in the English-speaking Province, are attempting to make it appear that in the recent by-election in Drummond and Arthabasca, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his friends stood for the British side, and Mr. Bourassa and his friends for the Anti-British side of the campaign.

Nothing could well be farther from the truth.

The chief feature of the campaign on both sides was most regrettable.

There was no British side.

Certainly the Government side of the campaign was as anti-British as it could well be, from the Laurier candidate himself down to the campaigning from the back townships.

The Laurier candidate, Mr. Perrault, appealed to the electorate on a separationist platform. He, like his leader, Sir Wilfrid, held out to his constituents the prospect of an independent Canada, separate from British.

In one of his speeches he is charged with saying:

"Our fleet is not, and never will be, Imperialistic; it is a step towards the independence of Canada."

This was unpopular, he has declared uttering such sentiments.

The Montreal Witness, a Laurier organ, in its report of one of the joint meetings, tells that the Government speakers were the choice, and reports their campaign cry of Canadian Independence. It says:

"Mr. Beland, M.P., and Mr. Gauthier, ex-M.P.P., two of the best orators of the Ministerial party, were the choice. It was a splendid duel, in which every good reason for or against the navy was presented in the most able manner. The liberal speakers celebrated the Navy Bill as the most glorious measure ever passed by the Canadian Parliament. They declared that it was a step towards the independence of Canada, for only a nation could have its navy."

Then to get a Government campaigner of another sort, we have only to look to Le Canada, which reported Edward Paimon, "a prominent farmer of St. Albert, in the County of Arthabasca," as presenting the following argument to the electors:—

"I do not see the necessity," he said, "of turning out the Laurier Government to please gentlemen who are working for the advantage of a party that is against our race, the party of Mr. Borden, who is controlled by the Orangists."

These few little quotations will be sufficient to show what sort of a "British" campaign was carried on by Sir Wilfrid and his friends.

It will not be forgotten, of course, that Mr. Perrault, the Independent Canada candidate, was Sir Wilfrid's own personal choice.

FASCINATING HAIR

You never saw a beautiful woman who did not have beautiful hair. The charm of a beautiful woman lies in her hair.

Many women do not realize the attractiveness of "Parisian" hair. They do not give proper attention to the hair. The women of Paris are famed for their beauty, not because their facial features are superior to those of other women, but because they know how to keep young by supplying the hair with food and strength to the roots.

Up to three years ago Parisian hair could hardly be obtained in Canada. But now this delightful hair restorer can be had in every town in Canada. J. C. Doyle sells it in Belleville for 50 cents a large bottle, and he guarantees it to grow beautiful, luxuriant hair; to turn dull, lifeless hair into lustrous hair; to stop falling hair; to stop itching of the scalp. Understand J. C. Doyle will give you your money back if it fails. Made only in Canada by Alexander Co., Ltd., Montreal. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every bottle.

SPLENDID LECTURE DELIVERED BY ERNEST THOMPSON SETON

Distinguished Author and Naturalist Speaks In City Hall Before Large and Fashionable Audience —Master Stanbury's Beautiful Voice.

Mr. Ernest Thompson-Seton, the distinguished naturalist and author, from whose pen have come such delightful and well known delineations of animal life as "Wild Animals I Have Known," "Lives of the Hunted," etc., gave a most entertaining and instructive lecture in the City Hall last night under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. There was a large and fashionable audience present and they followed the lecture with every indication of keenly interest. The Boy Scouts in uniform occupied the front row of the hall and Mr. Thompson-Seton had no more interested and attentive auditors than the youngsters who drank in every word with avidity.

Mr. Thompson-Seton is an eloquent and fluent speaker with the power of drawing word-pictures that bring what he is describing vividly before the minds of his hearers and a fund of humor that he uses to full advantage. These qualities, combined with his deep knowledge of the subject upon which he speaks, make his lectures one of the greatest interest and the hall came all too soon for the audience last night. Illustrated by many splendid photographs of animals taken from life thrown on the screen by a stereopticon lantern, Mr. Thompson-Seton brought before the audience some of the experiences he has had and the observations he has made during his life study as a naturalist.

In commencing his lecture, the distinguished speaker gave a short explanation of his methods in preparing his stories of animal life. He explained that the stories of the animals he had written were not the life story of one particular animal, but were composites of incidents in the lives of many such animals, incidents he had observed himself, had been informed of by others and had learned of through observation. His lecture bristled with interesting information presented in a most entertaining manner. He pointed out the strong maternal instinct among animals and gave instances of how the mothers fought for their young. He showed too how nature had made wise provision for the protection of the young and how obedient the latter were to the instructions received from their mothers. The speaker repudiated the idea that the strongest and biggest male in the herd was always the leader; on the contrary he had found that this position was generally occupied by an elderly female. In this connection some interesting photographs of deer were shown and in nearly every case the biggest stag was in the rear of the procession.

He gave a most fascinating description of the migration of birds to the south in the autumn and illustrated his lecture to most realistic imitations of the calls of the lark, the wild duck, the white crane and other birds, as he had heard them along the banks of the Red River. He illustrated, too, the manner in which the bull moose is called in order to be brought within shooting range.

A more enjoyable lecture has seldom been heard in Belleville, and the Y.M.C.A. deserves credit for bringing Mr. Thompson-Seton to it.

Before and after the lecture Master Stanbury delighted the audience with his wonderful voice. He sings with a feeling and expression rarely seen even in a grown-up, and his voice is of considerable range and flexibility. His Scotch dialect a la Harry Lauder was perfect. Altogether he was a big feature in himself.

FOUND DEAD IN WOODS

KINGSTON, Nov. 11.—A woman, identified as Mary Ann McAlpine, aged about forty, of Ottawa, was found dead near the railway tracks at Collins Bay, early this morning, with a rash in her head, and from the investigation made by the police and authorities, it is advisable to open an inquest to-night. George Simmons, of Collins Bay, has been arrested and the police say it is alleged that he was the last to see the woman alive.

The woman travelled with a man giving the name of Samuel Slattery, aged fifty, who says he formerly lived in Kingston. He is a umbrella mender, and has been going around the country with the woman. A couple of weeks ago the two parted at Cinmura. The man went to Tweed and the woman to Ottawa. They rejoined each other here Wednesday.

Yesterday morning, according to Slattery's story, they stayed in a bush for shelter while it was raining, when Simmons came along and gave them some liquor out of a jar. After they all drank some liquor, and that he knew nothing until he awoke in early morning and found the woman dead at his side. Simmons was missing. He gave the alarm. Later on Simmons was located in the city, and placed under arrest.

Slattery says the woman had two brothers and two sisters, John McDonald, Bell street, Ottawa; Michael Donald, Divisional street, Ottawa, both stone masons; and two sisters, Mrs. Edwards, Sussex street, Ottawa, and a sister in Pembroke, also one son and daughter, believed to be in Fort William.

At the inquest last night, Prof. W. T. Connell reported that the dead body of woman McAlpine, found dead at Collin's Bay, had been due to suffocation from drowning in water in a ditch. A wound on the head had been received some time before, and had no direct bearing on her death. She had evidently been under the influence of liquor.

Geo. Simons, held by the police, admitted giving the woman whisky on Thursday night, but stoutly denied having laid hand on her. Samuel Slattery, who was traveling with her, denied that throw any light on the cause of her death. He denied having drugged her.

The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the facts, and Simons and Slattery were released.

GROWING CHILDREN

play hard and work hard at school, and rapid growth uses up an enormous amount of energy and vitality that needs replenishing.

This accounts for the many delicate, sickly and ailing children we see on our streets.

We wish the mother of every such child would come to our store for a bottle of Vinol, as it is a delicious cod liver aid iron tonic which children love to take, and it is easily assimilated.

A grateful mother in Durand, Mich., says her little girl was weak, pale, and had no appetite. She gave her Vinol and she began to thrive at once—soon gained normal weight in weight, color and strength. (Name furnished on request.)

Vinol builds up good healthy flesh and muscle tissue and makes thin little limbs round and plump.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that if it does not benefit your child you can have it returned. J. S. McKeown, druggist.

Principal, The Madam Butler School of Beautifying Arts, Detroit, Michigan.

STYLE A. For this style the hair may be braided, coiled or formed into a rope twist. The hair is first waved and brought well down on the forehead. The ends are pinned back at the crown of the head and either coiled or formed into puffs. The main part of the hair, if long enough, is then braided and drawn around the entire head.

Should the hair not be sufficient by long for this handling, it is made into two braids, which are crossed at the nape of the neck and carried around the head. This coiffure is arranged without the use of rats, frames or false hair.

Newbro's Herpicide Makes the Hair Beautiful

To have long, thick, luxuriant hair and the ability to dress it properly should be the desire of every woman who wishes to be considered attractive. Nice hair is merely a question of care and cultivation. Hair that is dull, brittle, uneven and full of dandruff shows the want of proper and reasonable care.

Kills the Dandruff Germ

To give nature a chance is all that is needed. Just get rid of the Dandruff Germ and keep the scalp in a sanitary condition by the use NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE, then note the change which will gradually take place. The hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become light, fluffy and snappy, a joy to the head it adorns, the envy of others who have failed to heed these words. HERPICIDE does not stain or dye the hair. It stops itching almost instantly.

Stops Falling Hair

"If Hair's Your Pride, Use Herpicide."

Smallpox in Michigan.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 12.—With smallpox reported in thirty localities in fourteen counties of Michigan and 1 state troops ordered to act as quarantine guards at the state house for the feeble-minded at Lapeer, health officials in every part of the lower peninsula are engaged in a desperate fight to prevent the further spread of the scourge.

Condition at the Lapeer home are pathetic in the extreme, most of the inmates being children of defective mentality. Twenty-five cases of the disease have been reported at this institution and six deaths. One inmate of the Lapeer home escaped yesterday.

Saginaw has been the largest city in the state to be seriously affected by the epidemic. Nearly two score deaths were reported there within a month, and schools and churches were closed.

Bath Crews to Blame.

Corinth, Nov. 12.—The inquest into the cause of death of the Wabash engineer, George Smith, killed in collision here last Friday, took place yesterday. The evidence of Despatcher Cassidy of St. Thomas would indicate that if he had been able to raise the Aylmer operator on the night of the collision the accident would not have happened. The verdict of the jury was that the lights and signals were properly displayed by the operator at Corinth, that the crew on No. 1807 did not take all precautions possible, that sufficient time was not allowed No. 1807 to go from Tillsonburg to Corinth, and that the crew of No. 94 did not observe the semaphore displayed, and thus contributed to the collision.

A Professor In Trouble.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12.—A quiet investigation is being made to find out whether there exists among the students of the University of Wisconsin mystic social circles, as might be inferred from private papers seized by the postal authorities after arresting Prof. Irwin Billman of the history department, on the charge of having mailed obscene letters and photographs to a young woman student.

Fires Near Cornwall.

Cornwall, Nov. 12.—There was a lively blaze in the spinning department of the Stormont cotton factory, which was confined to the top storey. Water caused considerable damage to stock and machinery.

The house on Alex. Tyo's farm at Stonebenge Point, occupied by Stephen Brown, was destroyed by fire about 4 a.m. The Brown's and their ten children had a narrow escape.

Window Glass Trust Fined.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 12.—The Imperial Window Glass Co. and 15 members of its executive yesterday entered pleas of guilty to the counts returned against them under the anti-trust law. Judge Young sentenced the corporation to pay a fine of $2,500 and costs, while each of the fifteen individuals including President Myron L. Case was fined $500.

Four Miners Killed.

Hillsboro, Ill., Nov. 12.—Four miners were killed and ten were injured in an explosion yesterday morning in the Shoal Creek Coal Co.'s mine at Panama.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to equal it. I had ulcers and falling of the uterus, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking your medicine. It has also helped other women for whom I have recommended it."—Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ontario.

Gardiner, Me.—"I was a great sufferer from a female disease. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me in three months."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Maine.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and extreme prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is well worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

MAKE YOUR APPEAL

to the public through the columns of this paper. With every issue A carries its message into the homes and lives of the people. Your competition has his store news in this issue. Don't blame the people for flocking to his store. They know what he has.

All we ask is for you to let us buy a 50-cent bottle of Psychine (pronounced Si-keen) from your druggist and give it to you free to try.

It has only been within recent years that we have come to really know about the white corpuscles of the blood or the phagocytes and what their function is.

That they are the policemen or scavengers of the body.

Devouring every disease germ that enters the body when they are strong enough or in sufficient numbers.

Or being devoured in turn by these disease germs when inferior in strength.

It has only been within the last few years that scientists have found out that certain herbs strengthen and increase these white corpuscles, or bodily scavengers.

W W W

And these herbs largely compose Psychine.

For thirty years Psychine has been strengthening and increasing the white corpuscles of the blood.

For thirty years Psychine has been building up run-down vitality, curing many of apparently hopeless diseases.

We have sold millions of bottles of Psychine in that time.

We have cured hundreds of thousands.

And we have received hundreds of thousands of unsolicited testimonials.

All due to this marvellous power of strengthening and increasing the white corpuscles of the blood.

Here are the diseases in the treatment of which Psychine is indicated.

Here are the diseases of which Psychine has cured many thousand cases:

La Grippe	Bronchial Coughs
Bronchitis	Weak Lungs
Hemorrhages	Weak Voice
Sore Throat	Rattling Weakness
Anaemia	Early Decline
Female Weakness	Catarrhal Affections
Indigestion	Catarrh of Stomach
Poor Appetite	Night Sweats
Chills and Fevers	Obstinate Coughs
Sleeplessness and	Laryngitis and
Nervous Troubles	Depression
After effects of Pneumonia, Typhoid and La Grippe.

Now, we don't ask you to take our word for the tremendously beneficial effect of Psychine. Fill out the coupon below, mail it to us and we'll give your druggist an order (for which we pay him the regular retail price) for a 50-cent bottle of Psychine to be given you free of cost.

We will undoubtedly buy and distribute in this manner hundreds of thousands of these 50-cent bottles of Psychine.

And we do that to show our entire confidence in this wonderful preparation.

A confidence that has been based on our 30 years' experience with this splendid preparation, with a full knowledge of the hundreds of thousands of cures it has made.

MORE ABOUT PRIZES FROM BIBLE LESSONS.

The object of the International Press Bible Question Club is to promote, through the press, thought and investigation on the teaching of Scripture in connection with the International Sunday School Lessons.

To this end some very valuable prizes are offered on very simple terms. They are to be given by The Intelligencer readers in connection with the other papers that join the I. P. B. Q. C. during the current three months fifty prizes, viz.: Five solid gold medals, five sterling silver medals, five teachers' Bibles, worth $5.50 each, thirty-five copies of "The Heart of Christianity," price $1.50 each. This book is said to be the best thing written, in this century on this vital subject. The gold and silver medals are beautifully engraved with an emblematic design, and the name of the winner will be engraved on the reverse side. It will be no small honor to be a gold or silver medalist in this great international organization. Any person who takes up this simple but examination of the answers.

course of study stands a good chance of receiving that honor.

The simple conditions are: (1) The lessons from Jan. 37, 1911, the International Sunday School Lessons must be read and "The Suggestive Questions" for 52 consecutive weeks, and a coupon should be cut out of this paper each week and signed, certifying to the reading; (2) Must answer in writing any five of the questions that are indicated to be so answered, getting help from any source, if that is necessary; (3) Within one week of the close of the contest must deliver to this office all the coupons which have been cut out, together with the five written answers. The prizes will then be awarded to those who hand in the greatest number of coupons. If two or more send in an equal number of coupons, the tie, or ties, will be broken by an examination of the written answers, and the prizes will be awarded to those who get the highest number of marks from an impartial examination of the answers.

BIBLE STUDY CLUB

NOVEMBER 13TH, 1910.

(Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.)

World's Temperance Lesson, Matt. xxiv:32-51.

Golden Text—Watch and pray lest ye enter into temptation. Matt. xxvi: 41.

Verses 32-34—What was the event then pending which Jesus here foretells?

What were the signs then present that the Jewish nation would be destroyed?

About how long after this was Jerusalem destroyed, and how was it brought about?

Verses 35-36—Why is the word of God more stable and to be depended upon than the stability of the earth itself?

When will the heavens and the earth pass away? (See Mark xiii:32.)

Were there some things which Jesus did not know when on the earth and if so, to what extent was his knowledge limited?

Verses 37-41—How did the people act when Noah was building the ark? In anticipating the coming of Christ how should we act at the present time?

Take the devout men, one who believes that the second coming of Christ may be any day and the other that it will not be in his life time and state what, if any, different effect it will have upon the righteousness of their lives?

At what stage does eating and drinking degenerate into gluttony and drunkenness?

Compare the evils of a lack of food, and overeating, and state their respective evils.

What are the evils of drinking strong drink?

Is it ever wrong for a well-to-do healthy man to marry, or to abstain from marrying? Give your reasons.

Verses 42-51—In what other ways may we look for the coming of the Lord?

What do you understand the command, to watch, to mean?

Verses 43-47—Do these instructions and warnings refer exclusively to the final coming of Christ and if so, how do you account for it that he speaks as though they may expect that event in the near future?

What is it to be ready?

Is that person ready who is engaged in wrong doing, or who has a grudge against anybody? Why?

Verses 48-51—Why is not a harsh and cruel man fit for heaven?

Why will drinking men and theirs rather be shut out of God's kingdom? (This question must be answered in writing by the members of the club.)

What will become of those who are not ready when the Lord comes?

Lesson for Sunday, Nov. 20th, 1910. Jesus in Gethsemane. Matt. xxvi:36-56.

Two Minute Talks About PANDORA RANGE
for Coal or Wood

HAVE you seen the Perfect Spring Door on the warming closet? It is the newest Pandora feature.

The ordinary door, when opened, is inside the warming closet and takes up valuable space.

But the Perfect Spring Door, when opened, is entirely outside of the warming closet. By being outside it adds two inches to the height of the space inside the closet. That extra space provides room for four fourteen more dinner or dessert plates. The door cannot drop down and smash the dishes because the spring holds the door up out of the way until you desire to close it.

The Perfect Spring Door is a convenience worth having. There are more than a score of other conveniences on the Pandora. Our Pandora booklet tells about them. Send for a copy.

SINCLAIR'S
These are The Prettiest Dresses These Prices will Buy

We don't ask you to take our word for it. We ask you to come and see for yourself.

Nowhere else in this vicinity are to be seen such smart, original well made frocks as those we offer. Nowhere are to be obtained such remarkably fine values.

The woman who likes to calculate costs may sum up the price of materials, trimmings, linings, findings etc., and she will readily appreciate that a very small surplus remains for making.

Fact is only large manufacturers who produce many garments could afford to make them to retail so modestly.

Whether you want an elegant silk costume or a plain little wool dress we are ready to supply your needs in a way that will make you seek this store the next time you want a new gown of any sort.

Here are some of the things you may choose from:

Dresses of voile, serge, panama and wool taffeta, $10.00 to $22.50

Dresses of Japanese silk and Messaline and Chiffon beautifully trimmed with lace $10.00 to $27.50, very suitable for evening wear.

Net Dresses in white, cream and ecru, made over silk slips and attractively trimmed $15.00 to $35.00.

A CHARMING SELECTION OF NET AND SILK WAISTS

The woman seeking new waists for dress or semi-dress wear will find some facinating new garments at this store—charming effects fresh from the fingers of expert makers—dainty becoming blouses—priced to decided advantage.

Net waists in white, ecru and black $3.50 to $7.50.

Silk waists in Japanese Taffeta, Lyons Taffetta and Paillotte Silks, in black and colors $3.00 to $8.50.

Linen waists, smartly tailored $2.25 to $5.00.

Considerable Sums off the Prices of these Splendid Coats.

REDUCTIONS ON WOMEN'S AND MISSES' COATS.

The blue pencil has been at work in our garment section. A number of excellent coats for women and misses have suffered important reductions in price. They are all this season's coats—smart in style—excellent in material and workmanship. They represent big bargains for prompt buyers. Every woman or young woman who reads this announcement should stop and consider whether she is going to need a new coat this season. If she decides that she will want one, it is but prudence to come to this store at the earliest possible moment.

The underprice garments include coats of heavy cloth, kersey and novel tweeds, in various colors; brown, navy, grey, green, wine and black—7-8 length garments in sizes for women and misses from 14 to 18 years.

R-gular prices $10.00 to $12.50, to clear at $7.95 each.

OUR JOYOUS WINTER.

Our whiting cousins from the South describe Canada in the summer time as one immense panorama of picturesque scenery and a boundless playground. Their experience while here undoubtedly justifies this enthusiastic description. Their knowledge of this country's capacity for supplying opportunities for real pleasure is not complete, however, until they spend some time here during the winter, the most joyous season of all.

The front cover and several pages of illustrations and reading matter of The Christmas Globe for 1910 will give the world some idea of the pleasure afforded by outdoor winter sports, and the supplementary plate, "Christmas Eve," will call to mind the family reunions and social gatherings made possible by the long evenings.

Place your order early, and make sure of securing one of the fixed holiday numbers in the world. Price fifty cents each, from your dealer, or sixty cents if mailed direct from The Globe office.

Anniversary Celebration Of Movement To Be Held

Laymen's Missionary Movemen: To Get A Boost In Belleville on Nov 23rd As a Result of Visit Of Mr. Caskey.

As a result of a series of meetings held in this district during the past week by Mr. Caskey, secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, it has been heartily endorsed by the mittee to hold an anniversary celebration in Belleville on Wednesday evening, Nov. 23rd, and this action has been heartily endorsed by the Ministerial Association at their last regular meeting.

This meeting will be one of a series of five, although similar anniversary gatherings are being held in all parts of Canada by those interested in the movement. London celebrates on the 18th, Ottawa on the 22nd, Montreal on the 24th, Quebec on the 25th.

Col. E. W. Halford, of New York, vice-chairman of the International Laymen's Missionary Movement, will be the speaker at all of these points and it was to secure his services in Belleville that the committee selected Nov. 23rd for the local anniversary. Col. Halford was possibly the most prominent business man in connection with the great meetings held in the United States last winter. He was private secretary to President Harrison during his administration and has since served with the army in the Philippines, as that he is well known in both political and military circes in the United States, and is immensely popular. Mr. C. F. Davidson, K. C., the chairman of the Toronto Interdenominational Committee, and prominent in Anglican Church work, will also be present at the anniversary and speak, as will also Mr. Caskey, secretary of the Canadian Laymen's Missionary Movement. Supper will be served in the City Hall, reports will be received from the different churches, and the meeting will be a good starting point for another year's work.

Lingham Property To Be Expropriated

Regular Meeting of The School Board Held Last Evening--Business Transacted Principa'ly of a Routine Nature.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening and the business transacted was chiefly of a routine nature. During the meeting a motion was adopted to proceed with expropriation proceedings in procuring the Lingham property for a school site.

The members in attendance were: Messrs. W. Johnson, J. Wallace, H. Anderson, F. C. Sharpe, J. Ralston, J. F. Wills, G. A. Bennett, J. E. Bleecker, W. S. Smith, W. R. Taylor, S. S. Moore, B. Mallory, S. Deacon, W. N. Ponton, C. M. Reid and P. Harrison.

In the absence of the chairman, Mr. C. M. Reid was appointed chairman of the meeting.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Mr. A. L. Calhoun, Deputy Minister of Education, transmitting a report of the Cadet Corps in connection with Bayside Street School, which was of satisfactory character.

From the chairman of the Board, stating that the Government grant for the High School, which had been delayed, would be forthcoming.

By laws from the Secretary-Treasurer stated he had not received it, but understood that it had been sent to the Department.

The Board went into Committee of the Whole on Reports, etc., Mr. Mallory in the chair. The Finance Committee recommended the payment of the following accounts:

Greenleaf & Son	$20.00
Jas. Richards	21.00
Wm. Dornelin	11.50
Wallbridge & Clarke	4.85
Wm. McGie	31.20
Wm. Ellis	2.50
G. N. T. Co.	1.80
J. de Wilde	6.28
A. Ballis	3.50
R. H. Ketcheson	13.57
Bell & Diamond	15.98
W. Vanmeer	7.80
Morton & Herity	4.35

The Printing and Supplies Committee reported recommending the purchasing of some supplies for the High and Public Schools, which was adopted.

On motion, the committee rose and reported. The report was adopted.

MOTIONS.

Moved by Mr. Ponton, seconded by Mr. Johnson, that the sympathy extended to our fellow school member, Mr. W. P. Hudson, in his recent bereavement, and that the Secretary be communicated this resolution to Mr. Hudson. The resolution was adopted by a standing vote.

Moved by Mr. Ponton, seconded by Mr. Wills, that an additional insurance of $1,500 be placed upon the Queen Victoria School building, and the placing of same be referred to the chairman of the Printing and Supplies and Finance committees.—Carried.

Mr. Bennett moved, seconded by Mr. Anderson that expropriation proceedings as recommended, be proceeded with.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Wills, seconded by Mr. Bennett; the matter of obtaining help for the caretaker of Queen Victoria School was referred to that school committee, with power to act.

Mr. Ponton moved, seconded by Mr. Johnson, that the Board record its appreciation of the honor conferred upon two members of the Board, namely, Messrs. W. S. Mordon, chairman, and J. F. Wills, who have been appointed K.C.'s.

The mover and seconder referred to the honor of was to be appointed as K. C. and it was a creditable reflection upon the Board that two of its members had been so honored.

Mr. Wills thanked the members of the Board for the motion passed, and he hoped those upon whom the honor had been passed would prove worthy of it.

ENQUIRIES.

Mr. Ponton asked if it was true that Mr. McLaughlin, science master of the High School, had withdrawn his resignation.

Mr. Wills—"I heard a rumor that such was the case."

Mr. Reid said that Mr. Calling, Principal of the High School, had informed him (the speaker) that Mr. McLaurin would like to remain here.

In answer to an enquiry the Secretary stated that he had received no communication from Mr. McLaurin regarding the matter.

After some further discussion upon the matter, it was decided that when the Board adjourn it stand adjourned until Monday evening to settle this matter.

Col. Ponton asked if the resolution passed by the Board at the last meeting in regard to technical education had been forwarded to the members of Parliament, as their names were mentioned in it?

Secretary—"It has not been forwarded to them. I had no notice to do so."

Col. Ponton said that they should be provided with a copy of the resolution, and the Secretary promised to attend to the matter.

EYE STRAIN AND HEALTH.
Continued

Few have looked into the subject far enough to become sufficiently familiar with it to appreciate its importance. One reason for this is the failure on the part of the medical schools, in the past at least, to emphasize this matter sufficiently, and the failure on the part of ophthalmologists to bring it forcibly to the notice of the practitioners in other fields.

The duty of the ophthalmologists, in this respect, has been very forcibly pronounced by Gould, of Philidelphia, in his writings, which have been collected into five volumes of "Biographic Clinics." In these volumes Gould has studied the biographies of a number of the world's famous men and women in the effort to discover the underlying cause of their ill health. De Quincy, Carlyle, Darwin, Browning, George Eliot, Wagner, Spencer, Parkman, Whittier, Nietzsche—all furnish sufficient biographical data to enable Gould to discover that they suffered from unrecorded eye strain.

Good Health For Young Girls

WHAT IS NEEDED IS THE RICH, RED BLOOD DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS ACTUALLY MAKE

Perhaps you have already noticed that your daughter in her "teens" has developed a fitful temper, is restless and excitable. In that case remember that the march of years is leading her on to womanhood, and at this time a great responsibility rests upon you as parents. If your daughter is pale, complains of weakness and depression, feels "all tired out" after a little exertion; if she tells of headaches or backaches, or pain in the side, do not disregard these warnings. Your daughter needs help for she is most probably anaemic—that is, bloodless.

Should you notice any of these signs, lose no time, but procure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for her unhealthy girlhood is bound to lead to unhealthy womanhood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich impoverished blood and by doing so they, repair waste and prevent disease. They give to sickly, drooping girls, health, brightness and charm, with color in the cheeks, bright eyes, a lightness of step and high spirits. A case typical of thousands cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is that of Miss Grace Cunningham, Winnipeg, Man., who says: "I really cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they have made me feel like a new girl. I was pale and almost bloodless and think that on an average I missed at least three school sessions a week, because I felt like a broken down person, and too weak to do anything. The doctor's medicine I took did little more than keep me in hope; it certainly did not cure me. Then I was advised to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they soon made me feel like a new person. Day by day I gained strength and color, and I have your medicine to thank for it."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Several fortunes have been expended by the baseball owners of the two major leagues for young players for next year. The sixteen clubs in the two leagues have paid out $387,000 for youngsters who are to be given a chance to show whether they are fast enough for the big league next year.

The American League owners have spent $62,100 more than the National League, the American League paying out $235,000, while the National Leaguers paid $161,950 for the new men they will uncover.

The club in the American League which paid out the most money for new men is Cleveland. That club heads the list of expenditure for purchased and drafted players with a grand total of $44,800, and next on the list comes the Chicago club, with a sum total of $30,000.

In the National League the most money was spent by the Cincinnati club, $38,500 being paid out of the Reds' exchequer for men to help Manager Griffith and his team in next year's race. The Pittsburg club was second on the list of the National Leaguers, for Barney Dreyfuss signed away $32,000 for new players to help Fred Clarke capture the 1911 pennant.

In the National League the club that paid out the least money for new players was Boston. Only $5,500 was spent by the club for new men, and the next lowest club on the list was the Philadelphia club, which expended a sum total of $7,750 for likely recruits.

In the American League the Detroit club spent the least amount for new men, only $13,150 being paid out for new Tigers. The next lowest on the American League list was the Boston Red Sox, who paid out $17,000 for promising new material. President Comiskey paid out $500 more.

THE TURF

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 11.—Forrest Rose, the man who was negotiating at Baltimore for the purchase of Jack Atkin, got in to-day from his farm, which is situated in a fine grazing country some twenty miles west of Richmond. Mr. Rose and a couple of friends came in automobiles. They had a pleasant trip. The roads in this part of Virginia are not as bad as they are in some other parts.

Barney Schreiber has not yet turned Jack Atkin over to Mr. Rose, but he will in a few days, and the big Sain horse will begin stud duty at Mr. Rose's farm next spring. It is the opinion of all horsemen who have followed the career of Jack Atkin that he has had enough of racing, and Mr. Rose, who purchased him for breeding purposes, naturally wants to get action as quickly as possible.

Mr. Rose has some mares to breed to Jack Atkin, and he will purchase others. Better evidence that he is about to become a breeder of thoroughbreds in earnest than he furnished by paying $30,000 for Jack Atkin could not be desired. These are bad times in racing and $30,000 is a tidy sum for one to lay hands upon at a moment's notice.

Among the mares Mr. Rose has all ready to breed to by Jack are Laughing Eyes, a daughter of Plaudit and Maxine Elliott; Bangs, a daughter of Plaudit and Bad Hit, and The Golden Butterfly.

THE RING.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 11.—For the first time since his fight with Jack Johnson, on July 4, James Jeffries came out to-day with the direct charge that he had been "doped" before the battle and that he lost the world's championship thereby. He also had a few words to say about the stories hinted concerning Sheriff Willis Keyes' fight with Johnson at Reno.

A few weeks ago the Sheriff in Kansas City made a statement to the effect that the colored champion had agreed to "lay down," but that he (Keyes) had "put the kibosh" on "sinky-dink," otherwise known as the "double-cross."

Next came John L. Sullivan with a talk made in Denver, in which he also makes the assertion that the July 4 engagements was to be a cross-and-deal, but that Johnson experienced a change of heart during the last twenty-four hours preceding the fray on the desert.

Jeffries to-day branded the Kansas City and Denver stories as lies.

"Never from the moment that I signed articles in New York till I went into the ring at Reno was there any understanding between Johnson and myself, other than that the fight was to be decided strictly on its merits. Any man who speaks to the contrary tells a lie, and I hereby publicly challenge John L. Sullivan to prove his statements," said Jeffries.

"I trained the best I knew and I fought the best I could. I was beaten by a better man, and I have no regrets since. A great deal has been said about my being doped. You may say for me in my behalf that I was not doped some time during the last few days that I spent at Moana Springs. This I can tell the lie of a squealer."

Jeffries has a lot of money, and am willing to spend a lot more, to land the guilty party, wherever he may be. The tracks were covered up so thoroughly that it is next to impossible to prove anything."

HOCKEY

PETERBORO, Nov. 11.—The Peterboro Hockey Club will place a team in the intermediate series of the O.H. A. and possibly in the junior. It is not certain that the club will be represented in the junior division, owing to the fact that two teams—the West End and T.A.S.—wish to enter independently. The prospects are good for a creditable intermediate seven.

The annual meeting was held last night at the Oriental Hotel, and the following officers were elected:

Hon. President—W. E. Wasson.
President—C. Dingle.
First Vice-President—N. McWilliams.
Second Vice-President—J. Pickard.
Secretary-Treasurer—R. M. Glover.
Assistant Secretary—W. J. O'Brien.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Representatives of Boston, Pittsburg, Cleveland and New York ice rinks organized an inter-city hockey league, which will include Chicago, Manager Prior of the local rink having wired his willingness to abide by any action which was taken by the others. The final decision in the matter of effecting the organization was not made known until yesterday, because of arrangements which the New York owners were compelled to make with the American Amateur Hockey Association.

It is the idea of the promoters of hockey to make the sport a substitute for baseball during the winter months and the hockey season will be ended when baseball starts in the spring. The league will be run on the same plan as well as is expected, it will be turned into a professional league next year and on the same basis as professional baseball.

RUNNING

Frank Lukeman, who won the American sprinting honors at the indoor championships at New York a week ago, will compete in an open sixty yards sprint at the Highbridge athletic meet to-night in the Toronto Armories. All the good Toronto sprinters will be in, and Lukeman will have to step his limit to win, for Lou Scheer ran his sixty yards in the world's record time at the Y.M.C.A. indoor games.

DEVOTED TO PILLOWS.

One Day Should Be Set Aside For Their Cleaning.

"A whole day for the pillows!" gasps the busy housewife, altogether unwilling to lavish so much time on one article out of a household, but pillows are precious in the estimation of the careful householder, and eight or ten hours spent upon the family supply of pillows once a year will prove anything but a waste of time.

They require beating with a rattan beater, which will neither cut the seam nor wear the ticking, but if done on a dry, windy day, will clear out almost as much of the collected dust raised with it a fair supply of germs as the most modern cleaning can do.

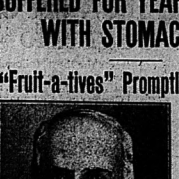
Scrubbing is resorted to when old ticking covers have been removed and are still strong and firm enough for continued use. With a hand brush a liberal supply of soap suds is rubbed into the ticking, which is spread out upon a table, preferably out of doors, and after the soap is scrubbed with force and then rinsed through several cold, clear waters and sunned to the point of absolute dryness.

Pillows themselves may, according to the weather, be treated in much similarly with the exception of the complete rinse, for it is well to remember that there are feathers in the pillows and that it is well therefore to use more soapy lather and less rinse water, adding a fair quantity of ammonia for cleansing purposes. Pillows thus treated are hung in the open air and the hottest sun to dry day after day until their feathers are dry without a shadow of a doubt.

Cork dust is a clean filling for the couch pillow, and are also of letters torn into small bits. Bran and sawdust are too heavy, while excelsior and hair are, on hand. Moss leaves are a delight and balsam pine needles stand as a class by themselves.



To prevent explosions of coal dust in mines, experiments are under way in Germany in which water is pumped into borings under pressure. It thus is formed into desires and after it is pumped out, the coal can be broken down with picks without blasting.

No offense can be more contemptible in the eyes of the law or of society than making drug imitations of little children. It is simply a process of slow poisoning, which at the same time establishes a habit, affects the mentality and injures the body. A child brought up on "soothing syrups" is dull and lethargic. Many a mother who complains her child doesn't "get on" in school is herself responsible in that she fed him on the compounds to keep him quiet while she worked, e thought freedom. Under the food and drug act the United States courts are making it evident that a label accurately stating the contents of a "medicine" does not imply liberty to advertise it as not injurious and recommend it as a remedy for its alleged cure. A man recently was fined $100 for selling a "teething syrup" containing morphine and chloroform, though the label indicated these drugs and the amount. Dr. Isley declared the stuff mislabeled because the label declared the bad effects would follow its use and that it was "a sure remedy for all ailments incident to babies from one day old to two or three years." The federal court sustained the chemist, and the proprietor will have to take his "sure cure" off the market or continue to pay fines.

It will not hurt the baby half as much to cry as it will do done it with "soothing syrups." Crying is lung exercise. Opium is deadening and dead-

REVOLTING CRIME OF COLORED MAN AT ASBURY PARK

(Intelligencer Special.)

ASBURY PARK, N.J., Nov. 14.—The entire city police force and deputy sheriffs were on duty this morning to protect from the blood-angry citizens, Thomas Williams, a negro, arraigned on a charge of assaulting and murdering nine-year-old Mary Smith, daughter of wealthy parents, on her way home from school.

OFFICERS MAKE GREWSOME FIND

SASKATOON, Sask., Nov. 14.—At the town of Langham, near here, four boys were drowned in the river last week and a homesteader lost his life in the same river yesterday. Mounted police investigated, finding a box with bleached bones of a body which had evidently been cut up.

Attempt At Jewelry Theft on Fast Train

Former U. S. President Arthur's Daughter Misses Valuables Near Albany—Search Of Colored Porters Scares Thief.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 14.—A bold attempt at robbing Mrs. Pinkerton, daughter of former President Arthur, of a case containing in the neighborhood of $25,000 worth of jewels, was frustrated last night by the police while the Second Empire Express of the New York Central Railroad was speeding toward Buffalo. The robbery was successful for a while, but the offender, facing certain arrest, disposed of the valuables, which were found secreted in a spot that had already been searched by the detectives.

Mrs. Pickerton boarded the fast train at New York City to make the trip to Albany. She stepped into the dining car taking the case with her. She left it on a seat beside her, from which it was stolen. She reported the robbery immediately after the discovery, and when the train arrived at Albany a general search was sent along the line to Buffalo.

At Rochester several detectives boarded the train and made a thorough search of the dining car, but were unable to uncover the case. The officers then lined up six colored men of the train crew and searched them, but with no results. They then directed their efforts over the ground already covered, and much to their amazement discovered the case and its valuable contents in a small closet in the dining car, where it evidently had been thrown by one of the men searched.

Detective-Sergeants O'Connor and Schuh of the local bureau boarded the train at East Buffalo, but several negroes, and sent them back to Albany.

Lord Strathcona Makes Another Gift of $200.000

Lord High Commissioner Writes To Sir Fred Borden Announcing Donation Toward Physical and Military Training In Schools

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—Lord Strathcona has given another striking evidence of his sterling patriotism and his great generosity. He has written to the Minister of Militia and Defence, Sir Frederick Borden, announcing a further gift of $200,000 to the Strathcona trust for the encouragement of physical and military training in the public schools of Canada. With the $300,000 which he gave for this purpose last year, this further generous gift brings the total of the fund up to the splendid sum of $700,000, and secures the committee in charge of the administration of the fund an annual amount of $20,000 to assist in the joint work of the Federal and Provincial Governments towards the establishment of a uniform system of physical and elementary military training for the youth of the Dominion.

In March of last year Lord Strathcona donated a first sum of $250,000 for this purpose. He was actuated in the matter by an additional

LORD STRATHCONA.

$50,000. Now that the Minister of Militia has completed arrangements with nearly all the provinces for the adoption of a scheme of co-operative action in the matter of making physical training and elementary military drill a part of the education of the boys and girls of Canada, Lord Strathcona has nearly doubled the central fund available for establishing the movement on a permanent and assured basis of success.

The Federal Government has taken over the whole amount from the trustees of the fund, and has guaranteed interest at four per cent. per annum, thus giving an annual amount of $20,000 to be administered by the Strathcona Trust Fund Board under the conditions of the original donation.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS BAFFLES PHYSICIANS

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—"The medical profession of the world is still baffled regarding the scourge of infantile paralysis. This statement was made last night at the meeting of the Chicago Neurological Society by Dr. H. E. Robertson, associate professor of pathology in the University of Minnesota.

"We are up against it," said Dr. Robertson. "We have not been able to cultivate the germs in laboratories. We cannot learn anything from animals. We cannot even diagnose the disease."

"The disease attacks the strongest and most active children," continued Dr. Robertson. "It is confined to infants. Many victims are adults. The high fatality is caused by reaching the acute stage in three or four days, and when the train arrived at days. There are no definite symtoms and the first warning the practitioner has is the paralysis of his patient."

If proposed legislation be enacted in ients on the label and sold within a to those bearing a list of their ingred- ial law in Sweden the importation of proprietary medicines will be limited price fixed by the government.

PROPOSES THAT WE ANNEX MAINE

Charlottetown Paper Has A Novel And Ambitious Scheme.

BELIEVES IN IT

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Nov. 14.—The political union of the State of Maine with Canada is advocated by the Charlottetown Daily Guardian. It says:

"It is high time that the statesmen of Canada gave serious consideration to the possibility, to use no stronger term, of admitting the adjoining State of Maine into the Dominion.

"A glance at the map is sufficient to show that the State of Maine belongs geographically to Canada rather than the United States, being now a foreign country, it is to some extent also an obstacle to the right development of our great transportation system, while at the same time the State is shut out from the great and obvious advantages which must result from the union with Canada, already far too long delayed.

"We have, of course, no desire to seduce our Maine cousins from their present allegiance to Uncle Sam and the Stars and Stripes. Any movement in the direction of union with Canada must come from them and with Uncle Sam's consent."

LURED GIRL TO INIQUITY DENS

Mrs. Ocaul And Edward Finlayson Both Convicted

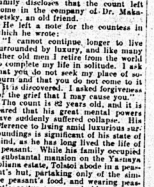
YOUNG GIRL VICTIM

(Intelligencer Special.)

WHITBY, Ont., Nov. 14.—Conviction by Judge McCrimmon, of Edward Finlayson, married, insurance agent, and Mrs. Emma Acamb, both of Toronto, on a charge of conspiracy and abduction, revealed the sad story of Emma Frink, aged fifteen, who was induced to go to Toronto as a domestic, but stayed at a hotel there with Finlayson. She was found in a Chinese opium den and finally arrested here living with Chinese laundrymen. The prisoners will likely be dealt with severely.

COUNT TOLSTOI LOST AND FOUND

Sage Goes Away To End His Life In Seclusion Leaving Wife Behind



FOUND ON ESTATE

Left Note Saying That He Was Going To End His Life In Seclusion

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—The Moscow correspondent of The Novoe Vremya says that Count Tolstoi has been found in the Mount Sensky district of Toli Province, on the estate of the Shrikoodle, well-known manufacturers.

Because of the failure of the family to obtain any trace of Count Tolstoi, who vanished from his home at Yasnaya Poliana some days ago, the aged countess has sent her three nine children, attempted suicide Saturday by jumping through a hole in the ice. It was her second attempt since her husband disappeared. Her daughter, Alexandra, saw her approach the frozen pond and realized her intentions. Aided by several peasants, she rescued her mother and carried her to the villa.

The disappearance of Count Tolstoi remained a family secret until Saturday. The news became known soon before the sending out of the report that the countess had against attempted suicide. A statement from the family discloses that the count left home in the company of Dr. Makovetsky, an old friend.

He left a note for the countess in which he wrote:

"I cannot continue longer to live surrounded by luxury, and like many other old men I retire from the world to complete my life in solitude. I ask that you do not seek my place of sojourn and that you do not come to it if you be discovered. I asked forgiveness for the grief that I may cause you."

The count is 82 years old, and it is feared that the great strain he endures have suddenly suffered collapse. His reflections in living amid luxurious surroundings is significant of his state of mind, as he has long lived the life of a peasant. While his family occupied a substantial mansion on the Yasnaya Poliana estate, Tolstoi abode in a private hut, partaking only of the simple peasant food, and wearing peasant's costume, a rough blouse, wide trousers tucked into high cowhide boots, a leather belt and fur cap. He cooked his own boots and cooked his own meals.

SAYS HE'S FOUND WIFE OF CRIPPEN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—That Belle Elmore, for whose murder Dr. Crippen is awaiting execution in England is not only alive, but willing to return to the condemned man, is the positive statement made to-day by Francis Tracey Tobin, lawyer, who last week appealed to the State Department to prevent the execution of Dr. Crippen.

Tobin made the announcement today that he had received a letter from a Detroit man, whose name he did not make public, stating that Crippen's wife was living under an assumed name in a Chicago boarding house. According to Tobin's information, she is unable to suffer any longer the self-imposed ban of silence. She deserted Crippen because he treated her cruelly, but is now willing to return to him if he will promise to be kind to her.

After telling of this letter, Tobin said he understood friends of Crippen had engaged detectives to find the doctor's wife and force her to leave her hiding place.

CURRENT EVENTS.

Lord Strathcona has been again judiciously distributing his wealth. He has contributed $25,000 to the building fund of the Vancouver Y. M. C. A. A little this way would not be amiss.

A grant of several acres of bay front land by Belleville to the C.N.R. might be an inducement to the railroad to make this city a divisional point, build shops and round house here.

Why pave a portion of Front Street and allow the other portion to remain unpaved? It seems to us that it would be more economical to make one job of it while we are at it. It will not be very sightly to say the least, to see the pavement terminate at Bridge Street. The work should be continued at least beyond the City Hall.

The barbers of Belleville, and the general public as well, will be interested in learning that the proposed new license law will be brought before the Ontario Legislature. The Act has, as its objects, to regulate the operating of barbering, to create a board on such practice, to insure the better education of such practitioners, to provide rules regulating the proper sanitation of barber shops, schools and colleges, preventing the spreading of contagious and infectious diseases, thereby giving the general public cleaner and better service.

The Railway Board of Commissioners have decided that the Canadian Northern Railway Company may build their bridge across the mouth of the Moira by erecting FIVE piers. This ends the matter unless the City Council gives to the Commissioners good reasons for changing their report. The residents of Murney Ward and business men of Front Street should not take the precaution of notifying the railway officials and all others interested that they will be held responsible for all damages that may arise from floods in the spring resulting from the blocking of the river by the erection of railway bridge piers in the river.

Mr. Smith Makes Plea For Reduction In Bars

Eloquent Pastor Of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church Declares It Is Useless To Bring About Local Option Unless The People Are Prepared For It And Will Back It Up.

The Rev. Chas. Geo. Smith, pastor of the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, believes that a reduction in the number of bars in Belleville would be a most effective way to lessen the liquor traffic in the city.

The Rev. Mr. Smith took as his text last evening: "The liquor traffic: what will Belleville do about it?" While the reverend gentleman failed to tell the large congregation which heard him what Belleville would do about it, he nevertheless told them, in a most convincing way, what Belleville ought to do about it, and his discourse, fluent and eloquent, was followed with close attention.

Mr. Smith put the question: "Has the liquor traffic a good side?" He answered in the negative. He felt that nothing could be said in its favor. He said that wherever saloons increased, crime also increased, and that wherever there was a decrease in saloons there was a decrease in crime. He declared that the receipts from the liquor traffic in Canada were greater than the revenue of the country, twenty-five times greater than the entire rents collected and five times greater than the bread bill. The speaker felt that if we could stem the tide of drinking there would be no hard times, and there would be more means for the people. He believed that the people were now being aroused to a realization of the terrible situation. They were beginning to sit up and take notice. Either Canada must conquer the saloon or the saloon will conquer Canada. He felt, too, that the political party which incorporated the largest temperance plank in its platform at the next election would receive the largest number of votes.

Mr. Smith appealed, however, for a personal prohibition, believing that to be the surest way to a national prohibition. He was strongly in favor of local option provided the people were ready for it. If they were not ready for it, it would prove a failure. He told of cities which he had visited, where local option was supposed to be enforced, but he had found the law flagrantly violated simply because the authorities and many of the citizens were not back of it.

He thought that Belleville should work for a reduction in the number of bars. Those who sell after hours and to drunkards, and who violate the law generally, should be deprived of their licenses.

He did not believe in technical reform. A man himself must be transformed. It was easy to get together and vote for a certain thing and then forget all about it.

CANADIAN NORTHERN Line To Be In Operation By Next Fall, Says Mr Wm. McKenize)

OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—"The main line of the Canadian Northern Railway between Toronto and Montreal, by way of Ottawa, will be in operation next fall," stated William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railway. "The work is now advanced to within ninety miles of Ottawa, and rails are down as far as Trenton. There is also progress being made on the new section between Hawkesbury and Montreal. By next fall our through service will be going."

BOY FINDS CHEQUE

Picks It Up on Street Not Knowing Its Value—Worth $96.

Saturday afternoon a boy picked up on the street a piece of paper, and, not knowing whether it was valuable or not, gave the same to Angus Hyman of the police force. It proved to be a cheque for $96 and was made out to Mrs. Katrine Allen, of this city. The lady was overjoyed to recover the cheque, which she had lost in the early part of the day.

PRESENTATION

On the occasion of his forthcoming marriage Major J. A. Little was the guest of the officers of the 90th Regiment at a banquet held in the Mariaggi Hotel last night.

Col. Laurie, after a neat little speech on behalf of Major, presented him with a Crown Derby set.

Major Little accepted the presentation in a few words and said a few words on occasions like that it was pretty hard for a man to say anything, but he thanked the boys for remembering him.

Major Little will be married to Miss Wardrope in Belleville next Wednesday, the 16th. Don Hograth and Stanley Bedford, of this city, will attend the wedding, acting as ushers. Mr. Little's brother will act as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Little will reside in this city.—Evening Chronicle, Port Arthur.

Telegraphic Pole Broken.

Montreal, Nov. 14—On Saturday night a few minutes after midnight, Bruce Currie, a buyer in the firm of Rea & Co., who came here a year ago from Toronto, was struck by the St. Dominique street entrance to the General Hospital, when a telegraph pole fell down, breaking his back. A policeman found Currie lying and carried the injured man into the hospital, where he was able to give his name and address, and shortly after asking for his wife he died. To-day, the coroner An inquest will be held to-day. Two companions were with Currie at the time of the accident.

HICKEY--CONNOLLY

Interesting Wedding Takes Place At St. Michaels Early This Morning.

At eight o'clock this morning a quiet wedding took place at St. Michael's Church, at which Rev. Father Spratt officiated. The bride was Miss Annie Connolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Connolly, of this city, and the groom Mr. Jewell Hickey, of Toronto, who is known to many in this city. Miss Lizzie Mercer was bridesmaid, while Mr. Jas. McCourt did honors for the groom. At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, at the corner of Church and Pinnacle street, where a most tempting wedding breakfast was partaken of. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Hickey left this afternoon for a wedding trip, after which they will reside in the Queen City. Their many friends here will wish them a happy and prosperous wedded life.

CITY COUNCIL

At the regular meeting of the City Council this evening some matters of importance will be considered, namely, the proposed C. N. R. bridge over the river, and the question of certain Aldermen having asserted their seats by reason of non-attendance at Council meetings within a period of three months. The meeting promises to be an interesting one.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

The sixtieth annual convention of the Epworth Leagues of Belleville District will be held in the Methodist church here to-morrow afternoon and evening. An interesting programme has been prepared. Among the speakers will be the Rev. G. S. Brenta, Lindsay, who will give an address entitled "The Japanese are waiting for something."

TEMPERANCE ORATION

Considerable interest is being taken in the contest for a silver medal at Holloway Street Church to-night.

The medal has been donated by the Royal Templars, to be presented for the best temperance oration, the contest being under the auspices of the Epworth League.

HE PAID UP

Saturday a party named Stapley secured a horse and buggy from a livery stable in the city, intimating that he wanted to drive about to Picton. The proprietor of the outfit learned that Stapley took with him three companions, and, upon Stapley's return, he was requested to pay $2 additional on account of the number he took with him. He refused at first, but when the police were notified he produced the extra money.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early age, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weaknesses and chronic digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glycerine compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

The Liquor Traffic

The Rev. Mr. Smith is right. The surest way to lessen the liquor traffic is to make the individual realize the evils of drinking and become a total abstainer. It is all very well for two thirds of the people, say, to vote for a law which aims to deprive the other third of something they desire and are bound to get. If a third of the people of any community want liquor, they're going to get it; if not legally, then illegally. Local option can never be a success until all, or nearly all, the people desire it. But if a man can be persuaded to see that drinking liquor can do him no good whatever, but an incalculable amount of harm, and, thus enlightened, he abstains from strong drink, then a practical step is taken toward the abolition of the traffic.

Mr. Smith is also right when he says there should be a reduction in the number of bars in Belleville. There are several saloons masquerading as hotels which the city would be far better without. Considerable lawlessness would be driven out if the number of licenses was judiciously reduced.

The "Flag Hauled Down"

The London Times, editorially, again dwells on the probability of the King and Queen visiting the overseas dominions. It says, with the accession of King George the Empire enters on a new and more spacious era. His responsibilities to the Empire can only be fully discharged by personal contact. It is, therefore, right and seemly His Majesty should contemplate holding court in the dominions.

It is to be hoped that the King and his Royal Consort may visit us, while Canada remains a part of the Empire, that is before Sir Wilfrid's "dream" materializes and he issues his proclamation of "Independence." The first step has already been taken. "The plain Union Jack," says the Toronto Globe, editorially, on the 12th inst., "WAS HAULED DOWN, AND THE CANADIAN FLAG RUN UP IN ITS PLACE." This feat was accomplished on the occasion of Laurier's war vessel, "The Rainbow's," arrival at Esquimalt, B.C.

Whither are we drifting? How long is Laurierism to be tolerated?

The Pavement Question.

A writer in to-day's issue of The Intelligencer, signing himself "A Front Street Property Owner," is philanthropic and kind hearted enough to be desirous of paying his share of the forty per cent. of the cost of paving Front Street, which the Council proposes to exact from the real estate owners on that street, in order that the public residing in other sections of the city may not be overburdened with taxes. The surprising thing about this gentleman is that he did not express a similar desire in the days gone by when extensive repairs were made to Front Street. If the property owners of the street should pay the bulk of the cost of paving they would have paid the bulk of the cost of repairing. But as a matter of fact, they should do neither. The principle hasn't a leg to stand on.

The poor man is not asked to pay as much as real estate owners. He is only asked to pay a tax commensurate with his income. He will surely not object to this. And besides it must not be taken for granted that because a man owns a property on Front Street he is wealthy. Far from it. In many cases he has as tough a time to struggle along as the man on the outskirts of the town working for a wage of $2 or $2.50 a day.

WIFE TRIES TO SUICIDE

Mrs. Schench Accused Of Trying To Poison Her Husband.

FURTHER DEVELOPMENT

Woman Who Desperately In Love With $20 Week Clerk.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 13.—Following a confession by Lundy Wilson, chauffeur of the Schenck family, that Mrs. John O. Schenck, who is in jail with a charge of trying to poison her millionaire husband hanging over her head, was in love with a $20 a week clerk, Mrs. Schenck tried to commit suicide, according to the latest current, to-day.

It was said that poison had been smuggled into the woman's cell in the Ohio county jail but that Mrs. Schenck was detected by a wardress in time to save her life.

John O. Schenck still lies in a precarious condition in the hospital from arsenic alleged to have been administered by his wife. Sensational developments came out Sunday linking the names of Mrs. Schenck and a young clerk in a local piano store. Wilson, the chauffeur, made a statement to the authorities which told of extensive flirtation existing between the clerk and Mrs. Schenck.

Wilson told the police that the clerk had the run of the Schenck garage and that he and Mrs. Schenck frequently made long automobile trips together. He said the conduct of the couple upon these trips was always loving. The office of the prosecuting attorney, J. H. Jordan, is said to be searching for a mysterious woman who, in part, plays in the tragedy is not known. It is reported, however, that they started to look for her after Wilson had made his statement.

According to Wilson, Mrs. Schenck wanted to marry the clerk. The chauffeur said that she told him upon one occasion that he would not have to work any more if he would run his car over an automobile when it contained Mr. Schenck. The clerk is known as the best dressed man in Wheeling. Recently he appeared in a handsome overcoat and his clothes are masterpieces of the tailor's art.

Following Mrs. Schenck's efforts to end her life, precautions to keep her from self destruction were redoubled. A wardress is always with her and no one is allowed to talk to her except in the company of a third person.

Mrs. Schenck's cell has been fitted up with furnishings taken from her palatial home.

Held For Stabbing Woman.

Quebec, Nov. 14—A man giving his name as Edouard Lafrance, aged 26 years, who states that he is a native of Quebec, but has lived for some years in Toronto, is held upon a charge of stabbing a woman, Cordelia Coburn, at the door of a house on St. Angele street, Saturday evening. The man says that many indiscretions of which he is charged. After the assault the unfortunate woman fled backward into the passage, while the assailant made off.

Dr. Faucher was hastily summoned, and, after dressing the wound, had the woman conveyed to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, where she is now a patient. It is thought, however, that her case, if not considered dangerous, and no fatal effect is anticipated.

"Speak a little louder; I don't catch what you say," Blobbs persisted.

A low ripple of laughter went round the table. The host, his face crimson with embarrassment, raised his voice still higher. "The good old man did his best to hear, but failed.

"What did you say?" he demanded irascibly.

WINNIPEG IS A BAD PLACE

Vice Is Condoned By The Authorites In Western City

WHITE SLAVE MARKET

Worst of Canadian Cities, De clares Rev Dr. Shearer, Just Back.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—Winnipeg leads all the Canadian cities in the matter of social vice according to Rev. Dr. Shearer, who has just returned from a tour with the International American Purity Federation, which included several western points.

The indictment he levels against the police of Winnipeg is suggestive of grafts and ready markets for white slave dealers. The party, accompanied by two expert detectives, whose services were most valuable, visited Winnipeg, Regina, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, Tacoma, San Francisco, San Jose and Los Angeles, and besides investigating former conditions, investigated the purity problem, the white slave question, the questions of vice legislation and law enforcement.

Dr. Shearer says that two years ago Winnipeg had no vice district; one year ago there were twenty-nine houses of ill-fame in a restricted area that now there are fifty-three houses with approximately two hundred and fifty inmates. These are not permitted by the Criminal Code but are in Winnipeg. Some of the rules made for them are that the piano must not be played too loudly, that there must not be enough noise to attract attention on the street, that white female slaves must not be employed, that the inmates must not solicit from the door or windows.

If Dr. Shearer is correctly informed these houses sell liquor at all hours of the day and no regular summonses come from the license inspector. When the inmates go before the Magistrate and pay one hundred dollars they are not disturbed for another three months. Thus, while they have no license, they sell all the liquor they desire for the payment of $400 per year. Mr. D. Martin, who is running for the mayor of Winnipeg, with good chances of success, promises that he will suppress the business.

Toronto, with over twice the population of the western city, has no segregated vice district, and Los Angeles, with over three hundred thousand, is the same. Seattle and Victoria have suppressed their districts since the convention. The Attorney-General of Saskatchewan says there is not one district known in the whole of his province. Cranbrook and Fernie have driven the denizens of their districts outside of the municipal boundaries. Nelson boasts a colony yet.

Dr. Shearer states that half a dozen white slave victims have been marketed in the vice district of Winnipeg in the past year, and these have been deported and one is waiting. He says the Indians of British Columbia are very indignant at Canada, for they bring their women to settlements along the coast everywhere for immoral purposes. This is hard to deal with.

The red light districts in all western centres are situated in the midst of or alongside the Oriental quarter and according to Dr. Shearer, many of the dens are owned by Chinese or Japanese.

J. W. Aikens, Associate Secretary of the Temperance and Moral Reform Department of the Methodist Church, who has returned from a tour through the West, is much impressed by the vice problem in the Canadian West. He attributes this mainly to there being an agricultural people, Example 1.—Why, how are you, Mrs. Delney? This is quite a surprise. Well, well you are looking! I heard a few days ago that you had come back to town. I've been intending to take a spin down and call on you. You know we have'n machine now. You didn't? Yes, about a month. I want you to see it. It's a beauty.

Example 2.—Oh, how are you, Mrs. Goodwin? Isn't it strange that we should meet at a gallery exhibit? How are you enjoying the pictures? Don't you think the artist has a wonderful delineator of character? There is one down there at the end of the hall I want to show you. It is of a girl stepping out of a carriage. Some artists would have made it an impossibility. That's what I told my husband the day he came through here with me, and he said he wouldn't blame the artist if he had seen more—he's that proud of it. Oh, didn't you know that we had a new car? Yes, about ten days. Don't you like this character study of the poor old man selling newspapers?

Example 3.—Is that you, Mrs. McClain? I just called up to ask if you had heard about the special sale of dresses they are having at McSupp's. You hadn't! Well, everything's very reasonable, and the colors are grand. Come with me and we'll go down together. Oh, I've just thought of it. I'll come around and take you in our new car. Oh, hadn't I told you? Almost a week. I know you'll love it. At 2, then. Goodby. Don't mention it—delighted to have you go!—Homer Croy in Puck.

Died of Exposure.

Vancouver, Nov. 14.—The strange and sudden death of one of its members, Dr. H. S. Bond, in this city, followed a Vancouver hunting party, which had been camping in the mountains in Jervis Inlet, a famous hunting ground 100 miles north of Vancouver. In an attempt to recover a mountain goat which he had shot, he became detached from his companions and their Indian guide last Tuesday morning. It was not until late Tuesday afternoon that the party found the lifeless body. It was thought that set his way in an effort to take a shorter route back to their camp, and died from exposure.

Queen's Students Parade.

Kingston, Nov. 14.—Saturday night was a big night for the Queen's students, when the annual parade was held from the college grounds around the main streets of the city. The Varsity boys, who were here for the games, joined in with Queen's and enjoyed the fun. Several large floats took part in the parade, and students appeared in all sorts of garbs. After the parade they rushed the theatres.

R. L. to Build Big Liners.

London, Nov. 14.—It is believed that the plans for Canadian Pacific steamers of 45,000 horse-power have been prepared. It is stated that tenders will be shortly invited for Canadian and West Indies service, which the Home Government will partly subsidize.

A BOX OF DYNAMITE.

Dropped, but Didn't Explode, Which Was Lucky For Taft.

"Seeing life sights?" the dynamite man asked the visitor in the canal stage. "Well, you'll see one in a minute. Just going to lift about 75,000 cubic yards of the top of that hill back there. Accidents? Well, yes, one or two. See that ledge there? That's Rus Odinpo. Put twenty-six men into clear there at one shot and lynged some sixty more."

His left hand involuntarily went to his empty right sleeve, says William H. Rogers in Success, and it was clear that he had a vivid recollection of the disaster.

"Never knew what dred it," he said. "Some thought it was a high temperature layer of limestone about thirty feet down. Some said short circuit. All I know is that she blew about four times too soon and 'twas something wicked."

"Now, dynamite is very weird stuff," he continued. "You don't know just what it will do, and we have accidents right along—can't seem to help it. The more I know about dynamite the more I find I don't know.

"The worst scare I ever got, though, outside of being blown up myself, was when the president came through here on an inspection car. Orders had been given to have all switches spiked, all loadad holes fired and no more to be loaded. All powder was to be put back in the magazines and locked up.

"All was fine as freight's fair as far as Empire, when I happened to look up, and there was a fool nigger sliding down the cut right in front of the car with a fifty pound box of dynamite on his head. He didn't even know where he got it, but anyway he dropped it.

"Well, sir, I expected to see that inspection car and the high and mighties and the president of the United States just disappear, but they didn't. I've known dynamite to go off, though, with less excuse than that had."

Aeroplane Regulation.

In the matter of rules of navigation it was found essential that every ship that sailed the sea should have a home and possess its papers to prove its identity and ownership. Those vessels that could produce no sea letters or ship's papers were treated as pirates or presumed to be engaged upon no lawful business. That was the first step in the law of the sea. It stands to reason and it will involve no hardship to insist, even in the infancy of aerial navigation, that there must be some similar registration to that in use as to vessels. Each aeroplane must have a domicile or home port; its captain must when he comes to ground be able if required to produce his papers. The roving, homeless aeronaut who has no credentials must be viewed as a sort of pirate of the skies.—London Times.

Japanese Method of Cold Storage.

On a recent visit to the city of Takata, on the northwest coast of Japan, I had occasion to observe what at first thought I imagined was a haystack, but on investigation found to be an immense mound of snow covered with straw matting. The purpose of this mound was to keep in cold storage for consumption in summer fish caught in the winter time. This is the only method of cold storage employed in the rural districts in the northwest of Japan, where the snowfall is very deep in winter, and these stacks are to be seen in considerable numbers distributed in different parts of the country. —Strand Magazine.

A Grasshopper's Cure.

Blake Hogunt, the most tobacco chewing negro in these parts, says he has found a new way to exterminate grasshoppers. Blake says to catch a couple of the hoppers and pinch them on the rear until the muscles become sore. Then turn them loose. They will hop as quickly that all the other grasshoppers will die laughing. The hard part, Blake says, is to catch the two original grasshoppers after the others are all dead and kill them.—Leesville (Colo.) Light.

The Opium Habit in London.

After a thorough investigation the Pall Mall Gazette has come to the conclusion that the opium habit is shockingly prevalent among the working classes of London. One phase of the evil is the impregnating of cigarettes with opium. "Sick Visitor" asserts, "is rampant, especially among the mill girls of Lancashire, who find it irresistible as a solace and means of obtaining temporary relief from the weariness and pain attendant on a life of toil."

The Boy Scouts Movement.

The boy scout movement has reached the Malay peninsula, and Singapore is to have a new organization under the patronage of the governor and chief justice. It is a good thing in many ways, aside from the military training, and bids fair to become one of the prominent and most popular institutions of the peninsula. All through the British colonies boy scout organizations are being formed.—Consular Reports.

Saving the Pennies.

James A. Patten at a dinner in Chicago defended his notable assertion that speculation is the staff of business. "The old fashioned idea of the importance of saving the pennies," said Mr. Patten, "has gone out. It used by the saving of pennies that such a fortune as Pierpont Morgan's or George Gould's is now piled up. Engulfing may be rap red to wealth but it is not the speedway."

"Sometimes, not dear.

"He may lose his reputation if he doesn't look out."

"He can't."

"Why?"

"They read it to him every place he goes."

His Way.

"I thought you told me your husband had quit smoking?"

"I did."

"But I saw him smoking today."

"Oh, that's his way of quitting."

Willing to Be Pleased.

"What can I do to please you?" "Do you want to real bad?" "Yessum I do."

"Then go home and stay there."

THE DISPATCHER AT ERIE.

He Had the Makings of a Hero In Him.

By HADLEY F. FREEMAN.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

"Sarah, I have finished Harvard, and my father will obtain for me the secret vice presidency of the Great Central lines. You know I love you and you only. Will you marry me?"

"Henry," she said, "let us not discuss it here. Come with me into the conservatory. Once seated there, Henry's amorous and quixotic temperament burst out: "Sarah, you would not refuse me? Have you deceived me? Do you love another? Would you?"

"Henry," she interrupted, "be quiet. I love no one but you, but I will never marry a man who has not proved his ability."

"But I do not peed—"

"Do not need! True, not now, but if a crash should come or your father should die what would you do? What could you do? What work have you ever done? Do something to prove your ability."

"Sarah, you are right. I have never done anything. I have been quite useless, but I will do something."

The effect on Henry was remarkable. The next day bright and early

ROBBED TOWARD THE BIG ROUNDHOUSE.

he entered his father's private office. The elder Sherlock greeted his son with a pleasant "Hello."

"Dad," Henry stammered, "I want to talk things over with you."

"What's wrong now?"

"Everything."

"And in particular?"

"Sarah won't marry me until I do something."

"And you intend—"

To throw up the vice presidency, start in at the bottom and work up.

"Very well. When do you wish to begin?"

"Tomorrow."

"All right. I'll see to the job."

That night his father said quietly: "Report to the Dispatcher at Erie, O. Leave here at 2:30 a. m. It's fortunate for you that telegraphy was one of your youthful whims. Don't let them as you learn the job you will be given a responsible place."

"Good night," said Henry and turned in.

And the next morning found him on his way from New York to Erie without having seen Sarah. Happy in the thought that he was to prove himself, he spent most of his trip composing a letter to her and all about explaining his departure without seeing her.

The next afternoon he reached Erie tired and sleepy. From another he went directly to bed in the home of one of the dispatchers, where he had secured room and board, and at 6 the next morning he began work.

He went into the train dispatching was not easy. During the first week of hard work he was assisted and watched by the dispatcher whose place he was to take. Then began the night shift. As a newspaper man was concerned, Erie was hardly on the map, but as a railroad point it was most important. It was a division point of consequence, as several branches of the main line converged there.

Henry was given complete charge of a branch which boasted but four trains, so he may for the time take care of the wire and the train sheets.

How could he keep awake? The station with its cozy fire was inviting, homelike except for the feeling of loneliness.

He worked on, continually cheered by his letters from home and Sarah and by his own satisfaction in doing something well. And the first pay day—could the book hold his first four weeks' wages, big fat? Then he was given a really important desk.

But something was to be discouraged. Nothing happened. There seemed to be no way to prove himself. And then the test came.

In the middle of February came probably the meanest and most severe storm ever known in that region. The rain, chilled by the lower air and falling on the cold objects below, froze and formed one continuous ice sheet enveloping everything below. Down

To perfect an insulator in dry air that it will stand 10,000 volts of electricity to leap a gap of an inch.

wire trees, fences, poles and telegraph wires, every single one carried its coating of ice.

With the storm down, the railroads reported to the old schedule system of dispatching. But trouble was in the air, the tracks slippery. After six hours Henry's assistant had charge of the train sheets along the affected district of the Great Central lines and limited communication resumed.

On the night of the 16th Henry was sitting drowsily by his little stove. The dispatcher was by example there suddenly and unexpected came the call: "Erie, Erie, Erie." Answering, Sherlock received the awful message:

"Rocky cut bridge down and the Northern express has gone through. Signed, Springdale."

Springdale was the first night station east of Erie and thirty-two miles away. Rocky cut was a mile and a half from Erie in the same direction and spanned by an old wooden railroad bridge. What should he do?

Quickly he thought and quickly formed his plan.

He went into his hat, coat and gloves and out the door he tore and started toward the big roundhouse. On a nearby siding, fortunately, was a switch engine, into which he swung after opening the switch on to the main track.

He pulled the reverse lever and the engine moved out of the roundhouse and backed down on to the main track. With all possible speed he then set the switch, re-entered the cab and started with a throttle.

Never before had he gone so fast, never before had he attempted to run alone. In the large, dry, wooden cab he running had been acquired on his many excursions. Never had he seemed to stand still. Yet the cut was not reached before him. He braced himself, hammed the throttle down and the engine slipped on the edge of the bank he swung to the ground, slipped on the icy and snow and fell heavily down to a heap.

He tried to rise. He could use both one foot—he had broken his ankle. How, with only one leg, could he cross the river? Yet he crawled down to the edge, boring to make his way over on the ice. But the river, contrary to his expectations, was open. He wavered, almost backed out, then thought of Sarah and his opportunity—and plunged into the icy flood.

Blundered by his useless leg, he seemed to be, but little, farther than Would he never reach the other side? He was fast becoming exhausted when he struck firm ground and crawled out of the water. Painfully he made his way up to the telegraph wires, which were kept torpedoes for just such an emergency. He grasped several and hurried on to the track. Here he made sure that he must give the warning far enough from the bridge to allow the racing train time to stop.

And now his iron constitution, which had come from desperate sporting fame, served him well.

But he must go faster. He had failed in that, tried in vain, and now his broken leg—but it must! Again and again he would try, and, even if he could only run, even for a minute or two! But hark! Even now in the distance he hears the whistle of the approaching train. Disappointed, he stops his mad race and fixes the torpedoes securely on the track.

Now he waits, but not for long. The train comes into view, runs, passes—and the torpedoes should fail! But his fears are groundless. As the train passes, one after another explosions explodes with a deafening roar, the brakes are slammed on, the engine and coaches grind to a halt and come to a standstill. The train is saved!

Exhausted, his nerves strung to the intense excitement, he sank down unconscious. In this condition he was found by the crew. From the papers in his pockets his identity was established and he was known throughout the train. "Henry Sherlock" was the young woman who rushed out of a car, then hurried down the track to where they were taking the unconscious man into a sleeper and immediately assumed charge of him. He had been carefully placed in a berth she sought to soothe his suffering words and loving caresses. In the meantime a brakeman went through the car for a doctor. Two were found and they together they set the broken ankle, bound it and made splints to hold it in position.

Again the doctor examined the man and then addressed the stewardess:

"He has developed pneumonia and will need the most careful nursing."

"I will nurse him."

"He had best be taken to a hospital as soon as possible." Will you attend to it?"

The limited was detoured over another road, thereby saving a hundred. Toledo, the first large city, Henry, still unconscious, was removed from the train and taken to a hospital.

With her father and mother Sarah had been on her way to Washington, but when the latter refused to go further, but determined to stay in Toledo, Sarah, with her mother, tried to be, yet the strain was terrible. It was because of her he had gone away. It he were to die—but he must not die. Thus she worried. Would he never recover?

Then on a sunny and summer-like day in early March, with the warm breeze blowing through the open door, the recovering patient was allowed to see one visitor.

"Whom shall it be?"

"Sarah—Miss Greene."

And when she rushed into the room and to his bedside with tear filled eyes, he was strong enough to clasp her hand and ask the one question of all unnecessary question about his ability and was answered by the dearest smile in the world with a look, a kiss and the one word "Yes."

The argument advanced in favor of a new phonograph which has its records in the form of cylinders fails in that it is impossible to make as long a cylinder as that by the older methods.

NUGGETS OF GOLD

Some of the Largest Ever Struck Were Found by Chance.

THE OLIVER MARTIN CHUNK.

It Was Turned Up by a Miner Who Was Digging a Grave For His Brother-in-Law—A Blacksmith Unearthed the "Welcome Stranger."

Nowhere does fortune indulge her love of the dramatic and the sensational more fully than in the gold fields.

Take, for instance, the story of the discovery of the world famous "Blanche Chunk," nugget in the early days of Australian gold mining, which sent a thrill around the world. Samuel Napier, a settler, with his brother Charles and one Robert Ambrose, their cook and general handy man, had been digging for gold for six months at Kingower, about forty miles from Bendigo, without discovering as much of the precious metal as would pay their living expenses, when one August day, to tell the story in Napier's own words: "We had got down about fourteen feet to the pipe clay stratum and were shuffling around in the bottom of the shaft more dead than alive from the heat. Old Ambrose lit his pipe and then, sitting down on the side of the hole to rest, just then I struck something with my pick. I turned it up so the light could strike it, and, by jingly, it was a chunk of gold as big as a bullock's dray!" The nugget sold for £9,000.

Among the thousands who flocked to the Victorian gold fields in the early fifties were two Cornish miners, John Deason and Richard Oates, who staked a claim on the shore of Moliagul. They set to work with vigor, confident that in a few months they would be able to retire to their native county a rich men, but their expectations were doomed to cruel disappointment. Not for months, nor years, were they raised and found them still as far removed from the sunny state at the beginning, and by 1859, fifteen years after they began their search for gold, they were reduced to the last stretch of the imagination should be done by one division after another in succession in order that the efficiency of the main party for its final dash must be maintained. Then, again, supplies of one sledge after another have been consumed the drivers of these sledges and their dogs will return to the depot and cannot be fed from the scanty supply of provisions being dragged forward over the ice.

"Fourth.—Each division being an independent unit, these divisions can be withdrawn at intervals from the main party without affecting the main party.

"Fifth.—Each division will have its own supporting parties have performed their functions they will return breaking and transportation of supplies, the main party for the final dash must be built with a minimum of weight, and each party can travel so much faster than a large one.

"Sixth.—Pioneer party was one unit division, made up of four of the most active and experienced men of the entire expedition, with sledges lightly loaded with five or six days' provisions, drawn by dogs. This party should be able to be selected from the entire pack. When we started from Cape Columbia this pioneer party, headed by myself, was to go ahead of the others, to search out the best twenty-four hours to advance of the main party, breaking the trail to follow, and obliged to waste time in reconnoitering.

"In other words, the pioneer party was to blaze the trail for the main party, and whatever distance it made was the distance of accomplishment for the main party. The leader of the pioneer party, in the first instance Lieutenant Parry, was leader of the first division, usually of the snowshoes. Then the light sledges of the party were divided among the leaders of the pioneer division was pioneering ahead of the main party.

"A large party advantage which I had on this expedition was that, owing to the size of my party, wherever the ice was in pressure division was exhausted with their arduous labor and I could draw upon them and send out a fresh division to take their place. A large party is absolutely necessary to success."

THE ARCTIC PERIL

Peary's Method of Battling With Polar Conditions.

Without This System, the Explorer Says, It Would Be Physically Impossible For Any Man to Reach the Pole and Return to Tell the Tale.

Many persons who have asked why Peary, after reaching the pole, was impossible for Cook to do so will find an answer in Commander Peary's own story in Hampton's. Although he does not mention Dr. Cook by name, Peary shows how impossible it would be for a man without his equipment and system to surmount the difficulties of such a journey. He says:

"Fortitude and endurance alone are not enough in themselves to carry a man to the north pole. It takes years of experience in traveling those regions, only with the aid of a large party also experienced in that character of work, only with the knowledge of arctic detail and the equipment necessary to prevent himself and his party for any and every emergency, is it possible for a man to reach that long sought goal and return.

"In order that the reader may understand this journey over the top of the polar sea it is necessary that the theory and practice of pioneer and supporting parties should be clearly understood.

"The use of relay parties in arctic work is not new, but the idea was carried further in the last expedition of the Peary Arctic club than ever before.

"Without this system it would be a physical impossibility for any party to reach the north pole and return to tell the tale.

"First.—Because a single division, comprising either a small or a large party, can not travel fast enough, possibly drag all the way to the pole and back some 900 miles) as much food as it can haul, for the dogs and dogs of that division would consume the entire load in the course of the journey.

"Second.—It is absolutely necessary that the arduous work of trail breaking for the first hundreds of the distance should be done by one division after another in succession in order that the efficiency of the main party for its final dash must be maintained.

"Third.—Again, supplies of one sledge after another have been consumed the drivers of these sledges and their dogs will return to the depot and cannot be fed from the scanty supply of provisions being dragged forward over the ice.

"Fourth.—Each division being an independent unit, these divisions can be withdrawn at intervals from the main party without affecting the main party.

Captain Bunn

He Made a Change in the Name of His Boat.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

Captain Benjamin Bulow scrubbed down the deck of the Lovely Eva, opened the cabin windows wide to the fresh breeze that came across the bay, hoisted the coffeepot on to the little stove in the spotless galley, planted the frying pan beside it and then went and sat on the doorstep to smoke his pipe and contemplate the scene.

"Sarey me themselves!" roared the captain. "You don't mean them three women wanted to marry me?"

Miss Willie nodded proudly. "Every one of 'em has a claim to you ever since you sailed into harbor with 'Lovely Eva' painted on the sloop."

"She had that name when I bought her down to Rockport. What can she do? It's bad luck to change a boat's name, so I let it stick, Willie, that's all."

"Perhaps you'll think it good luck to change it," retorted Miss Willie stiffly, once more turning to go. And this time Captain Bunn did not detain her.

He watched her with grave blue eyes from which all the happiness had departed under the lids, until she turned around a pile of great bowlders, and then, with a long sigh, he picked up his polishing materials and resigned up the sloop.

The result of a long meditation was visible the next morning when Captain Bunn rigged a small scaffolding and swung himself over the stern in front of the Lovely Eva. Cheerfully he worked, and he sang lustily the chorus of "Ben Bowline." It was a sailor's, but one requiring delicacy and skill. When it was finished he performed a similar operation on the port bow and then hurried to the stern, where he stood on a barrel and carefully depleted the worn letters that announced the name of "Lovely Eva, Little River."

Then he flew down to the sailboat and with loving care lettered the name of "Willemina B." on stem and stern. He had long finished his work and was fresh and clean in a suit of white drill when a man came sailing in a dory from Little Village. He was the editor of the weekly newspaper.

"Good morning, captain," he hailed cheerily. "I received your message about the boat, so I've come down here to have a look at her. A beauty, isn't she?" He stood still and examined the boat with a critical eye.

"I think she's pretty fine, Mr. Brown. I'll take you out tomorrow morning if we can get a few blues outside, eh?" The captain beamed happily. Everybody would be well away and in the distance he could see Miss Willie hurrying down her way down the beach toward him.

"Makes the old sloop look some shabby," he remarked, with a jerk of his head to the boat on the sand above them.

Mr. Brown turned and looked at the sloop. He scrutinized long at the name then went up closer. "What's the matter with her name, captain? I thought—" He turned a puzzled look on the captain, who was watching him with twinkling eyes.

"What is the matter with her name?" repeated Captain Bunn innocently.

"Why, I thought her name was Lovely Eva, but, by George, it's Lovely Eva!"

The captain laughed. "It's always been Lovely Eva—queer name, isn't it? Sometimes I've thought I'd change it, so it wore off and left a 'v.' It's never been painted back again till awhile ago. Then, that's her real name."

"Now that is quite a joke," mused Mr. Brown, who was quite evidently reminiscent of two spinsters and a ambitious widow who laid claim to the name of Eva. "I wonder if it is subject to my writing that up for the paper. I never heard the sloop called anything except Lovely Eva before. I guess it's been mighty lonely somehow. She looks better with a name."

"Write her up; write her up!" agreed the captain heartily, with a wave of his hand. "She's yours for the asking."

He saw Mr. Brown greet Miss Willie with great deference and then the editor stood quietly waiting until she reached his side.

"Captain Bunn I'm acting like a fool over the name of that boat," she began hurriedly, when Captain Bunn's pointing finger brought her to a sudden pause.

"Do you think any woman ll ever lay her head on a pillow that bears the name, Willie? Any woman in Little River going to acknowledge her name to be Lovely Eva?" he asked gently.

Miss Willie saw and blushed and then laughed merrily. Then her face clouded. "I thought you liked the awful mean thing if you had ever bowed and bent over them any attention," she hesitated.

"I never did," asserted the captain stoutly. "Say, Willie, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll take every bit of 'eh.' It lets everybody out of it very neatly, I think. And now how do you like the name of the new boat?" He turned her about, and she looked at it in silence for a few moments.

Then happy tears filled her eyes. "Why, it has been named for Willemina B., captain!" she asked, almost unable to utter the words.

"It means Wilhelmina Bunn. That's to be your name after this, eh, dear?" In a moment Willie was in Lovey Eva Captain Bunn leaned over and kissed Miss Willie on the lips.

MODERN FARMING.

Sober Plows That Pull From Six to Eight Furrows at a Time.

"The motor plow is rapidly replacing the old time horse plow in the Illinois and Indiana corn belt," said C. H. Stedman of Terre Haute, Ind.

"On nearly every large farm in central Illinois and the Indiana corn belt you will see motor plows at work. These machines, which are really big gasoline automobiles, pull from six to eight furrows at a time. The land lying in labor and horses is immense, and almost five times as much work can be done with the motor plow with a team and a double plow working in the old time horse can do.

"An average day's work of one of these plows in breaking old ground is fifteen acres, the machine plows much deeper than the ordinary hand plow and team and larger crops are the result.

"It does not pay a farmer, however, to use the motor plow unless he cultivates at least 160 acres. Those farmers who own smaller places are rapidly getting around this difficulty, however, by pooling their interests and buying a motor plow for combined use.

"Within a few years you will see all kinds of gasoline driven machinery on farms in the middle west."—Washington Post.

Remarkable Opals.

Queensland is celebrated for its opals. Its particularly beautiful and finest ever brought together in Queensland, but lately been assembled. Numbering 1,000 specimens, they are said to be valued at considerably more than $50,000 and were collected from Queensland fields. In some of the specimens the vividness and peculiar blend of the colors is most fascinating, even to the dullest light. One especially fine block of the harlequin pattern opal, known as the queen of opals, has been done in all the colors of the rainbow, while another specimen, of unusual size, graduates in color from a glorious amethyst blue at one end to a fascinating translucent green at the other, different colors and shades of the other.—London Globe.

A Bernhardt Trick.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who is supposed to be ignorant of art as an artist as well as an actress, was recently called upon to do some of her wonderful creations to enact the role of a sculptor and to model a certain bust in view of the audience. Without any preliminaries she chose a piece of clay and began to model. When it was finished she performed a similar operation on the portrait and then hurried to the stern, where he stood on a barrel and carefully depleted the worn letters that announced the name of "Lovely Eva, Little River."

Then he flew down to the sailboat and with loving care lettered the name of "Willemina B." on stem and stern. He had long finished his work and was fresh and clean in a suit of white drill when a man came sailing in a dory from Little Village. He was the editor of the weekly newspaper.

Dissolution Of British House.

Premier Asquith Likely to Go to the Country--Unwilling to Submit His Veto Proposals to Lords Who Would Likely Dally With Them.

London, Nov. 14.—A Cabinet meeting today or to-morrow will decide what step the Government will take to bring the political crisis to a focus. The plan most likely to be agreed upon is the immediate dissolution of Parliament. While the Government might send a bill embodying its veto proposals to the House of Lords for consideration, the Lords would certainly reject it but probably would consume much time in its consideration, and discuss the general question of the reform of the Upper House along the lines suggested by Lord Rosebery last session. Immediate dissolution will save time, and perhaps make possible the holding of the elections before the holidays.

Premier Asquith returned Saturday from Sandringham, where he was in consultation with the King. It is understood that the Premier will act quickly for a brief stay in the country. The other members of the Cabinet are scattered in the provinces. No further steps in arranging the Government's program are likely before the Cabinet meets.

These headings appeared Yesterday in The Sunday Observer, which first opened the campaign of the Conservative press in favor of federal home rule. The paper publishes three columns, denouncing "the unparalleled ignominy of the attempt to wreck the British constitution with American money."

President E. Smith, M.P. for Liverpool, a prominent Conservative, speaking at Brockley Saturday night, ridiculed Premier Asquith, as the successor of Chatham, declaring that he was powerless until the appearance of the unerowned king of political mediocrity with his pockets bulging with American gold.

Redmond Given Ovation.

Queenstown, Nov. 14.—John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, which has been on an extended tour of America, arrived here Saturday night on the steamship Celtic, from New York. There was a big gathering of representatives of public bodies and political parties, as special interest attaches to Mr. Redmond's homecoming with reference to the Nationalists in the present political crisis. Replying to an address of welcome, Mr. Redmond dwelt with enthusiasm on his reception in America.

Like Parnell's Home-Coming.

Cork, Nov. 14.—No such demonstration has been witnessed at Cobh's wharf since Parnell returned from his American tour in 1906, as the welcome given to John E. Redmond and other members of the Irish deputation, when the steamship Celtic appeared Saturday. Great bonfires burned on all the hilltops, salutes were fired and rockets sent up.

Blames Crisis on Redmond.

Dungarvan, Nov. 14.—Mr. Redmond's American speeches were responsible for the present political crisis, according to William O'Brien, the leader of the faction of the Nationalists opposed to Redmond, in an address here Saturday night. Mr. O'Brien declared that Mr. Redmond had repudiated his own words, and this had stirred up the Tory party to revolt and wreck the veto conference.

Huge Plant for Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 14.—Manager W. C. Franz of the Lake Superior Corporation, stated yesterday morning that arrangements had been made for the installation of a paper mill here, valued at $1,000,000, although nothing definite is given as to the site. The fact that the Lake Superior Corporation has control of the improvement of the water front from the ship canal to Bruce street would lead to the belief that the new paper mill will be constructed in that vicinity. This contradicts the rumor that an American syndicate had arranged for the construction of a paper mill in the Soo.

Saturday the blast furnaces of the Lake Superior Corporation made another record-breaking run, 600 tons of bessemer iron. The former record for one day, was 575 tons, and the average for the past month was 522 tons per day.

Guilty of Manslaughter.

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—Frank Leland, formerly watchman in a signal tower at Wood's Siding near this city on the C.P.R., was convicted of manslaughter in the Assizes Saturday. Sentence was deferred.

Leland was very drunk on duty on Sept. 10, when the local train from Winnipeg approached the crossing of the C.N.R. at Wood's. He threw the switch as the train approached and derailment ensued. Fireman Ransome Pattison jumped, but was crushed to death under the locomotive.

Leland was arrested at once, and the crown had no difficulty in proving that the fatality was due to his negligence. His only excuse was that he was drunk. The evidence went to show that he was not only intoxicated, but was quarrelsome and disobedient.

Wheel Flew Off.

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 14.—Tobin De Hymel, a well-known driver of racing automobiles, was killed in the races here Saturday, when his car lost a wheel. He drove in the Vanderbilt cup race in New York, and was known as the big Attec Indian driver.

De Hymel was rounding a curve at a furious clip, when a front wheel flew off, and he was thrown into an embankment. De Hymel was thrown clear of the car some distance down the track. When track attendants reached him he was dead, with the broken steering wheel clutched tightly in his hands.

No Boat Arrivals.

Port Arthur, Nov. 14.—There were no boat arrivals yesterday, due to heavy gales on the lakes, but no reports have yet been received of the steamers in trouble. The Doric and Germanic are overdue from the east. The Midland Queen is due at midnight, and the Hunonic to-day.

Car Strike Next?

New York, Nov. 14.—A bold theft of an express car, containing merchandise worth $50,000, and several attacks by mobs on drivers of express and delivery wagons, occurred Saturday afternoon, giving the police the hardest work they had had for several days in connection with the strike.

Four strikebreakers were arrested, charged with the theft of the van, which belonged to the Adams Express Co.

It is charged that they transferred the goods on the street to two smaller vans, and drove to a storage warehouse, where they were apprehended at the point of revolvers, as they were starting to put the goods in a vault.

Hugh Frayne, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and personal representative of Samuel Gompers, said yesterday that the street railway men of this city were ready to go on strike at any moment.

He said that these men have been dissatisfied for a long time, and that committee has been to the American Federation, with requests that they be organized. This work has been going on for six months, Frayne says, and is now complete.

Americans Not Hopeful.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The State Department officials, while they have not yet been acquainted with the details of the three-day conferences at Ottawa last week between Canadian and American commissioners, looking to a reciprocity agreement, do not expect a general agreement as an immediate result of the conference. The interests of the two countries are too extensive to admit of the violent derangement that might be expected to following a sweeping readjustment.

It is under stood that each side at Ottawa contented itself with submitting a very limited list of articles, upon which the principle of reciprocity might be tried. Included in the Canadian proposal were lumber, grain, a whole line of agricultural products, and perhaps live stock and meats. Wood pulp may not be put on the first list, but in any event it is marked for a substantial reduction.

There is reason to believe that the list of articles that Canada offers to admit from American at reduced rates is disappointingly small.

The Strike Settled.

New York, Nov. 14.—The strike of drivers and helpers employed by the transcontinental express companies was formally declared off Saturday evening, and it was announced at strike headquarters that the men will return to work Monday. The close of the strike was brought about by the New Jersey strikers, who voted late Saturday evening to accept the terms upon which the companies offered to take back their men. The New York strikers voted Thursday night to accept the company's offer, conditional upon similar action taken across the river.

Mayor Gaynor and Mr. Towne were largely instrumental in inducing the companies to name terms acceptable to the strikers. The agreement provides that the men shall be taken back without discrimination, except for acts of violence during the strike.

Brutal Child Murder.

Asbury Park, N.J., Nov. 14.—The body of Marie Smith, 10 years old, who has been missing since Wednesday, was found yesterday in a lumber of woods not far from her home. The child had been choked and criminally assaulted. An alarm has been sent out for a negro wood-chopper.

In her struggle she had been grasped by the throat and such force that the print of the fingers of his hand were still fastened into the flesh. Her arms were badly scratched, and there was a wound in the cartilage of her nose, which must have been caused by his man teeth shut down on it to cut off her breath.

Thomas Williams, known in the neighborhood as Black Diamond, a negro woodchopper, employed by the girl's aunt, had been missing since the day Marie disappeared. He was arrested last night.

LODGE GIVES UP CHARTER.

Emancipation of Montreal Has Cease to Exist—Under French Orient.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—The Temple of Honor and Temperance here from old France in 1896 has failed, and nothing remains to sell the late. In other words the famous branch of the Grand Orient, known as the Emancipation, which met with more or less success in French Canada during the past fourteen years, has ceased to exist and the charter has been returned to Cadet street, Paris, the headquarters of the Grand Orient in France.

From the start in 1896 the Emancipation had a stormy career in this city, for its principles were at the outset that the perfidiocal of the people against Masonry in any form were wrong. Using the greatest caution would have to be taken. The membership was limited to three hundred, and there were never less than seventy five active members of a lodge which was recruited from the professional and literary classes. In fact the office of venerable, the highest official position in the organization was always held by prominent and influential citizens.

The members of the Emancipator felt that they were handicapped by the fact that there were no officials or other relations between the Grand Orient and the English and Scotch Rites, as a visit from one organization to the other was absolutely forbidden.

First Colored K.C.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Among the batch of new K.C.'s is Delos R. Davis of Amherstburg, a negro lawyer who is understood to be the first of the African race to hold the title in Canada. He is six feet tall and built in proportion. Mr. Davis is not the only colored lawyer in Ontario, as his son, F. H. A. Davis, practices with him at Amherstburg.

The new K.C. became a solicitor, 1888, and was called to the Bar in 1898. He received his title on the advance of a petition to the benchers, who divided on the question.

These are The Prettiest Dresses These Prices will Buy

We don't ask you to take our word for it. We ask you to come and see for yourself.

Nowhere else in this vicinity are to be seen such smart, original wool made frocks as those we offer. Nowhere are to be obtained such remarkably fine values.

The woman who likes to calculate costs may sum up the price of materials, trimmings, linings, findings etc., and she will readily appreciate that a very small surplus remains for tailoring.

Fact is only large manufacturers who produce many garments could afford to make them to retail so modestly.

Whether you want an elegant silk costume or a plain little wool dress we are ready to supply your needs in a way that will make you seek this store the next time you want a new gown of any sort.

Here are some of the things you may choose from:

Dresses of voile, serge, panama and wool taffeta, $10,00 to $22.50

Dresses of Japanese silk and Messaline and Chiffon beautifully trimmed with lace $10,00 to $27.50, very suitable for evening wear.

Net Dresses in white, cream and ecru, made over silk slips and attractively trimmed $15,00 to $35.00.

A CHARMING SELECTION OF NET AND SILK WAISTS

The woman seeking new waists for dress or semi-dress wear will find some fascinating new garments at this store—charming effects fresh from the fingers of expert makers—dainty becoming blouses—priced to decided advantage.

Net waists in white, ecru and black $3.50 to $7.50.

Silk waists in Japanese Taffeta, Lyons Taffetta and Paillette Silks, in black and colors $5.00 to $8.50.

Linen waists, smartly tailored $2.25 to $5.00.

Considerable Sums off the Prices of these Splendid Coats.

REDUCTIONS ON WOMEN'S AND MISSES' COATS.

The blue pencil has been at work in our garment section. A number of excellent coats for women and misses have suffered important reductions in price. They are all this season's coats—smart in style—excellent in material and workmanship. They represent big bargains for prompt buyers. Every woman or young woman who reads this announcement should stop and consider whether she is going to need a new coat this season. If she decides that she will want one, it is but prudence to come to this store at the earliest possible moment.

The underprice garments include coats of heavy cloth, kersey and wool tweeds, in various colorings; brown, navy, grey, green, wine and black—7 8 length garments in sizes for women and misses from 14 to 18 years.

Regular prices $10.00 to $12.50, to clear at $7.95 each.

TRANSPARENT SILK.

A Japanese Product Used For Preserving Old Manuscripts.

The original manuscripts of old books and old records are exceedingly valuable and are preserved with great care, for if destroyed, of course, they cannot be replaced. They can be guarded from fire and from overmuch handling by an additional device which guard has been found in Japanese silk.

Its use has removed a fear existing in the minds of librarians that there was no way out of it and that the rare old manuscripts would simply have to have their day and fade dry up and return to their original elements. Happily the use of a silk of extreme thinness and transparency has settled the question of the life of these manuscripts for the next two or three hundred years at least. By that time some other method may be discovered. This silk is thinner than the thinnest tissue paper, the threads being finer than spider webs. It is placed over each manuscript so firmly that it keeps off all dust and air and yet is so transparent that it does not interfere any more with the appearance of the manuscript than would an ordinary plate of glass. It strengthens the manuscript so that the danger of handling is reduced to a minimum.

The library of congress is now engaged in examining and protecting all of its old manuscripts with this silk, and while it is an immense task it will probably be completed before long. This silk is by no means costly, and unless a person is somewhat expert in the matter of old manuscripts he would be unable to recognize the fact that silk had been used.—New York Sun.

EYE STRAIN AND HEALTH.

Continued

Few have looked into the subject far enough to become sufficiently familiar with it to appreciate its importance. One reason for this is the failure on the part of the medical schools, in the past at least, to emphasize this matter sufficiently, and the failure on the part of ophthalmologists to bring it forcibly to the notice of the practitioners in other fields.

The duty of the ophthalmologists, in this respect, has been very forcibly pronounced by Gould, of Philadelphia, in his writings, which have been collected into five volumes of "Biographic Clinics." In these volumes Gould has studied the biographies of a number of the world's famous men and women in the effort to discover the underlying cause of their ill health. In Quincy, Carlyle, Darwin, Browning, George Eliot, Wagner, Spencer, Parkman, Whittier, Nietzsche—all foreish sufficient biographical data to enable Gould to discover that they suffered from uncorrected eye strain.

TOWN TOPICS.

Says North Hastings Is "Darkest Ontario"

Statement Made By Mr. J. J. Kelso is Disputed By J. W. Mitchell--Religion Is Not Neglected There.

TORONTO, Nov. 12.—"Darkest Ontario," describes conditions in the northern parts of Hastings, Lennox and Frontenac counties, according to statements made by J. J. Kelso, superintendent of Neglected Children. So far as North Hastings is concerned, Rev. J. W. Mitchell declares that Mr. Kelso's statements do injustice to the great work that has and large expenditure made in the north end of that county by the Presbyterian, Anglican and Methodist churches.

Rev. Mr. Mitchell, in a letter, declares that, having been engaged for four years in missionary work in the region spoken of, he knows at first hand the conditions. There is, he says, "desperate poverty," "marked signs of degeneracy" and "much illiteracy," but they are all largely the arisal from the past.

Thirteen missionaries are employed by the churches named, but the need is great and the work of the missionaries arduous.

"That lamentable conditions exist" concludes Rev. Mr. Mitchell, "is true, and that there is urgent need of the work of Children's Aid Societies I well know, but these are notwithstanding the activities of many Christian people there, and the generous outlay of the churches, in covering the whole section with a network of missions. The cry of North Hastings is not that of China and India—for more missionary agencies. Its need, like that of Toronto, is for quickening and empowering of the agencies that are already at work there."

FRONT ST. PAVEMENT

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir,—I have read the letters for and against the permanent paving of Front Street. As one interested in the future welfare of Belleville, I am in favor of the work being done in the manner proposed by our City Council. In Mayor March we have a big man in charge of affairs. Under his regime Belleville sedlu alrdlh hrdl regime Belleville has progressed. Let us help him finish his work. I am a property owner and pretty large tax payee on Front Street, and am not in favor of trying to take from the poor in order to make the rich richer. To my mind, it would be grossly unfair to ask poor men in the outlying districts to pay for increasing the value of Front Street property, which permanent paving is sure to do.

Yours for progress,

FRONT ST. MERCHANT.

NORTH HASTINGS MINES

A considerable amount of development of the mineral wealth of Hastings, Peterboro and Haliburton counties is taking place in a quiet way at the present time, and a few claims have recently changed hands at handsome prices. It is said that Mr. Longrieker, a fireman, who has been prospecting in North Hastings for iron ore, and testing his discoveries with a diamond drill, has struck a very large deposit of hematite about a mile south of Myers' Village. Tests for ore from three to four millions of tons in the location, which has not yet been fully explored. Transportation from the mine will be easy as the G. T. R. line from Madoc to Eldorado, which has not been used for several years, runs close to the property. Development on a large scale will take place in the spring, when a large number of men will be employed, and boarding houses and suitable machinery will be erected.

The property was purchased from T. A. W. Coe, of Madoc, for $10,000.

AT GRIFFIN'S.

Another sterling bill will be presented at Griffin's the first three days of this week. The headline attraction is Fay Courtenay Cartoonist, who comes direct from the American Music Hall, New York City. This act is a distinct novelty in its line, as he will works by the aid of a stereoptican machine, which enables the audience to clearly see each line made by the brush of the artist. His is the first act of its kind that has ever appeared in Belleville and will without doubt draw crowded houses at each performance. Ethel Hunter, late of the Ladies' Boston Fadette Orchestra, comes to Belleville with flattering reports as a musical artist. This act will be a treat to all those enjoying good music. Last, but not each comes Billie Fox, who styles himself the "Second Edition of Ezra Kendall." He has a style of patter all his own with which he puts over in a manner that will surely cure the blues. Combined with surely cure the blues. Combined pictures, including Sicgin's great war drama entitled "For Her Country's Sake," this show will come up to the usual high standard always set by Griffin's.

"GET THE GRIFFIN HABIT."

Rockwinie, Nov. 14.—A peculiar accident, and one that was attended with equally heroic methods, occurred on the fast G.T.R. train nearing here. The victim was the chef in charge of the cafe car, whose hands were most painfully burned by coming in contact with grease or fat. Calls for a physician were made, but none happened to be on the train. A young lady responded, and applied the remedy to ease the injuries of the man. The application consisted of antiseptic gauze, which was used with soothing effect.

The interesting part of the episode is that the young lady in question was suffering from pulmonary affections, and as a result have found that the antiseptic to her ailment. This is quickly released, placing it on the injuries of the suffering man.

Sheriff Broddy Dead.

Brampton, Nov. 14.—Robert Broddy, for forty-five years sheriff of the County of Peel, died at his home here last evening. He was 82 years of age. Born in the County of Peel, he spent his whole life within its borders. As a young man he was division court clerk, before the separation of York and Peel. He was appointed sheriff by the old Conservative administration, and is said to be the last of the officials appointed prior to Confederation.

Possessed of excellent judgment, cautiousness and strict integrity, for many years he was a central figure in the public and judicial life of the county, and had the confidence of a very large percentage of the people.

BASEBALL

It's a tough job pitching the star of stars for every position in baseball, but fans are at it a'l winter long.

When it comes to first baseman it is hard to see how there can be any argument. Chase is in a class by himself, but there are many National leaguers who argue that Chance is a more valuable man.

Second base is the position that produces more arguments than any other on the diamond. There are several great players on this position, Johnny Evers, Eddie Collins and big "Nap" Lajoie all have a following. The Frenchman, on account of his hitting and graceful fielding, should be given the preference over the first two.

Derlin, Baker, Moriarity, Grant and Byrne are the men usually picked in the argument on the third base position. Several years ago, when Jimmy Collins was in his prime there would have been no argument. The rightful successor to Jimmy Collins' throne seems to be Byrne, of Pittsburg. It's speed and general all-around work should win him all arguments.

At shortstop Wagner and Bush give rise to arguments. Since Honus has gone back many inside the crown should be passed to Donie.

Catchers? The National League seems to have it on the American in this position. Kling has always been regarded as the king-pin, but he has a team-mate, Archer, who is not far behind. On the work this year it seems as though Gibson, of Pittsburg, has it on them both. Sullivan, Street and Criger are about the best in the American League, but they don't class with the National's stars.

In the outfield there may be room for argument in left and right, but Ty Cobb is surely the greatest centre fielder. Speaker, of Boston, is also a star of the first magnitude, and with him in right and Magee, of the Phillies, in left, any manager would have an ideal field.

Who is the best pitcher in either league? That is a hard question, and at a quick conclusion most people would pick Walter Johnson, of Washington. But there is a man on the Athletic team who is pitching about as well as any pitcher in the country this year. His name is Jack Coombs. And "Chief" Bender is not far behind. The National league stars are Miner Brown, Mathewson and Moore.

It seems that a team composed of Chase, 1st; Collins, Wagner, Byrne, Magee, Cobb, Speaker, Gibson and Coombs or Johnson would be almost invincible, and still there would be days that an ordinary team would beat them. The all-star aggregations are not, as a rule, as good as a well-balanced nine which displays great team work.

The best all-National team would be composed of Chance, first base; Evers, second base; Wagner short stop; Byrne, third base; Magee centre field; Wheat left field; Hofman right field; Bescher and Kling, catchers; Brown, Mathewson and Moore, pitchers.

The all-star American nine would be composed of Chance, first base; Lajoie, second base; Bush, shortstop; Moriarty, third base; Milan, left field Cobb, centre field; Speaker, right field; Sullivan and Street, catchers; Johnson, Coombs and Walsh, pitchers

Two teams of this sort in a post-season series could take in the big cities and draw enormous crowds, and would furnish some interesting contests.

But when it comes to picking teams Harry Lords proposition for a series of games between Boston's cast-offs and the present Boston team would furnish an interesting games to any Boston baseball fan. It would form a pretty fair team with Gardner, 1st base; Yerkes, 2nd; Knight, short; Lord, third; Dougherty, left field; Hooper, centre field; Wolter, right field; Carrigan and Cady, catchers; Mogridge, Arrellano, Young and Alrock, pitchers, with Laporte, Parent and Gessler for subs.

THE RING

Sam Fitzpatrick is the one lone man in the fight game who has come back. Sam brought out Kid Lavigne and made a champion of him. Then he hustled Jack Johnson along until the black diamond had beaten Tommy Burns, a less Sam was given the by-by Now, Sam comes to the front with another crack, this time in the person of Antone Lagarra, who will be seen out after the honors at present held by Ad Wolgast. If Sir Fitzpatrick luck is still in evidence, Lagrarra will come pretty close to the top.

HOCKEY

Peterboro Examiner: Either our old friend "Jack" Laviolette or the possessor of a beautifully fertile imagination, or else some one in Peterboro has been stringing him. At any rate Peterboro has not the slightest intention of embarking on the stormy and treacherous sea of professional hockey. On the other hand, the officers of the Peterboro Hockey Club say that they look forward to one of the most successful and active seasons in their history, in the city that we have had in years. There was no representative from Peterboro at last night's meeting, and as far as this city is concerned the new professional league is a rank outsider.

Cobourg Star: Port Hope has the professional hockey bug and talks of going into a league with Bellville and other lake front towns. Professional hockey may be all right in cities, but when it strikes a town the size of Port Hope they might as well pull the rink down, as the days of hockey for all time to come. Port Hope has had its share of professional lacrosse and baseball, and both these games are but memories there now. Cobourg is counted on for the league, but we cannot see it from here.

RUNNING

GUELPH, NOV. 12.—Fred Meadows, Guelph's famous middle distance runner, has returned from his trip to New York, where he and his partner, Wood, ran second in a twenty mile relay race to Hoimer and Qureal. When seen on Saturday, Fred said he would accept the challenge of Alfred Shrubb for a race at any distance up to fifteen miles, and Meadows is not particular at what distance the race is run. He is willing to accommodate Shrubb at any time. Any way desire Meadows and Wood have also decided to challenge any pair of runners in the world at any distance, from fifteen miles up to the regular Marathon distance, the race to be a relay one. Meadows leaves next week for Montreal, where he will train with Wood for their next twenty mile relay race which will take place at Madison Square Garden on the 29th inst. He feels that by going to Montreal and training with his partner, they will be able to make a much better showing.

BEDROOM SET.

Paintiest of all bedroom sets for a young girl are those made of hand embroidered handkerchief linen of finest quality, bound satin ribbon and delicately tinted silk.

Near the left end of the scarf, which is precisely like one of the bureau top and does not project beyond its edge in any direction, is embroidered one of those quaintly shaped flower baskets, with deeply curved brim and symmetric base seen in the patterns of old-fashioned carpet and wall papers and among the accessories of women's portraits painted during the early Victorian era.

The handkerchief case, of the usual oblong form, precisely matches the design of the bureau scarf, but its under side is plain and the two free edges are lined with strips of satin ribbon which tie into big ornamental bows.

The oh'ong pin cushion cover, finished similarly to the scarf and handkerchief case, carries the same embroidered design, but its beading runs across the upper long side and its large bow of ribbon is set diagonally above the lower right corner.

Such a set would make a charming birthday anniversary gift from one college chum to another, or from a quite young girl to a bride.

A NEW SILK BRAID.

The woman who wants embroidered effects, but who dislikes elaborate work, will welcome a new silk braid that looks like chain stitching. A design is stamped as for ordinary soutache braid, but when it comes to working the braid is sewed on the outlines by hand. A few filling stitches or French knot centres increase the effect of hand embroidery. These braids come in colors to match most of the new shades of dress materials. They are especially effective on ponges and shantungs done in set tones.

OLD EMBROIDERY.

The revival of tapestry as decoration brings to notice the fact that Halley's comet was pictured for the first time in the most famous tapestry of all. A part of this work is supposed to represent Harold receiving news of the landing of the conqueror and the disastrous portent of the comet which appeared in 1066.

The rest of the work sets forth the history of the Norman conquest. Strictly speaking, it is not tapestry at all, but embroidery, roughly wrought on coarse linen. It is generally supposed to have been the work of Queen Matilda, wife of William the Conqueror.

Whoever the fair needlewoman may have been, she had apparently but slender resources of material. On y three colors are used—green, red, yellow buff and tan blues. The tapestry stretches to 213 feet in length, though it is but 19 inches broad, as if intended for a frieze.

Lively little figures—there are no fewer than 623 of them—represent the heroes of the period, beginning with Edward the Confessor. The figures are all different, and in their way are very fine. Mounted Norman warriors clad in chain mail, with English, who are mostly on foot and armed with swords, axes, javelins and clubs.

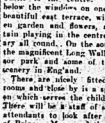
CHILDREN AT WINDSOR.

The two suites of rooms at the top of Victoria Tower, Windsor Castle, are fitted up as a nursery for the children of the King and Queen, says the London Daily Mail. There also the school room, dining rooms, day and night nurseries, rooms for governesses, maids and attendants, bathrooms and kitchens.

The former are beautiful apartments and are immediately above the rooms of the King and Queen. The children's apartments are magnificently situated for light, air and view and they command most beautiful views. When the sun is shining it throws a flood of light into the nurseries.

Being at a considerable altitude these children's apartments catch the health giving air from Windsor park, and there are no more beautifully situated apartments in the world. Everything about them is light and bright. There is nothing sombre, the child's being surrounded by light papers.

The schoolroom is fitted up with little tables and chairs, and the furniture is all in keeping. It much resembles the ordinary school room that there are all kinds of children's books and school requisites.



The King's two children, Prince John is the youngest, and he celebrated his fifth birthday a few days ago. He will do their lessons and learn about the great empire of which Windsor Castle is the centre. Immediately below the windows on one side is the beautiful east terrace, with its sunken garden and flowers, and a fountain playing in the centre and statuary all round. On the south side are the magnificent Long Walk and Windsor park and some of the grandest scenery in England.

There are nicely fitted up bath rooms and close by is a special kitchen which serves the children's needs. There will be a staff of nurses and attendants to look after the welfare of Princess Mary and the little prince, and they will be specially trained to make the rooms quite ideal apartments for children.

The nurses, of course, are never shown to visitors and are kept quite private. The Queen of Spain and her brothers received their early education here and Queen Victoria's children had their nursery and schoolroom in the same tower.

WITH BLACK VELVET GOWNS.

Among the things that add to the attractiveness of the velvet costume are the chic accessories that can be found to go with it. If the color is black one can wear black velvet boots and carry a black velvet muff. A less sombre hue is chosen the bag may match it and the boots also. The muff, however their color, looks well with close rows of small buttons in the same shade. Corduroy boots and bags to go with costumes of this material are even more alluring than those of velvet because they are newer.

"I don't see any burglars down here," called Harker nervously.

"Who said anything about burglars?" asked the stranger.

"Why, didn't you call me out of bed to tell me that there was a head moving around just inside the cellar window?"

Conscience Versus Art.

Shortly after Tennyson's poem "The Vision of Sin" appeared an eminent mathematician sent the poet a letter that ran like this:

"Dear Sir—I find in a recent poem of yours, entitled 'The Vision of Sin,' the following unwarranted statement: 'Every moment dies a man, and every moment one is born.' I need hardly point out that this calculation, if correct, would lead to keep the sum total of the world's population in a state of HOUSE DISSOLVES NOV. 23.

EARLY APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE

Whirlwind Campaign To Be Waged In England.

CABINET MEETS

Asquith Will Not Make A Statement Until Friday Is An announcement Now

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 15.—November 23rd is mentioned as the probable date of the dissolution of Parliament, to be followed by a whirlwind campaign and an immediate appeal to the people on a straight issue of constitutional government. Parliament reassembled this morning, but only routine business was touched upon, and an adjournment was immediately made, presumably to give Asquith time to prepare a momentous statement for to-morrow. Various guesses are made as to the date of elections, but nothing definite is known.

LATER.

After a long Cabinet meeting, it was announced this afternoon that Asquith wouldn't make a statement to Parliament until Friday. This is presumably to give the Government time to strengthen its position.

FOREIGNERS MAY LOSE FRANCHISE OWING TO COHEN

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—Some hundreds of foreigners who have recently received citizenship papers will lose their rights of naturalization as the result of the discovery that the signature to their papers of Joseph Cohen, J. P., was attested by others. Cohen having given another man permission to sign it's name. Some of these foreigners have moved to other cities.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN, HASTINGS TEAMSTER WILL PROBABLY DIE

HASTINGS, Ont., Nov. 15.—Struck by a Grand Trunk flyer on a level crossing this morning, John King, teamster, had his skull fractured and will probably die. He has a wife and two children.

MISS MCKENZIE TO WED COUNT

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 15.—The engagement of Ethel Mackenzie, aged 20, youngest daughter of William Mackenzie, millionaire president of the Canadian Northern Railway, to Count de Lesseps, French aviator, aged 27, was officially admitted by the Mackenzies to-day. The date of the marriage is not announced. Miss Mackenzie made her debut about two years ago and met the count at the aviation meet here in July.

David Goldberg, aged 4, ran suddenly across Queen Street to-day and was mangled to death by a trolley car. The mother was so crazed by grief she had to be held by three men from suiciding.

WOMEN FAINT

(Intelligencer Special.)

L'ORIGINAL, Ont., Nov. 15.—To-day three began before Mr. Justice Britton here; a fight for the life of Albert Blondin, charged with shooting and killing Dr. Finney, of this city, whom he summoned to attend him. Augusta Lemieux, counsel for the prisoner, attempted to exclude the auto-mortem statement of the deceased, which stated that Blondin shot him. Women relatives of both the prisoner and the deceased fainted during the revolting arraignment of the witness by Crown Prosecutor Meredith.

SESSION OF COMMONS TO OPEN THURSDAY SURE TO BE LIVE ONE

(Intelligencer Special.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—When the Canadian Commons assembles Thursday that assembling will be specially notable from the fact that during the recess not one member of the Commons or Senate has passed away. This is the first time for a generation that Parliament will assemble without a vacant chair through death in the interval. The only change is the promotion of Lavergne to the Senate and the introduction of a successor, the Nationalist, Gilbert, the victor in the spectacular fight at Drummondville. It is expected that the session will be a fighting one, as the third sessions of the Canadian Commons always are. The question uppermost in all minds is will hitherto solid Quebec show such a split that dissolution is probable before the session advances far?

For the first time the Board of Railway Commissioners are called on for approval of wireless telegraph rates to be permitted to charge one dollar for ten words in the transmission from a ship in the Gulf of St. Lawrence to a station on land. Decision is reserved.

Only One Alderman Opposes a Motion To Keep Absentees

Ald. Robinson Only Member of Council Desirous of Ousting Ald. Green and Thompson--Effort To Be Made To Make Bellevi le Divisional Point--The C. N. R. Bridge.

A goodly number of spectators were last evening in attendance at the Council meeting, anticipating that it would be a rather warm session, and in this respect they were not disappointed. During the meeting considerable business of an important nature was transacted. By a vote, with but one dissenting voice, the Council declared that the seats of Aldermen Thompson and Green be declared be vacant. The matter of the City Clerk performing legal business for the Canadian Northern Railway was referred to, but was condoned by some of the Aldermen, and nothing definite developed from the discussion. An effort will be made to secure Belleville as a divisional point for the C.N.R. and also to have less than five piers constructed in the river for the company's bridge.

The meeting was the largest attended, so far as members are concerned, which has been held for some time.

Those members present were Mayor Marsh, Aldermen Woolley, Flaherty, Fairfield, Bogle, Robinson, Ira Wallace, Thompson, Clowes, McCrodan, Carlaw, Wallbridge, Knox, Adams, Thomas, Vermilyea, Sills and Parks.

After the reading and confirming of the minutes of the last regular and special meetings, on motion, the Council went into Committee of the Whole on Reports, etc., Ald. Wilson in the chair.

Ald. Hunt, as a question of privilege, stated that it was published in one of the city papers that there were six Aldermen who had vacated their seats by reason of the fact that they had not been in attendance at the Council for three months. This was a matter which should be settled at once and before Council business was proceeded with.

The Clerk stated that, as requested, he had prepared a statement, which showed that Aldermen Green and Thompson had been absent from Council meetings for a period of three months.

Ald. Thompson rose to his feet immediately and made an able defence on his own behalf. He was present at a Council meeting on June 11th, and in July, by a by-law passed by the Council, that body was shut in session for six weeks. Counting in that time he was absent from the Council some four months and a few days, but contended the members were under the statute relieved from duty owing to the by-law passed. Legally he had not been absent from the Council for the period of three months. He was present to defend himself and his sector was also present to defend him if necessary, but it was not, he contended, necessary. He was qualified to sit in the Council and would do so in spite of his whiskered friend to the right (referring to Ald. Robinson.)

Ald. Robinson—Ald. Thompson is out of order. He has no right to refer to me in the manner he has."

Ald. Thompson—"It it offends my friend, I will withdraw the whiskers." (Laughter). He would ask the Clerk to quote the statute and to give his legal opinion in the matter as the City Solicitor.

Ald. Marsh thought that the matter could not be discussed properly without some motion being made, and he hoped that someone would ask for a motion, so that the matter would be properly before the Council.

BE NOT VACANT.

Ald. Clowes moved, seconded by Ald. Adams, that the seats of Aldermen Thompson and Green be not declared vacant.

Ald. Wallbridge said that an Alderman was a member of the Council until the Council says he is not a member.

PATIENTS CRUEL TO HARRY THAW

Albany, Nov. 15.—Attorney-General O'Malley filed in the Court of Appeals to-day affidavits in opposition to the appeal of Mrs. Mary C. Thaw in her application for the transfer of her son, Harry K. Thaw, from the Stanley White, from Matteawan State Hospital to some other asylum within the state. Among the affidavits prepared by Deputy Attorney-General Franklin Kennedy, who is in charge of the case, is one by Dr. Amos R. Baker, the first assistant physician at Matteawan.

In support of his contention that Thaw's surroundings are conducive to health, Dr. Baker says that Clarence Thaw was committed to Matteawan as he passed 37 pounds in weight, is permitted to play cards with congenial companions, to receive visitors, take outdoor exercise, read the best of literature, and is not compelled to associate with anyone who is not his equal intellectually and morally.

One of Mrs. Thaw's contentions is that her son is compelled to associate with patients who use vile language in his presence, and who often assault him. Dr. Baker says that these assertions are wholly unfounded.

PUTS THE BOOTS TO NOBLE SON-IN-LAW

Papa Kilgallen Wants To Divorce Him, A "Dear Boy" Says Mamma.

COUNT STANDS PAT

His Wife, Countess De Beaufort, Laid Up With a Broken Knee-Cap

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Assertions by Scripps-McRae Press Association that he had "put the boots" to his noble son-in-law, Count Maurik De Beaufort, and that he would immediately start a divorce action against the nobleman, were followed to-day by counter-assertions that talk of a divorce is "absurd" and that the count is a "dear boy, a son-in-law whom any father would be proud," from the wife of the millionaire.

While the papa and mamma of Irma, Countess De Beaufort, are divided as to the treatment of the count, he is standing pat and the countess is in a local hospital with a broken knee-cap, blissfully ignorant of the family squabble, and also of the fact that her marital experiences are furnishing food for country-wide gossip.

Stories of how the count borrowed $3,750 from a London "Shylock" in order to "put up a front" and capture Irma Kilgallen, varns of how the count had given the Kilgallen chauffeur two black eyes in a four-round scrap; of how he had threatened to "scandalize" the family; of how he had attacked and abused his heiress, have been varied by statements to the newspapers by Papa Kilgallen, in which the latter detailed how he trounced his blue-blooded son-in-law on various occasions.

"It wasn't my fault that a title was brought into our family," said the irate millionaire in a local newspaper office, while his son-in-law, who also sought publicity, stood nearby. "This fellow has pushed us to the limit of endurance and we will tell things which I guess will shock the American grin girls from falling for the lure of a foreign title."

Kilgallen then told how he had whipped the count.

"It was after my daughter had been injured while trying to escape from her husband, who swore he would kill her," said the millionaire. "I invited him into our library and told him to get ready. Then I went after him. I knocked him down several times, and when he wouldn't get up I put the boots to him. I would like to have the chance to do it again."

COUNT TOLSTOI CRITICALLY ILL

Russian Philosopher Is In Serious Condition At Small Town

DOCTOR WITH HIM

Tula, Russia, Nov. 15—Broken down by the hardships of a winter journey, mental strain and a rupture with his family, Count Leo Tolstoi to-day lies with a high fever in the little railroad station at Tetapova, barely eighty miles from his home at Yasnaya Poliana. Tolstoi is attended by Dr. Makovetsky, who was his sole companion when he left his hut a few days ago, and who carried along with him medicaments for just such an emergency. Tolstoi's daughter, Alexandra, is acting as his nurse.

Telegraphic reports of his condition are extremely pessimistic. The temperature of the aged writer is 104, indicating probably a serious congestion, and of itself an alarming symptom in one of Tolstoi's years. The mental anguish of the patient heightens the efforts of the physician to reduce the fever. Even if Tolstoi recovers, there can be no question of his continuing the journey to the Caucasus, where he hoped to end his life among the Tolstoian colony on the shores of the Black Sea.

Tolstoi had hoped to escape notice after his hasty departure from Yasnaya Polana, and spend the rest of farewell with his sister, a nun in the Shamordino convent of Shamordino in the Province of Kaluga—but he insisted when he had been discovered. He drove in a carriage last evening to Kozelsk from Shamordino, accompanied by his daughter and Dr. Makovetsky.

Negotiations Abortive.

London, Nov. 15.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Standard says that private advices received at London in regard to the reciprocity negotiations show that for a certain amount of reciprocity in coal, Otherwise the negotiations have been more or less abortive.

When boiling milk for a custard powder, sprinkle the bottom of the saucepan with sugar; this dissolves and forms a layer, and so prevents the milk from burning, whether how long it boils. It applies to any sweet and milk.

CURRENT EVENTS.

Ald. Robinson deprived of another jaunt at the city's expense. Try again!

Sir Wilfrid got terribly jarred, while playing his racial card.

It was down in Quebec,
Where he got it in the neck,
And went up on his own petard.

The assessed value of property in the city of Montreal for 1910 shows an increase of over $25,000,000 over that of 1909. This the Star says does not include the new wards which have been added to the city. The taxable property in the whole city amounts to $329,804,290, and the exempted property to $106,027,902.

This City Hall agitator is somewhat annoying between Council meetings, but when the sessions come off the other Aldermen surely show him where he's getting off at. But he's a nuisance, nevertheless, and ought to be thrown into the discard. One never plays the pack with the joker in it.

Toronto leads in gross postal revenue, the receipts for the principal cities for the year being: Toronto, $1,709,493; Montreal, $1,063,228; Winnipeg, $685,054; Vancouver, $257,901; Ottawa, $240,139; Hamilton, $202,921; Quebec, $186,686; London, $145,250; Halifax, $114,318; St. John $111,074; Victoria, $80,867.

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—The Literary Society of University College this morning received a telegram from Arnaud Lafergue, one of the Nationalist leaders, accepting the invitation to address the society next Friday evening, Nov. 18. The announcement of his coming has aroused interest among the students.

One Pieters, a Dutchman, is the thirty-sixth victim of the aviation art of the year. He died at Brussels, after falling 75 feet. The record of this year in the matter of showing man's power to offset the force of gravity and imitate the birds has been as remarkable as anything in the development of invention for a long time; but it made many martyrs to science and not a few sorrowing homes.

Here is a reflection upon women. On November 11th Dr. Orr, manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, held in Toronto September last, in reply to the W. C. T. U. who complained of the amount of drunkenness at the exhibition, makes the unexpected statement that there were as many empty flasks found in the women's building as in the quarters for the men. Perhaps some naughty boys put them there.

The feeling of the people of Canada is largely against any concessions looking much to the United States in the way of reciprocity. Sir Montague Allan, when in St. John, N.B., the other day, said to an interviewer: "You can report me as saying that I am most emphatically opposed to anything that savors of reciprocity in any shape or form. Reciprocal relations would mean a backward step for Canada. We are a young country. To-day we stand in Canada just as the United States stood some fifty years ago. An era of prosperity and development is staring us in the face. What we want now, more than ever, is a barrier behind which we can foster our industries and develop our resources. I believe that if we have reciprocity it will be a deathblow to the Canadian coal industry."

SITUATION OPEN.

The application will be received by the undersigned for the position of storekeeper and meter man and general assistant. Application should be in writing, stating age, salary expected and experience, if any. Interesting Lecture By A Returned Missionary

Mrs. Shapley Who Labored In China Gives Graphic Account Of Her Work To A Large And Attentive Audience In St. Andrews Church.

At the regular meeting of the Presbyterian Guild of St. Andrew's Church, held in the lecture room last evening, Mrs. Shapley, returned missionary from inland China, gave a descriptive account of her work to a large and attentive audience. Mrs. C. Urquhart, convenor of missionary work, was in the chair and introduced the speaker of the evening. Mrs. Shapley in opening her address, commented on the mistaken idea people have in regard to the missionaries sticking in thinking of it as a disagreeable and distasteful duty that is reluctantly done. It had never been so to her and she could also speak for her fellow workers. On the other hand she counted it a real delight and a genuine privilege. Her field of labor was about three days journey from Shanghai, in a town where there was much wealth, and where retired officials in large numbers resided. Hudson Taylor, founder of China Inland Mission, was the first christian missionary who had undertaken work there. The people at that time were very hostile to the missionary and they drove him from their city. He not only lost all his belongings, but barely escaped with his life. In spite of that, christian work had been continued in the city and the missionaries had made many friends and their labors. She told of how one proud Confucian scholar had been led to accept the christian faith and how he became a great influence as a teacher of the christian religion to the Confucians. All the privation, sacrifice, martyrdom of years of missionary work was worth while, even if all that could be shown for it was the conversion of this one man. Largely through his influence 300 Chinese students in the universities had signified their intention of devoting their lives to the propagation of the Gospel among their own people. In spite of all that had been done by the missionaries heathenism still hangs over China like a black pall. In spite of all the superficial reforms of the "New China" the heart of that nation needed Christ as nothing else. The destitution and the darkening of whole districts constituted a mighty challenge to the christian people of the whole world. Sixteen thousand more missionaries would seem only mean one for every twenty-five thousand people. There was great need for medical missionaries, for trained nurses and evangelists. The staff of missionaries at work there needed to be strongly reinforced. The great need of China was a call to a deeper spiritual life on the part of christian people at home. Every religion needed doing for the missionary cause, but vital religion as manifested in a life of faith and prayer could accomplish all things and result in the evangelization of the world, even in this generation.

EIGHT YEARS OLD CHILD CRIMINALLY ASSAULTED

Little Palmateen Girl Lured To Lonely Spot By Unknown Man on Saturday Last—Police Working on The Case.

On Saturday afternoon last, between the hours of three and four o'clock, an eight-year-old daughter of Mr. Rob. Palmateer, who resides on Murray street, was criminally assaulted. It appears the little one, in company with three other young companions, were taken over to the city quarry, or what is known as the Coleman limit, by a man who promised to give them some money to buy sweetmeats. When the scoundrel got the children over to the quarry he took the little Palmateer girl into the building where the crusher is kept and there maltreated her. The little one managed to get away from him and ran out and told her companions what had happened. The man then made a hasty retreat. The affair was reported to the police and a good description was obtained of the assailant, who up to the present has not been located. The police are working hard on the case and hope to hand the guilty party to justice.

WINS SILVER MEDAL

Miss Marion Vanderwoort Captures Trophy Offered By Royal Templars

A fine crowd greeted the silver medal contestants at Holloway Street Church last night. The medal presented by the Royal Templars, was won, after a close contest, by Miss Marion Vanderwoort, the other contestants being Miss Bessie Pantter, Marion Brenin, Westover and Finkle, all showing commendable merit. Another number, a dialogue, in which Miss Gracie Martin took the principal part, showed elocutionary merit. The programme was interspersed with solos by Misses Eaton and Westover, and two humorous recitations by Mr. Johnson, of Albert College.

Patronage Row Among Liberals

During Judge Cassell's investigation, it was shown that there was no place in Canada where rake-offs were so common and so barefaced as in Halifax. Notwithstanding the exposures, the rage for plunder is just as great to-day as it was in the past. Telegrams from that city say: "The Liberals of that city are having a strenuous time among themselves over the question of patronage. The matter was brought to a head by the report that the Niobe had been provisioned on the other side. At a meeting Senator Roche was numerically criticised. The whole blame was put on his shoulders. He was asked to resign the patronage job. So was Mr. Carney. Senator Roche listened, and having given the best of his days and plenty of his cash to the cause, grew restive. He is reported as generally flaying the whole party.

"The Canadian navy came in for a roasting. The importing of supplies from England, the filling of the dockyard with men imported from England, 'who never rendered the party any service,' and who are almost sure to vote 'Tory when they are qualified to do so, called forth vigorous denunciation.

"The ex-members were asked if they would not drop the patronage and 'hand it over to the local members.' Mr. Carney was willing. Senator Roche's vexation gave way to disgust and he intimated that he was willing not only to drop the patronage, but to drop the Federal party as well.

"After a long discussion a truce was called and another meeting called for this week. The claim of the provincial members for Halifax for the Federal patronage will then be pushed."

Is it not lamentable that party fealty should depend entirely upon what is to be had? Case get in the way of plunder, for it is little less, when it is known that those who secure patronage have, to give a certain per centage to the party fund, to those who have to secure them the jobs, or purchase goods? Since, however, in Liberalism in Canada under the present governing powers.

Oriental Labor

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in British Columbia he trimmed his sails to the anti-Asiatic winds which then found prevailing there. One of the statements upon which he gelied to show his antagonism to Oriental labor was an assertion that no Asiatics have been employed on the Grand Trunk Pacific; and that none would be employed on the line in the future. He did his best to persuade the people of British Columbia that in so far as the action of his Government that white labor, and white labor alone, is employed on the Grand Trunk Pacific is concerned, indeed, was made the basis of his appeal to the public.

It is quite true that the Grand Trunk Pacific is unable to employ Oriental labor; but why?

So far as the Dominion Government is concerned the fact simply is that when the Grand Trunk Pacific Act was being passed the Conservative party endeavored to have it made a clause in the charter that the company was to restrict itself to white labor. The Government refused to accept this, and the House of Commons at its instance voted the motion down.

Thus the Dominion Government was asked to prohibit the use of Oriental labor and refused. To this day it has taken no action to debar the company from importing Asiatics to do the work. Certain of its public servants have been emphatically arguing that the company should be allowed this privilege. But in the course of its operations the Grand Trunk Pacific needed powers which lay within the gift of the Legislature of British Columbia. When it asked for these concessions the McBride Government granted them only on condition that the company must bind itself to abstain from the employment of Asiatics. The prohibition is provisional. It is the action of the McBride Government which keeps the Orientals out. Thus Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been taking credit for the action of the Provincial Government.

The first coin storage warehouse in the modern acceptance of the term was opened in Chicago in 1889.

SOCIETY IS WORKED UP OVER WILLETS AND HIS TWO WIVES

Something Like a Sensation Caused When Telegram Reaches New York Paper Announcing Marriage of Willets to Mrs. Arnold.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—When was Sam Willets divorced, if he was ever married?

When and where did Mrs. L. H. Arnold get her divorce that she might marry Sam Willets?

And just when were Sam Willets and Maria Arnold married?

Was Sam Willets ever married to Amber Lawlord, the actress, who in private life was Mrs. W. P. Morgan?

These and other questions with speculative answers furnish society its conversational nourishment these autumn days.

There's a "high life" story back of the clatter. Charles Willets, club man, son of the late Col. Edward Willets, the millionaire who built Brighthome, an $3,000,000 place to live in at Roslyn, L.I., has long been known as an enthusiastic huntsman and poloist. At the same time he was the Meadow Brook hunt M. F. H.

Something like a sensation was caused when a telegram reached a New York newspaper, signed "S. Willets," announcing the marriage to Mrs. Marie H. Arnold. The reason could find out anything about Mrs. Arnold's sentiment was that no one Arnold having secured a divorce from L. H. Arnold, while a healthy suspicion that Willets was the husband of Amber Lawlord existed for some time.

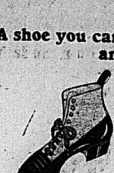
It was in 1908 that Willets was in the limelight, as the result of charges made by Amber Lawlord, that he was her husband. This Willets denied, but her claim was strengthened when Willets apparently succeeded in concealing the properties of a Lawlord motor hotel that the signatures on the register, "S. Willets and wife," was in the handwriting of Willets with the woman's two daughters, occupied one of the hotel's cottage suites.

"I think it is my business to tell about our marriage," said Miss Lawlord during the controversy. "Under the circumstances I don't see why I should be expected to talk at all. You see we are registered as man and wife."

About a week later she left for Europe and in Paris registered at the Majestic as Mrs. Willets, occupying an expensive suite.

No one has ever succeeded in finding out where the couple were married, either, for that matter. Miss Lawlord is well known in stage land. She appeared in some of Clyde Fitch's plays and at one time appeared in support of Amelia Bingham.

The present Mrs. Willets was born a Miss Boisington in Brooklyn. She married a man named Holmes, when a girl and after his death became the wife of Lemuel H. Arnold, a Brooklyn lawyer and banker.



Last February Mrs. Arnold went to Reno and in April she returned. If she secured a divorce it has been kept quiet. Upon her return she took up a cottage at Mineola, L.I., where Willets was a frequent visitor. The couple motored and attended the weekly flights of the aeronautic club at Mineola.

Col. Edward Willets offered $1,000,000 to anyone who would prove his son had married Amber Lawlord, when the scandal was at its height. Six months later he died and Sam's name was not mentioned in the will. Everything went to the widow.

When Willets wired the news of his marriage to Mrs. Arnold, he stated that Rev. J. F. Johnson, of Hartford, Conn., had tied the knot. Mr. Johnson when questioned was reticent, but admitted that he had married them in the summer and not that day at the request of Willets. He said that he had been asked not to say anything about the ceremony. Registrar W. C. Lee said that Willets and wife had been granted so long ago that he had forgotten all about it, until it was recalled to his mind.

TIRED OF LIFE, WANTS TO DIE

Girl Turns on The Gas Because Her Eyesight Is Failing

PATHOS AND MYSTERY

Detroit, Nov. 12.—Pathos and mystery mingle in the weird attempt of Esther Carleton, employed as a maid in the home of Charles Ritter, 1421 West Bethune ave., to kill herself Saturday afternoon. While alone in the house, the girl ransacked it, to find in the apartment of Ritter, who entered by a burglar, then she turned on all the burners of the kitchen range, and laid down to die.

Esther, who is only 17 years old, decided to end her life after she had been fondly dealt with. The gas didn't overcome her quickly enough, and she changed her mind about dying. Instead she brought to her dead mother. Though extremely weak Esther managed to call the police. Ritter and his family, as well as all the windows and doors open. Burton and dresser drawers had been pulled out, but nothing was missing. Esther told police that she was friendless of a former Toronto business man and mother died last June. The girl had been used harshly. But, with the death of her mother, Carleton, she says, sold his business, and went away with another woman. Esther was left with an aunt, whom, the girl's father gone, she was denied the privilege, and she ran away reaching Detroit five weeks ago. Her sight was failing, and she confided to Mrs. Ritter that a Toronto physician had told her there was no hope for her. Blind, she would eventually become totally blind.

"She didn't wanted to die," Mrs. Ritter said. "While she was growing weaker from the gas, she thought of her mother, and she spoke of her as a good Christian woman. She pleaded that her mother would look down from heaven and see her try, like to die, and she asked herself if she would join her mother. Then she thought that it was wicked to take her own life, and that she could never, never go to her mother that way, or expect to go to live."

The girl was in a Toronto high school two months ago, when she left only leaving when she was told that she would have to give up study to save her eyes.

OBITUARY

SAMUEL CLOSE.

Mr. Samuel Close, who resided near Picton, died on Sunday. Deceased, who was 61 years of age, was born in Pembroke Township, and for the last 40 many years. He had been ill for some time. Mr. Cross was an Anglican in religion and was a member of the Orange and Prentice Boys' societies. A widow, one son and four daughters survive, also a sister, Mrs. Joseph Thrasher, of this city. The remains will be brought to the city to-morrow, and after service at Christ Church, will be taken to the Belleville cemetery, for interment.

J. W. HANDLEY.

After being ill in bed for some three years or more, Mr. James W. Handley passed away yesterday afternoon at his late home on Dundas street. Deceased was afflicted with rheumatism and other diseases which caused death. Mr. Handley, who was 72 years of age, was born in the County of Addington. He had lived in the city for many years, being a well known character, but of late years had been confined to Annapolis work. Deceased was highly respected and had a large number of friends. He was a member of the A.O.U.W. and C.O.F. societies. In religion he was a Baptist. A widow and a family of two sons and two daughters survive, viz.: Mrs. Ellis, Walter H. and Harry S., of Toronto, and the daughters, Mrs. Geo. Biddle, of Fulton, N.Y., and Mrs. Hall, of Ottawa. The funeral, under the auspices of the A.O.U.W. Society,

AT GRIFFIN'S.

A large audience greeted an exceptionally good bill at Griffin's last night. Farrell the Caricature artist, heads the bill, introducing an entirely new and novel way of drawing pictures. He draws his picture upon a small piece of colored glass, which is projected upon a white screen by the aid of a stereopticon machine, enabling the audience to see each stroke made by his brush.

In the violin playing of Miss Ethel Hunter the patrons of Griffin's have a rare opportunity of hearing a musical treat. Her playing and especially her rendition of some of the more popular classics is full of expression and throughout her performance held the audience spell bound. The singer upon which she performs is one of the finest in America, being an heirloom of the family, and has been handed down from generation to generation. Comes Billy Fox, who talks so fast that it seems to excuse himself in order to take time to swallow. He has a new line of songs and jokes and has a way all his own in putting them over. He is billed as the Assassin of Sorrow and he sure can make you laugh. The motion pictures are above the ordinary, among which is shown one taken from Dante Alighieri's masterpiece "The Girl of the Golden West." In all the show is indeed a good one and well worth seeing.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD COMPLEXION?

You are just about to commence the season's programmes of evening parties, social events, etc. Why not look your best? Why let your complexion suffer by contrast with other ladies'? Why not ensure a good complexion? You can do this on sound natural lines by using Zam-Buk, nature's herbal balm.

Zam-Buk is a skin food; and complexion is purely a matter of skin health. Zam-Buk nourishes right down into the skin, night, acts as a skin tonic. It stimulates the cells beneath the cuticle to healthy action, makes the capillaries and blood vessels work, and the vigorous circulation, thus started, carries away secreted impurities. Watery, sallow deposits are thus removed. Hard pimply growths are softened and disappear. That yellow tinge gives place to the pink of health, and the white velvety "look" and "feel" which healthy skin should have.

Zam-Buk cures "skin diseases, blemishes, abscesses, blood poisons, festering sores, ulcers, scalds, chapped places, scalp sores, piles, etc. 50c. box, all druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Isn't this wiser than relying upon talcum powder and cosmetics? These only put on a "complexion" from the outside. It doesn't last. Zam-Buk helps nature to build up a complexion from blood and tissue. It lasts! It won't rub off!

Be wise as well as womanly! Let Zam-Buk help you to look your real best!

SAVED HIS BOARD.

Grand Promoter Surprised by His Landlady.

SHE FAILS TO BE CAJOLED.

Major Crofoot's Offer of a Position at a Fabulous Salary Spurned—Back Does Dun Boarder—He Tries a Trick, and She Wrecks His Office.

By M. QUAD.

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

MAJOR CROFOOT, grand promoter and artful dodger, was walking the floor of his office. He was perturbed. It was not a question of buying a steamship company or a banana plantation, but of raising the cash for his monday lunch.

Then Providence suddenly appeared. The door opened, and a woman walked in. She was a large, portly female, and the floor trembled a little under her steady tread. For half a minute the major failed to recognize her. Then her face, form and double chin carried him back to other days, and he swallowed the lump in his throat and turned pale as she cried out:

"So I have found you at last, you lying, deceitful man!"

Her voice broke the spell and aroused him to action. A bland smile spread over his face, and he extended his hand and said:

"Well, well, but this is certainly a surprise and a pleasure. My dear old landlady, but how do you do—how do you do?"

"Oh, you remember me, do you?" she sarcastically queried.

"Remember you? Could I forget the dear old soul with whom I roomed and boarded for weeks and months and who was like a mother to me all the time I was in her house? Never on my life! My dear Mrs. Simpkins. It wasn't an hour ago that I was speaking of your talented death."

CALLED A LIAR TO HIS FACE.

"Humph! Who said I was dead?"

"I was so told by one of your former boarders." He bore the other day that you had had a stroke of apoplexy and had been dead almost two months. The very hour he gave me the news I was on my way to your house with a check in my pocket. There was a balance of $15 due you when I left. Dear me, but what a surprise this is and how heartily glad I am that you are still on earth and looking as young and handsome as ever. You remember I used to call you the duchess?"

"Yes, I remember lots of things," she grimly replied. "I remember how you sneaked out of my house, and I am here for my money. Don't try to flatter me and don't do any more lying."

Flattery Fails.

"My dear, dear woman, it pains me to hear you talk that way. We were the greatest friends. I recall hundreds of acts of kindness on your part, and I only wish I were in a position in place of the insignificant sum named. Why do you speak of me in such harsh terms? If my debt to you is unpaid it is because I heard that you had died and left me heir. Only yesterday while I was perfecting the articles of incorporation of the G. A. H. R. Company of Bangkok, I was told and wished that you were with us."

"Soft soap, major!" replied Mrs. Simpkins as she clicked her teeth. "I have come for that money, and I don't stir a step till I get it."

"Just a minute, dear—just a minute. In a paltry $18 more or less than $2,000,000? No, of course not. The G. A. H. R. company is the Great American Hair Restoring company. It is limited, with a cash capital of $3,000,000."

"Never heard of it and don't want to. I want my $18."

"Its object, my dear, is to restore hair to bald heads. You may doubt it can be done, but I shall dispel those doubts. It is a simple but powerful discovery. During the last three months I have operated on 3,000 bald heads, and in no instance has it failed to produce a luxuriant growth of new hair."

"You will need a barrel of the stuff in about three minutes if you don't come down with my cash!" grimly remarked Mrs. Simpkins.

"It is estimated, my dear woman," he went on, with the same bland smile on his face, "that the population of the world numbers about 200,000,000 bald heads from day to day. Our restorer is put up in quart bottles. Every bald head will buy, and the sales will be at least 600,000,000 bottles a year. It takes three bottles to do the business."

Mrs. Simpkins held up a warning finger, but the major continued:

"The clear profit is $1.75 per bottle. You can figure for this the price. The diamond mines of Golconda were a peanut compared to the G. A. H. R. Ah, my dear landlady, your ship has come in at last."

Ordered to Halt.

"Stop right there, you deceiver!"

"You had every confidence in my integrity when I put $2,000 in your hands how it was, and you never presented a bill. You used to send me little lunches of cold chicken and ham, and my room on the sly, and in a thousand ways you made it home to me. Yes, you did, and now—"

"And now there will be something doing," she fulsted in a menacing way.

"Yes, my dear, there will be. I propose to make you secretary of the company at a salary of $200,000 a year, and if you do not wear sables and diamonds it will be your own fault. Months ago you cast your bread upon the waters. It floated about for a time, but it struck Major Crofoot at last. I extend my hand and offer you my congratulations. You bet $18 and gained $200,000!"

Mrs. Simpkins cast her eyes around the room in search of some deadly weapon.

"Come so your labors Monday morning. You can have an advance of $50,000 if you wish to buy a brown stone front and furniture. Go home and tell your boarders to skate. Never darn the boarding house for you. You thought Major Crofoot an ingrate, a skirk, a deadbeat, but you see how you maligned him, though I shall not ask you to apologize."

"Are you going to pay me that $18, you old soft soaper and deadbeat?"

"That $18!" gasped the major as he glanced furtively at the door. "Heaven, woman, but you don't want me to believe that you have lost your wits! In return for the $18 I offer you a gigantic fortune, and yet you hesitate. As secretary of millions will be very light—very light. All you'll have to do is to see that every bottle is tightly corked before it goes out. Woman, can't you be made to understand—"

Mrs. Simpkins Menaces.

Mrs. Simpkins rose up and dropped the cape off her shoulders, and with a resigned look the major retreated a step and said:

"Very well, lady. Some one has made you believe ill of me, and I shall say no more at this time. You shall have your money."

"No check, major. It wouldn't be worth sawdust!"

"You shall have your money and in gold. I will go upstairs to the treasurer of the G. A. H. R. and get it, and in gold at that. It will pain me to part with you thus, but you will have it so. Sit down—back in a moment."

"If you try any tricks—"

The grand promoter left the office, and Mrs. Simpkins waited. The minutes passed, but she held on. She had hunted the major for weeks, and she would take no chances now. Hence followed the minutes, but she was still there. It was only at the end of four long hours and when an office boy poked his head in the door and whispered "Sold again!" that she acted. She upset the stove, turned over the desk, laid the office safe on its back and tore down the calendar. Then she walked out and downstairs.

From a doorway on the other side of the street Major Crofoot watched her go. His vigil had been a long one, and his legs were tired. He ascended the stairs and viewed the wreck of the office and smiled. He had saved $18, and he estimated the damage at only 15 cents. He was far ahead of the game.

Every class on the Royal Line to Europe is strictly in a class by itself. The appointments and furnishings; the comfort and convenience of the second and third classes have set a new standard for the Canadian Route of travel. The old-time feeling of dislike for second and third class passage has quickly given away before the comfort and courtesy enjoyed in both these classes when travelling on splendid steamers.

ALL-ROUND SPORTSMAN.

Sir Claude Champion de Crespigny Has Done Everything.

Sir Claude, big-game hunter, steeplechase rider, boxer, swimmer, salmon, ballooner—there is no man who can point to a more wonderful record as an all-round sportsman, or tell of more varied experiences, than Sir Claude Champion de Crespigny, who, in "Pearson's Magazine of Sports and Pastimes," relates the story of his career.

It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that Sir Claude has done everything that can be done in the way of sport, and even to-day, at the age of sixty-four, he rides first with the hounds, indulges in physical exercises with the best of young men, hopes to follow up the winning of the point-to-point balloon race at Hurlingham this year by carrying off some aviation prizes. He has managed to break more bones in his body without doing himself permanent injury than any other man. His catalogue of injuries includes, three arms, shoulders shifted when boxing, three ribs which he cracked when steeplechasing and one which must be put down to a cab accident, one finger which a horse broke for him, and two fingers which he broke on another horse.

Sir Claude began life as a sailor with "Charlie" Beresford. They were fellow-cadets on the training-ship Britannia in the beginning of the sixties. "I cannot say," writes Sir Claude, "that in those days our now perhaps foremost and certainly widely popular sailor showed any indications of the greatness to which he was to attain by and by. But I do recollect that he was then, as now, a spirited and plucky fellow. Like Macaulay and myself, too, he rather fancy he has been in—well, in two or three 'little' scrapes, as he says.

"Charlie Beresford," he continues, "though full of good nature is bad to rule, just the reverse of Queen Anne's dead, for he is always driving a drag with several ladies on it from some race—I forget which one. Two of the ladies were Miss Lowes in a dog-cart that pass'd the ladies' drag, and upset it, I think. Presently it came. He managed very skilfully to keep clear when it was coach to that of the dog-cart. Then, unhappily, by a series of evil reminstances, he bore down upon the right till the dog-cart was precipitated with its occupants into a deep ditch. Charley drove on as though nothing had happened."

There is a rather good story, too, told of Lord Glasgow, and how he was prevented from blackballing a candidate for membership of the Jockey Club. Two blackballs were sufficient to kill a candidate, and, as it was known that General Peel and Lord Glasgow intended to blackball the candidate, telegrams [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Big Exodus From Ontario.

Province Has Lost 86,000 People in Twenty Years—Seventy Thousand Went From Canada to The United States Last Year.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—"A rural decrease of 86,000 in twenty years, after an astounding drain during the previous thirty years; a rural birthrate scarcely exceeding the death rate, an urban increase of 450,000—that is a condition for which every consideration of patriotism and sound national life demands an immediate remedy," said Gordon Waldron, barrister and political economist, in addressing the Canadian Club yesterday on the depopulation and improvement of rural Ontario.

"It is, we say, Canada's growing time, Canada's century. We are, we boast, annexing the United States. Yet, painful as it is to disturb a pleasant delusion it must be said that there is still an exodus large that without a compensating immigration into the northwest, we could not possibly long survive." said Mr. Waldron, turning to the public reports. "I find that notwithstanding all our confidence and buoyancy, seventy thousand person left Canada last year to make their homes in the United States. Wherever that exodus went from, I may venture to say in the presence of manufacturers unable to fill their orders from the west for lack of labor that it did not go from the cities and towns of Ontario. It was an exodus from the land—an exodus of farmers.

"But let me confine myself to rural Ontario. There, the evidence of depopulation and impoverishment is so plain that I am sure that you have all noted it. Unrepaired buildings and fences, neglected orchids, ill-cultivated land, land turned to pasture and its effect shadowed by disappearance of the farm laborers and their dwellings, the fall in land values, and the very significant fact that farm property is not keeping pace with the general increase in wealth and population. Ontario is an example of a country which has enjoyed a long period of high prices.

He quoted birthrate statistics to show that in rural districts the birthrate had fallen to 16 in the thousand and lower, while rural schools, which thirty years ago had 50 to 70 pupils, now had but a mere handful. To prove the movement of the population he gave figures to show that in 1872 the rural population of Perth was 34,000; it is now 20,000. In the same year the rural population of Norfolk was 28,000; it is now 18,000. In 1872 the rural population of Huron was 50,987; it is now 36,567, a loss of nearly 14,000. In '91 rural Middlesex numbered 55,000; it is now less than 40,000. And they had not gone to the cities.

What are the economic causes? The principal ones are protection and the exclusion of the farmers from the markets of the United States, said Mr. Waldron.

"Canada is so bound in tariff reform, in admission to the markets of the United States and in a reduction of the British tariff, that I do not venture to speak, lest I lose my reputation for temperate and cautious speech. But there is no such bond in the tariff reform movement in England as at present, a movement for agricultural protection, and I am convinced that agricultural protection upon embracing in England will prove itself quite as destructive to industries in Canadian agriculture as the industrial protectionism of the United States or Toronto."

Shooting Of Two Waitresses.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Crazed by continued drinking and a fancied insult, James Shaw, a laborer, 25 years of age, yesterday afternoon shot and dangerously wounded two young women, waitresses in the restaurant at 233 King street east, where he boarded. Both are in the hospital and one may not recover. Shaw was followed by a kitchen helper, who, with two other citizens, overpowered him, took away his revolver and held him for the police. He is charged with attempted murder.

The women shot are Mrs. Bessie Brooker Jones, 22 years of age, 232 King street east, and Mrs. Georgina Carr, 17 years of age, same address.

Mrs. Jones is shot through the right shoulder, the bullet entering above the breast and coming out behind the shoulder blade, and is in St. Michael's Hospital, while Mrs. Carr is in the General Hospital with a wound in her back, just above the hip, where the bullet entered, breaking the lower right rib and was extracted from somewhere in front of it. Without blood poisoning, she will recover.

Besides these were the following version of the shooting: "Shaw had boarded in the restaurant for about a week and had a room upstairs. He had been drinking heavily of late. Today he came in the scene of blood. I asked Georgina Carr to go upstairs for a cloth. He stood at the foot of the staircase and tried to keep her from going up. She got past him, went up and came down again. He went upstairs then, got a revolver, fired eight and started in blood.

Meanwhile a police ambulance was summoned and the women hurried to the hospitals. Mrs. Carr being taken in an auto. At the General it was thought that Mrs. Carr was dying, and Crown Attorney Corley and Detective Taylor went down, taking Shaw, so that he might be identified by the girl, and so take her ante-mortem statement. Finding there was no immediate danger, they refrained from exciting her, and Shaw was taken back to his cells.

Mrs Greenacre says that Shaw has been there about a week, but has always been tractable until last Saturday night, when he quarrelled with a man in the restaurant and fell throwing potatoes at the other patron's head. Mrs. Carr had sent Mary for a policeman, who wouldn't make an arrest because Shaw lived there and didn't leave the premises. When the trouble was over Shaw had remarked, "I'll make it even with you. I'll make it even with all of you for that."

According to Mrs. Oakley, the mother of Georgina Carr, it was a case of jealousy.

"Some months ago," she says, "Shaw caught hold of my arm on the side of here, and I told him to stop that as I had a baby in my arms. He said 'How would you like to have me for a son-in-law?' I told him I would not have any man like that marry my daughter."

Besides this, trouble with Bessie seems to have been brewing for some time. Last week Shaw asked Bessie to go to a theatre with him, but she refused. Some years ago she was engaged to be married to a man who got a situation in Hilton, and they were said to be keeping company with a young man who worked at the restaurant.

Mary Carr is a granddaughter of Mrs. Greenslade, and was married on the quiet about six months ago.

Shaw, it is said, had been drinking steadily during last week, but did not seem to be drunk yesterday. He is an unidentified and very insignificant looking man. He says he is a Canadian and a laborer, but the police do not think half they are told himself. He has never been through their hands before.

"It'll take you some time to prove this case," he said to the police officer who has been searching. "There will be money in this for me. Some of you people will pay for it."
